BRITAIN WILL NOT STAND FOR TAMPERING WITH HER RIGHTS

Situation is Considered to be Most Grave—Germany Gets a Warning.

London, July 28.—The most pessimistic views regarding the acuteness of the Moroccan crisis were largely confirmed by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons yesterday, when with a manner as impressive as his words, he read from a manuscript, which had been carefully prepared, a warning to Germany that Great Britain proposed to stand for what she considered her rights, and to maintain the balance of power in Europe.

Further testimony as to the gravity of the situation is given by the fact that the Prime Minister obviously had taken the leader of the Opposition into the Government's confidence, and Mr. Balfour's declaration was no less firm than Mr. Asquith's.

The Prime Minister's statement was couched in diplomatic, though not reassuring, language. At the very opening he said:

"It is obvious that this Moroccan question has reached a point at which it will become increasingly difficult to end, embarrassing and anxious, unless a solution is found."

Later in the statement the Prime Minister said:

"We thought it right from the beginning to make clear that, failing of a settlement such as I have indicated, we must become an active party in the discussion of the situation. That would be our right as a signatory to the treaty of Algeciras, as it might be our obligation under the terms of our agreement of 1904 with France. It might be our duty in defence of British interests directly after, by further developments."

In promising the support of the Opposition to the Government Mr. Balfour said:

"If there are any who supposed that we would be wiped off the map of Europe because we have our difficulties at home, it may be worth while saying that they bitterly mistake the temper of the British people and the patriotism of the Opposition."

Such plain speaking on a question fraught with possibilities of a great European war has not been heard in the British Parliament in many years. The outcome of the situation appears to rest almost wholly on Germany's shoulders. If, as some German papers say, Germany has reached the stake of a national development, where the necessities of her population demand that she branch out into foreign fields, and considers this a vital topic, she imposes conditions on France which Great Britain thinks threaten British vital interests, and the only result, so far as those best informed see it, will be oft-repeated and long-averted European convulsion.

German newspapers profess to think that Chancellor Lloyd-George's recent speech of warning was not addressed to Germany, but a sort of general proclamation of principles. Mr. Asquith's statement leaves no doubt, and was intended plainly to leave none, on the point. While the country has no knowledge of the extent of Germany's first conditions, the Prime Minister made it plain that they were such that Great Britain would not accept them.

Mr. Balfour strongly hinted at what is the general opinion, that Germany thought she could take advantage of the crisis in Great Britain's democratic politics, in the belief that it was so absorbing to the country that the country would not pay attention to foreign affairs.

The English newspapers are entirely united in supporting the Government. They are studiously polite in language but strongly urge that Germany shall not be permitted to make any African excursion which would seriously damage Britain's national interests. All the politicians and the public earnestly hope that Germany's program is not one which Great Britain can consider impossible.

Reservists Called Home.

Sherbrooke, July 28.—Two German workmen at Thetford mines have been ordered to return to Germany to join the first reserve.

Laborite Opposes War.

London, July 28.—James R. MacDonald, leader of the Laborites, who spoke after Mr. Balfour in the Commons yesterday, remarked that the gravity of the Premier's statement, in spite of its very careful phrasing, could not elude any one. The Labor members were utterly opposed to war, but he hoped that no European nations would assume for a single moment that party divisions weaken national spirit.

Nevertheless the Laborites of Germany, France and England, would co-operate to the very last moment, he said, to seek peace and prevent two professedly Christian countries from resorting to the arbitration of the sword over a difficulty that could easily be settled at The Hague.

The ambassadors and ministers at London of Germany, France, Russia, Spain, Japan, Sweden and Belgium, were present to hear Mr. Asquith's statement, which made a profound impression.

Nothing Doing Yet.

Paris, July 28.—The Temps says that although the conversations of M. Cambon, the French ambassador to Germany, and Baron Von Kiderlen Wahreter, the German Foreign Secretary, have taken on a tone of greater cordiality, they have not resulted in advancing the situation.

Lloyd's on War Risk.

London, July 28.—At Lloyd's yesterday war-risks against hostilities between Great Britain and Germany within three months rose rapidly from 5 to 8 per cent. In some cases even 10 per cent. was paid. Against the risk of war between France and Germany, 12 per cent. was quoted.

Ten Years For Brutes.

Montreal, July 28.—Louis Desautels and his wife were yesterday each given ten years in the penitentiary for their brutal treatment of Blanche Hamelin, nine years old, the woman's daughter by a former husband.

Evidence showed that the stepfather had held the girl up by the hair while the mother ad beaten her black and blue with a poker. Part of the child's scalp was torn off.

MET DEATH IN SWIMMING TANK

Woodstock Minister's Daughter Fainted in Water.

Woodstock, Ont., July 28.—Miss Marie Hockey, daughter of the Methodist minister at Waterloo and the delegate to the missionary conference at Woodstock College, met death in the swimming tank of the college yesterday afternoon. Miss Hockey, who is 18 years of age, had been playing tennis all afternoon, went in with a number of other girls for a swim. She fainted in the water and when the other girls went to her rescue and succeeded in hauling her out she was dead. A doctor, who was summoned, found no water in her lungs, and it is presumed that the cause of her death was heart failure.

Big Sawmill Burned.

Ottawa, July 28.—The big Allan sawmill at Campbell's Bay, about 30 miles west of Ottawa, on the Ottawa River, was destroyed by fire yesterday. At one time the whole town was in jeopardy, but timely aid was sent from Bryson and the fire was kept under control.

Ladies' Golf Championship.

Ottawa, July 28.—The Ottawa Golf Club has finally decided upon the date for the ladies' championship meet of the Royal Canadian Golf Association. It will be opened on Monday, Sept. 2l and close on the following Saturday.

DIDN'T MEAN TO COMMIT BIGAMY

Ship's Purser in Court With Two Wives.

New York, July 28.—Charles Hoffman, purser of a steamship, walked into Supreme Court Justice Crane's court in Brooklyn yesterday, accompanied by two wives. Half an hour later he walked out without any wife at all. He explained that he did not mean to commit bigamy, and that when he married Miss Grace L. Gillette at Stafford, Conn., five weeks ago, he was under the impression that the girl he wed in Brooklyn thirteen years before, had died in the Philippines. Her brother had told him so, Hoffman said, but Mrs. Hoffman No. 1 denied the report in person.

Justice Crane granted the second wife an annulment of her marriage and the first wife a divorce, naming the second wife as co-respondent. Hoffman appeared to be deeply in love with his second wife, and was disconsolate when she declined to re-marry him.

But Death Came in Sudden Form to B. Plumb.

Stratford, July 28.—Death came in sudden form to B. Plumb, home unknown, yesterday, when he fell dead in No. 3 train from Toronto, which arrives here at 13.13 o'clock. Little is known regarding the deceased, who was about 35 years of age, save that he boarded the train at the Union Station, Toronto, along with one A. Watkins.

Between Baden and Hamburg he rolled off the seat to the floor between two seats, but did not strike his head, sliding down easily. The conductor and brakeman thought he was intoxicated.

He had been connected with the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Co. since its organization, but had been partially blind for the last ten years. He had drawn full pay from the company all that time. He leaves a widow.

DISSOLUTION IN THE AIR

Censure on Templeman For Complicity in Chinese Immigration Scandals.

Ottawa, July 28.—With the House of Commons in three sessions daily and reciprocity as the only order called, which is rarely if ever reached until late in the evening, the lines are closing in for the final test of endurance between the Government and the Opposition. The test cannot be long delayed. Day after day Sir Wilfrid insists that the important work before Parliament is the disposal of the reciprocity resolutions, and just as persistently the Opposition bring up amendments to the motion to go into committee of ways and means.

All day the air has been full of dissolution rumors. A special issue of The Gazette was shortly to appear with the Governor-General's proclamation, said one report. Sir Wilfrid was in conference with His Excellency and the duration of Parliament was only a matter of hours, said another. The latest rumor last night is that Earl Grey told Sir Wilfrid Laurier that before he could listen to any advice regarding a dissolution, Parliament had better devote itself to the task of passing supply to enable the business of the country to go on uninterrupted.

This may produce a change of front in the House, and induce Sir Wilfrid to go to Mr. Borden with an offer of compromise.

Certain it seems that supply will have to be sought by the Government before His Excellency will incline to further advice. In this connection a nice question has arisen whether dissolution could be brought about with one branch of Parliament sitting and the other adjourned.

The principal item of discussion yesterday was a motion of censure in connection with the Chinese immigration frauds at Vancouver, brought on by J. B. Taylor (New Westminster). Mr. Taylor assailed Mr. Templeman vigorously for negligence and connivance, while the Minister of Inland Revenue vainly tried to make up a good defence, but it was apparent all through that the patronage committee was the power behind the throne.

The report of the Imperial Conference was laid on the table of the House yesterday morning by the Prime Minister. There was also some correspondence regarding the publication of a report of the consultations between the Admiralty and the representatives of the Dominion on the subject of the status of dominion navies. The Prime Minister also tabled the text of the sealing convention.

Mr. Burrell hoped the Government would see that no more deferred elections were held in British Columbia, that it disturbed business conditions and imposed a hardship on the constituencies in which they were held. As far as his own constituency was concerned, Mr. Burrell was satisfied the election could be held there on the same day as in the remainder of the country.

Mr. Fielding replied to the question of holding deferred elections and said that "simultaneous voting is one of the good features of the Canadian constitution." He would place Mr. Burrell's recommendation before his colleagues.

Special to the Review.

London, July 28.—Following a night of unusual activity, the first division of the home fleet at Portsmouth was given notice to be ready for sea at a moment's notice, at five o'clock this morning. The fleet includes some of Britain's largest battleships of the dreadnought type. Officials, however state that the move is only one of the usual precautionary measures.

WANTS MORE OF MILITARY SPIRIT

Young Men Are Too Keen in Other Pursuits.

Montreal, July 28.—"There is not enough military spirit in the young men of to-day," said Major Alexander Bertrand of Hamilton, who two years ago commanded the Bisley team, and who is at the Windsor Hotel here.

"The young man of to-day is too keen to make money, to take the interest he should in military matters. I think the Canadians do as well as could be expected.

"There is not enough money spent on the militia, and I think that Roberts and French were right in what they said."

Didn't Get Trip to Europe.

Montreal, July 28.—Miss Irene Joly, principal of the Institute Stenographique de France, has taken an action against the newspaper La Presse, for the amount of $475, with interest and costs.

The newspaper La Presse organized in January last a contest in which a trip to Europe was granted to the winner of each district. Miss Joly claims to have a majority of 1,919,200 votes, and alleges that another young lady had been illegally elected the winner of her district.

BOILER EXPLODES AT SASKATOON

Three Men Injured and City is Without Light.

Saskatoon, July 28.—Three men were injured, two seriously, and the city is in darkness indefinitely as the result of a boiler explosion at the city power plant early yesterday afternoon. The boiler had been leaking all morning and power shut off pending repairs, but the leak got worse, and the fires were ordered to be drawn. While being drawn a boiler tube exploded, clouds of scalding water and superheated steam immediately enveloping the whole boiler room. J. Sullivan, a coal wheeler, received the first blast, being blown over a coal pile, but luckily escaping with bruises and a scratched hand.

Immediately after came a discharge with the combined force of the three boilers, which were connected, the centre being the source of the trouble, the whole force, aggregating 450 horsepower. Andrew G. Sangster, superintendent of power; Harry Johnson, chief engineer, and Jack Kemp were the three men involved, the first and second named being badly scalded all over the body. Johnson had the flesh scalded almost off both arms and hands, and Sangster was also terribly scalded.

LIGHT VOTE

Very Little Interest Being Taken in Vote on By-laws

The voting on the three by-laws, two for fixing assessments and the other for money for parks, commenced at nine o'clock this morning, but reports from the different polling subdivisions all indicate that the interest exhibited is not very strong. "Very slow," were the words used in nearly all the places at which the Review inquired. At 3.15 polling subdivision Nos. 10 and 11 reported 41 votes., Nos. 13 and 14 had 44 votes, Nos. 16 and 17 had received 45, and No. 19, 32 votes.

The polls close at five o'clock this evening.

Daring Daylight Burglary.

Toronto, July 28.—The police of No. 6 division, Parkdale, are looking for a young man, of medium height and dark complexion, who burglarized No. 3 Westminster avenue, and attempted to assault a young woman who called at the house while he was in possession.

A neighbor's child had let drop the information that the occupants of the house were away, and the stranger got an entrance by removing a screen from a back window.

A lady calling, rang the bell, and was admitted by the man, who said the lady of the house was upstairs. When the caller entered he endeavored to assault her, but she escaped after a hard struggle.

WOMAN GETS HER SECOND LOVE

McDougall is Released From Asylum by Father.

Montreal, July 28.—Love drew back the bolts of the doors of the Asylum Benoit St. Joseph yesterday and Justin B. McDougald stepped out in the arms of his loved one, Alma Vecera Hayne, granddaughter morganatically of the Emperor of Austria, while the father of the young man stood smiling on the couple.

Then he drove them in a motor up town for lunch and later to dinner at his own home. The marriage will take place when she gets her divorce.

Toronto Youth Sent Home.

Chicago, July 28.—Edward Kemp, 20 years old, of Toronto, was befriended by Municipal Judge Fry in the Hyde Park court yesterday afternoon.

He was given his fare to Toronto, and sent home to his father. Kemp was arrested a week ago by the police of the Fiftieth street station after he had eaten a meal in the Paris restaurant, and could not pay for it. Kemp told the judge that he was hungry and sick. His story was verified and he was sent home.

Ten Thousand Republican Soldiers Patrol the Border.

Lisbon, July 28.—The monarchist invasion of Portugal from the north, to be followed by a peasant rising, which has been expected daily, has not materialized. The monarchist agents permit the information that first one day and then another has been fixed for the outbreak to fall into the hands of the Government. The provisional administration is thus kept in a state of uneasiness, and is obliged to maintain expensive measures for defence. Commercial and financial interests are kept worried, not knowing the hour when the projected counter-revolution will begin.

Lub d'Almeida, chief of the secret political secretary, known as the Carbonarios, one of the most powerful influences supporting the Government, has left Lisbon for the Galician frontier to assist in the defensive measures and to be on the field should sharp action be necessary. Numerous Carbonarios are with him, and it has been arranged that he shall have 2,000 members of the society at his call, whose daily maintenance is to be paid by the state, should events so require.

The Government actually had on the northern frontier 10,000 men. The conviction of the Cabinet appears to be that something must happen in no great while, but the Ministers are also convinced that they are wholly competent to deal with it. The Lisbon newspapers have sent correspondents to the frontier, in anticipation of fighting.

The monarchists say that they have upward of 10,000 men ready to invade Portugal, but these figures are reduced by other and more reliable information to between 3,000 and 4,000 adherents, who are under pay and under arms. The privates are reported to receive a small sum per day for the purpose of boarding themselves at the farms in the villages throughout Galicia.

WAIT FOR SIGN FROM GOVERNMENT

German Press Silent on Statement by Asquith

Special to the Review.

Berlin, July 28.—On Asquith's statement the German press is practically silent, presumably waiting for a sign from the Government as to what attitude to assume. Franco-German negotiations have taken a more hopeful turn.

Expects Satisfactory Agreement.

Washington, July 28.—Democratic Leader Underwood of the House said yesterday he did not believe the House would accept the La Follette compromise wool bill, but he expected that some satisfactory agreement would be reached without delaying adjournment of Congress.

SENATE FIGURES IN PROROGATION

Does Not Resume Session Till August Ninth

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, July 28.—That dissolution cannot occur constitutionally till the Senate resumes on August ninth is rumored here. The Government view, however, is that while the senatorial absence would be an impediment to prorogation, it does not block dissolution.

BELL BOY CONFESSES TO MURDER OF MILLIONAIRE

G.T.P. Linked With Hill Lines.

Winnipeg, July 28.—At local headquarters of the Grand Trunk Pacific, it is said that terminals for the big corporation are to be secured in Minneapolis or St. Paul.

Several branches of the G.T.P. have been surveyed down to the United States border, notably in Manitoba, Saskatoon and Alberta, each branch running from Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary south, each connecting at the border with a Hill line. It is said that later it is proposed to build south to the Twin Cities and connect the three branches in a big system which will be run through to Chicago, there connecting with the Grand Trunk line through to Portland, Maine.

THE NOMINATIONS IN THE EAST

The convention that met at Norwood yesterday to nominate candidates for the Dominion and Provincial contests in the East Riding was a remarkable one, not only for the personnel of the delegates, who were all staunch Conservatives and hearty and reliable workers in the several districts, but because of a total of 138 delegates appointed, 134 attended the convention. It is seldom indeed that loyalty to party and interest in its success brings together so complete a roll-call.

That Mr. J. H. Sexsmith would receive the nomination as candidate for the Commons was conceded. Not only has he earned it by long and stern apprenticeship, but by service. He has been the standard bearer in the days when the party was not prolific in candidates, and took the brunt of the political battle. He is to-day by and large the strongest man the party has available, and has gained not only the loyalty and esteem of his political friends, but the respect and admiration of his opponents. He has little fear of the result, and may go about the riding secure in the sense that his position is one that may laugh at assault.

If fears have been expressed that Mr. Jas. Thompson, the candidate for the provincial, stood in a position weaker than at the last election, that thought has been blown sky high. It is true that some opposition had developed in the ranks of the party, but it is seen that this had been greatly over-estimated and was blown aside by the convention. Mr. Thompson may take the endorsement of the convention as the general endorsement of the riding, and know that his term of stewardship has been approved. He is relatively stronger than before, and working quietly and modestly has put himself in a position where he will make good. It is a satisfaction to him to find that, despite comment to the contrary, such opposition as was supposed to develop had very little foundation. The party as a whole will endorse his candidature.

Mr. Andrews, who offered as a candidate, was not seriously in it. While popular with his friends and supporters, it might be inferred that he had not consulted a wide enough field to be assured of a hold on the convention. Still it is persistence and pluck that win out, and his reward may come further on when his candidature meets with the approval of the party at large.

THE COMING ELECTION

Well, its an election in October, in all probability. The cry of obstruction has been worked, but it doesn't alter the situation in the least. Both parties say that the other one is split by divided counsels, and that great differences of opinion exist, but curiously enough, they both line up strongly for the fray that is assumed to be inevitable.

The country has been stirred on the question of a return to the old continental free trade policy that was advocated by Sir Wilfrid years ago, and stirred as local questions and smaller issues have failed to make impression. For instance the charge of obstruction is a silly one, and that it could be used for any reason except to stiffen the political backs of the electorate for or against, does not seem reason-

It is not an issue, and cannot be made an issue.

That Sir Wilfrid Laurier should attempt to press through the house a pact on reciprocity, without even the preliminary of consulting the wishes of the people, betrays an over-mastering confidence in his ability to cast the wool over the eyes of the electorate. The true purpose of reciprocity—the closer union of the United States and Canada" in one commercial, social, and possibly political whole" has been made apparent, but bound by its promise on honor, the government must go ahead to put reciprocity into effect, without regard for the opinion of the people, its own opinions if changed or any other considerations. It is bound by a solemn promise, and cannot use the ordinary discretion that often causes a man to draw back before it is too late.

The Conservative party offers a program of development of Canada independently of the tariff tinkerers at Washington, a development of national and imperial ideas, and one which will conserve for Canada the rich heritage to which she has fallen.

To merge ourselves commercially with the United States or to remain intact, a growing prosperous whole, is the question which will face the electorate on the occasion of this election. This is but the first of what will undoubtedly be a series of endeavors to get Canada into line with the plans of the United States, to make this continent one solid people, against the rest of the world, and if we weakly surrender in the first step, we will find the habit growing. We can ill afford to make common cause commercially with the United States. No surrender.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Hamilton is now on the aviation map. In fact it feels quite airy over the meet.

What with the big fight in the British parliament, the German scare and our own reciprocity agreement the political weathercock points to stormy winds for the present!

Premier Asquith having said that he will have to create new peers, the American heiresses are already hustling per steamship express to Paris for the wherewithal to do some sun-fleeting.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is said to have forced the hand of Lord Strathcona over the resignation of the High Commissionership Sir Wilfrid made the announcement, following the rumors, at a public dinner before Lord Strathcona had said a word. Was it because the post was needed onto shuffle off Sir Frederick Borden before the elections?

Mr. Borden, speaking from the records of the New Brunswick house, gave Hon. William Pugsley some uncomfortable moments in the house a couple of days ago. The record of Mr. Pugsley's dealings with the treasury of New Brunswick is not one that can bear the light of much publicity. Pugsleyism is becoming synonymous with modern day Liberalism.

A FAMOUS ENGLISH CLOCK.

Terrestial and Celestial Bodies Incorporated in the Movements.

Wells cathedral contains one of the most interesting clocks in the whole world. It was constructed by Peter Lightford, a monk, in 1320 and embraces many devices which testify to the ancient horologist's ingenuity. Several celestial and terrestrial bodies are incorporated in the interesting movement and relationship. They indicate the hours of the day, the age of the moon and the position of the planets and the tides. When the clock strikes the hour two companies of horsemen fully armed dash out of gateways in opposite directions and charge vigorously. They strike with their lances as they pass as many times as correspond with the number of the hour. A little distance away, seated on a high perch, is a quaint figure, which kicks the quarters on two bells placed beneath his feet and strikes the hours on a bell. The disk of the clock is divided into twenty-four hours and shows the phases of the moon and a map of the universe.

Will a lodge man really do more for his members than for other people.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Largely as a result, the market closed at a net gain of 3-8c to 5-8c and 3-4c. Other cereals, too, showed an advance over last night—corn 1-4c to 3-4c, and oats 3-4c and 7-8c to 1c and 1 1-8c. In provisions varied from unchanged figures.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d lower than yesterday on wheat, and unchanged on corn. Antwerp wheat closed ⅛c higher, Berlin ⅛c lower, Buda Pest 1⅛c higher, and Paris ⅛c to 1c higher.

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Later, after the shock of Brooks' action had ceased to obsess her and he had receded further and further toward a memory, she had set free her imprisoned inclinations. Once more her rejuvenated fancy had taken wing to the heights of the ideal and romantic. Somehow it had come to associate Jimsy with its excursions. Possessor of his secret, she had set herself, while disguising her task with cunning, to the dangerous study of the heart that had held it so long inviolate. The knowledge that he loved her with such steadfast intensity rekindled love on the dead ashes her husband had left behind, and for the very reason that Jimsy betrayed his sentiments in nothing, held unswervingly to the line of conduct toward her he had followed ever since she had refused to take seriously his offer of marriage, this love had grown stronger, fiercer, until it had filled her life. She saw that she had passed happiness by. She exalted Jimsy's secret passion until in her imagining he became the incarnation of nobleness, of desire, of all mortal joys.

She brought a heap of blueberries to him and poured them into his joined hands, and they seated themselves on a rock to eat them and to rest.

"This is the most enjoyable picnic I've had in years," she said gayly. "It was quite an inspiration of yours to run up to visit us. Why don't you come often instead of spending your week ends in the hot city? You ought to take a vacation and stay here for a few weeks."

"I'd like to awfully," he told her, "but the fact is I'm too busy to think of getting away. Williams is piling a whole lot of work and responsibility on me these days. Williams, you know, isn't what you'd call an easy boss. If he raises a man's salary he sees to it that he gets his money's worth. He simply won't be bothered, even with matters that ain't precisely details."

"It's because he trusts you, Jimsy," she assured him with an intonation perilously near to tenderness.

"So you see," he went on, "it's easier to talk about holidays than to get them. I shouldn't be here now, for I'm working Sundays as well as other days at present, only that I had to come up on a matter of importance."

"Oh," she said, with a pout, "I thought you came to see us for ourselves, not on a business trip. No more berries for you."

"I came for the express purpose of seeing you and of talking to you alone."

Her heart fluttered violently, suffocatingly, again.

"To me—alone?"

"Yes. I've seen Joe."

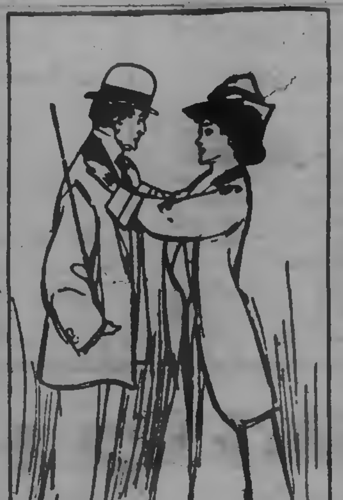
The pronouncing of her husband's name was to her as a heavy blow. Sweet, timorous expectancy, hot, turbulent blushes that she had bent to hide vanished instantly, and she looked up at him startled.

"Joe walked in on me five nights ago. He looks well and is doing well."

"What is that to me?"

The words came in chilling accents, and her eyes grew hard.

"Emma, do you remember that on that night just before you learned the truth I told you about that chap in Denver who was long on love and short on honor and kind of took the view that it was his wife's place to overlook things and help him get right?"



"Do you believe what you are telling me, Jimsy Smith?"

"Well?"

"Well, I'm still of that opinion."

"Do I understand that you—that you"—

She did not finish the sentence, but sat gazing at him with wide eyes, stark with agony and amaze.

"I guessed you'd be kind of surprised to hear from him. Since you left Joe he's been leading a strictly honest life. He has a good job in a bank at a good salary, has saved money, and all he wants is for you to forgive and forget and start over again. Joe's all right now, there's no doubt about that, for I've looked up the record he's made since you've been separated. Not only that, but he loves you more than ever. That's gospel truth, too, I know."

"Forgive and forget! Yes, I have forgotten, and oblivion enshrouds forgiveness with it. Joseph Brooks is dead, as dead for me as though he were in his grave. I have even ceased to bear his name. Sometimes I have wondered if he ever existed. If I remember him it is as one recalls a nightmare from which one is glad to have awakened."

She laughed a little mirthless laugh and, plucking a fern branch, began to pick the fronds from it nervously, letting them fall to the ground.

"That's all very well, Emma," he objected gently, "but Joe is none the less very much alive, and he is your husband. You mustn't forget that ever. And he's all right, I honestly believe. If he did fall into temptation he meant well. He thought he could put the money back easily enough, and he wanted you to have more comfort and be happy. The best of us ain't no better than we should be if you come right down to the contemplation of the naked fact. You know that the book says, 'There is not a just man upon earth that doeth good and sinneth not.' To me the man who is real sorry for having done wrong, especially when his wrongdoing had such a pardonable motive as Joe's had, is as good as he was before he did the thing."

"You are the one man I know whom I would never have suspected of harboring a treasury of such homely platitudes," she said scornfully.

"If it were only a question of forgiving a man who had sinned so weakly as that, but it isn't," he went on. "More is involved—his absolution and salvation by duty if not by love. Emma, you are Joe Brooks' wife. You took oath before God—and you meant it then—to stick by him in adversity as in prosperity, to help him in time of trouble. Your place is by his side now. Yours is the only hand that can guide him right."

She rose and placed both of her little gloved hands on his shoulders and looked into his eyes.

"Do you believe what you are telling me, Jimsy Smith?" she asked gently. "Do you, speaking from your inmost heart, order me to return to the arms of that man?"

He rose, holding her wrists firmly against his shoulders and speaking with intense earnestness:

"Emma, there are some things on this earth that we're called on to do, ordained by an all wise and merciful Providence. We may not like to do them, but it is not a matter of inclination. We have to make our decisions by the rule of right or wrong. Is it right or is it wrong? It's an arbitrary rule, but I guess it works out for the best in the end. It has always seemed to me so. Therefore I say go back to Joe, your husband. Joe pleads to your heart that was his. 'Tell her,' he said, 'that I'm more sorry than I can express; that I'm sorry and miserable. Tell her that there is no light in life without her.' Those were about his words."

He released her wrists. She had listened to him at the last with averted face that was bloodless and looked ghastly under its coat of sun tan. She walked away wrestling with herself.

Smith stood as impassive as fate. But on his brow a dampness had gathered, and she had seen the sweat beads ooze there as he spoke.

"Jimsy, why did he charge you to tell me these things?"

"Why? I don't know. Because I'm his friend and yours, I suppose. Because there was no one else could do it."

"And, like the good man you are, you were governed in your decision by the rule of right and wrong."

"That was about it, if you cut out the qualification of me."

"And, having been influenced to assume this role of ambassador by a sense of duty and loyalty, feeling bound to do so for the very reason that would have deterred a man of ordinary moral caliber, you would have adhered to the rule though every word of your counsel had been to you as the sear of a white hot iron and its utterance had been death."

For the first time in her life she saw a look of sternness pass over his face. And it was mingled with pain.

"Emma," he said, "I guess we'll go down now. And we'd better take a short cut, if there is one, or we won't be home for dinner. You must be hungry, and of all the"—

PADDY SECURES A PRISONER.

After Charles O'Malley had been promoted to the lieutenancy of his regiment, he heard an officer say to his (O'Mally's) colonel:

"Ere I forget it, pray let me beg of you to look into this honest fellow's claim; he has given me no peace the entire morning."

As he spoke O'Malley turned his eyes in the direction indicated, and, to his utter consternation, beheld his own man, Mickey Free, standing among the staff; the position he occupied, and the presence he stood in, having no more perceptible effect upon his nerves than if were assisting at an Irish wake. On seeing his master, Mickey exclaimed, in a somewhat imploring tone:

"Arrah, spake for me, Master Charles, alanah, sure they might do something for me now, av it was only to make me a gauger."

Mickey's ideas of promotion thus insinuatingly put forward threw the whole party around into one burst of laughter.

"I have him down there," said he, pointing as he spoke to a thick grove of cork trees at a little distance.

"Who have you got there, Mike?" inquired an officer.

"Devil a one o' me knows his name," replied he; "may be it's Bony himself."

"And how do you know he is there still?"

"How do I know, is it? I tie him last night?"

Curiosity to find out what Mickey could possibly allude to, induced his master and a brother officer to follow him down the slope to the clump of trees mentioned. As they came near, the very distinct denunciations that issued from the thicket proved pretty plainly the nature of the affair. It was nothing less than a French officer of cavalry that Mike had unhorsed in the "melee," and wishing probably to preserve some testimony of his prowess, had made prisoner and tied fast to a cork tree the preceding evening.

"Sacrebleu!" said the poor Frenchman as we approached, "que ce sont des sauvages!"

"Av it's waking your sowl ye are," said Mike, "you're right; for maybe they won't let me keep you alive."

"And what do you want to do with him, Mickey?"

"The sorra one o' me knows, for he spakes no dacent tongue. The-gium thoo," said he, addressing the prisoner with a poke in the ribs at the same moment; "but sure, Master Charles, he might tache me French."

There was something so irresistibly ludicrous in his tone and look as he said these words, that both the officers absolutely roared with laughter. They began, however, to feel not a little ashamed of their position in the business, and explained to the Frenchman that their worthy countryman had but little experience of the usages of war, and proceeded to unbind him and liberate him from his miserable bondage.

"It's letting him loose you are, captain! Master Charles, take care; begorra, av you had as much trouble in catching him as I had, you'd think twice about letting him out. Listen to me now,"—here he placed his closed fist within an inch of the poor prisoner's nose—"listen to me; av you say peas, by the mortial, I'll not lave a whole bone in your skin."

With some difficulty the officers persuaded Mike that his conduct, so far from leading to his promotion, might, if known in another quarter, procure him an acquaintance with the provost-marshal, a fact which it was plain to perceive gave him but a very poor impression of military gratitude.

"Oh, then, if they were in swarms forment me, devil receave the prisoner I'll take again."

THE LAUGHING FOUNTAIN.

A Persian Story for Canadian Children.

Althy was a dear little girl of six years old. Her mamma was dead, but her papa called her his star, and her old nurse Mermbi loved her dearly, and looked after her with the tenderest care.

Althy's papa had made for his little girl a garden in which grew the loveliest flowers in the midst of which a tinkling fountain played. The fountain was the great delight of little Althy's heart; its spray was so pearl-like and the music of its falling water so light and happy. She would sit for hours watching it, and listening to her old nurse talking of her mother in paradise. One evening, when the moon hung in the sky like a great yellow pearl and the fountain tinkled even sweeter than usual, her nurse, who had also been her mother's nurse, cried: "Hark, I hear your mother laughing."

Althy listened. "It is the fountain, nurse," said she.

"Ah, yes," sighed the nurse. "It is the fountain!"

That night Althy, weeping sadly, awoke from sleep.

"What is it, heart of my heart?" inquired the nurse.

"I dreamt," said Althy, "I dreamt that my mother was dead."

The nurse, knowing not what tot reply, remained silent.

Through the open window could be heard the laughing fountain.

Althy brushed away her tears.

"Ah, no," said she. "It is not so. I can hear her laughing, laughing!"

Her head dropped. She was sleeping again.

Fired in the Air.

Chatham, July 28.—John Duckett came up in the Police Court yesterday morning, charged with shooting with intent to kill. The charge was laid by Dan Harris, who boarded with Duckett. The latter claims that Harris and some friends got a keg of beer and was drinking it and making such a noise that he couldn't sleep. When they would not stop at his request, he got a revolver and fired it in the air. He says when the shot was fired they all ran like mad, though he didn't shoot with any intentions of hitting anyone. The case was remanded until to-day.

W. H. HILL, Esq.

Dear Sir,—The results to hand on my policy in your Company, No. 31787 are so eminently satisfactory, that I consider it a duty I owe both to your Company and the public to say so.

The fact that I have received all the money I paid, during the past twenty years into your Company back, except $617.20 and receive in addition a fully paid up policy of $2,000.00 on my life, still drawing profits EVERY YEAR hereafter, besides having had $2,000.00 of protection for the past twenty years, is too good a thing to hide under a bushel. I therefore desire to let my light shine and reflect a ray of satisfaction and pleasure from the great Sun Life Assurance Company.

I desire to thank you most sincerely, and to heartily congratulate your Company on such a splendid result.

I am,
Very respectfully yours,

EXCURSIONISTS FOR JUBILEE

Come on the Methodist Excursion From Oshawa

About three hundred Oshawaites took in the Methodist excursion to Jubilee Point to-day, via the G.T.R. to Peterboro and by boat to Jubilee. The train arrived in Peterboro about 9.30 o'clock in charge of conductor Fred Horner and the passengers were allowed to detrain at the diamond, thus making their journey to Wolfe Street wharf much shorter than it would have been from the station.

Some Oshawa bowlers took advantage of the trip to Peterboro and remained to play the locals a friendly game this afternoon.

Mr. A.H. Patience, secretary of the Gideon Bible Movement spent Thursday afternoon and this morning, in the city interviewing the hotelmen regarding the Gideon Bible Movement and will have the consent of every hotel proprietor to place the book in their many bedrooms. Mr. Patience says the hotelmen of Peterboro are a good bunch of fellows and are thoroughly in sympathy with the work.

The Gideons are an association of Christian travelling men pledged to carry the Gospel with them seven days in the week and stand in their places as Gideon did in Judges 7. 21.

Although the movement in Canada is hardly five months old, they have placed 5000 Bibles, since the association was organized in Canada on March 4 of this year.

It was first thought of by the Christian travelling men in England 38 years ago and has been organized in the United States 12 years, they having held their twelfth annual convention in Milwaukee, Wis., July 22 and 23. Although Toronto sent delegates expecting to bring the convention to the city next year, they were disappointed, the convention going to Atlanta, Georgia for 1912 but the association has been assured that the convention will be held in Toronto in 1913 and it will be the largest gathering of Christian men ever held in Canada.

GREAT PAGEANT AT TORONTO FAIR

When the Coronation procession was trailing its glorious lengths through the streets of London and holding the breathless attention of the hundreds of thousands gathered from all parts of the world to witness its historical grandeur, a little group of Canada's leading citizens occupied one of the best stands. They were unanimously of the opinion that it was the most striking spectacle they had ever seen. When they were informed that it would be produced in every detail at the Canadian National Exhibition their enthusiasm was boundless. It touched their national pride that Canada possessed an institution of such magnitude that it could undertake the reproduction of the greatest procession of the twentieth century and of such reputation that the undertaking of it would mean its fulfillment to the last letter.

J. A. SEXSMITH GETS NOMINATION FOR COMMONS, AND JAS. THOMPSON IS CHOICE FOR THE LOCAL

Great Enthusiasm Shown at East Peterborough Conservative Convention at Norwood—Both Members Returned on First Ballot—Seven Nominations Made.

The convention of the supporters of te East Riding Liberal Conservative party meeting to select candidates for nomination to stand for election in the approaching Dominion and Provincial elections, was held at Norwood on Thursday, 27th. There was a very full representation of delegates from the several polling sections in the village and townships of the riding.

The meeting was held in the town hall and opened shortly after one o'clock p. m. Considerable interest was shown in the proceedings, for while it was assured that the nomination for the Dominion would fall to Mr. Sexsmith, the sitting member, that there would be more than one candidate put before the meeting for the Provincial. It was understood that Mr. Jas. Thompson, the sitting member, would stand again, and it was known that he would have opposition from among the ranks of the party as there were other aspirants. The gathering was said to be the largest ever held at a similar, or any other nomination proceedings.

Mr. Jas Andrews took the chair, as president of the East Riding Association, and on his suggestion a committee on credentials was appointed, Jos. Knox, of Havelock; Jas. Peoples, Belmont, H. Fitzgerald, Lakefield; J. O. Read, Keene. The committee reported that all certificates had been examined and found correct.

Mr. G. S. Joyce, Havelock; O. A. Langley, Lakefield, and Mr. F. C. Squire, Norwood, were appointed to act as scrutineers in returning the result of the ballots.

The delegates were seated in groups, representatives from the several polling divisions together. It was apparent that some considerable excitement existed and a loud buzz of conversation rang through the hall. On the table stood a ballot box, which the chairman smote occasionally, as he issued instructions to the meeting.

After it was settled that the delegates were present and their certificates had been compared with the lists it was stated that a total of 136 were present and entitled to vote. This was out of a total of 138 entitled to take part in the proceedings and vote on the candidates. For years no convention had brought out so strong and complete a list of delegates.

MR. JAS. THOMPSON, M.P.P.

Havelock	7
Chandos	10
Burleigh	10
Otonabee	22
Dummer	16
Douro	10
Norwood	10
Lakefield	7
Belmont	22
Asphodel	13
Officials	7
Honorary members	4
	138

The chairmen of the several polling divisions were called to the platform and supplied with the requisite number of ballots, as per the delegates from the division.

The president called for nominations to be in writing.

Moved by W. J. Peoples, seconded by John Lancaster, that John E. Sexsmith, M.P., be a candidate.

Moved by W. H. Tucker, seconded by Mr. Stanley Hendren, that F. W. Wilkins, D.T.S., Norwood, be a candidate.

These were all the nominations and after they had been read by the secretary, the chairman declared the nominations for the Dominion closed.

Mr. Sexsmith was received with applause, long and hearty, on taking the platform. He pledged himself to support the convention and any nominee of the convention. If he were rejected by the convention as a candidate, he would drop all personal considerations and heartily approve of and help the candidate. Mr. Wilkins also rose and expressed himself in similar terms.

These expressions were drawn out, following the reading of a clause in the constitution, requiring all delegates and candidates to support the choice of the convention.

Delegates were requested to mark their ballots, which were collected and taken in charge by the scrutineers, who made the count, and announced that of the 131 ballots cast, Mr. Sexsmith had received more than the necessary number (69) to elect him. The majority of votes was not stated. Loud and prolonged applause followed the statement of the scrutineers, and Mr. Sexsmith was cheered most loudly. There was no doubt that he had the convention with him.

NOMINATIONS.

Nominations were then received for Provincial candidates.

Jas. Thompson, Havelock, moved by Mr. Frank Birdsall, seconded by John Armstrong.

The chairman, (Mr. Andrews), stated that he would be a candidate, and retired from the chair, Mr. Fraser taking up the duties.

James Andrews, Norwood, moved by Mr. Norman Lane, seconded by Mr. Hugh Orain.

W. D. Johnston, Otonabee, moved by Mr. S. Miller, seconded by Mr. G. Hunter.

G. S. Joyce, Havelock, moved by Mr. Fred Squire, seconded by J. L. Juniac.

The candidates were called on to address the meeting and to pledge themselves. Mr. Thompson, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Joyce, (who stated that he would not be a candidate); Mr. Johnston, (who also withdrew.)

Mr. Smithson said that while a staunch Conservative, he would not pledge himself to support any man, even if he were the nominee of the convention. He would use his judgment and his personal feeling counted for something.

This left three in the field, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Andrews and Mr. Smithson, Mr. Johnston and Mr. Joyce having withdrawn. The ballots were distributed and marked and turned in, each delegate walking to the box, depositing his ballot and having his name checked off by the scrutineers.

The result was presently announced as follows:

Mr. Thompson	87
Mr. Andrews	29
Mr. Smithson	18

While the ballots were being counted Mr. J. H. Carstairs, provincial organizer for the Conservative party, gave a short and vigorous address on the reciprocity question, and was cheered for the telling way in which he put the facts before the meeting.

MR. SEXSMITH SPEAKS.

After the result of the balloting had been announced Mr. Sexsmith was called to the platform and for twenty minutes gave a brief resume of his record as a party man. He cordially thanked the convention for its expression of confidence in nominating him as their candidate. He had come before them in 1900, in 1903 and 1907, and he hoped he would never do anything that would break that confidence.

His position with regard to reciprocity was well known. He might briefly repeat his faith. The Liberal party looked on reciprocity as their only hope for re-election and they determined to rush it through whether the country needed it or not. All he could see in it for the agricultural industry made him firmly opposed to it. It is said it could be done away with as we wished. Would any sane man believe that after it comes in force, if passed it could be handily set aside. Could we deal with so important a matter for the country in so casual a way. We would be bound in honor to hold to it, for a very considerable time at least.

The Premier in 1897 was opposed to reciprocity. At the Imperial Council in England, he expressly stated that the day for reciprocity was passed for ever. He could not be of one view then and another view now. Only political exigency compelled Sir Wilfrid to take up the reciprocity fad. Mr. Sexsmith quoted from the speeches of the Premier in support of his contention. The Reformers tell us that reciprocity will be the greatest thing for Canada, for the agriculturist, the workingman and for all. If comparison is made with the constitution of farmers in the State of Michigan and those in Ontario, and the official records showing all this, it will be seen that there has been a substantial decrease in value of Michigan lands, as compared with Ontario, of over $5,000,000. And yet these Michigan farmers had full access to the market of 90,000,000 that we hear so much about. Under Canadian tariff conditions there had been a most remarkable increase in the substantial evidences of prosperity in Ontario as compared with the neighboring states.

He referred to the record of Hon. Mr. Fielding, one of the men who went to Washington to effect this reciprocity bargain. He had endeavored to disrupt confederation. He had ever been on the wrong side in public affairs.

He wished to refer to a personal matter. He had been favored with notice in the Globe, which had printed extracts from his speech, and had done him a gross injustice. He had dealt with the question, using his address on

NO HIT GAMES AND HOW THEY ARE MADE POSSIBLE

Score Does Not Tell of the Thrilling Work Behind the Pitcher.

"Always has there been and always will there be too much fuss made over 'no-hit' games," remarked a big league pitcher not long ago. "I mean by this that generally there is too much credit given to the man in the box and not enough to the catcher and to the men in the field, the men who made the "no-hit" game possible. Strictly speaking, there is, of course no such thing as a 'no hit' game. The only possible 'no hit' game would be one in which the pitcher struck out 27 men, in which the catcher had all of the 27 putouts and in which not even a chance was offered any other of the nine players.

"I doubt if one ever heard a pitcher boast of having been the hero of a 'no hit' game. He knows too well how he was helped along to fame by the men behind him; knows how large a meed of the praise is due the catcher who coached him along.

"Base hits—some base hits— and putouts—some putouts—are so nearly analogous that it is folly to talk of what a pitcher 'intended' when he offers up a certain ball to a certain batter.

"If it is the lucky pitcher's day the ball will be batted straight into the hands of some fielder. If it doesn't happen to be the pitcher's day the ball will be batted a foot or two out of the fielder's reach and instead of an 'easy putout' as it is set down in the records there is a smashing double to center.'

"See the point? The pitcher puts up a certain kind of ball to a batter one day and the batter sends an easy fly to the outfielder. In the next game between the same clubs the pitcher sends up the same kind of a ball. This time it is battled in a slightly different angle, and the batter gets credit for a double or a triple.

"Of course to pitch a 'no hit' game a pitcher must be at his best, but I have worked harder and felt 'fitter' so to speak, in a game where a half dozen drives went safe than ever I did in a 'no hit' battle.

"The average fan does not stop to consider the 'details' of a no-hit game. He sees the cipher in the box score.

"'Ah, ha,' he shouts, they never touched him.'

"He overlooks such paragraphs as: "'Hartzel came in like a streak for a shoe-string catch of Graney's liner, in the first,' or

"'Murphy had to go into the bleachers for Lord's long line foul in the sixth,' and so on.

"Far be it from a member of the craft to belittle the work of the men who have pitched 'no-hit' games. Truth, however, demands that the fans should understand that the difference between a game in which the batters fail to make a 'safety' and the games in which they made, say, three, four or five hits is very slight—often it is a difference of a yard or two in the direction which the ball takes when it leaves the bat; something, of course, with which a pitcher or batter had nothing to do."

John M. Ward, who while with Providence, blanked the Buffalos without allowing a Bison to reach first, says his achievement was due to "the most sensational support a pitcher ever received."

"Cy" Young once said of his celebrated no-run, no-hit, no-man-reach first game: "Had that last ball gone two feet further to the right or to the left Freeman could never have got his hands on it and it would have been a triple or a home run, instead of an easy-out as it appeared in the box score."

J. Lee Richmond, who pitched the first no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach first game in history, once said to the Little Old Man: "The thing I remember best about the game is that I had magnificent support. The Cleveland players that day were simply unable to hit the ball out of the reach of the Worcester fielders."

"Eddie" Seward, now with the Cleveland Fire Department, who in 1888 shut out the old Cincinnati club without a hit, often refers to that event as "the time when I had 17 horseshoes in every pocket."

Some day some time, a pitcher may strike out 27 men in a game without allowing the ball to touch the bat. That indeed, and indeed again, will be a real no-hit game.

TORONTO IN SECOND PLACE TIGERS BEAT JOHNSON

Rochester and Baltimore Took Small End of Scores.

Toronto, July 28.—While the leafs were handing out a big dose of their patent stuff to the Skeeters in the first game of the series, Rochester and Baltimore were being trimmed. Therefore, the joy of making it twelve in a row was filled to overflowing at the thought, not only of advancing into second place, but drawing a few points nearer the Hustlers. Eleven to six shows conclusively how badly the Pests were put to rout, the Kelleyites, minus their leader, who was ill, sewing up the game in the first two innings, when they counted seven.

Bumpus Jones was not the enigma to the Leafs that he has been in the past, as fifteen bingles off him will indicate. Bumpus was very wild in the early part of the game, and this, coupled with timely clouting should have sent him to the stall timbers had not the Kelleyites had the game on ice. Johnny Lush, who decorated the mound for the locals, was touched up very hard by the visitors, the batting of Deininger and Wheeler being the feature part of the Skeeters' attack. Johnny, however, did not have to twirl to his limit with the Leafs out in front, but at that the Pests showed some grand clouting, and they are not to be despised, as they are liable to cut loose at any stage. Their specialty yesterday was doubles, they collecting no less than five.

McINTOSH HAS BIG FIGHT TRUST

Jack Johnson is the Big Noise of His Bunch

Hugh McIntosh, the Austrlian fight promoter, has formed what is probably the greatest pugilistic trust that the world has ever known. The entire organization revolves about the person of John Arthur Johnson, the dusky heavyweight champion, who is now in London, and who is under contract to fight some of the most conspicuous of the big sluggers. Besides Johnson the newest fighting trust includes Bill Lang, Sam McVey Sam Langford, Al Kaufmann and Porky Flynn.

Just as a starter Johnson has signed a contract with McIntosh for a fight with Lang on December 26th next. This will be followed on Easter Monday of next year by a battle between Johnson and McVey. Both contests will involve the heavyweight championship of the world. It is agreed on the part of Johnson that if he beats both Lang and McVey, he will accompany McIntosh to Paris, where Johnson will give battle to Sam Langford for a purse and the title. This latter battle is scheduled for the summer of 1912.

Johnson's contract with McIntosh begins on October 31 of this year, when the colored fighter sails for Australia by way of Calcutta and other Oriental ports. He will give boxing exhibitions on the way. This contract entails the cancelling on the part of Johnson of $19,000 worth of theatrical engagements in England and elsewhere.

McIntosh now has contracts that give him a monopoly of the big fellows in the ring.

TENNIS

In a local lawn bowling tournament held on the green yesterday afternoon, only three rinks took part.

There will likely be another local tournament played next week.

Y.M.C.A. TENNIS

In the fifth round of the Y.M.C.A. tournament, only two games were played yesterday.

There are yet quite a number of games to be played, and it is desirable that the round be finished as soon as possible.

MAKES A RECORD.

Canadian Aviator Stays Over Four Hours In the Air.

Mineola, N.Y., July 28.—St. Croix Johnstone, the Canadian aviator, broke the American endurance record for monoplanes and biplanes yesterday when he remained in the air for 4 hours, 1 minute, 53 3-4 seconds, circling the aviation course of about five miles thirty-nine times. He was compelled to alight before his fifty gallons of gasoline were consumed because of engine trouble in his Moisant monoplane.

The previous American record, made at San Francisco on Jan. 20th last, was made by Parmelee, his record being 3 hours, 39 minutes, 49 1-2 seconds.

Counting gasoline, oil and accessories, with his own weight, Johnstone carried about 500 pounds of weight in his flight, which was made at a rate close to sixty miles an hour and about 300 feet above the ground in a gentle breeze.

Aviators In Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 28.—Hamilton's first aviation meet opened last evening at the Tuckett farm, on the Beach road. About a thousand people witnessed the feats of the daring birdmen. The performers last evening were: J. A. D. McCurdy and Charles F. Willard, the American air navigator.

Owing to the trouble which the other men had with their machines, the burden of the evening's entertainment fell of Willard, who made five ascensions in his Curtiss biplane.

What is there about simple truth and common sense that is so repugnant to people.

I have heard women say they didn't object to smoking, but I have never heard a woman say she didn't object to chewing.

CAMERON HIGHLANDERS.

The Sergeant's Story.

The Cameron Highlenders fought at Waterloo throughout the three glorious days of June, and they were "particularly mentioned" by Wellington in his famous despatch of June 19, addressed to Lord Bathurst. Fortunate in their opportunities, they have been fortunate also in winning the praise of poets. Byron, in "Childe Harold," has consecrated their immortality in a famous stanza:—

Here sounds the high note of romance, and bravely the Highlanders could echo it. But war does not always rest at the lofty plane of glory, and we can sometimes realise it most clearly in homelier touches.

After the battle it is said that the 79th stripped the cuirasses off the dead Frenchmen and used them for cooking its rations. They were good enough frying-pans, though the bullet-holes let something escape. But some Belgian soldiers who passed by while the cooking was in progress, and seeing the cuirasses, went off with the legend that the Highlanders were cannibals, and no doubt the legend, which it is a pity to disturb, is repeated unto this day.

One other piece of comedy is worth remembrance. When the allied armies were in Paris Sergeant Campbell of the 79th was taken with others to the Elysee to be shown to the Emperor Alexander, and it is thus that he tells the tale himself. "The Emperor made a very minute inspection of us," he writes, "and his curiosity led him to call upon me, as being the most robust of the party, to step to the front, . . . As soon as I stepped to the front I was surrounded by the astonished nobility, and the emperor commenced his inspection and questions as follows:—First, he examined my appointments and drew my sword. . . . Second, he examined my hose, gaiters, legs, and pinched my skin, thinking I wore something under my kilt, and had the curiosity to lift my kilt up to my navel, so that he might not be deceived. The questions were:—If I was present at the actions of June 16, 17, and 18? How many officers and men the regiment lost? . . Whether I was in Egypt? If I wore the kilt in winter, or if I did not feel cold in that season? If I was married? If my parents were alive?" Thus it was that the Highlanders seemed beyond the general experience of mankind.

MIRIAM WATCHES OVER BABY MOSES.

Once upon a time there lived a little girl named Mariam. The bible does not tell us how old she was when she watched over her baby brother, Moses, but tradition says she was less than ten. When the mother of Moses heard that Pharaoh would kill all the little boys of the Israelities, she made a little boat of a basket and placed the baby therein and permitted it to float down the Nile among the reeds near the edge of the river.

And his sister, the bible says, stood afar off to see what would be done to him.

And so little Miriam ran along the river bank as her baby brother floated along the stream. She was on hand as though by mere accident when the king's daughter discovered the boat and the tiny sailor.

Miriam asked the princess: "Shall I go and and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?"

The princess agreed and Miriam brought her own mother.

By and by Miriam grew to young womanhood. Her brother had become the leader, the emancipator of his people and following the destruction of Pharaoh's mighty host in the Red Sea, with timbrel in hand, she led the jubilant women of Israel in song and dance.

Mr. Waring and go to live with your mother"

"Leave Mr. Waring! Are you mad, John?"

"Sweetheart"—she spoke to Bubbins—"will you run into the garden and see if you can find me some white roses? You know the ones I love."

As the little girl flew off in delight, Mrs. Chalmers faced her husband.

"Isn't it true?" he demanded.

"How dare you ask me such a question?" she answered proudly. "Do you suppose that, even had I loved him, Hugh would ever have wronged me? Can you believe that I would ever wrong Bubbins?"

"Beatrice!"

She started to find her husband kneeling at her side. Before she could speak he had taken her hands in his with remorseful tenderness

"Oh, my darling! What a brute I have been! What a fool, from the very beginning! Pity and forgive—forgive, Beatrice. I am sorry, little girl, sorry with all my soul. I have never ceased to love you in spite of all I believed to be true. Come back to me.

She looked down at him with sad, tender eyes. Then, rising, put her hands in his and drew him to his feet.

"You will—you will come back?" passionately. "Dear, my dear, I want you so," and he folded her unresisting form in his arms.

* * * * *

"Mumty," came a little voice, five minutes later, "here's the white woses. Why, you're laughin' again. How quick Daddy's made you well. I knowed he could."

"Godd bless you, Bubbins," said Daddy.

Country Town Sayings

By Ed. Howe

There is a good deal of "talk" about a certain woman because she doesn't wash her supper dishes, but piles them up on the kitchen table until morning. A neighbor "spoke to her" about the bad habit, and the culprit said: "Huh! Half the women do it!" Do they?

It is surprising how near crazy some people can be, and keep out of the asylum.

When a man recommends his favorite patent medicine to an invalid, he says: "No doctor will prescribe it; the doctors don't want you to get well."

What has become of the hand grenade that a few years ago was going to prevent conflagrations?

After a man has settled down to a quiet married life four or five years, a rapid pace a few nights would kill him.

You have not been completely taken into a man's confidence until he has abused his kin to you.

Occasionally I look at a man's ears, and it seems to me I have never before seen anything so funny or ridiculous. In the same way I occasionally encounter a word in common use that looks so odd that I am almost willing to believe that I have never before seen anything like it.

Even a man who is willing to be a scoundrel objects to being called one.

Do you remember that, when a boy, you insisted on acting mean until you got a whipping? And you occasionally do the same thing now that you are grown, unless you are wiser than most men.

The manly loss of a dollar is often worth two, because of the lesson it teaches.

Good Pointers For Boy Scouts

A scout's duty is to be useful and to help others, and he is to do his duty before anything else, even though he gives up his own pleasure, or comfort, or safety to do it. When in difficulty, to know which of two things to do, he must ask himself, "Which is my duty?" that is, "Which is best for other people"—and do that one. He must be prepared at any time to save life, or to help injured persons. And he must try his best to do a good turn to somebody every day.

A scout is a friend to all, and a brother to every other scout, no matter to what social class the other belongs. Thus if a boy scout meets another scout, even though a stranger to him, he must speak to him, and help him in any way that he can, either to carry out the duty he is then doing, or by giving him food, or as far as possible anything that he may be in want of. A scout must never be a snob. A snob is one who looks down upon another, because he is poorer, or who is poor and resents another because he is rich. A scout accepts the other man as he finds him, and makes the best of him.

"Kim" the boy scout was called by the Indians "Little friend of all the world," and that is the name that scout should earn for himself.

A scout is courteous, that is, he is polite to all—but especially to women and children, and old people and invalids, cripples, etc. And he must not take any reward for being helpful or courteous.

A scout is a friend to animals. He should save them as far as possible from pain, and should not kill any animal unnecessarily, even if it is only a fly—for it is one of God's creatures. Killing an animal for food is allowable.

Even if he gets an order he does not like he must carry it out all the same because it is his duty; and after he has done it he can come and state any reasons against it; but he must carry out the order at once. That is discipline.

A scout smiles and whistles under all circumstances. When he gets an order he should obey it cheerily and readily, not in a slow, hang-dog sort of way.

ACT OF HOMAGE

At Coronation Will Not Be Performed by Lady de Ros

There is little possibility of Lady de Ros being selected to do homage for the barons of England in virtue of the seniority of the peerage she holds. Certain Coronation services have, indeed, been performed by women or by deputies appointed by them, but homage has never been one of them. The next in seniority, Lord Mowbray and Stourton, will represent his brother barons, just as Viscount Falkland at King Edward's Coronation represented his senior, Viscount Hereford, who was not present. It is remarkable that there is a difference of no less than 233 years in the dates of creation between the premier Marquis of England, Lord Shrewsbury, and the next in time, Lord Lansdowne.

The act of homage at the Coronation consists in swearing allegiance, touching the crown, and kissing the King's cheek. In earlier days it was counted of the highest importance. At the time of Henry VI.'s Coronation a plague was raging, and to avoid infection a Bill was passed in Parliament permitting the omission of the kiss in the act of homage. In this Act it was specially enacted that notwithstanding the omission of what was evidently an essential feature of the ceremony, the peers were entitled to receive the official letter acknowledging that they had performed homage. Macaulay, who was present at William IV.'s Coronation, gives an amusing picture of political partisanship while the peers were going up to do homage. "Some of them," he writes, "were cheered, which I thought indecorous in such a place and on such an occasion. The Tories cheered the Duke of Wellington and our people in revenge cheered Lords Grey and Brougham."

SEATS IN CHURCH

Baronet Claims Seventy-two Out of a Total of 380 in the Parish Edifice

A dispute as to whether Sir Oswald Mosley, Burton-on-Trent, was entitled to the exclusive use of seventy-two seats in the parish church was settled at Lichfield Consistory Court.

Sir Oswald applied for a faculty appropriating certain seats in the south aisle of the church. It was contended that the aisle had been in the possession of the family since 1615, and had been kept in constant repair, and from time to time various monuments had been erected.

When the Rev. and Hon. H. L. Tyrwhitt became rector the congregation increased, and people were placed in the south aisle, to the annoyance of Sir Oswald. The rector called upon Sir Oswald to prove his claim to seventy-two seats out of a total of 380 in the church.

A conference between the chancellor and counsel on the matter, together with the respective parties, took place. It was agreed that a faculty should be granted to the Mosley family, giving them the exclusive use of thirty-eight out of seventy-two of the existing seats in the south aisle, and also the right to erect monuments in the aisle.

A CRIPPEN MISTAKE

Cheiro, an Amazing Gentleman, Says the Doctor Did Not Avoid His Key Numbers

One of the greatest mistakes Crippen ever made in his life was in not avoiding his "key numbers." According to Cheiro, the amazing gentleman who can see through a brick wall as far as most people, if not farther, Crippen's key numbers were fours and eights; so that, if he had only stuck to fives and nines he might have been a respected, honored, and unhanged citizen. It was his obvious duty to avoid the year he was born in, '62, for 6 annd 2 are 8; likewise, he should have stayed away from that dinner with the Martinetti's on January 31st, for 3 and 1 make 4. He made his statement to Inspector Dew on July 8, and then, to make things worse, he lets Dew find the remains in the cellar on July 13th, for again 3 and 1 are 4. Then the foolish man called himself "Robinson," a name of eight letters, when he might just as well have travelled as Brown or Smith. Not only so, but he saile in the Montrose, again a name of eight letters; comes back in the Megantic, for trial, eight letters again; and, worst blunder of all, he allowed his key numbers to come together in the year he was hanged, being 48 years old when he was executed.

MISER'S TRAGIC END

A Man with $1,500 in the Bank Starves Himself to Death in England

"Death from heart disease, accelerated by wilful starvation," was the unusual verdict returned at an inquest on Charles Bayliss, 68, of Newtown, Manchester, who was found dead in bed. A son-in-law said that Bayliss had about $1,500 in the bank, but he refused to buy food, and witness had given him meals on many occasions. Bayliss was found at the top of the stairs, having apparently fallen out of bed. Other evidence showed that Bayliss would not part with his money for food, rent, or coal, and he had refused to see a doctor. He had been strange in his manner since the death of his wife, twelve months ago. He would not change his clothes, and hod lived in a miserly way, often depending on his neighbors for a crust of bread. He had even allowed a man out of work to provide him with food. A doctor stated that the body was very dirty and very emaciated. There was very little blood in the veins, and practically no fat on the body. Death had been hastened by insufficient food.

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

MR. R. L. BORDEN.

Canada and especially Nova Scotia lost one of its most distinguished lawyers, when Mr. R. L. Borden was made leader of the Conservative Party. Before he had reached the age of forty, he although, he had lived well, was a man of independent means, all of which were amassed by himself. He was the recognized head of the legal profession of Nova Scotia, when he was a comparatively young man. Besides being a magnificent politician, a well-nigh peerless lawyer, he is no mean linguist, an historian and very prominent authority on constitutional questions. Above all Mr. Borden is a man of unquestioned integrity. His judicial mind enables him to keenly analyze a question and see its merits and deficiencies. This is clearly evident in some of his seasoned speeches.

R. L. BORDEN.

The leader of the Opposition is noted for his kindness of heart and his respect for the feelings of others. These he tries his utmost not to hurt, unless it be from some fault of their own.

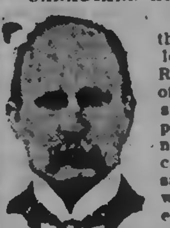
Mr. Borden's courteous, sincere and genial manner wins for him a host of friends. It is probably owing to this that he has only been insulted in the House twice. Both times it was entirely uncalled for.

In his personal habits Mr. Bordin is extremely regular. He is a total abstainer, but is fond of his old briar pipe. This distinguished politician has nourished many literary dreams, but owing to lack of time has not been able to execute them. Let us hope that at some time in the near future he may be able to give the world some of the products of his fertile mind.

When his turn comes to take over the reins of Government, he will be able to rise to the occasion and expend all his energies for the successful advancement and betterment of Canada.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

CANADIANS AND MEDICINE.



DR. OSLER.

It is a remarkthat when Dr. Osler was appointed Regius Professor of Oxford University in 1905 the report — which was not true—was circulated that he said that no man was any good after forty years of existence. This brilliant Canadian who was born in Ontario in 1849, has done more by his books and lectures to make the profession of medicine better understood and appreciated than any other man. His degrees are many and his practical experience as a student great.

CANADIANS AND INVENTION.

Dr. A. Grahame Bell and the Telephone.

Canada has every reason to be proud of her brilliant student in practical science—Professor A. Graham Bell—the inventor of the telephone, which has done so much to revolutionise the social and business world. The doctor first saw the light in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1847 and came out to Canada in 1870, where he carried on his investigations that consummated not only in the great invention with which his name is associated with, but the photophone, induction balance, and telephone probe, and (with C. A. Bell) graphaphone. He has made a thorough study of the education of the deaf. In recent years he has taken great interest in the laws of flight and aviation generally. This brilliant Canadian is the holder of many degrees and a member of many learned societies. His Canadian home is in Nova Scotia.

CANADIANS AND AVIATION.

Nova Scotia and the Flying Machine.

Canada though small in population keeps pace in the fields of sport and science and in the latest combination of both—aviation—she has produced one or two good men, probably the best known being the doughty J. McCurdy, who has lately achieved a number of triumphs against the best aviators of the world.

Mr. McCurdy was born in that province of nerve producing men—Nova Scotia—in a little place called Baddeck, in the year 1886.

Though still young he has already invented two successful machines—the "Silver Dart" and "Babcock No. 2". Canadians are looking forward to further triumphs from her worthy representative in this new field.

STRANGE FACTS

A suit of clothes made of stone is the latest innovation on exhibition in a New York clothes-dealer's window. The material is soft and pliable, and when soiled has only to be placed in a fire to be made absolutely clean.

A German workman named Gauschy has just been released from the jail at Mulhausen after serving forty-five years' imprisonment for murder. This constitutes a record as regards a continuous term of incarceration in modern times.

Something new in aeroplanes has been invented by a Japanese nobleman named Baron Iga. The inventor has taken the dragon-fly as his model, and has constructed two sets of wings which can be made to flap at the will of the operator. It is claimed that this arrangement will enable the aeroplane to maintain its position in the air without moving.

When a charge of meat stealing was about to be heard at the Swansea Quarter Sessions, the man charged with the offence was found to be missing. He was discovered among the grand jury, helping to decide whether there was a bill against himself or not. He explained that he thought the jurymen were all prisoners. He was found not guilty and discharged.

The Romford Urban Council, says an English paper, have appointed a special committee to obtain a proper valuation of the old oak panelling which has been found in a farmhouse standing on land used for the disposal of sewage. The matter was first brought to the notice of the council by an anonymous offer of $1,500 for the panelling. It was then found that a dealer bad estimated its value at $4,000, and also that it was being damaged by damp, the rooms being used for the storage of onions and the roofs being leaky.

ONLY PELISSIER'S FUN

How He Teased a Pressman Who Called For a Picture

It is not an easy task to interview Mr. Pelissier, the chief of the "Follies." Here is an example of the manner in which be teases the harrassed Pressman. "I see, you want a picture of the house I was not born in and photographs of my aunts, and that sort of thing. I can read you an appreciation of myself by myself, if that will help you any. At an astonishingly early age I showed unmistakeable signs of humor and created shrieks of mirth among my brothers and sisters by tripping up old blind ladies in the street, kicking the crutches from the grasp of a passing cripple, and a thousand other innocent drolleries. At the age of nine a family council was held to see whether I should be educated or sent to Eton. After a time I went abroad, and on my return from the voyage I was cheered by an enormous crowd, with both of whom I gratefully shook hands." So he continues till the bewildered interviewer takes his leave, not knowing a bit more about Mr. Pelissier than when he came.

THE PEOPLE'S CHIMES

The Review has received the following official statement relative to the people's chimes:

Since the inauguration of the chimes on Coronation Day much work has been done and heavy expense incurred with the object of bringing out the beautiful tone of the bells. Half the number of shutters have been taken out; a sounding-board has been placed over the bells and the "Ellacombe system" of chiming by ropes and hammers has been installed, supplementing the original system of wires connecting the tongues of the bells with a key-board. New stairs have also been set up and a galvanized iron flooring placed under the bells.

The committee have endeavored to the very best of their power to carry through this great enterprise in the best possible way and are still looking out for methods of improvement.

It is found that local conditions such as the unusual amount of foliage throughout the city interfere somewhat with the bells being heard in all parts of the city. Again, while not heard in low-lying portions or behind large buildings they are clearly heard on the heights around the city. The prevailing winds will, of course, very largely affect the sound. But the purity and sweetness of the tone will compensate for any drawbacks.

It is most exceptional for chords to be possible on a chimes as in the case with ours.

Although Peterborough has a unique possession of which the city may well be proud

Some time will have to elapse before the best can be brought out of the bells and practice and experience will be necessitated.

However, the chimes are now ready for public use. As one effort in this direction a program of music will be for the present, rendered at about 8 p. m. on Saturday evenings for the pleasure of the public and as a suggestion of the approach of the day of worship and of rest.

The fee for the use of the chimes for the weddings of citizens of Peterborough without regard to religion, has been fixed (until further notice) at at the low figure of $1, to be paid to the chimes.

Application to be made to Mr. J. Butcher on St. John's grounds, who will procure the necessary consent of the rector and wardens. The applicant will state in writing the exact time at which the chiming is desired.

Any suggestions with a view to further usefulness will be welcomed and receive careful consideration.

Mr R. Devey has consented to act as chimes master and Mr. John Butcher has been appointed chimer.

NOVICES AS AGRICULTURISTS; FAMILY MAY BE DEPORTED

Failed to Make Good on Two Farms—Husband Was Afraid of the Fowl and the Horses.

It was only a matter of a few months ago, certainly not more than six, that a young English family, consisting of father, mother and baby, yet an infant in its mother's arms, watched from the deck of an immigrant vessel the shores of old England gradually fade from their view, as they sailed for Canada, intending to make their fortune and build the foundation of a happy family hearth in this fair, resourceful land.

The parents were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fountain.

Yet in those brief six months such a pitiable and harrowing record of trouble and adversity has been their experience of Canadian life, that only the most stoney hearted could fail to have feelings of genuine sympathy and pity for the misfortune and sorrow that has fallen upon them.

Their story is not new. Similar has been the fate of many others who have come to Canada, their minds filled with glowing visions of happiness, only to be shattered by the bitterness of poverty and privation in a strange and friendless country.

AMATEUR FARMERS.

The family in question came to Canada with the intention of taking up agricultural work, and accordingly were consigned to the local immigration officer on Water street. The advice note which always precedes each arrival, read that they wished to take up farm work. It was evident from the very beginning, however, to the practiced and discerning eye of that official that they were totally unqualified for that occupation. Sizing them up, Mr. Howson had them placed with Mr. George McGowan, who lives about three miles out of the city on the old Kincaid farm, he being at the time in need of a man and a woman to assist on the farm. The husband and wife honestly admitted that they were totally ignorant of their duties, but evinced at first a willingness to learn.

AFRAID OF FOWL.

Now comes the funny part of the story. The husband's nerve failed him when a young turkey gobbler took after him. Not only was he afraid of the fowl, but even of the chickens and the cows and the horses.

Mr. McGowan did his best with them in the effort to instruct, but their lack of farm adaptability showed itself more plainly every day.

According, however, to Mr. McGowan, the trouble was not with the husband alone. The wife began to be afflicted with laziness. She would not get out of bed in the morning until ten o'clock, not even by her husband's persuasions.

This was more than their employer could stand. Wrathily he told the couple to quit, and with their six weeks old child he brought them to the city once more, placing them in the custody of the immigration officer. They received during their stay with Mr. McGowan, in addition to their board and lodging for two months, the munificent sum of $8. So ended their first attempt at the agricultural occupation.

At his wits ends, as the family were in a destitute condition, Mr. Howson had no alternative but to find them a job somewhere else. While doing this he personally expended money for their keep.

GIVEN ANOTHER PLACE.

Mr. Wm. Whitfield was the next farmer to hire the family. But, alas! it was the same story, only emphasized more strongly. Mr. Whitfield could get no satisfaction from them, and after paying the husband a small sum he was compelled to dispense with their services.

The husband and wife, however, feeling convinced that they were not to be accorded proper treatment, brought the matter into court, and yesterday afternoon before County Magistrate Edmison, the deplorable features connected with the case were revealed. The husband claimed $6.90 as wages from Mr. Whitfield, also a small sum from Mr. McGowan.

G. N. Gordon acted in Whitfield's interests. His Worship asked that the disputes be settled by compromise, but to this both objected, the former employers of the young couple being very vehement in protesting against such a plan.

"I wouldn't give them one cent," said Mr. Whitfield at first.

"Such impudence," added his better half, who was present.

Finally after a vast amount of wrangling and harranguing, Whitfield and McGowan each gave $3 out of the $6 of which $2 went to the family, and the other $4 were required for the costs of the court.

Mr. Howson fears that it will be necessary for him to recommend the deportation of the family, as they apparently are not suited for colonial life.

MR. AND MRS. PETER CAMPBELL RETURN FROM EUROPEAN TRIP

Visited Many Places of Interest During The Three Months Visit.

Highly delighted with their three months abroad, during which they visited London Eng., for a month, and the more important and interesting cities on the continent, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Campbell, returned home yesterday noon accompanied by their son, Gordon, who met them at New York.

Mr. Campbell when interviewed this morning by the Review, was very enthusiastic over the many pleasant features and incidents connected with his visit across the seas, and the numerous enjoyable recollections of places and scenes in other lands, which Mrs. Campbell and himself were privileged to behold.

Three months ago yesterday they left the city on their foreign tour. Arriving at New York they embarked on the White Star Line steamer, "Cedric," a splendid equipped passenger vessel, which arrived in London, Eng., after a delightful ocean trip. About one month was spent in London during which the great event namely the coronation celebration was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. Regarding this magnificent demonstration, Mr. Campbell could speak in only the most enthusiastic terms. "It would be almost impossible" he remarked, "to adequately describe the grandeur and magnificence of the ceremony, in all its imposing splendor and power. Lord Strathcona, who took charge of the Canadians while in London, secured for them a splendid location in a grand-stand adjacent to where the festivities were held, was responsible for the fine view which Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were able to have of the procession and the various ceremonies which took place. While the numbers of people who lined the processional route was something enormous" stated Mr. Campbell still the crowd was noticeably orderly. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell saw the King and Queen quite frequently. Quite often their Majesties were out driving attended by only their coachmen and on such occasions, the streets would be thronged with people, who when the carriage containing the King and Queen would pass, would cheer and applaud with wonderful enthusiasm. There would be no blocking of the streets however, or no signs of the slightest disorder. The English people's devotion to their sovereigns is wonderfully deep.

Mr Campbell saw a young colonial lieutenant thrown from his horse, which became frightened at the saluting of the guard of soldiers along the route. The animal reared right up and fell backwards carrying the officer to the ground. He was unconscious and several of the soldiers carried him to the hospital tent.

Mr and Mrs Campbell also visited France, Germany, Holland, and Switzerland and Scotland, stopping at the important places of note in each of these countries. He was especially enraptured with the beauties and climate of the latter country. They visited several of the highest mountains. Trolley cars convey tourists up the sides of the mountains, in place of the difficult climbing which would otherwise be necessary.

Holland was also a place which offered considerable pleasure. The old style costumes of the people generally adapted was very striking and quaint.

What seemed to strike Mr. Campbell most during his view of the coronation was the splendid appearance of the soldiers, both home and colonial troops. Their brilliant uniforms and splendid upright soldier-like appearance was always prominent.

Altogether, Mr. Campbell is more than satisfied with the benefit and pleasure which have been derived from their tour, and from the beneficial effects it has had in every way upon himself and Mrs. Campbell.

the figures of the blue books, and the Globe did not wish the evidence that he collected to go out to the country. Hence the paper misrepresented him. He knew that, once reciprocity became a factor in our life as a country, we would only realize it to our detriment. He would say to the farmer think seriously over this matter before casting their ballots. He endeavored to serve the interests of his riding and the interests of his country, the latter always first. He felt his obligation to see that the foundation that was so well laid in the past was held inviolate, and added to and enlarged.

We were face to face with an election. It was impossible for him to do everything, but he would endeavor to do that which would ensure them support.

MR. JAS. THOMPSON.

Mr. Jas. Thompson was loudly cheered when he rose to speak. He said he appreciated most fully the expressions of loyalty and friendship he had received. He felt that the choice that the convention had made was indeed a compliment. If he had not done in the past everything that the electorate thought he should do, he would be armed afresh to go in and try very hard for the future if elected.

Before the meeting adjourned resolutions were passed expressing confidence in the Conservative leader, Mr. R. L. Borden, endorsing the stand that he and his party have taken with regard to reciprocity and cheers were given for the party and king.

GOVERNMENT CENSURED FOR NEEDLESS EXPENDITURE

He Recalls Newmarket Canal Deal and Glen Campbell Reminds the Government of Spending More Money in a Weak Riding Than in All Manitoba Together—Hon. Mackenzie King Has Price Tables.

Ottawa, July 29.—The last day before the week-end adjournment proved to be another day of perfunctory interest within the Commons, but of very keen concern outside the chamber. Persistent rumors of the previous day that Friday night would see the final dissolution buoyed up the interest to the highest tension, and many of the members expected their week end to become into a permanent release. This optimistic notion was not dispelled until the close of the House at a late hour.

But while the fifty or sixty members who left Ottawa Thursday night for their own constituencies are not offically relieved of their Parliamentary duties, the balance of the session is known to be so short that very few of them will return. The House late in the afternoon divided on the following motion, moved by Capt. Tom Wallace (Centre York), seconded by Major J. A. Currie (North Simcoe), that "while the growth and development of Canada demand an expenditure of public money, which shall at once be far-seeing, systematic and liberal every such expenditure ought to be designed and carried out in the public interest and not for partisan purposes or for the aggrandizement of party followers; this House regret that in many cases the Government have departed from this wholesome rule and principle and have used and supplied public monies for purposes that were not in the public interest."

Mr. Wallace reviewed the history of the Newmarket Canal project and read to the House the return recently tabled, in which Engineer E. J. Walsh scathingly condemned the waseful extension of the canal plans, though the canal involved a large expenditure of money in his own county, the work was so indefensible that he could only condemn it.

Sir Alan Aylesworth characterised the discussion as an ancient and venerable one. The canal was started before 1904 and has been justified at two general elections since. There was as much agitation for it among Conservatives as Liberals of North York, and he dared Mr. Wallace to repeat in that constituency what he said in the House.

The building of the canal found a defender in the Minister of Finance, who quoted a newspaper account of a deputation which asked for the work in 1905. Many of the men on the deputation were, he said, Conservatives, one of them being T. H. Lennox, M.P.P. The Minister also thought Haughton Lennox had spoke in favor of the canal.

Haughton Lennox at once denied that he had ever done anything but condemn the canal project. He thought that his name had been confused with that the T. H. Lennox. The scheme, he declared, was a nefarious one.

Glen Campbell of Dauphin declared that more money had been spent in public works in the riding of a member lately unseated by the courts, than was spent in the whole of Manitoba.

W. H. Smythe (East Algoma) described the canal as a monument to the Laurier frauds on the country.

The Wallace motion was then put to the vote and killed by 79 to 45.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the opening of the House laid on the table the report of the conference between the Colonial Premiers and the Admiralty as to the status of Dominion navies.

Provision is made for dominion fleets to take part in fleet exercises with the British vessels.

The agreement provides for a uniform system of discipline and training, and for the recognition of seniority of colonial naval officers, where their length of service is greater than that of British officers, on vessels co-operating with British ships. When in foreign waters the commander of a dominion ship will report to the British authorities and take his orders from the Admiralty.

The wording of the war clause is as follows: "In time of war, when the naval service of a dominion or any part thereof has been put at the disposal of the Imperial Government by the dominion authorities, the ships will form an integral part of the British fleet, and will remain under the control of the Admiralty during the continuance of the war."

Hon. Mackenzie King tabled a special report on comparative prices in Canada and the United States just prepared by the Department of Labor, dealing with the products in farm, forest and mine. "It is made up of actual market prices, week by week, for the past five years," the Minister said. It will be published as a report of the Department of Labor.

The House went into committee on ways and means, and the reciprocity debate was taken up by Major Beattie of London. Major Beattie vigorously opposed the Taft-Fielding agreement, and went on record as favoring a twenty per cent. increase in the tariff. He supported his argument for higher protection with copious citations from price records of the United States. He denied that higher tariff meant necessarily higher prices to the consumer.

Intercolonial to Double Track.

Montreal, July 29.—As the result of a tour of inspection of the Intercolonial Railway system, the board of management has decided to recommend the carrying out of considerable improvements all along the line. These will include double-tracking to all leading points, notably the stretch from Chaudiere Junction to Levis, and the construction of subways alike in this province and further east

Killed His Neighbor.

Quebec, July 29.—Louis Dion, aged 25 years, was murdered at St. Honore, Temiscouata County, Thursday afternoon in the course of an altercation with a neighbor named Plourde. Plourde shot him through the neck with a rifle, and was arrested shortly after noon and lodged in jail at Fraserville. He states that he fired in self-defence.

Improvements In Armor Plate.

London, July 29.—It is stated that experiments on the Government firing grounds, with armor plate made of molybdonum used in alloy, with nickel in steel, proved it to be from 15 to 20-piece superior to the recognized armor plate standard in resistance to supercalibre projectiles. The Admiralty is said to have refused the discovery.

NEW CITY HALL FOR MONTREAL

Cost is Estimated at Ten Millions of Dollars

Montreal, July 29.—The city architects have a scheme for a new city hall of a size and importance worthy of Greater Montreal, and the approval of the Board of Control will enable them to set to work at once with the plans. The projected city hall will be one of the finest municipal edifices in America. Its cost is roughly estimated at $10,000,000, and it would take from ten to twenty years to complete.

It has been long felt that the present city hall was wholly inadequate for the city, and with the prospect of a city of a million people within ten years a new and imposing civic structure must be built.

The scheme which is under contemplation now is to have the new city hall erected in the square bounded by Mount Royal avenue, Rachel avenue, St. Denis and St. Lawrence boulevards. This would be equally near the east and west ends, and would be within reach of the tremendous population, which is spreading behind the mountain, and along the Riviere des Prairies.

FAMILIES ARE IN GREAT DISTRESS

Lost Everything in Northern Ontario Fires

Special to the Review.

North Bay, July 29.—Twenty-nine families, mostly French-Canadians, who lost their homes and all possessions in recent fires, are in great distress in townships north of Sudbury.

Only Indirect Influence.

Brandon, Man., July 29.—The Grain Growers of Western Canada decided at a meeting here Thursday night that in the approaching election separate candidates will not be nominated for Parliament to represent that powerful agrarian society. Instead, a resolution was adopted, that members exert all their influence in the party with which they affiliate to have candidates nominated who have the same principles advocated by the grain growers. This decision is expected to govern the association in the three prairie provinces, though it is not necessarily binding.

Determined to Drown.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 29.—Matt Kortainox, Finlander, aged 35, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by jumping into the river. He had trouble with his wife, who worked at a local hotel, and had been drinking for two weeks. When found he had a stone weighing six pounds in his pocket.

CREW OF TEN PERISH OFF THE NOVA SCOTIA COAST

William McLeod of Halifax Somes Ashore on a Hatch of the Steamer John Irwin, Bound From Port Morien to Halifax — One Other Man Was on the Hatch With McLeod But Succumbed to Privations.

Halifax, N.S., July 29.—A despatch from Liscomb, Guysboro County, at the eastern end of Nova Scotia, contains news of the loss of the steamer John Irvin. William McLeod, a Halifax man, one of those on board, came ashore at Marie Joseph, on a hatch of the steamer.

The steamer John Irwin, owned by the Port Hood Coal Co., sailed for Halifax from Port Morien on Monday, coal laden, with a crew of eleven. Next morning at 5.15 she foundered, six miles off Beaver Light. At the time the sea was running mountain high, with a heavy sea off shore. In the gale the cargo shifted badly, the ship listed, the water sweeping over everything, tore away the hatches and in a moment it was evident the ship was doomed. The captain ordered the boats cleared, but before the covers could be cut, the steamer plunged under, head first, carrying all hands down with her. The second engineer, I believe, was still below, and it is not believed he reached deck.

A moment later one of the hatches and their part of a bulkhead appeared, out of which McLeod constructed a raft. He picked up the cook and shared his raft with him. He saw the chief engineer on another of the hatches and spoke to him, and also saw Alex. McIntosh, one of the firemen, on some wreckage, but they soon disappeared. The terrible battering of the storm soon told on the cook and he lost heart, and, despite Mr. McLeod's repeated rescues, he was unable to save the unfortunate cook, dying of exposure that evening.

Mr. McLeod drifted ashore at Eastern Red Head at the entrance to Liscomb Harbor between six and seven o'clock on Wednesday, in a state of utter exhaustion. He slept under a tree all night, and in the morning managed to make his way over the unbroken country to Abraham Francy's at Marie Joseph, where he was cared for, and on the arrival of the Dufferin, he came to Sherbrooke.

Privy Council Case.

London, July 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Privy Council granted leave of appeal in the case of Outremont v. Joyce, and Montreal Light, Heat & Power v. Gribble. The petition was dismissed with costs in Laidlaw v. Rhys.

CHEST OF SILVER FOR CLIFFORD

Toronto Will Make Presentation to King's Prize Winner

Toronto, July 29.—The civic reception committee will likely have their testimony of appreciation to Private Clifford take the form of a cabinet of silver cutlery. It is not regarded as advisable to attempt to procure him a house and lot, as it is feared that after the enthusiasm of the reception has evaporated, it will be difficult to raise a big enough balance of money by public subscription.

Ald. Maguire, chairman of the reception committee is arranging for an automobile parade to accompany the winner of the King's prize from Leaside Junction, where he will likely detrain, by arrangement, down Yonge street to Queen and west to University avenue, and then to Queen's Park, where the presentation will be made.

Looking Over the Land.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 29.—It is understood that Sir Donald Mann's visit here was prompted by a desire on the part of his syndicate to acquire the proposed, Niagara, Welland and Lake Erie Railroad and the Welland Street Railway, and again look over the site proposed for the trans-Niagara bridge between the present upper and lower bridges. Mackenzie and Mann now control the electric lines on the frontier.

Cotton Mills Sold.

St. John, N.B., July 29.—It became known on the streets yesterday that the control of the cotton mills in St. John has passed over to the Dominion Cotton Co. with headquarters in Montreal, the latter company purchasing the capital stock at a price not made public. Work in the mills will be continued and probably improvements will be made for their more effective working.

On the Water Wagon.

Chatham, Ont., July 29.—Chatham's water wagons are no longer safe refuges for would-be abstainers. Yesterday morning temperance people were horrified to note that one of the corporation sprinklers carried advertisements for a well-known brewing company. With the civic slogan above, the sides and ends of the cart now hold the following classy legend: "See Chatham first," and "Drink Carlings' Canadian Club lager." Temperance people want to know if the chairman of the Board of Works is receiving remuneration for the advertising space taken on the wagon by the brewing company.

A Peculiar Case.

Chatham, July 29.—Thomas Cox was fined $28 in all yesterday for supplying liquor to an Indian lister named Joseph Houl. The case is a peculiar one. Cox claimed that he and a man named Fielder bought a bottle of beer, of which they each had a drink. They left the remainder of the beer on a bench, where Houl afterwards found it and without permission drank of it. The magistrate held that the negligence of Cox in leaving the liquor where the lister might find it constituted an offence. Mayor Brackin, solicitor for Cox, may appeal the case.

PORTUGUESE GOVERNMENT WANTS AID FROM SPAIN

Doesn't Want Galicia Being Made Monarchist Base.

Lisbon, July 29.—Col. Barretto, the Minister of War, is preparing to leave for the north to visit the frontier camps and discuss the actual situation with the commanders of the Republican troops. Another squadron of cavalry was detached from the local garrison and sent northward yesterday.

The Government continues energetic representations to Spain against Galicia being made the monarchist base of the military enterprises against Portugal. The Spanish Government is supplied with a variety of information destined to support the effort to have Spain arrest the preparations and seize the arms and supplies of the monarchists. Spain replies in satisfactory terms, but thus far seemingly has been unable to intervene effectively in Galicia, which in many districts is difficult of access.

The Spanish local authorities are not in a position to interfere with the movements of quiet individuals or to inquire their purpose. Capt. Couceiro and his principle adjutants of the monarchist forces are constantly changing their addresses. The whole countryside welcomes them as they buy freely and bring excitement into the dull valleys.

VIENNA PAPER SAYS ITS SETTLED

Only Few Small Details Yet to be Disposed of

Special to the Review.

Vienna, July 29.—New Freie Presse in a special edition, says France, German trouble has been settled with exception of a few formalities which will soon be disposed of.

New Direct Cable.

London, July 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The text has been issued of the bill presented in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon. C. E. H. Hobhouse and Rt. Hon. J. A. Pease, the object of which is to extend the Pacific cable act.

The bill is a fulfillment of the promise made by Rt. Hon. H. L. Samuel, Postmaster-General to the conference on June 15.

The Australian Ministers complained that the Pacific board wanted to lay a new direct cable from Australia to New Zealand, which would give the board about £14,000 a year revenue, but the British Treasury refused to consent, because in future it might interfere with developments in connection with wireless telegraphy. Mr. Samuel, with Premier Asquith's concurrence, at once promised to press for the Treasury's consent, as it was the strong desire of Australia and New Zealand. This bill gives the desired authority.

Workman Falls to Death.

Toronto, July 29.—Apparently losing his balance while walking on a plank on the fifth floor of the unfinished section of the Kent building at Richmond and Yonge streets, yesterday morning, Robert O'Neill, 22 years, a laborer, died of his injuries half an hour later in St. Michael's Hospital.

New York, July 29.—When first deputy Police Commissioner Douglas I. McKay tried to arrest a chauffeur yesterday he found that he had forgotten his badge, and the result of the ensuing argument was that a policeman took both the chauffeur and McKay to the station house.

SUFFRAGE A SUCCESS

So Says Premier of New South Wales

New York, July 29.—J. S. T. McGowan, Premier of New South Wales, who arrived on the Mauretania, with Mrs. McGowan, said yesterday that the system of equal suffrage in his Australian province had operated most satisfactorily during the ten years it has been effective.

"A higher morality has resulted," he said, "and the home life, on which the vitality of any nation depends, has been strengthened. More women vote now than do men, and, contrary to much argument, the franchise does not unsex them. It makes our women more womanlike, and the result has been that there is a great decline in the infraction of laws, although the population has wonderfully increased."

Mrs. McCowan added that the women of New South Wales, although exercising their right to vote on all questions, were now more domestic than they were before they received the franchise.

C.P.R. Land Sales.

London, July 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the action of the C.P.R. v. C.P. Land Co., in the Chancery Division, Hodge, on behalf of the plaintiffs asked leave to serve short notice of motion on the defendants, restraining them from offering land for sale. He said they only knew of it on Tuesday from an advertisement. The plaintiffs complained that the advertisement induced the belief that it emanated from them. The plaintiffs had millions of acres of land for sale, and 500 agents in the United Kingdom alone. His lordship said he would give leave, but there was very little chance of its being disposed of this term.

Will Plead Justification.

Vankleek Hill, July 29.—The preliminary hearing of the action of Judge Constantineau, senior judge of Prescott and Russell Counties against Editor Jones of Vankleek Hill for criminal libel was called before Gauthier, J.P., in L'Original yesterday. The magistrate formally committed the editor for trial and released him on bail. The case will likely be called next September at the Assises in L'Original. The defence intimated an intention of fighting the case out on its merits, and will likely plead justification in the public interest.

Severely Injured.

Kingston, July 29.—Victor Swaine, aged 16, son of John Swaine, Glenvale, was working with a dynamite cap yesterday morning and it exploded, blowing off the ends of his second and third fingers on his right hand and severely injuring his right eye. He was brought to Kingston General Hospital, where his injuries were dressed. It is feared that he will lose the sight of his right eye.

AMBASSADOR DROPPED DEAD

Was About to Take up Cards at Club

Paris, July 29.—Naoum Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to France, dropped dead last night at the Union Diplomats Club. Naoum entered the club, and, as was his custom, took a place at the card table. He was in the act of taking up a hand when he fell backward. The Duke de Rohan, the Roumanian Minister, and others immediately rushed to Naoum's side, but he was beyond all aid.

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT IN THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT

To Keep the Peace.

Madrid, July 29.—Premier Canalejas outlined last night the main features of the Franco-Spanish modus vivendi entered into in order to prevent clashes in the vicinity of Alcazar, Morocco, between Moorish troops, commanded or uncommanded by French instructors, and Spanish troops.

The agreement defines a line around the city of their own sides of which the Spanish and Moorish troops must keep. It also stipulates that diplomats and officers passing through the Alcazar region on their way to Fez are entitled to carry arms and have a small escort, but that ordinary travelers shall require a special passport. In addition Spain agrees not to enlist deserters from the Moorish army for police duty.

Premier Canalejas announced that instructions in accordance with the modus vivendi have been forwarded to Spanish commanders in Morocco.

Unionists Are Expected to Vote Against Extremists.

No-Surrender Movement In British Parliament Is Dying of Ridicule and Lord Lansdowne Has Received Pledges of Support In Behalf of a Peaceful Settlement From Three Hundred Peers.

London, July 29.—A solution of the veto bill crisis without the creation of peers may be predicted to-day with tolerable certainty. Premier Asquith had a final interview yesterday with King George, who goes with Queen Mary to-day to Cowes for the week-end.

The no-surrender movement is dying of ridicule, its leaders not daring to publish the names of its alleged adherents. Lord Lansdowne, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords, on the other hand has received written pledges of support from over 300 peers in his efforts to save the bill.

The following is expected to be the course of events in connection with the veto bill: The House of Commons Wednesday, will reject the House of Lords' amendments to the bill, and meantime, the intimation will be conveyed to Premier Asquith that Viscount St. Aldwyn will take sufficient Unionist peers into the Government lobby, if the Halsburyites challenge a division, to outvote them. It is believed, however, that even this course will not be necessary, as it is very doubtful whether Lord Halsbury's following is equal in number to the Liberal peers in the House of Lords.

HUMAN PARTS FOUND IN WATER

Baffling Cases Come Before New York Police

Special to the Review.

New York, July 29.—The finding of a woman's torso, a man's head and several human limbs in the river leads police to believe that a series of mysterious crimes have been committed. Seven portions of dismembered human bodies have been picked up in the water within the last nine days.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

THE FATE OF THE BY-LAWS

Yesterday's vote on the three by-laws submitted, resulted in the defeat of all three. Whether the city freeholder has decided that he will, as a whole, go in for an era of municipal economy by cutting down the sources of expenditure can only be surmised.

The rising tax rate undoubtedly has something to do with it. Comment was freely expressed that the rate was quite high enough, and that if new industries and new citizens were not coming in to share the burden, that it was as well that a halt should be called. Calling a halt is the feeblest sort of municipal progress. Standing still is retrogression. Surely if it be well to assist new industries to come here, it is better to encourage those that we have to expand and develope. The new industry may, or may not be a success, the old established factory, goes on from day to day, affording employment of the very best character. It is true that the view is often taken that "what we have we'll hold." It is not well to be to sure of that. The Ackerman factory is a case in point. That business is one of the very best character. The output is absolutely distributed abroad. It is expanding. It was for the freeholders to say whether it would be encouraged to expand in Peterborough or in the West. The freeholder cannot determine, but he may help in influencing. Has that help been extended.

It is regrettable that the parks by-law has been turned down. Parks are really an investment. Not a park we have but could be turned into money at many times the value it has cost the city. As the years roll on, land will increase in value and the city will be larger. The exhibition grounds, a block of land which will presently be in the heart of the city, has increased in value in ten years by ten thousand dollars.

It is for the freeholder, and for the ratepayer, who may influence the freeholder, to determine these things, for his word is law.

TIGERISH TUNAS.

Wild Carnage When They Meet Their Natural Prey, Flying Fish.

One time at St. Clements we sighted a feeding school of tuna, an exhilarating sight. A flying fish weighing a pound and a half or more would start from the water and soar an extraordinary distance, nearly out of sight, but every inch of that flight I know was covered by a big tuna keeping his place just beneath the "flier" and ready to seize it the moment it fell into the water. This rarely failed. The moment the fish began to drop the tuna would spring at it like a tiger, turning and tossing the spume into the air with a splendid and electrifying rush, a maneuver that was repeated all over the blue channel.

The sensational change meant that a school of tunas had discovered a school of its natural prey, flying fishes. At once the lust for blood and food was on, and the carnage was the result.

I have observed some curious scenes at sea, but never have I seen fear so forcibly expressed as by a school of flying fishes exhausted and at the mercy of the voracious tunas. I have had them gather about my boat and cling to its keel as closely as they could, while the air was full of leaping tunas and soaring flying fish. At such times when a school of sardines is rounded up the fishes are so terrified that men have rowed up to them and scooped them in by the pailful.—C. F. Holder in Outing.

Delhi and Its History.

Shah Jehan in 1631 built the present city of Delhi, close to the old Delhi, and made it the royal residence. The Mohammedans still call it Shahjehanabad, the "city of the king of the world." Nadir Shah, the Persian usurper, captured it in 1739, massacred thousands of the inhabitants and bore away plunder to the value of nearly $100,000,000, including the famous peacock throne and the great Kohinoor diamond. The British first came into control in 1803, when the Mahrattas were defeated near Delhi by Lord Lake. When the sepoy mutiny broke out in 1857 Shah Mohammed Bahadour, then ninety years old, took command of the city and until the English again triumphed enjoyed the imperial state to which he had long been a stranger.

Gold That Is in the Sea.

Apart from the treasures which find their way to the bottom of the sea, and occasionally come to light again, there is more gold in the sea than has ever been coined into money. Such, at all events, is the opinion of Prof. Wilde, of Brussels University. All sea water contains a certain amount of gold, in the proportion of about one grain to each ton of water. Reckoning the total weight of all the oceans at the very moderate figure of 1,000,000,000 tons, Prof. Wilde estimates that they would yield gold to nearly a hundred thousand times as much as —.

Why, bless you! you can bathe in gold.

Saved by His Wit.

One evening, when the city clerk's office was full of men seeking registration, an Irishman asked to be registered. He received the usual blank, with the request that he sign his name. This he succeeded in doing, after a painful effort.

Suspecting that this was the extent of his accomplishments, an onlooker called out to the clerk:

"Try him on another name! Let him write yours."

"'Deed, I'd never dare!" said the Irishman, quick as lightning. "Sure, 'twould be forgery!"

In Gay Paree.

"What kind of an eating house do you call this?" asked the man from Alberta, as he entered a queer-looking establishment in Paris.

"This is one horse restaurant, monsieur," explained garcon. "You can have ze horseflesh in any style. How would you like yours?"

"Horse in any style, eh? Well, suppose you have mine curried."

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

LIVERPOOL, July 28.—Wheat—The market displayed a firm undertone at the start with values ¼c higher and following the opening further advanced ⅛c to ¼c. The persistent firmness in America, together with less favorable political outlook and the further decline in consols, caused shorts to become nervous and also encouraged speculative support. During the morning there was some little realizing on the larger Argentine shipments than expected and the fact that a local mill closed owing to labor trouble, and a generally quiet demand for both cargoes and parcels. Later the undertone again became firm on less favorable reports from India, and forecast of light world's shipments with a liberal decrease afloat to the United Kingdom.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Assertions that black rust in the wheat fields of the Dakotas and Minnesota had grounded down the probable yield there to barely 100,000,000 bushels brought about to-day a substantial advance in the market price. Latest trades were 1⅛ to 1¼ higher than last night. Corn closed a shade off to ⅛ up, oats with a gain of ¼ to 1 cent and provisions were more expensive by 2½ to 20 cents.

GUARD THEIR HEALTH!

Children Who Grow Very Fast Need Careful Watching.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills would make her healthy and happy.

Next to infancy, the years between ten or twelve and eighteen are the most critical in life, especially for the boys and girls who grow too fast. Rapid growth and the physical changes that are taking place render them particularly liable to weakness and disorders of the digestive system, kidneys or lungs that very frequently, when allowed to run on, condemn them to a lifetime of suffering.

It is most important that at this period of life those organs which carry off the body's waste and impurities—the bowels, the kidneys and the skin—should be kept active and vigorous.

Nothing will do this more effectively than that good old-fashioned remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. It acts directly on each of these organs, enabling them to do their work properly, and thus keeps the whole system pure and healthy.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are still made from precisely the same formula as when our grandparents used them, for nothing better has ever been devised.

"No, Jimsy, hear me," she interrupted. "You must and shall hear me. You have said what you had to say. Now it is my turn, and I, too, will speak plainly. You believe—you know—I am and always have been a good woman. You believe that I was faithful, as far as was humanly possible, to the spirit as well as the letter of my marriage vows, made fervently, trustingly. I swore to love and honor Joe Brooks. It was easy, for I did then love and honor him beyond understanding now. But neither love nor honor is kept alive eternally by the virtue of an oath in the face of delusion and worthlessness. Gold was tinsel; diamond was glass. You were witness to the slow murdering of love, and you saw it strangled and thrown down at the last as he would have strangled me had you not prevented."

He would have spoken, but she checked him with a gesture of command.

"No, don't interrupt. Hear me to the end and then speak. What is this thing that you are asking me to do? You are asking me to go to a living death, to make of my heart a sepulcher of all sweet or elevating emotion, to surrender my lips to the fetid kiss of an Iscariot, to deliver my body to his loathsome embraces, while my soul sickens with disgust and horror—my body that he would have betrayed, hired out for a piece of silver and, gloating, taken back again. You are asking me to immolate myself with all that I hold sacred and beautiful on an altar that you style duty. Now apply your rule to this. Is it right? Is it wrong? Oh, Jimsy, answer me! Before God, is it right?"

She stood trembling with the vehemence of her defense and the strength of her feeling, her arms outstretched in interrogation and appeal.

A great sigh was the indication of the conflict that was raging in Smith's heart, and for one single instant the mask of impenetrability fell from his face.

She read the answer there.

Removing feverishly the glove from her left hand, she forced from her finger the wedding ring that in the years had tightened closely upon it and hurled it from her. It ricochetted on a rock and went bounding over the outer edge of the plateau far down into the pathless, tangled brush of the almost perpendicular declivity.

Smith turned away in silence, and in silence they made their way back along the little path up which they had come. Neither spoke, even at the difficult places when he stretched out his hand and helped her with its strong, sustaining clasp.

Jimsy was grave and abstracted. In his Gethsemane he had drunk too deeply of the waters of knowledge, and they were bittersweet, heavily impregnated with regret and dismay. Emma had discovered the secret which for years he had guarded so jealously and—oh, the blissful torture of it!—had revealed to him that she loved him. This was the outcome of his self sacrificing mission on behalf of the husband who stood between them with the right of the might of law and the conventions and whose trust was in the keeping of his honor. His role of platonic friendship was ended. His privileged relations with the woman who was dearer to him than life could no longer be maintained. The home of the Harris family could no longer be the refuge of his loneliness, the pleasant oasis in the desert of his existence, where he could find consolation and rest for his suffering heart, beyond which the world lay dark and indiscernible.

CHAPTER XXII.

It was to Brooks an interminable week that elapsed between his visit to Smith and the latter's return from his mission. Patience was one of his virtues. Having taken the decisive step toward a reconciliation with Emma, he yearned more than ever for his wife herself. He saw her now only as she was when he had made her his bride, only as she had been in the full flowering of her rhapsodic adoration, and the vision abided with him by day as well as by night, inthralling all his senses.

That the rapprochement would be effected he entertained no doubt whatever. Her present position, he was convinced, must be intolerable. He planned to make her homecoming an occasion of festivity that would mark the beginning of a new, unending honeymoon. He had learned much from the desolating of a loveless life. Things that had bored him would now be delights. He would comport himself differently toward her in many ways.

He spent his leisure time after business hours and on the Sunday while Smith was away in looking up apartments and in other preparations for the resumption of housekeeping, also in elaborating the programme of celebration.

It was with eagerness and confidence that he repaired to Smith's lodgings on Monday evening, having ascertained at the boarding house during the day that his friend had returned that morning from his trip out of town.

Smith was of too frank a nature to keep him for one minute under the delusion he saw by his manner he entertained. Emma had demonstrated to him the impossibility of living with her husband and the futility of further effort to that end—shown him that a new and brighter flame, all consuming, all purifying, had enveloped her heart and that it had purged it of every trace of the old slain sentiment. The knowledge that it burned for him made his present task a peculiarly hard and painful one.

"I'm sorry, Joe," he said, almost before his visitor had seated himself, "but there's nothing doing."

Brooks' expectant smile died out.

"How do you mean nothing doing? Wasn't she there? Weren't you able to see her?"

"Yes, I saw her, and she refused. She will have nothing further to do with you."

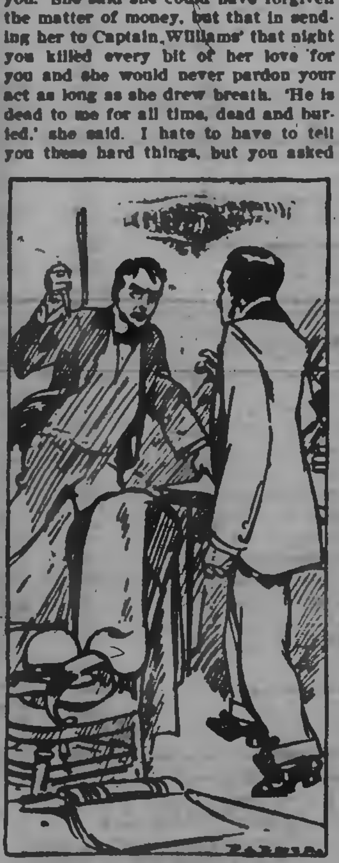
Incredulity gave place quickly to bitter disappointment.

"How's that? What did you say to her?"

"I told her that you were leading a straight life, all about your circumstances, that you were sorry for what had occurred and that in future it would be all different and you would do everything in your power to make her happy. I told her that you loved her more than ever. But it was no use."

"Didn't you advise her to make up?"

"I did, Joe. I urged her to forget and forgive, pleaded hard for you, told her I thought she ought to return to you. She said she could have forgiven the matter of money, but that in sending her to Captain Williams' that night you killed every bit of her love for you and she would never pardon your act as long as she drew breath. 'He is dead to me for all time, dead and buried,' she said. I hate to have to tell you these hard things, but you asked me to act for you, and I am bound in common honesty to give you the result just as it is."



Brooks picked up a jackknife and rushed at him.

A DOUBLE CURE FOR DOUBLE TROUBLE

Father Morriscy's No. 26 Cures Catarrh by a Combined Treatment.

The sudden weather variations in our climate result in a great many cases of catarrh—a troublesome disease usually considered hard to cure, and one which often leads to serious pulmonary and intestinal troubles.

A neglected cold in the head weakens the nasal membranes, so that at every future exposure the trouble returns. At length these conditions are fastened onto the system, and the sufferer undergoes the annoyance and danger of chronic catarrh.

Some doctors confine themselves to prescribing external applications, and thus do not reach the seat of the trouble. Others give internal treatments exclusively, and thus do not promptly relieve the affected parts.

Father Morriscy, the skilled priest-physician, rightly regarded catarrh as a double trouble, consisting of unpleasant local effects and their fundamental causes, the latter having to do with impaired general vitality.

His famous remedy, No. 26, is a combined cure for catarrh. It consists of tablets to be taken three times a day, and an especially compounded salve.

The salve is antiseptic, and quickly heals the inflamed membranes of the nasal passages. The tablets go to the seat of the trouble and restore the system to its usual tone. Together, they cure.

Instead of neglecting a disease that is unpleasant to yourself and to others, and one which often leads to pneumonia and consumption, it is surely the part of wisdom to take timely steps to do away with the effects and at the same time remove the cause. No. 26 does just that.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

FRENCH POSTAL BANKS.

The record of the postal savings bank system in France has been one of continued progress. In 1882, when this institution was established, the total number of postal banks in operation was 6024, with 211,580 deposit accounts remaining open at the close of the year. These accounts, including interest due to depositors, amounted to $9,187,116, the average sum of the deposits being $43.41. On December 31, 1909, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, the number of banks had increased by nearly 2,000, the deposit accounts numbered 5,542,882, and the deposits, including interest, represented an aggregate amount of $316,456,866, averaging $37.08.

The expenses of administration during 1909 amounted to $1,504,678 and the net profits to $526,756. It may be recalled that individual accounts are limited by law to 1500 francs ($289.50). When an account exceeds this the surplus is invested by the bank in national bonds. The total value of the bonds purchased in 1909 was $2,080,575. The withdrawals, including these purchases, amounted to $104,916,150.

ACCIDENTS IN AVIATION.

Mostly Due to Breakdown in Human Machine

All who walk the earth in safety and apparently in a normal condition of health are not physically qualified to be aviators. This is demonstrated by Dr. R. Moulinier who writes as follows

"The rapid ascent to great altitudes exposes the body to conditions different from any terrestrial ones. Mountain climbing offers some analogy, but it is different in the fact that the transition from the high atmospheric transition of the sea level to a low pressure takes place much more slowly. The author has reported some interesting observations on the blood pressure of aviators who have ascended to high altitudes. On alighting after ascending to a height of 1200 to 2000 meters the aviator presents cyanosis of the extremities, probably from the low temperature of the high regions of the atmosphere."

This means that the extremities turn a dusky blue color. Often there is congestion of the inner surface of the eyes. The pulse is quickened, but there is no irregularity of the heart's action, nor bleeding from the nose. There is often slight headache and ringing in the ears. Sometimes there is a tendency to sleep, and this may be felt even during flight. Rising to a great height and coming down again always increases the blood pressure, as the writer explains.

Power From Sea Waves.

At the recent meeting of the British Association the question of economical production of power from tides and winds was again under discussion, and it has been taken up widely by scientific journals in Europe. "La Revue Scientifique" calls attention to a system of utilizing the power of sea waves to actuate a dynamo which has been employed during the last six months at the mouth of the river Gironde. An air chamber is connected with a well, which communicates with the sea at a depth below the level of the lowest tides. By the advance and recession of the waves changes of pressure are produced in the air chamber, and a system of valves enables the resulting air currents to be applied to rotating a kind of turbine. It is said that the apparatus works equally well in calm and in stormy weather.

Servia has purchased 100 American typewriters for the use of government officials.

ENIGMA OF GROWTH.

Reason Why Persons Do Not Keep on Growing.

Six pounds and a half is the weight of the average child at birth; at the end of the first year the average weight is eighteen pounds and a half, a gain of twelve pounds; and at the end of the second year the weight is twenty-three pounds, a gain of only four pounds and a half. And with each successive year the gain is less and less until maturity is reached. Why is the gain less each year? And why does it finally cease altogether?

The reason is that the absorbing surfaces inside the stomach and intestine do not, and in the nature of things cannot, grow proportionately to the growth of the body as a whole. During the first year of growth the child's body becomes approximately three times as large as it was at birth, but the interior of the stomach and bowel of the child at the age of one year is not even twice as large as it was at birth, let alone three times as large. Yet all the nourishment which supplies materials for growth has to be absorbed by the membrane which lines the insid of the stomach, and especially the small intestine. It is, therefore, plain that growth of the body as a whole must gradually subside as the tissues to be nourished gradually approach a size at which their demands balance the utmost supply of nutrition taken up by the stomach and intestine.

QUEEN MARY FROWNS.

Order about Hobble Skirts was Disobeyed.

Queen Mary's order about hobble skirts was disobeyed at the two courts by all except the actual court ladies. All the rest wore tight skirts, but their trains covered them. They say they didn't see why they should make themselves unfashionable because the queen herself is abnormally large around the hips and unsuited to tight dresses.

Nevertheless everyone was staggered by the costume of the Marchioness de la Vill Urrutia, the wife of the Spanish ambassador. Her dress was so tight that her whole figure was sharply outlined and she had great difficulty in walking. As she belongs to the diplomatic circle she is independent of the queen's wishes and fortunately had no courtesy to make with consequences which might have been indescribable.

The queen only smiled when she saw her trouble and seemed wisely oblivious of how her order was generally obeyed. Indeed, the queen was the surprise of the court, she was so smiling and bright, with a word for everybody.

WHEN SUMMER COMES GUARD YOUR BABY

The summer months are the most dangerous of the year for the little one. The complaints of this season come so quickly that often a precious little life is beyond all aid before the mother realizes baby is ill. Colic, diarrhoea and cholera infantum are all rife at this time. The mother must guard her baby's health every minute. She must be careful of his food and careful that his stomach is kept sweet and his bowels move regularly and freely. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets—they are mother's best friend at all times of the year, but more especially in the summer, when, if given occasionally, they act as a preventive of those dreaded summer troubles, or if they do come on suddenly the Tablet will just as quickly remove the cause and baby will soon be well again. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

WORK ON CHURCH IS PROGRESSING

Operations at New Baptist Edifice Being Rushed

The united efforts of brick-layers stone-masons, and carpenters working harmoniously together are responsible for the rapid strides that are being made in the construction of the new Murray Street Baptist Church, which judging from present appearances bids fair and rank high among the leading religious edifices of the city in architecture and workmanship.

The work on the building is being speedily pushed ahead, and Messrs. Rees and Hawkey, of Toronto, who have the contract for the stone work have certainly used their skill and years of experience to advantage. The material used in the foundation and walls is a grade of sand stone which while not presenting a glaring appearance by any means, is still striking and pleasing to the eye. It is a light grey shade and the nicely finished stone blocks retain enough of the original rough surface to give the building the typical church style. The architecture is extensive and varied enough to relieve any trace of monotony in outline.

McIntyre brothers, the contractors for the carpentry work work are also proceeding by rapid stages with their work. The window frames are in position, art of the roof sheeted on the church also part of the roof on the upper story of the left wing.

At the present rate of progress, there is an assurance that the church will arrive at completion in record time.

BY-LAWS DEFEATED; EACH HAD MINORITY

The Park By-law Found Favor In One Polling Place Only--Majorities Against Other Two of 35 and 9.

All three by-laws looked very much alike to the voters yesterday, and as a result Ackerman's and the Lock Company will get no fixed assessment, and the number of city parks will not be increased. Not one of the by-laws received a majority, and only one polling subdivision registered its sanction of the Park by-law. That was at Babb's Lane, where the figures were 34 for and 26 against. The Lock Company fared the best, the by-law only having a minority of 9, and it found favor in six polling places, and tied in another. Ackerman's had three wins and a tie.

To pass the Park by-law only a straight majority was necessary, while for the Lock Company 360 votes were needed, and for Ackerman's 359.

MASQUERADE AT CHEMONG PARK

Mr. J. H. Eastwood's cottage at Chemong, was the scene of a gala gathering last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood gave a masquerade dance to the young people at the resort.

The grounds were prettily decorated and the colored lights and unique costumes of the dancers made a very pleasing scene.

Another Chance

John Montgomery was found drunk in a public place yesterday. When arrested he was lying on Hunter Street in a somnolent condition.

"Are you guilty or not guilty," demanded His Worship at police court this morning.

"I can't deny it your Honor," replied John.

"Well I'll let you go this time, but don't come here again, said the Magistrate, and the guilty one was allowed to go.

About Zutoo Tablets

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost." A. O. NORTON, 286 Congress, St. Boston.

CANDIDATES WERE INITIATED

Interesting Meeting of Court Chemong 530 I. O. F.

The regular monthly meeting of Court Chemong, 530, I.O.F., was held Thursday night in the S.O.E. Hall, Hunter street. The meeting was presided over by Bro. D. Wallace S.P.C.R. There were six applications for membership presented by Bro. F. Mullett, D.S.C.R., and four of these were duly initiated by Bro. Wallace. There was also a good report from Bro. Mullett of work done amongst the courts in this district. The court decided to hold their annual excursion on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 4th, to Idyl Wyld. The spacious passenger steamer Otonabee has been secured for the day, and an orchestra will be on board, furnishing good music for dancing, and there will also be races during the afternoon.

The leading men on the committee are Bros. George Metcalfe, Geo. McKee and J. W. Buyers, and their experience in handling excursions for a large number of years assures the public of a full day of comfort and enjoyment.

SPENT EVENING AT THE CAMP

Music and Speeches Made a Very Enjoyable ogram

A very interesting program was given Thursday evening at the camp of Messrs. Braund and Greene, about four miles down the river, and while Miss Louis Braund and Master Baden Greene were the promoters of the enjoyable affair, Mrs. R. C. Braund and Mrs. J. Weir were behind the effort. Mr. J. T. Braund acted as chairman for the evening, and there were about seventy-five present. One minute addresses were given on world-wide topics, which were much enjoyed. Miss Louis Braund and Baden Greene both contributed violin solos with guitar accompaniment, while vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. C. S. Greene, Mrs. J. Weir, and recitations by others, as well as a trombone solo by Mr. J. M. Greene. An offering was on the program and over $3.00 was given for the benefit of St. James' junior league missions. After singing God Save the King, a huge bon fire was lighted, after which the friends and visitors of the camp left in their launches and canoes for home after spending a jolly evening.

RAN AWAY FROM HOUSE OF REFUGE

Died While Being Brought Back in Buggy

Lindsay Warder.

Mr. Wm. Moore, an aged resident of the House of Refuge, died in a buggy last evening, while being brought back to the institution after having run away. Mr. Moore left the House of Refuge on the 12th of July and nothing definite was known of his whereabouts until this week. On Tuesday County Constable Thornbury received word from County Clerk J. R. McNeillie to go out past Omemee for him.

Yesterday Mr. Thornbury drove out and found him at Hamilton's, two miles east of Omemee, one mile north and one mile east again. There he found the old man, who is 75 years of age, lying on a hay mow, being covered with a quilt and some hay. Mr. Hamilton called Mr Moore, telling him that a gentleman from Lindsay had come to see him. He roused himself at that and answered that he would not go back to Lindsay, and asked Mr. Hamilton to take him to Fowler's Corners, from which place he would go to the Peterborough hospital.

Mr. Thornbury suggested that he go to the Lindsay hospital, but when told that he would first have to go to the House of Refuge he refused to return. Mr. Thornbury saw that the old gentleman was very weak. When they had gone about four miles Mr. Thornbury stopped at Mr. Adam Spence's, lot 9, con. 7, but before the old man could be taken from the buggy he had passed away.

Dr. Blanchard was communicated with, and went out to investigate, and found that he had died of natural causes.

Mr. Moore was first committed to the House of Refuge on Jan. 4th, 1909, but in the spring of 1910 he ran away and was not committed again until December.

Dr. Blanchard had attended him several times, and states that he was gradually wasting away, so that his death did not come as a surprise.

LARGE CROWD HEARD CONCERT

57th Band in Good Form in Weekly Program

Victoria Park was visited by one of the largest and most appreciative band concert crowds of the summer last evening, when a choice program of music was given by the 57th Regimental band under band-master Rupert Gliddon's direction. The throngs went to the park in expectation of hearing something particularly good and their expectations were fulfilled.

The opening march, "Radium" was given with a snap and vim greatly enjoyed. The overture "Summer Semeramide" was also most pleasurably given.

The Russian Folk song, although not a new number was given last evening, in a highly pleasing manner and elicited considerable applause from the crowd. "Remicks hits, No. 8" and a selection from Madame Sherry, which were on the program, were not forthcoming however, a fact which was rather disappointing to many in the park, who always hail these numbers with delight.

Surely Not !

A young Peterboro man, who was at the G.T.R. station in that city last night when the Lindsay excursionists had gathered, had quite an interesting experience! He entered one of the coaches, and was hypnotized to such an extent by the charms of certain Lindsay young ladies that he did not notice the train pulling out and awake from "loves young dream," when the conductor shouted "Lindsay." He returned to the Electric City this morning.—Lindsay Post.

CIGARETTE PAPER.

So Light that 500 Sheets Go to Make an Ounce.

Of the great army of cigarette smokers there is probably not more then one in a hundred who knows that rice paper, in which the tobacco is wrapped, has nothing to do with rice, but is made from the membranes of the breadfruit tree or more commonly of fine new trimmings of flax and hemp.

So light is this paper that 500 of the tiny sheets go to make an ounce. They are perfectly combustible and give off the minimum of smoke. Before being rolled with tobacco they are analyzed to prove that they are free from all deleterious ingredients and that they contain nothing but the purest paper fibre. Only new material—flax and hemp trimmings—is used, and these are thoroughly purified.

Chopped by machinery into minute particles, they are well mixed by a revolving fan and then reduced to a dust, which is placed in a solution of lime and soda. After remaining in solution for some time it undergoes a thorough washing process, the water being the purest kind.

Then the pulp is rolled out into paper. At first it is of a grayish tinge, the pure white of the finished product being obtained by an electric process.

The French manufacturers of cigarette paper practically supply the entire world, the output of Austria and Italy being insignificant.

PASSING OF THE CLOWN.

Perriots and the Huge Three-Ring Circus the Cause.

Mr. Alfred Miaco of the circus deplores the passing of the clown.

This is largely the observation of the European-bred artist. Strictly speaking, while we have developed many clowns, they have been clowns mostly in an invidious sense. Miaco, with the training to qualify him as a legitimate actor, in less distracted surroundings would give us finished pantomine in rare play with the eyes and hands.

Continental Europe has its perriots who are public idols. Plays are written for them and composers of standing write their incidental music.

Of men like these, England's Grimaldi was famous. George Caron, the last of a long line of clowns and the funniest of them all, died a few years ago at the height of his career

While those instances are of the theatre rather than of the circus, the school which developed Miaco did not take into calculations three rings and a jumble of changing sights. The clown held the centre and was the mainstay of the entertainment. For him to have to be dependent upon sudden collapse under the weight of a slap stick would have been the sign of the passing of art.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than robbers. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $15 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucuous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to Be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Harmful Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analysed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white, ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

Country Town Sayings

By Ed. Howe

When a man gets mad at a horse, how mad he gets! Would he be equally angry if he had an opponent capable of fighting back?

How many experiments are tried! And most of them doomed to failure from the start.

This is about all attention some people attract: When their procession goes by, people inquire "Who's funeral?"

"I've had a lot of trouble in my life," an old man says in a recent book, "but most of it never happened."

"Of course a woman can dress on $25 a year," a woman said to her husband scornfully; "if a man wants that sort of a wife."

Be good to some people, and they begin making demands on you until you can't stand it.

We wish the people would get together, and agree to like or dislike some one thing.

A woman moved into a strange neighborhood. The following Monday morning she was out in the yard, hanging out her wash. The woman living next door was also hanging out her wash, and said to the stranger, "And so you play the piano too!" And that's the way they became acquainted.

Considering how few funny things are said people do a good deal of laughing.

When a man asks you to do a service for him, and says, "I'll make it all right with you," it means he will never pay you anything.

There is always a good deal of wrangling when a pretty girl's looks are mentioned.

When I become one of the Fats, I do not intend to amuse the loafers by engaging in a ball game with the Leans.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. COINAGE DESIGNS

An Interesting History of the Variations in Images and Superscriptions

The new British coinage is to maintain the present designs, with only the alterations rendered necessary by the new accession, but much historical interest clusters round the variations to which our coinage has from time to time been subjected.

The image will, as heretofore, consist of a bust portraying, with more or less accuracy, the features of the reign-however, has variedcmfwypusbrdiumf however, has varied with the fortunes of the country, and still more with the claims of the individual monarchs. Prior to 1715 the Stuarts were content with claiming, in Latin abbreviations, to be "By the grace of God King(s) of Great Britain, France, and Ireland." The first addition to this being the letters "F.D.," which, while they denote "Fidei Defensor," as granted to Henry VIII. by Pope Leo Q., were not used on the coinage until the year above named.

The accession of George I. brought about very considerable variations by that monarch adding designations of his Continental "Principalities and Powers" to his newly acquired British dignities. Thus we have introduced Latin abbreviations asserting his claim to be "Duke of Brunswick, Luneberg, Arch-Treasurer and Elector of the Holy Roman Empire," in addition to those mentioned above. The abandonment by Great Britain to all claims, real and imaginary, to be a Ruling Continental Power has been followed by the disappearance of all these, as well as of the title "King of France." It was not, however, until the year 1818 that the "Lilies of France" disappeared from our coinage, after adorning it for upwards of four hundred years.

From the earliest periods there has appeared upon the reverse of the copper or bronze coins a figure with a greater or less resemblance to the idea of the personification of "Britannia." The first known of such figures is found on the coins struck by the Emperor Hadrian about the year A.D. 122. Subsequent Roman-British coins display a similar figure with a shield, much as at present, but holding Roman symbols in place of the trident. The present figure dates from the time of Charles II., and it is believed that the model therefor was the royal favorite "La Belle Stuart" (the Francis Stuart, the Duchess of Richmond, immortalised by Lely's famous painting). At first we have Britannia, bareheaded, facing to the left, holding a spear in her left hand. In the time of George III. (1797) she bears a trident, and a three-masted ship is seen in the distance on the ocean, by which she is surrounded. With George IV. she appears helmeted, facing to the right, her right arm resting on the shield, but the ship and sea have disappeared. On the bronze coinage of 1860 the ocean reappears with a ship, but on this occasion sailing away from her, and in addition to this a lighthouse is introduced behind Britannia, whose right arm entwines the trident, supporting, rather than grasping, it. The authorised new designs are the same as those of the late reign. From these the ship and light house have both been eliminated.

The only exception to being a Britannia-bearing coin, amongst those of the bronze coinage, was the half-farthing. The reverse of this coin had across the centre in plain print the words "Half-Farthing," surmounted by a crown, the date being immediately underneath, while below that again was a spray of "rose, shamrock and thistle. These small coins, pretty in design, were issued as late as 1842, but are now extinct, except as curios.

A ROYAL COLLECTION

Queen Alexandra Has All the Letters of Condolence in Connection with Edward's Death

Queen Alexandra has carefully preserved all the letters of condolence her Majesty received on the death of the King, and these are now numbered among her most treasured possessions. The letters have been divided into categories, those from Royalties and intimate friends, and those from thousands of the late King's subjects not only in England, but in all parts of the Empire, many of them being quite poor people, and from little children. The letters have been carefully bound in plain, dark red calf, with a small crown on the cover. Queen Alexandra specially prizes those letters of sympathy which came from poor people, and though it was obviously impossible for her Majesty to reply to them all, during the first few months she wrote to several of these correspondents, thanking them for their kind sympathy.

CADET'S HEROIC EFFORT

Arthur Driver, a grandson of an officer who was on board the Victory as midshipman when Nelson fell at Trafalgar, has just performed an act of extreme bravery.

Driver is a cadet on board the Naval School training ship Mercury at Hamble. A few nights ago a boy fell overboard, and Driver, though it was blowing half a gale and pitch dark at the time, promptly dived to the rescue. He reached the drowning lad, but his strength failed, and the lad was swept away and drowned. Driver was rescued exhausted and almost unconscious.

HOOLEY IN THE HOLE

So Ernest Terah Hooley, once on the verge of knighthood—so near it, indeed, that he sent out cards of invitation in the name of Sir Ernest and Lady Hooley, has been sent to jail at last. He made millions out of nothing, and, believing that he had the Midastouch, and was infallible in his powers of holding up other people within the limits of the law, he committed the inevitable mistake, the exposure of which gave him a shady name, and was the beginning of the series of disgraces which has finally landed him in prison, says the Montreal Witness. His notorious contemporary in financial piracy, the great exploiter, Whittaker Wright, after a spectacular career, which involved the innocent Lord Dufferin in ruin, along with many others, committed suicide by poisoning, just after he had received a penitentiary sentence. In the United States, a similar prison fate has befallen many of the Hooley-Wright type, such as Heinze and Morse, as in Canada it has befallen McGill and Travers, the bankers, who sailed too close to the wind in search of quick riches and were upset. For a time, these men were envied. Look how they are getting on! the world said. See how expensively their wives are dressing and how luxuriously they are living together, with their carriages and motor cars, liveried servants, and what not! Now there are none so poor as to do them reverence. In old days, privateers roamed the seas in time of war, and many envied them the rich prizes they often brought to port. But when, as sometimes happened, they caught a tartar, and were taken prisoners, no one envied them their fate, which was, eitehr to be hanged in rows, or made to "walk the plank." The modern financial pirate, who robs the people, not only of his own generation, but posterity, also sometimes makes a miscalculation and is made to "walk the plank"—from liberty to jail, and to be ever afterwards condemned and mistrusted. Time, as Shakespeare remarks in an oft-quoted passages, not infrequently has "its revenges." Jabez Balfour robbed the good for years and years, but he had to pay heavy penalty in the end. It would seem that honesty is still the best policy for ordinary folk. In spite of some brilliant instances which, for the time being, seem to prove the contrary.

Not Loaded.

No other language under the sun is open to so many interpretations as the English language, as witness the conversation between two Sharon Hill girls the other evening

"Oh, May," said the first one, "Jim and Bill tried to fight a duel over me."

"How romantic! What happened?"

"It was terrible. I came into the room, and those foolish boys were pointing big pistols at each other!"

"Pistols? Heavens! were they loaded?"

"Not a bit. That is just what made it really very serious. They both were sober."

The Importance of the Beard.

The importance of the beard was fully recognized in the middle ages. Here is a passage from a letter of the writer, Bartolomeo Catena: "It is well that those who have to lead and govern should have a long and fine beard. And I can assure you that the government of cities and provinces has been given to more than one prelate because he had a long and fine beard; otherwise he were not worthy that honor."

A WORD TO MOTHERS

The Chief Cause of Spring Eruptions and Chills Explained — Every Mother Should Read This Article.

At this season of the year most people are troubled with spring eruptions and skin irritations. This is an indication that the blood is full of impurities and can only be removed through the kidneys—the human filters.

In 99 out of 100 cases disordered kidneys are to blame for Spring weakness and disorders. Overworked, they have ceased to become effective and perform their functions very imperfectly. They have permitted impurities that should have have been arrested in the human filter beds to get into the system—the blood is overloaded with these impurities and impoverished conditions result.

This is the time all thoughtful mothers are anxious to ward off the dangers to her family that arise from weak and disordered kidneys. She knows that the old-fashioned way of purging is opposed to nature. The sick one needs toning and bracing up and not weakness by purgatives. Booth's Kidney Pills are not a laxative but a laxative but a kidney tonic. They go to the seat of the trouble and commence to build up health in the same way as a builder builds a house. The kidneys are toned up, the blood becomes purer and in a remarkably short time the glow of health is seen and felt.

As Booth's Kidney Pills are a guaranteed remedy, you are perfectly safe in giving them a trial. The proprietors would not dare to guarantee them if they were not sure that they were the very best remedy for kidney trouble and would do all they claim for them. They are so well and carefully compounded that they are suitable for both young and old.

"My daughter, Elva, who is in her seventh year, suffered for the past two or three years with a weakness in her back and in the region of the kidneys. She could not lie in bed and the cold chills settled in her back. She was weak and languid and her health was not at all good. I had tried many different prescriptions but could find no good in any of them. I would have to apply hot plasters to her back at night, but this only gave slight temporary relief. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and commenced giving her this treatment, following the directions closely. I soon found Booth's Kidney Pills going to the cause of the trouble and giving her the long sought results. Her back gradually strengthened and she is better and stronger in every way. She has not suffered an attack of the trouble since and I am thankful for what Booth's Kidney Pills did for her."—Mrs. Oliver Johnson, of Havelock, Lucknow, Ont.

So sure are the proprietors that Booth's Kidney Pills will do all that is claimed for them that they are willing to send every reader who suffers from kidney and Spring weakness a trial box free. Just address your letter to the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., and mention this offer.

You cannot buy a Furnace like you do a Stove—send it home and have the "Handy-Man" put it up—not if you expect to get all the heat out of your coal.

¶ Your heating system must be planned. The registers must be properly placed. The warm and cold air ducts must be a certain diameter. The furnace must be located in just the right spot—and it must be just the right size. ¶ We supply plans to you absolutely free and you do not need to buy a furnace to get them either.

¶ If you have a heating problem to solve—new building or old—send us a rough diagram of your building, showing the location of doors and windows. ¶ We will prepare for you complete plans and specifications for heating that building, give you an estimate of the cost of the heating system, and also the advice of our experts on every detail.

"Hecla" Furnace

The plan is essential, but it is also essential to have a furnace that will give you ample heat—one that will supply pure, fresh air without a taint of gas, and, for the lady of the house, heat that will be free from dust and smoke.

The "Hecla" is such a furnace.

GET THIS BOOKLET.

"Comfort & Health" tells how you can get heat without gas. It tells how to get the same heat from six tons of coal as you ever got from seven. Write for it to-day. And at the same time ask for any information you may require regarding the heating of your home. 147

ROBBED AT TORONTO

John Donoghy on His Way Here Relieved of Valise

When John Donaghy, an ironworker, from Peterborough, who came from Ireland in May and was last night travelling from Galt to Peterborough, stepped up to the cigar stand at the station about eleven o'clock for a package of cigarettes, his valise disappeared. In it there were nineteen sovereigns, two half-sovereigns, $100 in Canadian money, and a watch and chain, besides wearing apparel.

"That man was with me at the time," said Donaghy, pointing to William Grossmith, charged with the theft, "but he disappeared at the same time." Grossmith had become friendly at the station before the occurrence at the cigar stand, so when Donaghy went to the police headquarters he had a name to give to Detective Wallace.

"We went to his room," Wallace stated, "and there found the valise cut up. A few sovereigns were still in it; some of the property had been transferred to his own suit case as though he was getting ready to leave town, and some money was missing. Grossmith was in the bed undressed, with one gold piece beside him."

The substance of the man's defence was that he was just keeping it safe for his newly-found friend.

There was a conviction, but in order that the balance of the money may be recovered, sentence was delayed till Tuesday night.

'TWILL MEAN A BIG TIME

The Printers' Picnic on Civic Holiday August 14

Civic Holiday is hovering round once more, naturally the question arises, "Where shall I, or we go?" The answer is right to hand—the Printers' picnicking at Idyl Wyld on that day.

Popular, as is the verdict generally given to this outing, the local "Men of Letters" are busy preserving this enviable reputation. The holiday—our own Civic festival—should be popular with the dwellers in the electric city. The place chosen—Idyl Wyld—will retain its popularity for ever and a day. The price is popular—50c and 25c. The men who cause the newsy local journals to be placed on our tables for after supper perusing, should enjoy the knowledge that they too are popular. Then there is the popular boats—Otonabee and Monarch—also the sports program for one and all, (on the side a baby show is suggested.)

No stone is to left unturned to make this the trip of the season, and two weeks from Monday next no doubt the day will be marred by only one thing only—that two more boats were not available.

Washington and Lincoln were so good that I am tired hearing of them.

HEAVY FINES AT POLICE COURT

Magistrate Dumble Come Down Hard on Young Men

Magistrate Dumble came down very severely on two Ennismore young men, who appeared in police court this morning, on two charges, one of theft from a Hunter street hotel stable, and one of impeding and annoying passengers on the Grimes auto bus.

To the first charge they pleaded guilty and were assessed $21.75 which included costs. They would not admit the second charge, which however, was proved against them, and a second fine and costs of $13.50 was added bringing the total to $35.25. In default of payment forthwith, they will sample jail fare for thirty days.

The proprietor of the hotel in question had a search warrant issued yesterday for the two young men, having missed from the hotel stables, 2 bridles, 1 pair of lines, 1 curricomb, and 1 bag of oats on Saturday, July 22nd. Suspicion pointed towards the two youths as the guilty ones. Detective Newhall accompanied by the hotel man drove out to Ennismore yesterday when they met Mr. Fox, a cattle dealer bringing the stolen stuff into the city. He explained that he had been asked by the two youths to return it as they had taken it in mistake while under the influence of liquor.

The two young fellows said when they pleaded guilty to the charge this morning, that they were drunk at the time and were unaware that they were stealing.

His Worship was of the opinion that that did not lessen the offence in the least, and stated that property must be protected at any cost.

Frank Grimes, who runs the Chemong auto bus, laid an information against the same two young men of impeding and incommoding passengers on his car. He stated that he while driving the car home at 11.45 one night, met these two young fellows driving and acting uproariously. A beer bottle was thrown at the bus also and there was swearing and singing.

"We won't put up with hoodlumism on public highways," remarked the magistrate. "It must be stopped." He therefore added the second fine.

In view of recent letters appearing in the papers referring to this hoodlumism on the Chemong road, when sticks and stones have been left on the road, the example made of the parties this morning should have a beneficial effect.

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?
You or our foreign competitor

You pay. About that there is no room for doubt.

And it's more than likely you believe in the necessity of the tariff.

But—of what earthly good is it if you pay the duty?

The foreigner laughs at duties imposed by our government as long as you are willing to cash up. Take beer, for instance.

"Salvador"

The Famous National Drink

is the purest and best beer brewed on this continent.

The formula and entire process of brewing "Salvador" is a secret and absolutely controlled, on this side of the Atlantic, by Reinhardts' of Toronto.

But—when you order an American beer in Canada there's 34% extra to pay—the duty—plus extra freight charges.

Is it rational to pay that duty—when you can get a better beer at the normal price? "Salvador" beer is rich in flavor, sparkling and charged with invigorating properties.

NIOBE ON ROCK

Narrow Escape of Canadian Naval Cruiser Off Cape Sable.

Halifax, N.S., July 31.—It was a close call that H.M.C.S. Niobe had on Saturday night when she touched the southwest shoal off Cape Sable and came within an acre of a frightful disaster. She got off with her starboard engineroom pierced and with water rising there and aft, but was able to keep it down by her own pumps. The first news of the stranding of the cruiser came shortly before one o'clock yesterday morning by wireless from Cape Sable. Commander MacDonald reported that the Niobe was in grave peril and required assistance.

At 6.45 he sent a wireless that the cruiser was afloat and asking for a convoy, and stating that the ship's pumps were keeping the water down.

The Niobe had been at Yarmouth as one of the chief attractions at a big old-home week celebration at that place, and she was to have sailed today for Liverpool, N.S.

The depth of water did not permit the cruiser to proceed up Yarmouth harbor, so she anchored in the roadstead outside the bay.

A despatch from Shag Harbor last night says the Niobe has arrived there under her own steam and is anchored in nine fathoms of water. She was convoyed in by a tug from Yarmouth. Shag Harbor is ten miles west of the place where she struck. The Niobe's divers went down to examine the bottom of the cruiser, but no report from them has been received here. The Government steamers Lady Laurier and Stanley have not yet reached the scene, the dense fog still prevailing. The Department of Marine now expects the Niobe at Halifax this evening if the fog lifts.

Saturday night there was a heavy southwest gale, and Commander McDonald apparently considered it the part of prudence to put to sea. But a dense fog hung over the entire coast. The Niobe had more searoom outside, but she did not reckon on the fierce current that raced and the ship drifted on to the southwest ledges off Cape Sable, the most dangerous part of this rockbound coast. By midnight the Niobe had found herself on the edge of the rocks, and she was sending out wireless messages for assistance.

MONTREAL HAS SIX FATALITIES

Asyrian Woman Burned to Death in Room.

Montreal, July 31.—Six bodies lie at the morgue as the result of accidents Saturday and Sunday. A Syrien woman, who was known as Annie Mitchell, was burned to death as the result of a coal oil stove upsetting in her room on City Hall avenue Saturday night. She leaves one daughter.

The bodies of John Andrews, a married man of Pt. St. Charles, and Augustine Nelson of St. Timothe street, were found floating in the river on Saturday. The cause of their death is unknown and inquests will be held.

G. F. Walkins, an employe of McGill University was drowned while swimming at Sault Recollet. Harry Whibley, a Canadian Pacific yardman fell beneath the wheels of a train at Ontario and Morrow streets and was crushed to death yesterday and a similar fate met John Ashford, a young Scotchman, on the Grand Trunk tracks at St. Huber.

20,000 WANTED FOR HARVEST

In West—Ten Weeks Work is Assured, Says Commissioner.

Minneapolis, July 31—Canada wants 20,000 men to help harvest the crops of Saskatchewan, according to F. Hedley Auld, special Canadian commissioner.

"Saskatchewan will harvest 200,000,000 bushels of small grains this fall and summer, and we have not the men to help in the work," said Mr. Auld, upon his arrival here. "We want men from the United States, and splendid inducements have been made by the railroad companies and immigration authorities to allow the men to go to Canada.

"We can assure then of ten weeks' work, starting about August 10, at wages from $2.50 a day up. I would not promise more, but much more is being paid. Other years we have been able to get enough harvesters from the eastern part of the country, but this year business conditions there are so good that few men are idle, and we have turned to the United States.

DISSOLUTION OF HOUSE WITH GENERAL ELECTIONS COMING ON SEPTEMBER 21

Deadlock at Ottawa is Broken by the News of an Appeal to Electorate—Election is Welcomed by Conservatives Says Mr. Borden.

Ottawa, July 31.—The Liberal Government decided at noon yesterday upon the immediate dissolution of Parliament. To a full conference of his Cabinet Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced the Governor-General had granted permission to appeal to the people on the reciprocity question.

The Ministry fixed upon September 14 as nomination day, with elections to follow one week later, September 21.

The decision, which has been trembling in the balance for the past two weeks, was reached after seeing that the Conservative opposition would block reciprocity indefinitely, and, as Sir Wilfrid announced repeatedly in Parliament, that the one matter before the House was the ratification of the Washington agreement, Government business was at a standstill. The Premier told his colleagues that the only way out of the present impasse was a general election, allowing the people to decide for or against reciprocity.

The Government made September 21 election day, as being the earliest possible date that would be convenient for western Canada. The Ministry was reluctant to bring on the elections before the harvesting movement had been completed.

By the compromise agreed upon between the Conservatives and the Liberals before the two months' adjournment to allow the Premier and Parliamentary contingent to attend the coronation of King George, the Government has supplies until September 1. Consequently, there will be but three weeks' interval after the money voted by Parliament is all expended, and for this short period the Minister of Finance can readily negotiate a temporary loan with the Bank of Montreal, as is customary.

One of the factors entering into the decision for immediately dissolving Parliament was the departure Friday night of some score of members, who announced that they would not return, despite the Speaker's adjournment until Monday only. It was feared that too few members would be left to carry on even the routine business. Knowing that elections were in the air, every member was anxious to get into his own constituency to make his calling and election sure.

A red hot campaign is now launched upon the Dominion, and, by agreement of both parties, reciprocity will be the one and only issue.

Mr. Borden's Statement.

Ottawa, July 31.—Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, gave out the following statement last night: "The dissolution of Parliament came as a great surprise to the supporters of the amendment. They evidently knew no more of the intention of the Government than they knew of the reciprocity agreement up to the 26th of January last. Apparently the Government decided upon dissolution in a hurry or even in a panic, as they gave no intimation to the many members on both sides of the House who are accustomed to spend the week-end with their families and who left their homes on Friday night without receiving the courtesy of notice.

"The Liberal-Conservative party welcomes an appeal to the people upon the great issue which has been under discussion in Parliament. The President of the United States has more than once emphasized the fact that Canada is to-day at the parting of the ways. Those two ways lead in very divergent directions. The choice of the people will be fraught with momentous consequences to the future destiny of this country. It is right and just that they should speak, because with them rests the ultimate decision."

Referring to the Oliver enquiry, he said: "It is a distinct breach of constitutional usage that Parliament should be dissolved while one of its committees is engaged in the investigation of charges which involved the honor of a Minister of the crown and the fate of the Government. Such a course constitutes an alarming and dangerous precedent which would not be tolerated in the Mother Country. It was the duty of the Government to clear up those charges before appealing to the people, and that could have been done in one week. Several witnesses summoned by the committee are in Ottawa to-day ready to give their evidence on Tuesday. The committee and all its powers of inquiry was wiped out of existence by the dissolution of Parliament. The course of the Government in deliberately burking this inquiry on the eve of an appeal to the people was an outrageous abuse of their power and manifested in a most striking manner their utter contempt of decent public opinion."

Sir Wilfrid Makes Statement.

Ottawa, July 31.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in an address to the Canadian people, issued Saturday after the dissolution of Parliament, places the issue before the electors, in part, as follows:

"At all times during the last forty years it has been the constant effort of all political parties in Canada to make with the United States an arrangement for the free exchange of natural products between the two countries.

"In 1854 Lord Elgin, on behalf of Canada and the Maritime Provinces, negotiated with the United States a treaty for that purpose, which lasted until 1866, and which, within the memory of many still alive, was of the greatest advantage. Ever since the termination of that treaty all public men of any prominence in Canada, whatever their differences on other questions, have been unanimous in the attempt to again secure this free exchange of natural products.

"The present Conservative party in Parliament seeks absolutely to reverse the lifelong policy of its great leaders in the past, declaring that it will oppose to the bitter end the very principles enunciated by both Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson.

"This agreement, which in no way impairs our fiscal policy, which still maintains at the topmast the fecund principle of British preference, this agreement, by opening new avenues of trade hitherto closed, would further improve the friendly relations which now happily exist between this country and the Mother Country on the one hand, and the American Republic on the other hand, and which, it is hoped, may at no distant day, eventuate into a general treaty of arbitration the effect of which would be to remove forever all possibilities of war between the great Empire of which we are proud to form a part, and the great nation which we are proud to have as neighbors."

Considering how few funny things are said people do a good deal of laughing.

Toronto, July 31.—A foreigner, whose name could not be secured, was run over by a Grand Trunk train at the Bathurst street crossing at 2.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Both feet were cut off but it is expected that he will recover. He was taken to the Western Hospital.

EIGHT DIE IN WRECK

Grindstone, Maine, July 31.—Eight persons are dead and fourteen seriously injured as the result of a head-on collision which occurred at the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad station here shortly after nine o'clock on Friday night. The trains were a special of three light coaches containing about 150 excursionists, and a regular passenger express.

Five of the dead were passengers on the excursion train. The other three included the two firemen and the engineer of the special. The five passengers killed and all of the injured were in the smoking car directly behind the engine of the excursion train. Both trains were moving slowly at the time, one of them just pulling out of the station and the other slowing down for a siding where the trains were to have passed. The accident appears to have been due to a misunderstanding of orders. None of the cars left the rails, and the passengers on the regular escaped with a slight shaking up.

Grindstone is a small settlement of not more than fifty persons, with no facilities for the care of the injured. They were cared for temporarily by physicians on board the trains and early yesterday were placed on a special train to be taken to Millinocket.

Cold Blooded Crime by Unknown Enemy on Sunday Afternoon — Victim Left to Die — Murderer Escapes.

Toronto, July 31.—A cold-blooded murder, done in broad daylight right at the corner of Church and Front streets—that was the tragedy which broke in upon the Sunday quietude of the down-town part of the city about four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The victim was a young Italian named Tarro, 23 years of age, residing at 165 York street, who was shot and killed by bullets from a 38-calibre revolver of the Iver-Johnson type.

A number of Italians, who were able to impart information, were rounded up very quickly and from them the detectives extracted much data which they hope will aid them greatly in the search for the missing man. Among those who were called to the City Hall was Frank Motto, the Police Court interpreter, and he learned from the other Italians that the deed was most probable committed by one of two men. A search was at once begun with the result that one of the two was not to be found.

It so happened that a police photo was obtained of one of the men mentioned and this the two witnesses recognized as that of the man who escaped by way of the lane.

Both men were well dressed, the criminal being clad in a blue suit, Christie hat and tan boots. He is described as being about thirty years of age and standing five foot seven or eight inches and well developed.

The victim is a young man. He wore a drab-colored striped suit, black socks and low buttoned black shoes. In the left lapel of his coat is a hole where one of the bullets passed through, and on the right lapel, but slightly more towards the mid-line and a couple of inches lower, is a hole where the second bullet entered. The man's face was completely covered with blood, he having apparently rolled over on his face when he fell, after receiving the fatal shot.

The only eye-witnesses of the affray were two women, who were walking along Front street and had reached the west side of Church street, when the fatal scuffle began.

Apparently waiting for a car Tarro was standing at the northeast corner of Church and Front streets, when his assailant approached from the east side, took two or three steps in front of Tarro, turned around suddenly, and whipping two revolvers from his hip pockets fired four shots from one, dropped the other and then made his escape across Front street and down the lane twenty yards east of Church street, between Maclaren's warehouse and that of Lyman Bros. & Co. It was at first believed that the murderer had sought safety in the old cold-storage building down near the Esplanade, but the police failed to find him anywhere.

Several people stated that they saw a man answering the description given by the two women, who saw the shooting, run across the car tracks at the Esplanade and disappear in the direction of Yonge street.

At an early hour yesterday morning the entire staff of city detectives and Inspector Duncan, were searching for the murderer, believing they could identify him and that he was still within the city limits.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ELECTION

The government has decided on dissolution of parliament and nominations are fixed for Sept. 14, and elections on Sept. 21, bringing the proposed campaign to an end about two weeks earlier than has been generally expected.

In taking this course, the hand of the government was forced by its fear of the effect of the discussion on Sir Wilfrid's anti-imperialistic crusade at the London conference, and to shut off, in the bud, the Oliver inquiry. The Liberal members refused to stay at Ottawa, knowing the end of the parliament was near at hand, preferring to return to their constituencies and work to save their political lives, for it must be conceded that many of them are in grave danger of decapitation by the electors on the reciprocity question.

The issue before the electorate will be the one which led to the appeal to the people—reciprocity. There are many other considerations on which an appeal to the electorate ought to be effective, but it is likely that reciprocity will overshadow the grafts, the blunders, the general decrepitude of government that should receive great consideration.

But even the questions of internal moment pale beside the national issue presented for decision to Canadians. The economic aspect of reciprocity has been dwelt on since the announcement of the pact on January 26, and has demonstrated, to those following the argument and citation of facts, that the cry of "larger markets" is a delusion and a snare. The question involved in reciprocity; the crux of the situation produced by the introduction of the pact into the domain of practical politics is not merely an economic one—it is national and imperial.

The question is: FOR KING OR EMPIRE, OR TAFT AND THE UNITED STATES.

On this broad policy must the vote on Sept. 21 be based. The minor questions of whether Laurier betrayed his supporters in the 1893 platform or not, or whether Pugsley let government contractors with whom he was associated get fat dredging contracts, or whether the government officials were in collusion with the Chinese immigration officials in the Vancouver grafts fade into insignificance beside this question of Canada's national destiny.

There are other questions, however, that are subsidiary to the big one, which are entitled to some place in the campaign.

The Oliver investigation as to where the $60,000 came from in the last Dominion campaign—from some United States source—has been blocked by the dissolution of parliament. The people are entitled to know where this money came from, in order to judge what connection there is between the provision of money for campaign purposes from the United States, and the well known policy of Laurier to favor continentialism as against imperialism.

The Laurier attitude at the recent imperial conference must be pronounced on, and Canadians will undoubtedly repudiate his stand that Canada is only a fair weather friend of the empire; that it is a part of the empire in times of peace, but must be privileged to withdraw from all participation in its affairs when clouds appear. Blinded as many supporters of the premier are by partisan prejudice, and too prone to credit the weak and colorless explanations of his attitude handed out by his apologists, surely they cannot fail to realise that his "stand off" to the imperial statesmen must be heard with misgiving, when placed alongside his determination to closer weave the web that already binds us to the United States. It is of double significance—this out Bourassaing Bourassa at the conference to get that Quebec vote.

This is the old battle of 1891 over again. It is true that this time reciprocity is proposed in natural products only, whereas in 1891 Sir Wilfrid Laurier was a straight continentalist and ready to tear down the customs barrier at the border for the privilege of having our tariff fixed at Washington. But the principle involved is the same. After twenty years of progress and prosperity along our own distinctively Canadian lines, we are called on to endorse a half-measure of continentalism. We are called on to endorse a measure that economically cannot benefit Canada, except in a few isolated instances, and must certainly tend in the years to come to alienate us from the empire which we have so proudly acclaimed. Laurier is the great separatist of Canada, and it must be now or never with Canada if she is to defeat the schemes of the Washington politicians who would swing Canada into alignment with their policies. If Canada wants to remain a separate and distinct political entity in the decades to come, she must now firmly reject the advances of Taft. The defeat of Laurier and his candidates is necessary, and the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough included.

For these reasons, and for others which will be presented during the campaign, the voters of West and East Peterborough should mark their Canadianism and their Britishism by a solid vote for J. H. Burnham and J. A. Sexsmith, adding to the Borden forces that stand for a British Canada and a country free from American domination.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Remember the Farmers' Bank!

The Farmers' Bank affair won't be forgotten when the electors go to the polls to vote—all those concerned should go down.

A finance minister, who will issue a charter for a bank that he knew was conceived in fraud is not a man to be trusted to handle reciprocity or anything else, now.

It is said that there is no fear of a coal famine in Canada for about 11,000 years to come. We may be stigmatised as Our Lady of the Snows, but nature seems to have provided some compensation.

The German scare seems to be more serious than most people are realising. The talking in public happens days after the real events take place, and when matters reach the public discussion stage, the peril has passed the crisis.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Town Threatened by Fire.

St. John's, Nfld., July 31.—The little town of Catalina on the northern side of Trinity Bay, with a population of 1,800 persons, was threatened with extinction last night by a forest fire which had made considerable inroads into the outlying homes.

Every able-bodied inhabitant is fighting the flames, but at a late hour there was no indication that they would be controlled within any short time.

When a man asks you to do a service for him, and says, "I'll make it all right with you"—it means he will never pay you anything.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

"You believe she really meant it?"

"I am convinced she did and that nothing will make her change her mind."

"It's all rot!" remonstrated Brooks, angry and aggrieved. "She knew she was talking rot too. She herself told me that nothing happened to her when she went to Williams'. She gave him some soft talk, cried a little maybe when she pleaded for me, and because he liked her he gave her the paper releasing me. That's all there was to it. It was as easy as rolling off a log, and I don't see why she should still be making such a fuss about it, do you?"

"I think I do. You took the chance that something might happen to her. You must have expected that it would, and you were prepared to shut your eyes so long as she got what you wanted. That's what she can't overlook."

"Then you think she did right in leaving me?"

"That is a question I'd rather not pass upon. It ain't any part of what you asked me to do."

"But I want to know what you think."

"And I'd rather not express any opinions one way or the other. I'm a friend of both of you, and you ought not to ask me such a thing."

"Oh, you needn't be afraid! You know as well as I do that something had to be done—done at once—and there was no other way out of it than by getting her to see Williams. In the morning it would have been too late. She's making a mountain out of a molehill, and I shouldn't wonder if you've been helping her, with your straitlaced ways."

"Thanks. I didn't bring that subject up at all—never opened my mouth about it."

"You must have rubbed her temper up the wrong way, then. I ought to have seen her myself. I might have known you'd bungle the whole business."

"Joe, I did the very best for you I could, the best I know how. I can imagine how you feel about it, and I'm sorry for you, real sorry for you."

Brooks made a savage dive for the matchbox and relit his cigar that had gone out.

"Look here, Jimsy," he said. "I don't want your pity nor anybody else's. I ought to have seen her myself, and then everything would have been O. K. I could have fixed it up with her in two minutes. I will see her at once. Give me the address."

"It would be useless and would only make matters worse. I can't."

"You mean you won't?"

"Well, I won't, if you wish me to put it that way."

"You have no right to stand between a man and his wife."

"No, Joe, and God is my witness that I would not wittingly do such a thing for all earth has to offer."

Brooks rose excitedly, an ugly scowl on his face.

"There is some other motive for this," he said, "and I'll tell you what it is. You don't want us to come together again. It ain't to your interest. You're standing in with that mother of hers."

"You know that is not true," returned Smith earnestly. "I have done all I could for you."

"Yes, you have!" sneered Brooks. "Why don't you want us to make up? Do you think I don't know? Do you think I haven't seen that you've been jealous of me ever since Emma turned you down? Do you"—

"Joe!"

Smith also rose and faced him, very white, all the kindliness gone from his visage.

"Do you think I don't know why you've been snooping around her skirts, installing yourself as one of the family in my home? I'm not blind when it doesn't suit me to be, and I've had enough of being fooled and walked all over by everybody who wanted to wipe their feet on me."

"Joe, my boy, you don't know what you're saying, and you'll be sorry when you cool down."

"Sorry nothing!" Brooks shouted, beside himself with fury. "You make me sick with your slow talk and oily ways! What do you think I am? You'll give me that address this minute or by heck I'll hack it out of your carcass!"

Brooks picked up a jackknife which at the time of his arrival Smith had been using to cut the leaves of a book and rushed at him.

Jimsy's big hands descended on both his assailant's wrists. Brooks was strong, but he strained in vain in the grasp of iron. His right arm slowly weakened and twisted gradually until the fingers opened and with a groan of pain he dropped the blade. Smith continued to twist until he had wrung all the fight out of him and he had him limp and helpless. Then he let him go and picked up the knife.

"You'd better leave weapons out of your arguments, Brooks, or you'll sure be hurting somebody one of these days," he recommended. "It's dangerous—dangerous to yourself as well."

Brooks, sullen and panting, dropped into a chair, tears of humiliation and baffled rage hovering tremulously in his eyes.

"It was your fault—you drove me to it," he declared.

"It's a mighty bad thing, as a general rule, to let your ill humor get away with your nerves," chided Smith. "You have acted tonight like a petulant kid, instead of like a man I've tried to help. You've put yourself out of court, and I'm through trying to do anything for you."

"And I'm through asking you to do anything for me," Brooks retorted, jumping up and clapping his hat on his head. "I don't want any more favors of the kind you've been handing out so smugly. I know what I've said tonight, and it doesn't carry any apology with it either. You can all go plumb to Podunk, every one of you—you, my loving wife and the old woman. I'm through with the whole crowd for good and all."

He rushed out, bounded down the stairs, and the front door slammed violently.

Smith lighted a cigar, solace and sedative of the wrought up man, and ruminated sadly for awhile. He thought of Emma, of the worthless husband to whom she was tied and of the false position all round in which he found himself as the result of his peacemaking effort.

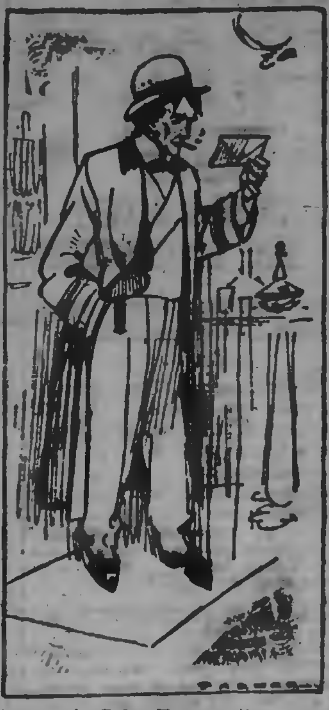
Ah, God, how he loved her!

With a weary sigh he fetched out plans and figures and began to work. It was hard to concentrate his mind, but application at length subdued the turmoil of his thoughts, and work, that "pledge of cheerful days and nights without a groan," his unfailing narcotic for the perturbation of his spirit, absorbed him until tired nature coming to its support did the rest.

While Jimsy Smith worked that he might forget, Brooks, the heat of his anger cooled, sat down in his lonely room to consider the unexpected change in the situation. The failure of his plans was a blow to him, but this time the pricking of the bubble of his optimism, which had soared so high, instead of plunging him immediately into the gloomiest despondency, found its contrast in bitter resentment against both his wife and Smith.

He cursed Smith for a fool and a blunderer. At least he did not believe the accusations he had hurled at him in his rage and disappointment. He had never considered him in any other light than that of a good natured, old womanish friend of the family, who did anything for anybody and with whom anybody could take liberties. He could see nothing in him calculated to inspire any woman with more than ordinary liking and indulgent toleration, not to speak of Emma, and he never had had the slightest scruple in leaving them together.

Her reception of his overtures had practically dispelled the glamour of romance in which he had clothed her in his visions, but he resolved to make one final attempt to soften her by means of a letter, and he set about it forthwith. It was an epistle of many pages, a melodramatic jumble of contrition and despairing supplication, for he was no master in the art of writing. But he was highly satisfied with it. To make it the more impressive he blurred it here and there with drops of water, thinking this would convey the idea that he had been moved to tears as he penned it.



The word "Refused" was written across the envelope.

"If this doesn't do the trick nothing will," he muttered after he had perused it for the third time. "And if it doesn't I'll quit. She'll never get another chance from me."

He addressed it to her, care of Jimsy Smith, knowing the latter would see that it reached its destination. It came back under cover through the same medium, unopened, with the word "Refused" written large across the envelope in Beth's handwriting. The word was a full confirmation of Jimsy's report of his mission.

Brooks gnashed his teeth, banished his dreams of a renewal of happiness with his wife and clinched a resolution that had been forming in his mind as an alternative—to seek relief in another and facile love from the depression of his solitary existence.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Suit has been entered against Gov. Wilson of Woodstock Jail by a prisoner who painted his house.

C. B. Close of Toledo, E. C. Vance from Wisconsin, and a Swedish guide, were drowned in Metagami River.

Mr. C. F. G. Masterman, Parliamentary Secretary of the Local Government Board, was re-elected on Saturday for Bethnal Green.

The plant of the Caledonia Alabastine Plaster Co., Limited, was burned to the ground Saturday midnight. How the fire originated is not known.

Flames shooting from a gas stove which Mrs. Mabel Bryan, aged 25, of Toronto, was lighting, set fire to her clothing yesterday morning, and she was so severely burned that she died.

Miss Avis Cowan of St. John, N.B., was drowned in St. John River late last evening while canoeing. The young man who was with her rushed up the shore and then fell in a fit. The doctors fear he will die.

BAD FOR BARBERS.

Among the many suggestions made for commemorating the reign of King Edward VII., the quaintest is that now put forward by Captain MacIlwaine, R. N. Captain MacIlwaine's suggestion is that the men of the British Empire, following the example of the late King, should put their razors aside and proceed to grow beards. Our present King, sharing the views of his father, grows a beard, and makes his staffs do the same. The beard is the exception, not the rule, among men of the present day.

A Salvation Army Baronet.

A scion of one of the oldest of the noble families of England, Sir Genille Cave-Brown-Cave, 12th baronet of Stanford, is now a member of the Salvation Army in Brooklyn. His patrimonial estates in England were so encumbered that years ago he came to this country to make a living and had been employed on ranches in the west. He became one of the most expert of cowboys, and held the record for roping and branding a steer in the shortest time. The freedom of the plains appealed to him. Some months ago Sir Genille decided on going to England on a visit and travelled east as far as New York. There a Salvation Army lass with her tambourine and a frank look in her blue eyes lured him from a public resort, in which he and a party of friends were regaling themselves, and interested him in the work of the army. He is now working as a janitor and trying to save from his wages the $100 matriculation fee required at the Salvation Army training school for officers of the army.

Our Four Great Railways.

The United States had thirty million people before the country was connected by railway from ocean to ocean. Four years from now, when Canada's population will probably approximate ten millions, we will have four transcontinental railway systems. And no one doubts that there will be traffic for all of them if we maintain our fiscal independence and encourage interprovincial trade. If the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways do as much to develop Canada and advertise it through the world as the Canadian Pacific Railway has done the progress of Canada during the next twenty-five years will surpass that of the United States in any twenty-five years of its history.

Dear Sir,—The results, to hand on my policy in your Company, No. 31787 are so eminently satisfactory, that I consider it a duty I owe both to your Company and the public to say so.

The fact that I have received all the money I paid, during the past twenty years into your Company back, except $617.20 and receive in addition a fully paid up policy of $2,000.00 on my life, still drawing profits EVERY YEAR hereafter, besides having had $2,000.00 of protection for the past twenty years, is too good a thing to hide under a bushel. I therefore desire to let my light shine and reflect a ray of satisfaction and pleasure from the great Sun Life Assurance Company.

I desire to thank you most sincerely, and to heartily congratulate your Company on such a splendid result.

I am,
Very respectfully yours,

THREE DRUNKS APPEAR IN COURT

Two Pay Fines and Third Goes to Jail

At the police court this morning Frank Kelly, A. Openshaw and John Curry each pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk in a public place.

Kelly has been celebrating for about three weeks and gave himself up Saturday night that he might get away from the drink. His Worship imposed a fine of $5 to be paid forthwith, or in default ten days in jail. Frank decided to take ten days on the hill to sober up.

A. Openshaw, who has been in the city on a visit, came from Toronto. He was assessed $2 and paid it forthwith.

The city coffers were also swelled by the addition of $2 from John Curry.

GOOD TIME ON C.G.E. M.B.S. OUTING TO COBOURG

Annual Trip Was Largely Patronized—Weatherman Was Kind

To the music of the 57th regimental band, under the direction of Mr. R. Gliddon, about eight hundred Peterborough people invaded Cobourg on the annual excursion of the C.G.E. Mutual Benefit Society excursion Saturday afternoon.

Though the temper of the weather man appeared rather uncertain, the promised rain did not materialize in time to spoil the starched frocks and frills.

The train left the local G.T.R. station at 1.30 o'clock and proceeded to Port Hope, where the train was held for considerable time. By the time Cobourg was reached it was nearly four o'clock. Of course the feature attraction was the Peterborough-Cobourg game, which is reported in another column. As it was nearly six o'clock before the game was finished, the long list of C.G.E. sports was not pulled off. The management has decided to hold a regular field day of sports at an early date and complete the Cobourg program. Everybody had a good time and the committee in charge of the arrangements is to be congratulated on the success of the outing.

ATTRACTIVE CARD

There is now to be seen around the city a card announcing the picnic which the printers intend giving on our civic holiday, August 14. The first glance would not reveal all that the design is intended to convey. First it is printed in two colors, red and blue with a white background, thus giving the patriotic colors of red, white and blue. The red circle which forms the simple, though effective centre of attraction, means that this outing comprises all sections of the community, it is within the reach of all. Note the low figures. Adults, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. We are authorized to add that if there are any who cannot raise the price on presentation to any member of the committee of a certificate signed by the mayor and the city fathers, a ticket will be given them. All Peterborough should enjoy to the full their own civic holiday.

Hunter, one of the organizers, is now here arranging for a big meeting at an early date. He is staying at the Oriental Hotel.

LUCRATIVE POSITIONS

It is generally conceded that owing to the chain of seven colleges, with which the Peterborough Business College is connected, that its graduates get the choice positions. Many young men who graduated two years ago are now receiving from $1,000 to $3000 per year, young women from $70 to $110 per month. The Peterboro Business College is one of the largest schools in the province, and the demand for the graduates is many times its supply. Mr. Spotten has solved the life problem for thousands and placed them on the "high road to success" and he is in a better position than ever to do the same for you. You will be welcomed at any of his town or city schools. We understand that he trained twelve hundred students last year, and anticipates a large increase during the incoming year. It would be well for young people to get his advice. If you are not adapted for commercial pursuits he will frankly tell you. 1d-1w.

ASCERTAINING VALUE OF NEW WHARF SITE

People are asking why work is not commenced on the new wharf which it was stated would be erected this summer. In such matters as these the authorities move with determination.

First there is the matter of the site to be settled and acquired by the government. It is understood that a commission, or board, or company has the matter in hand and are getting together opinions as to the value of the proposed site. At present most of the site is under water, where it should be, for the wharf if built should extend out into the river for a considerable distance, bringing it in line with the shore line further up the river.

The site is an ideal one. Sufficiently near the business part of the city to be convenient for haulage of freight, in fronting on nearly still water, or with a minimum of current. It is below the bridges and railroad approaches to the several industries, and parallel with the George street line of the street railway. The excursion business of the boats and the events rapidly developing, and the wharf will be a large convenience to the traffic.

No publicity has as yet been given to the plans, but it is assured that when built it will be ample for some time to come. Between the face of the wharf and the street will require to be filled in, and this filling can all be secured from the river as it will be necessary to create a greater depth at this point.

It is hoped that the commissioners will reach a conclusion that will enable the work to be gone on with as speedily as possible.

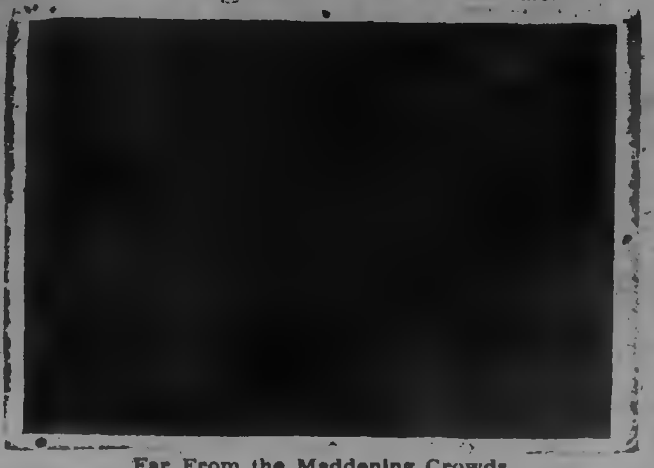
NEWS FROM PRETTY STONEY LAKE RESORTS

Juniper Island—Viamede—Mount Julian



Far From the Maddening Crowds

Staff Correspondent.

"Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife" must appropriately describe prevailing conditions at Stony Lake, the beautiful summer rendezvous for tired city folk. Here, health and strength are being abundantly gained. Under the stimulating influence of the delicious aroma of the pines and the rejuvenating lake breeze, worries take wings and from morning till eve, business cares are totally excluded. Enjoyment and amusement occupy the minds of all, and life is naught but one merry round of pleasure.

At the present time Stony Lake is at the very height of its popularity. At no time has it presented a more alluring aspect, and the facilities and advantages offered for recreation would be difficult to be improved, and the lake steamers gliding serpentine-like, in and out of the various channels between the islands, offer a splendid opportunity for beholding the scene of comfort and enjoyment in which all are seemingly participating. All the summer hotels have been taxed at various times during the season so far, to accommodate the influx of tourists and visitors, who come from all points, even as far south, in the United States as Pittsburg, New York, N.Y., and Memphis, Tenn.

WEEK-END VISITORS.

For people held to the daily grind of business, during the week, the week-end flying visits are becoming more and more popular. On Saturday evening last it was estimated that, the steamers carried up the largest passenger list so far this season, all the rest seekers, doing their best to taste of the sweets of the charming summer resort pleasures, in the all too brief period at their disposal. The weekly hops at the Juniper Island pavilion furnish special enjoyment to the week-end visitors and are also becoming more and more popular and patronised ed each Saturday night.

SPLENDID SERVICE.

The service provided by the Stoney Lake Navigation Company, by the Young brothers, is most prompt, satisfactory and efficient. The captains, officers and crews are courteous and obliging, and render travelling additionally pleasant. The innumerable questions get civil answers and their courteous ways receive great commendation from passengers generally. The steamer "Stoney Lake," which was waiting at the Lakefield wharf Saturday evening for the passengers from the last train up from Peterborough, carried many to their cottages and had numerous places at which to call to unload both passengers and cargo.

Juniper Island was reached rather late in the evening consequently, and the dance was in full swing.

WEEK-END HOP.

The scene was a most brilliant one. Gaily illuminated by multi-colored lights, the spacious pavilion was comfortably filled by patrons of the dance and upon all, the thorough enjoyment and gaiety had its happy effects. The ladies were handsomely gowned and the gentlemen clad also, of course, in their best summer negligee, combined to present the typical summer resort scene of brilliancy. Quite a number of local young people attended the function and the Misses Doris, of Peterborough, supplied the music in their usual acceptable manner.

Juniper has been a most popular resort this summer. The conveniences and attractions it offers are responsible largely for this, and the proprietor has spared no care or expense to cultivate its advantages to the very utmost. The new pavilion erected late last fall is a much appreciated and useful, as well as adorning feature.

REGISTRATIONS.

From Toronto—Miss Margaret Rawlinson, Miss Helen Graham, Mr. Clark Graham; Miss Loraine Syer, R. A. Bond, Mr. J. E. Colville, Mrs. J. E. Colville and Master Elmore Colville, Albert C. Humphrey, T. T. Weller, Louisa Barker, Olive Humphrey.

Other guests were: W. R. Willoughby, of Baltimore, Md.; Miss Helen Johnston, of Campbellford; R. S. Tallant, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Stanley Massey, of Philadelphia, Pa.; S. Clifton MacDonald, of Pictou, N.S.; E. Eardley-Wilmot, of Montreal; Button Millar, Montreal; Gordon Fairbairn, Teeswater; Mrs. C. Gander, St. Catharines; Herbert Bartlett, Fort Erie; Gertrude Cook, Buffalo.

"VIAMEDE."

Crossing the lake to "Viamede" and Mount Julian similar flourishing conditions prevail. The former place with its imposing lake view is patronised by a large number of tourists and visitors, many from the United States being included in the guests. The guest list at present is nearly one hundred. Some of the guests who registered there recently are: Edna Vencel, Lucy Armstrong, E. M. Armstrong, Pittsburg; Mrs. Thos. Watt, of Brantford, and Miss Watt; Mr. W. Somerville, J. W. Somerville, Louise Lockhart, Mabel Lockhart, Annie L. Craig, A. Burgess, G. Holmes and A. C. Graham, all of Toronto; W. Williams, Rochester; Dr. R. K. McVean, New Haven; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hicks, Latobie, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Slater, Latobie; R. C. Churchill and wife, of Batavia; Mabel L. Beeman and Florence Beeman, of Buffalo; M. J. Emery, of Rochester; Edward Williams, of Rochester; Dickson Gruteckel, Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. W. A. Waddington and Mrs. J. W. Dickson, of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Marjorie McBride, of London, Ont.

The following are a few of the Peterborough registrations: H. Shorter, Mrs. H. Shurter, Miss Emma Dunlop, Mrs. Williamson, George Williamson, and Mrs. George Williamson.

No extraordinary catches of the finny inhabitants are reported except a 22 lb. maskinonge, which was hooked by an American gentleman last week.

Several cottages have been built at different parts of Stony Lake this summer, and many others have been renovated and improved in various ways.

"A BUNGALOW."

Mr. J. E. Aikens, of Toronto, has under erection and rapidly nearing completion what will easily be one of the most imposing, commodious and handsomely finished summer cottage bungalows anywhere on Stony Lake. Nestling among beautiful shade trees about twenty yards back from the lake, and standing in an elevating and commanding location, a splendid, sweeping view of the lake is possible. Viewed from the water approaches the cottage is simply ideal and presents a thoroughly inviting appearance. In the bungalow, are six bedrooms, three upstairs and three below, a living room of ample dimensions, a bath room and rear hall. A charming and skillful arrangement in the layout of the house is immediately noticeable. Upstairs in the front is a wide, overhanging balcony which provides a comfortable sleeping apartment, being protected from mosquitoes by netting.

"Taking Things Easy"

A beautiful wide verandah 16'X61' extends along the front and one end of the cottage, the dimensions of which attract immediate attention. It is to be illuminated by three chandeliers. At the side of the verandah at the east, is the dining room, well lighted and roomy. It is fitted with drop windows on two sides allowing entrance for all the light possible and also rendering it remarkably cool. The verandah foundation is built of rough stone. It rests upon massive stone pillars. The entire architecture adheres to the regular bungalow style. The windows in the front are what are known as the old fashioned dutch style, with the exception of one bay window. A twelve foot cement paved, entrance and steps lead up to the verandah. The rustic style stone work extends across the lower portion of the verandah. The ceiling is of matched pine.

The Beau system of lighting will be installed shortly. Water for the house is supplied by a 2 1-2 h.p. "Ideal" engine which pumps water from the lake through 700 feet of pipe to a water tank built on a slight hill at the rear of the structure.

A big stone fireplace is built in the living room. This room is also adapted to allow of two cosy-corners being placed inside the door on either side.

Another surprise is sprung upon a visitor, when he goes back a short distance to the rear of the bungalow. A large plot of land has been turned into tennis and croquet grounds, and beside this plot is a large, splendidly stocked garden, wherein all imaginable vegetable produce is in thriving condition and growth. All of the products are remarkably healthy in appearance.

To go minutely into the structure and plan of the cottage, would involve considerable space, but it is sufficient to state that when the building which will be completed within two weeks, is ready for occupancy, it will certainly be one of the finest and most up-to-date summer cottages in Stony Lake.

Across from Juniper Island, Mr. Edice of Toronto has erected a nice little bungalow, on a smaller scale. The roof is covered with green shingles dipped in creosote, as is also the roof of Mr. Aikens cottage. Mr. Edice's bungalow is also conveniently and charmingly situated.

MOUNT JULIAN

Mount Julian is offering this summer fully as satisfactory and capable accomodation and service to summer guests and visitors as in past years. Under the careful management of Mr. Thompson the charming retreat has become an ideal place to recruit new energy and spend an enjoyable vacation. Many guests have registered there during the season, among them being quite a number of American tourists.

The following are some of the registrations—

J. J. Driscoll and E. J. Driscoll, of St. Louis, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Cameron of Rochester N. Y., J. W. Wilson of Beaver Falls, Pa., Willis Maud and Mr. and Mrs. Maud of Batavia; Miss Calkins, Veryburg; Judge S. A. Nash and L. J. Collins, of Buffalo N.Y., A. D. Anderson, Dr. John Anderson and James Anderson, Miss Cecile Loucks, of Cherokee, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bradley, of New York, C.H. Sanderson of Toronto; John and Frederick Flaherty of Peterboro and Mrs. W. H. Meredith of Peterboro.

TOOK ILL SUDDENLY

One of the guests, Mr. James Anderson of Toronto was suddenly attacked with appendicitis, while staying at Mount Julian on Thursday afternoon last. He was carried down to the boat on a stretcher Friday morning and conveyed to Peterboro where on Friday afternoon he was operated upon in Nicholls Hospital. As far as is known his chances for recovery are good. There are quite a number of families camped in the vicinity of Mount Julian, among them being Mr. Stewart and family of Homewood Ave.

SACRED SERVICE

A splendid inspiring church service was held in the Juniper Island pavilion Sunday morning and was very largely attended. Rev. H. L. Stevens, of Toronto preached a strong, helpful sermon and was assisted in the service by Mr. Storrs of Chicago, whose rendition of a beautiful sacred number was most effective and sweet. Mr. Harold Brown of Peterboro officiated at the piano.

ALMOST CAPSIZED

The windy days of last week nearly caused an accident in front of "Viamede." An American visitor and his son were overtaken by it, while paddling in their canoe and it was only after a desperate fight against the choppy waves that threatened continually to overcome them, that they contrived to reach land, rather shaken from their violent exertions.

A sacred service was held at "Viamede" last evening. Mr. Armstrong of Toronto, who is the possessor of a rich and baritone voice, contributed several numbers with great effect during the evening.

An even greater influx of visitors is anticipated at Stony Lake during the first two weeks in August.

COBOURG MADE GOOD GET-AWAY AND NOSED OUT AHEAD

Scored Four Times in Their First Act and Handed Out a Triple Play to the Locals

Getting off to a good start Saturday the Cobourgites held the lead throughout the grind, Down's benders and control, the all-round good work of the lakeshore nine and the young swamp in which the exhibition was pulled off proving too much for the ball-tossers though they were by no means in the background when it came to sensational stunts amongst the trees and long grass. When the final count was called the score stood, Cobourg 6 Peterboro 5. Downes the phenom of the Toronto amateur league, and who had an offer to play in the Canadian league, pitched nice ball, having eleven strike-outs to his credit. He remained cool throughout and never seemed to be in trouble. He received good support. There were several new faces on the homesters line, Turpin in the initial sack being the most conspicuous, his two hundred avoirdupois and novel uniform which looked very much like a jersey belonging to a younger brother. It gave him the appearance of a sack of bran tied in the centre, making him the small [illegible]. He was right butt for the remarks of the there when he was called upon to cover the initial sack however, and took part in the triple play in the second innings, when it looked as though the Petes would even up and in different way he proved to be a valuable as well as a much needed addition to the lakeshore club.

The local aggregation was without the services of Craig and O'Hearne but McFadden held down the former's position in right garden and "Pete" Campbell was right at home while patrolling around second. The Bulgerites hit seven times and scored six runs in the first two innings, while the locals only got one hit and one run. Thus the visitors had an uphill battle all the way. Quinlan steadied down and slaced them out during the rest of the game and his team mates responded. The uncertainty of the nature of the grounds made the game rather disconcerting to the Peterborough artists, who are accustomed to the well kept treeless diamond at Riverside Park and do not relish the idea of playing on a field where it may sometimes be necessary to dodge young poplars in order to connect with an outfield fly. The absence of a grandstand and proper seating left the eight hundred fans running at large and they often became so enthusiastic that the players did not have room to operate.

Umpire Roosevear stopped the game several times to insist upon the spectators viewing the fray from a more remote point than the centre of the diamond. Mr. Roosevear handled the game in his usual satisfactory manner.

The following is a story of the game by innings:—

Murphy, first up, hit a liner to McKinnon who threw him out at first. Shaw grounded to Downes and suffered the same fate at the initial sack. M. O'Brien struck out. No runs. No hits.

Bulger hit between short and second and was out getting home on Guy's hit over Murphy's head. Floyd hit between short and third and stealing second scored on Turpin's bunt, Turpin beating his hit to first. McKinnon walked and Turpin went to second. Bell flew out to Murphy and Turpin and McKinnon scored on Burge's two-bagger. Holnbeck walked but Downes retired the side Campbell to M. O'Brien. Five hits, four runs.

SECOND INNINGS.

Quinlan walked and advanced to second on Gonter's hit between Downes and Turpin. Campbell grounded to Guy who threw wide to second in an attempt to catch Gonter. Rahmal flew out to McKinnon who touched third for Gonter and threw to first for Campbell, thus retiring the side on a triple play. Two hits, one run.

Bulger hit to centre garden and advancing to second on a pass ball scored when Guy hit to Murphy and got in the way of the ball at first, going to second while it was being recovered from the crowd. Floyd sacrificed to Quinlan, Guy taking third and scoring on a passed ball. Turpin flew to W. O'Brien and was an easy out Campbell to M. O'Brien. Two hits, two runs.

THIRD INNINGS.

McFadden was down, McKinnon to Turpin. W. O'Brien smote the air and Murphy was out, Guy to Turpin. No hits no runs.

Bell dropped one before the plate and was out Gonter to M. O'Brien. Burge fanned and Holnbeck was down Rahmal to M. O'Brien. No hits, no runs.

FOURTH INNINGS

Shaw missed three, M. O'Brien was down Guy to Turpin and Quinlan McKinnon to Turpin. No hits, no runs.

Downes drew a walk but was out stealing second, Gonter to Rahmal. Bulger and Guy each struck-out. No runs, no hits.

FIFTH INNINGS.

Gonter hit to left and stole second and third, Campbell striking out. Rahmal drove a grounder at Guy and was thrown out to Turpin. McFadden sent a liner to McKinnon and was out at first and Gonter who had started for the plate before Downes delivered claimed a run but the protests of the Petes was not sustained. One hit, no runs.

Floyd reached first on Rahmal's wild throw to M. O'Brien and third on Quinlan's aeroplane peg to Campbell. Turpin flew out to Shaw and McKinnon walking to first stole second. Bell fanned and Burge was out to Murphy on a fly. No hits, no runs.

SIXTH INNING.

Murphy drove one at Turpin too hot for that worthy to handle, but was out trying to reach third on Shaw's single when Turpin threw to McKinnon. M. O'Brien flew out to Guy. Two hits, no runs.

Holnbeck missed three and Gonter, dropping the third threw him out to M. O'Brien. Downes also fanned. Bulger singled to centre garden but the side was again retired when Guy dropped a bunt and was out, Gonter to M. O'Brien. One hit, no runs.

SEVENTH INNINGS

Quinlan hit to centre and reached second on Turpin's wild peg, scoring when Holnbeck muffed Gonter's drive to right. Downes hit Campbell and Rahmal struck-out, Campbell seconded and Gonter third. McFadden sacrificed Guy to Turpin, Gonter coming home on the play. W. O'Brien fanned. One hit, two runs.

Shaw came in on Floyd's high drive. Turpin singled along the third base line and stole second. McKinnon sacrificed to M. O'Brien and Turpin went to third. Bell fanned and Gonter dropping the third strike caught him at third. One hit, no runs.

EIGHTH INNINGS.

Murphy drew a walk, and stealing second tallied on Shaw's hit to left field. M. O'Brien laid down a sacrifice bunt and Shaw went to third, but was down soon after in an attempt to reach the home plate. Quinlan struck out. One hit, one run.

Burge was out Quinlan to M. O'Brien. Holnbeck hit to centre and got second on Gonter's wild peg. Downes flew out to W. O'Brien and Bulger was easy, Campbell to M. O'Brien. One hit, no runs.

NINTH INNINGS.

Gonter sent a liner to Turpin. Campbell got two sacks when Turpin's knees weakened and he missed "Pete's" drive. While Rahmal and McFadden were fanning a couple of timely passed balls brought Campbell home. No hits, one run.

NOTES

"Pete" Campbell proved to be right at home around the centre sack. He will be in the city during the remainder of his holidays and will be a valuable addition to the team.

It was claimed that "Fat" Turpin was disturbed in his swimming exercises and called to the fray. He evidently neglected to remove his bathing suit.

The many orders for "Prunes" did not disturb the equilibrium of the local manager much on Saturday. He made a bad start but tightened up after the second innings.

Downes, the St. Mary's twirler had the locals biting for a while but they walked away with six hits on the afternoon's performance.

Take two Cobourg nine made good.

Secretary Dorris and Manager Quinlan liked Cobourg so well they remained there until this morning, returning on the 6.20 train.

"Bill" Shaw pulled off the feature catch of the day when he came in on Floyd's drive to left garden.

The Cobourg management has been house-cleaning and the lake-shore nine, instead of their usual style of missing everything, worked a triple play on the Petes.

Before it was decided not to hold the C.G.E. sports, the betting was 2 to 1 on Turpin for the fat man's race.

After the first two innings the game was well worth witnessing. The locals earned their five runs.

HOME LIFE OF QUEEN MARY.

Believes in Simplicity in Training of Children.

From the time of Her Majesty's birth until her marriage her life was just that of the fairly well-to-do English girl, hardly that of the modern English girl, perhaps, but nearer the old-fashioned ideal. This was her mother's plan:

"A child," she said, "has quite enough to do to learn obedience and attend to her lessons and to grow without many parties and late hours, which take the freshness of childhood away and the brightness and beauty from girlhood—and then children become intolerable. There are too many grown-up children in the present day."

A writer tells how the Queen's many high qualities were developed—her interest in charity by the frequent visits made in her mother's company to the poor around her Richmond home at White Lodge; her religious convictions, bred by the daily life of her home; her musical accomplishments and her artistic talents, fostered by her stay in Florence, Italy, where her parents lived for two years.

"The Queen has a sweet voice," says Sir Charles Kinloch-Cooke, "a soft soprano, which greatly matured under the skilful guidance of Signor (now Sir Paolo) Tosti. * * * She is a good judge of a picture and an excellent critic, and while at Florence made several pretty sketches of landscape scenery. She rarely misses any good exhibition of pictures in London, is particularly fond of the old masters and prefers their more finished style of painting to the impressionist school.

"Dramatic art of every kind appeals to her, and there are few plays of importance or that have attracted public attention during the last two decades she has not seen. Like her mother, she quickly seizes upon the humorous side of a question. Thus she has a keen appreciation for a sparkling comedy or a farce.

"The Queen is greatly attached to the historical past of her country. Ancient monuments of every kind have a fascination for her, and her acquaintance with different kinds of architecture must have entailed much study and close observance.

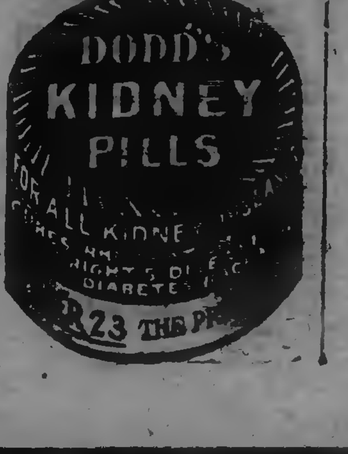
"She is particularly fond of visiting cathedrals, and knows the interior of most of the old city churches, besides being well versed in the countless treasures contained in the other historic buildings of our great metropolis.

"Her Majesty follows events attentively. She reads the newspapers daily, and as Princess of Wales attended the more important parliamentary debates.

"Punctuality is a household word in the royal establishment, and when the Queen makes an appointment it is always kept.

"In business matters Her Majesty is clear and expeditious, methodical and systematic. Her mornings are generally taken up with attending to the voluminous correspondence that arrives by every post.

"Her secretary and lady in waiting submit their letters and the Queen gives instructions concerning them. She quickly grasps the main issue of a question and soon makes up her mind, and has never been known to lay aside a matter on the ground that to express an opinion thereon is irksome or difficult."



PROPOSING TO A GIRL.

German Professor Gives Statistics About the Gentle Art.

A German calculator says that 36 per cent of the suitors press the hand of the fair one, 24 per cent conclude their avowal with an embrace, 4 per cent kiss the hair, 2 per cent kiss the hand, 3 per cent fall on their knees, and 20 per cent are so nervous that they feel a lump in the throat which they find almost prevents speech.

Ten per cent of the men are so overcome that they cannot speak at all, but open and shut their mouths without producing a sound, and 2 per cent make their proposals standing one foot.

As regards the women, 60 per cent sink helpless into the lover's arms, 20 per cent blush and hide their faces, 1 per cent faint away, 4 per cent are genuinely amazed, 14 per cent gaze silently into the suitor's eyes, and 1 per cent run away to tell a girl friend.

HOUSE NUMBERS.

Germans Started the System in Berlin.

Before the advent of the house number, only business signs, coats of arms, and house names marked the different buildings. Then, in London, for instance, one had to look for Mr. Jones, should he desire to call upon that man, in, say, "Whitechapel, not far from the Blue Boar."

It is thought Berlin, in 1795, was the first city to employ the numbering system. The German innovators did not put odd numbers on one side of their streets and even numbers on the other; they merely started from the Brandenburg Gate and numbered straight ahead, taking no account of change of street.

As they proceeded, therefore, the numbers grew higher, the height to which they attained being limited only by the supply of houses. The first house they numbered was number one, the last the number that betokened the total number of houses in the city.

PORCELAIN POODLES.

At One Time Very Fashionable Ornaments.

The day of the china and faience poodle may be said to have been the closing years of the eighteenth century and the twenties and thirties of the last century, a period when the poodle was the favorite pet animal of the contemporary lady.

In the old English china works the dog was a sort of potter's standby, says the Queen, and hardly one firm but turned to the manufacture of this delightful ornament from Bow to Rockingham. In size they vary from about six inches down to one inch.

Commonest of poodles are the Staffordshire examples, sitting bolt upright, and very much rarer are the recumbent dogs reposing on royal blue cushions. Porcelain poodles were produced at Bow, but unlike their cousins of Rockingham the Bow canines were lean and scraggy specimens of their race, with legs of an almost impossible thinness. They were modelled prior to the year 1776.

The finest porcelain poodles were produced at the celebrated Rockingham works, and they were manufactured between the year 1820 (or thereabouts) and the closing of the works in 1842—in fact, during the "Brameld period," when the factory was carried on by Thomas, George, Frederick and John Wager Brameld. The Rockingham works were situated at Swinton, near Rotherham, Yorkshire, on the estate of the aMrquis of Rockingham. The animals themselves are nearly always plain white in color, but sometimes their bases or stands are of a rich royal blue enriched with a gilt line. Occasionally the bases are ornamented with green and gilt foliage, and still more rarely red decoration is to be found.

The Staffordshire faience poodles were intended to ornament the cottager's humble mantlepiece, not the are much more roughly modelled than their Rockingham relatives, for they drawing room of the lady of fashion. and they were retailed at the trifling sum of sixpence each, so that careful modelling and delicate glaze were not to be expected. These glazed earthenware dogs are squat in figure, with large ears, bushy tails, and a decorative note is introduced by the addition of a gilt collar with an elaborate padlock hanging from it.

China and earthenware poodles are now extensively imitated by the unscrupulous German manufacturer, but his fakes are fairly easy to detect. These Teutonic forgeries are characterized by a dead white glaze, while the authentic early nineteenth century examples are coated with a cream white glaze, which is frequently a good deal crackled.

A device resembling a large safety pin has been invented for hanging pails of paint on a ladder, where they can be easily reached and yet cannot be knocked off.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

OUR WEEKLY NATIONAL ARTICLE.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS IN CANADA.

BY B. K. SANDWELL.

(Copyright by Publishers Press Limited, Montreal.)

With the enormous growth of Canada in the last twenty-five years, with its increase of population, of trade, of industrial development and of municipal and individual wealth, there has been a corresponding growth of public spirit and a universal determination that Canada shall have as finely-equipped public institutions for education, moral, physical and intellectual as any in the world.

To recall some distinguished Canadian names is to associate them immediately with princely benefactions to the country. In Montreal, to take one instance out of many, there is the Royal Victoria Hospital founded sixteen years ago by the Right Hon. Lord Mount Stephen and the Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, a magnificent building in which an invaluable work is carried on.

"It is wiser and less expensive to save children than to punish criminals," is the motto of the Children's Aid Society of Toronto, whose president is the Hon. J. K. MacDonald. The objects and aims of the Society are: to attend the trial of children in the police-courts, to receive complaints and investigate cases of alleged cruelty to children, to take charge of destitute children and to find good foster-homes for them. Since 1891, 17,458 cases have come under its supervision.

The Toronto Hospital for Sick Children established thirty-five years ago, is a charity that makes instant appeal to everyone for who can look unmoved upon the sufferings of a child? Since its foundation the Hospital has treated within its walls 16,837 In-Patients and 100,959 Out-Patients. The Toronto Corporation gives $18,000 a year to it, and the citizens $8,000, and it owes an immense debt of gratitude to its Board of Trustees. The Hospital is admirably equipped in every way; it has an orthopaedic department which turns out all kinds of apparatus for correcting deformities, a gymnasium in which various defects are treated, and a school-room where children from four to fourteen who are well enough for lessons are taught. And on the Island is the beautiful Lakeside Home for convalescents.

LT.-COL. J. H. BURLAND.
Founder of the Royal Edward Institute.

No more terrible scourge afflicts humanity to-day than what is known as the White Plague, though since the discovery of the open-air treatment, we have ceased to look upon the disease with the eyes of hopeless resignation of former generations. There are many sanatoria for the treatment of consumption established throughout Canada, Lake Edward, the Cottage Hospital at Ottawa in which Her Excellency Lady Grey is much interested, Gravenhurst, Kamloops, etc., but the Royal Edward Institute of Montreal for the study, prevention and cure of tuberculosis, takes up the crusade against this insidious enemy upon rather different lines and in what is proving to be a less expensive and more permanently effective way. The Institute was founded by Colonel Jeffrey H. Burland, and his sisters, Mrs. Henry M. Ami and Mrs. E. V. Cathagne, as a memorial to their parents, and is primarily a dispensary. Its principal work is the examination and treatment of outdoor patients who attend every morning at eleven o'clock. 773 patients have been on the visiting list during the year. Another important feature of the work is the instruction, control and care of the patients in their own homes. This is carried out by the regular visits of the Instructor and nurses. The patient in the sanatorium follows a new and strict routine of life and after a longer or shorter period is perhaps discharged as cured, and returns to exactly the same conditions which occasioned or aggregate his disease. The patient treated by the dispensary is taught how to take care of himself, learns the value of fresh air and the necessity of obedience to hygienic laws, so that his home surroundings are permanently bettered. There is no doubt that the home treatment of tuberculosis when possible, is of greater lasting benefit. Very often too, incipient cases in the patient's family are discovered, and cured without difficulty. Day patients are taken on the fine glass-enclosed balconies of the Institute. Necessities of all kinds, milk, eggs, medicine, etc., are supplied to the patients, and seventeen needy cases received money as well, for rent, coals, etc., during the year.

The Victorian Order of Nurses cooperate with the Royal Edward Institute to the extent of supplying and paying two nurses who visit the homes of advanced cases, and extra nurses for cases needing constant attention. Owing to the work of the Institute and of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the deaths from tuberculosis in Montreal have decreased 10 per cent in a year.

The Winnipeg General Hospital organised in 1872 and incorporated three years later, is one of the finest institutions now in Canada, and when the proposed new buildings are erected it will be equal to any hospital on this continent. During the year 1909, the daily average of patients in the wards was 297.7, a very high percentage for a hospital containing 325 beds. The new additions will have a capacity of 320 beds, and will enable the trustees to re-arrange the available space in the entire hospital and provide various new and essential departments. A warm regard exists in the hearts of the citizens for the Winnipeg General and the well-known generous Western spirit has found adequate expression in the voluntary contributions by which it is mainly supported. For this reason it exerts a strong and wholesome influence for charitable effort on behalf of the poor. Including the 201 infants born in the institution, last year over 955 children were cared for by it. A clinic for tubercular patients is held three times a week; some of the case are admitted to the Hospital, the remainder are attended at their own homes. The various nationalities represented by the patients is interesting: Canadians are of course largely in the majority, then come English, Scotch, Irish, Germans, Italians, Galicians, Poles, Danes, and what seems curious a large number from Iceland.

The Margaret Scott Nursing Mission of Winnipeg does an excellent and much-needed work in the poorest homes of the City.

The official report for the year ending April, 1910, showed for 3,000 sailings of different vessels-steamships and sailing-ships—from the port of St. John, indicating an immense number of men requiring to be looked after while ashore. When we consider the enormous danger and hardship of the life of these faithful servants of our commerce, we feel how great a debt the country owes them. The Seamen's Mission of St. John, N. B., now in its eighteenth year is an inestimable benefit to the sailors visiting the port. They have the free use of reading, writing, and recreation rooms, a fine hall for entertainments, religious services, and so on. Concerts are held, vessels visited, magazines and papers sent out, paper and envelopes provided free, medicine supplied, money exchanged and received for safe keeping, etc. Special care is given to sick sailors and a few rooms in the Institute are kept for any emergency occasioned by wrecks. The work is of course undenominational and seamen dying in port are buried from the Mission attended by clergymen of their own faith. This work is well-known to passengers who cross the Ocean by Canadian lines and deserves all possible support.

The Kingston General Hospital deserves special mention, not only on account of its standing and valuable services to the community, but also because of the Strange and St. George's Medical 67th year. The main building consists of the Strange and St. George's Medical Wards for Women, and the Yates and Sampson Medical Wards for Men. The Watkins Wing contains accommodation for private and semi-private patients, and a charming ward for children. The Nickle Wing is entirely isolated and is used only for infectious diseases. The Kingston General Hospital is exceptionally fortunate in its medical staff, and in the many citizens warmly interested in its welfare.

A memorial to the distinguished Canadian statesman Sir Oliver Mowat, in the form of a tuberculosis sanatorium is shortly to be added to the Hospital.

At Lindsay, Ont., a very beautiful hospital has lately been erected by Mr. James Ross of Montreal, as a memorial to his mother.

There is less suffering from poverty in the West, but each city has its own hospital, and its own method of meeting the special needs of the community. Victoria, B. C. is justly proud of its splendid Jubilee Hospital, The Vancouver General Hospital can hold its own well among the other City hospitals, Lethbridge, Regina, Calgary, Prince Rupert—most rapidly growing and go-ahead of Western towns—all have hospitals of their own on a smaller scale, and othr neded charities.

Much might be said of the splendid work done by the Christian Associations in their various branches scattered throughout Canada, and of the many Fresh Air Societies which send sick people and little city children for a country holiday—a most delightful and appealing form of charity—and a great deal of diversified philanthropy outside of anything mentioned above is of course being carried on, but enough has been said to show that a wide-spread sympathy for the poor and unfortunate is finding practical expression everywhere in our land. The work that is being done is making our land better, happier and healthier. To further this aim every citizen should contribute to the support of hospitals to all that his purse can possibly afford.

Be good to some people, and they begin making demands on you until you can't stand it. [illegible]

We wish the people would get together, and agree to like or dislike some one thing.

BALANCE OF POWER IS WITH CANADA

The Dominion With its Vast Natural Resources May Easily Act as Dictater

In Canada the strongest protectionists perhaps are to be found among our manufacturers. In Germany the leading protectionists hold their principles in the interest of agriculture. They wish to retain their own market. They are all in favor of increased duties on agricultural produce in order to help the landowners and the farmers. Professor Wagner, who speaks most authoritatively for them, says: "An adequate protection for agriculture, higher than the present, would be in the general interest of the whole community, even if by its means the industrial development of the State and possibly also the growth of population should be, not entirely stopped, but certainly slackened in the general interests of the workers and of the economic organization of Germany. The maintenance of a capable German agriculture means the maintenance of the German people now and for the future." This is in strong contrast to the position of Canada, where our farmers are apparently willing to sacrifice largely the results of the agricultural development to the ultimate interests of the United States. In Canada, as in Germany, it is vitally important that we should create, maintain and retain capable agriculture.

Mr. Percy Ashley, in his book on modern tariff history, says that several countries hitherto content to remain in the agricultural stage of development, are turning their attention to industry. The United States is becoming preponderatingly industrial; hence largely its keen desire for free trade with Canada, giving them the opportunity to exploit Canadian markets for manufactures. Russia, Australia, Italy and Roumania are also striving to fashion themselves into industrial communities. Canada desires to do likewise, at the same time maintaining its position, especially in the West, as a great agricultural country, holding the key to the problem of good supplies in any great war that may occur in the future. In all the cases mentioned, this means that not only will they sooner or later consume most of their own supplies of raw materials, but that, further, as these countries become more industrial their population will greatly increase, and they will make greater demands on their own food supplies. Canada, comparatively the youngest of them all, with its vast resources, may easily act as a dictator with great advantage to itself, as time goes on, always supposing that her national future is not marred by allowing the United States to overshadow or rule her.

LIVERPOOL CONTROLS AMERICAN WHEAT

So Said President Taft, in Comforting the Farmers at Indianapolis on July 4th

President Taft spoke at Indianapolis on the Fourth of July on the subject of Reciprocity. On this occasion, as on nearly every other occasion when President Taft speaks on Reciprocity, he gave arguments why Canada should abhor any free trade arrangement with the United States.

The complaint that the American farmers would suffer by the agreement, when analysed would be found to be an argument that the admission of Canadian wheat free of duty would lower the price of wheat raised in the United States ten cents a bushel.

"The answer to this argument," President Taft said, "is that this cannot be, for the reason that the price of wheat in the United States and Canada is ultimately fixed by the price of wheat in the world, and that the world's prices are adjusted and made at Liverpool by the relation of the supply of the exported wheat to the demand for it by countries which do not raise enough to supply their people.

"The diversion from British and European markets to United States markets of 20 to 40 million bushels of Canadian wheat annually would not only strengthen the wheat market abroad, but would furnish the American mills with a needed complement of wheat which the world would require, just as it has in the past, but it would then be in the shape of American-made flour. The effect of increased wheat supplies would be to reduce the cost of manufacturing flour in just the ratio that the mills were able to thereby increase their output. Reduced cost of production would enable the mills to regain in the foreign market the 18 to 20 million barrels of flour sold in foreign trade annually ten years ago, but which in recent years has fallen to less than ten million barrels."

AT OUR EXPENSE

American Farmers Have Been Selling Canada Much Produce

According to the press of the Western States, free trade in natural products with Canada will mean a fine market for the farmers of Minnesota and North Dakota. A prominent paper in St. Paul says:

Hay is almost invariably higher in Canada than in this country. Last year we shipped 7,680 tons of hay to Canada. We sold Canada 215,000 bushels of potatoes; 60,000 bushels of apples; 215,000 pounds of cheese; 750,000 dozen eggs, and a vast quantity of other vegetables and fruits. Canada's purchases of fresh vegetables from us last year alone amounted to $625,000. The removal of existing duties on these products will make a big market in Western Canada for Minnesota, Dakota and other Northwestern States in vegetables, fruits and dairy products. Ontario now supplies Western Canada with these products, but they can be advantageously obtained from the United States.

THE FINEST BAND AT TORONTO FAIR

There are two things in connection with the Coldstream Guards Band that tend to make good its claim to first place among the military bands of England—and that means the world. The first is that they were the musical feature of the Festival of Empire in London, and the second that Dr. McKenzie Rogan was entrusted with the work of arranging the Coronation music. They are sure to be greeted by immense crowds at the Canadian National Exhibition.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Permit me to add to what has already been said on the taxation question.

A certain man in Peterboro owns a house. Some time ago he was in a position to add some improvements to this house whereby he employed labor and purchased necessary supplies. Following these improvements the assessor increased his assessment by some $300. Will you not agree that this was an unfair action, and yet it was only one of many that are occuring in our city every year under our present system of taxation.

The experience of those cities in the West who have adopted the modern method of taxing land values only and not improvements has demonstrated the truth of "Booster's" words.

There are many advantages to be obtained in taxation of land only, and no real disadvantages.

Had Peterboro adopted the system of taxing land values only the question of fixed assessment would not have been so important to industries seeking such an arrangement and there would not have been the disappointment that must have been occasioned by the defeat of the two by-laws voted on Friday last.

Then again if taxes were based on land values only there would be a more equitable distribution of taxes that would relieve many of what may now be considered a burden. An explanation given by some for the defeat of the parks by-law is that the tax players feel they are already overburdened and do not want to add to their burdens. There is no doubt in the minds of those who have given the matter any kind of consideration that our city is in need of more breathing spaces, which need will become greater as our city grows. We of modern times are giving more attention to sanitary conditions and the care of our children. We must provide public playgrounds if we are to do our duty by our children and secure for future generations the vigor we owe them. But because of the feeling of burden, real of imaginery, we turned down a by-law which if carried would have provided needed parks and playgrounds.

I trust, Mr. Editor, that as a result of the introduction of this matter into your columns there may be a free and widespread discussion of this subject in Peterboro not only amongst individuals and groups but in a more public manner. I feel sure that if some public meetings were called to discuss this important subject every property owner would make an effort to attend and take a hearty interest in the same.

Very truly yours,
F. G. HASSARD,
515 King Street, Peterboro.

Montreal, July 31.—About twenty wooden frame houses were burned to the ground at Longue Point Saturday morning and some hundred people are rendered homeless as a result.

The blaze started in the old Chevalier Hotel, just opposite the Longue Pointe Asylum, an explosion of gasoline being the direct cause.

Mrs. Sheppart, who was in the kitchen of the Chevalier Hotel at the time of the explosion, was badly burned and was hurried to the Notre Dame Hospital. It is expected that she will recover.

Gales on East Coast.

Boston, Mass., July 31.—That the tale of the gale that swept the eastern New England coast Friday will not be told completely for some days seemed evident when each hour brought succeeding chapters of shipwreck, disaster and loss of life from one of the earliest West Indian hurricanes that have rushed up from the tropics in many years.

At noon Saturday four coastwise sailing vessels were fast on the rocks and beaches, or helplessly adrift off the coast, while from Cape Cod to Bar Harbor, there was scarcely a harbor that did not show disabled yachts.

To Run In Brandon.

It was thought he would be the grain growers' candidate at Brandon. His resignation is a mystery. The members of the association refuse to give any reason for his act.

Grain Weighers Arrested.

Winnipeg, July 31.—The ramifications of the wholesale robbery of freight cars, covering a period of two years, attributed by the C.P.R. secret service to a number of grain weighers of the Dominion Government, reached new proportions yesterday, when Jake Movane, the proprietor of a north side store, was arrested, charged with receiving loot. Seven Dominion grain weighers are now under arrest and the detectives assert that a number of other men employed in a similar capacity are to be taken into custody, twenty in all.

THREE WEEKS' TOUR OF ONTARIO BY THE CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Contest Plans Are Being Rapidly Completed — A Meeting of all Conservative Candidates at Toronto for Organization — Political News.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, put in a busy day yesterday, being closeted for some hours with Hon. Robert Rogers, of Manitoba, and Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines in the Ontario Government. Mr. Rogers, of course, will have charge of the campaign in Manitoba, and expects to increase the already phenomenally large Conservative majority in the House of Commons from that province. Mr. Cochrane will have charge of the campaign in Ontario, and his splendid success in Northern Ontario in 1908 sufficiently justifies his selection for command in the larger field.

The Ontario campaign will be formally opened at Toronto on Saturday next by the monster picnic at the Exhibition grounds, to be held in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. E. B. Osler. Mr. Cochrane will be present on this occasion and desires to hold a conference with all the Conservative members of Parliament from Ontario and with all the candidates and prospective candidates for Parliament in the Conservative interest in the province. The conference will map out in general way the work of the campaign and details of organization will be perfected in the various ridings under the general direction of Mr. Cochrane. Mr. R. L. Borden will soon start upon a three weeks' tour through Ontario, and meetings are being arranged as rapidly as possible.

REVOLUTION IN HAYTI STILL ON

Black Republic Having its Troublous Times.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Aug. 1.—Some excitement was caused here yesterday by an unfounded report of the embarkation of President Simon, who on the contrary has decided to resist the revolutionists to the last. The Government has organized a defence of the capital. The public continues alarmed, and awaits with impatience the announced coming of ships of war representing the different nations.

Gabriel Sylvain, a cousin of the Minister of the Interior, was yesterday made prefect of police in succession to Ferdinand, who after being accused of conspiring in the interests of Gen. Firmin, one of the revolutionary leaders, sought refuge in the French legation to avoid arrest. During the night several persons attempted incendiarism, but were surprised and fired upon by a military patrol, under command of Minister Sylvain.

The "17 Decembre" arrived here yesterday. The position of the revolutionists remains unchanged, their forces being held chiefly to the north of the city. Sunday the President appeared in the streets for the purpose of calming and re-assuring the populace.

MR. SEXSMITH A FARMER'S REPRESENTATIVE

Toronto News.

Signs are not lacking in East Peterborough riding that Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, the present member, who was re-nominated a few days ago by the Conservatives, will find almost universal support among the farmers of his constituency. In delivering his views of the effect of reciprocity upon the farmers, he speaks with authority, for he has been a most successful practical farmer hiself and has acquired a wide fund of knowledge not possessed by the average farmer through his having been a director of the Farmers' Institute and the East Peterborough Agricultural Societies for 42 years. Mr. Sexsmith holds the same opinions on the agreement that are held by practically every intelligent farmer in the riding.

Who says he will almost guarantee a solid British Columbia for Mr. Borden.

TO CONCENTRATE AT ALDERSHOT

Is the Order for Fifty Thousand British Soldiers

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 1.—Fifty thousand troops have been ordered to concentrate at Aldershot for manoeuvres.

Husband and Child Missing.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Her husband gone and her 2 1-2-year-old son also vanished, Mrs. Charles O'Neill of 311 Cadieux street, is crushed under a double load of sorrow.

A week ago Charles O'Neill, vendor of small wares, was lost to sight. On Saturday afternoon the little son begged a penny to buy ice cream. He toddled off to make the purchase and has not been seen since.

Two or three days after her husband had failed to return, Mrs. O'Neill received word from Kingston that her husband was being detained in that city.

She communicated with the municipal authorities, but her letter could hardly have left the city when she received another from Toronto, stating that her wandering husband was there, also under detention.

Since then the distracted woman has had no word which might give her a clue as to the whereabouts of her husband, whom she hopes will return to help her seek her baby

Government Decides Not to Press it Before Commons at Present—Unionists Reunite.

London, Aug. 1.—The political crisis over the veto bill has undergone a slight modification, as the Cabinet yesterday decided to postpone the reappearance of the bill before the House of Commons until August 7.

Present anticipations point to the healing of the breach in the Unionist ranks. Lord Lansdowne and his followers, who favor the bill, and the Halsburyites, who are opposed to it, will meet to-night in full force at a complimentary dinner to the Unionist party's late whip, Sir Alexander Ackland Hood, who is now known as Lord St. Audries.

At this dinner Mr. Balfour, the leader of the Opposition, is expected to make a speech in an effort to pave the way for a modus vivendi between the opposing sections of the party. As a matter of fact both sides appear to be tending to this direction. Lord Willoughby de Broke, who is organising the insurgents, yesterday for the first time admitted that his party had gained no accessions in strength.

Lord Lansdowne last night issued a letter discountenancing the idea of any Unionist peers voting in the Government lobby for the veto bill. This belated decision on the part of Lord Lansdowne probably means that he has secured sufficient support to make the Halsburyites powerless against the votes of the Liberal peers, and that therefore there is no longer any necessity for Viscount St. Aldwyn to come to the Government's assistance, as it was rumored he would do by taking into the Government lobby sufficient Unionist peers to out vote the Halsburyites in case they challenged a division.

That the tension has lessened is shown by the fact that King George has decided to remain at Cowes for the rest of the week. There is still a strong belief in the lobbies of Parliament, however, that Premier Asquith, in order to guard against uprises, will nominate a batch of about fifty peers before again trusting the veto bill to the House of Lords.

RIOT CAUSED BY SOUVENIR FANS

Beginning of Subway Work in New York.

New York, Aug. 1.—Souvenir hunters nearly broke up the ceremonies that accompanied the beginning of work on the new subway yesterday. Workmen had loosened a little square of asphalt on Lexington avenue, under which the new line will run, and Public Service Commissioner Willcox was preparing to lift the first shovelful of earth with a silver spade when several thousand enthusiasts swept away the small police guard.

After the reserves had brought order out of the mob, the ceremony was continued, but the first earth was not lifted with a silver spade. It was scooped out of the hole by dozens of unofficial hands while the police fought to keep the city officers and others scheduled to perform the ceremony from being swept off their feet.

When the ceremonies began again the hole was several inches deep, while the crowd continued outside the police lines to scramble for the cubic foot or more of earth gathered by the more energetic of the souvenir hunters.

No arrests were made and nobody was badly hurt, although four women fainted and the police captain had the badge snatched from his cap, also as a souvenir.

Sticks to His Post.

London, Aug. 1.—Although he had engaged passage to New York for himself and wife on board the steamer Lusitania, which sailed last Saturday, the Earl of Cranard was compelled to stay here. The countess sailed alone. The Earl was compelled to forego the trip in order that he may be present to help pass the veto bill through the House of Lords. The fact that he holds a political appointment as master-of-the-horse in the King's household obligates him to the Government.

PROMINENT WOODSTOCK MEN CAUGHT IN A POKER SITTING

Police Raid Effective in Gathering in Fourteen of Them—Layout Confiscated

Woodstock, Aug. 1.—Chief of Police Killing, accompanied by Constable Robertson of the city police force, paid an early morning visit to a Dundas street room about 1.30 yesterday morning and disturbed a quiet game of poker that had been started on Saturday evening, and which had extended into the Sabbath. As a result the names of fourteen men who were in the room at the time, and some of whom are prominent business men of the city were taken, and they in all probability will be asked to appear before the magistrate at an early date.

The raid by the police was entirely unexpected, and resulted in considerable consternation to the members of the party. The police are not talking for publication for some reason or other, but it is understood that quite a little layout was confiscated, including some of the tell-tale chips. The loose change on the table was gathered in by the players.

The raid was carefully planned by Chief Killing, who had received a tip that there was a joint in operation, and the officers effected their entrance to the room by creeping up the back stairs in their stocking feet.

Abbey, the Painter, Dying.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—A cablegram received yesterday by his brother, William Abbel, states that Edwin A. Abbey, the painter, is dying in London. The message, which was sent from London, contained but two words, "Ed. dying." William Abbey, who is a resident of Mount Holly, N.J., but in business in Philadelphia, said yesterday that his brother had been ailing for some time.

Abbey's picture of the Coronation of King Edward was at Toronto Exhibition some five years ago.

London, Aug. 1.—Mrs. E. A. Abbey, wife of the painter, said yesterday that the condition of her husband, who has been in ill-health for some time, was very grave and caused great anxiety. Further than this she did not wish to discuss the illness.

100 Passengers In Peril.

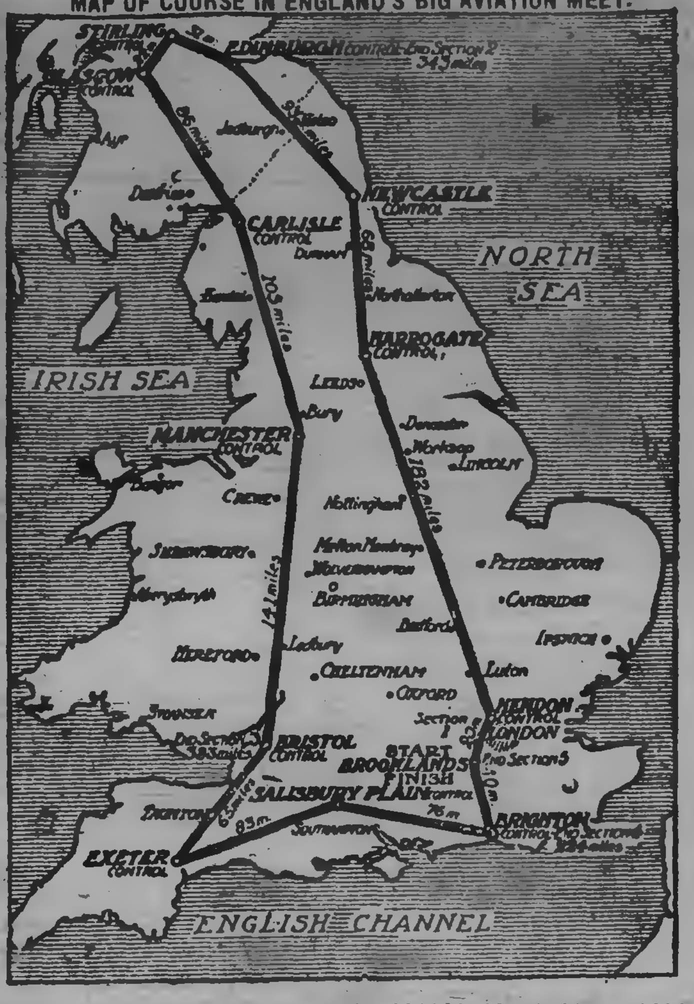
Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—Carrying one hundred passengers, the steamboat Burlington, which left here last evening for Trenton, N.J., struck a rock in the Delaware River three miles below that place and sank.

The passengers, it is reported, were all safely landed.

Drought Closes Cotton Mills.

Charlotte, N.C., Aug. 1.—One hundred and fifty-two cotton mills in North and South Carolina shut down yesterday because of the drought.

MAP OF COURSE IN ENGLAND'S BIG AVIATION MEET.



Successful Leper Treatment.

Washington, Aug. 1.—So successful have been the operations of the American leper settlement on the Island of Celton in the Philippines, that the British Government has formally requested permission to transport to that place for treatment about forty lepers now at British North Borneo.

It will be impossible for this Government to grant the request, as the United States laws prohibiting the entry of such afflicted persons operates in the Philippines by special enactment.

Dies From Injuries.

Chatham, Aug. 1.—Murray C. Hogarth, the man who was thrown from his motor cycle on a speed trip from Tilbury to Chatham, died in the Public General Hospital Sunday night. His spine was fractured, and he was paralyzed from his hips down. His trip was being made on a bet as to the speed of his motor cycle.

Tariff Reformers Deny Rumor.

London, Aug. 1.—Te Tariff Reform Association has issued a denial of the story that they are sending contributions to the Canadian Conservative campaign fund to fight reciprocity.

Whisky Put Him Bad.

Hamilton, Aug. 1.—Francis Pennington, a prominent member of the Wentworth Baptist Church, who, while under the influence of liquor, stole a number of small articles out of a department store here, was remanded for sentence yesterday after Rev. Mr. Quarrington and other church members pleaded for leniency.

Bottomley Loses Appeal.

London, Aug. 1.—Horatio W. Bottomley, the editor, financier, newspaper owner and member of Parliament, yesterday lost his appeal in the Appeal Court from the decision of June 30, by which he was ordered to pay $250,000 to Mrs. Eleanor Curtis, wife of a London barrister. Mrs. Curtis charged Bottomley with getting money from her father by misrepresentation.

Ex-Shah Invades Persia.

Teheran, Persia, Aug. 1.—The Ex-Shah Mohammed Ali Marai left Astrabad Sunday with an overwhelming force, and is now marching on Teheran. There is much apprehension here that the ex-Shah's attempt to regain the throne will succeed. The Government is without power to suppress the Anarchistic conditions which prevail throughout the country.

BOURASSA TO JOIN BLUES

He Will Fight Laurier to the Finish.

No Acclamations by the Liberals Will be Allowed

Montreal, Aug. 1.—The organisation of the two parties is now well under way, although the Government have done nothing to satisfy the Langlois kickers, who ask that Senator Dandurand shall be replaced or assisted, so that the Liberal committee may be more representative.

The Nationalists are out against Laurier all along the line, and Le Devoir publishes a furious article entitled, "The End of a Regime," declaring that if Sir Wilfrid dissolved Parliament it was solely to escape the results of the Oliver investigation or to get away from answering questions re the Imperial Conference.

It is understood that Bourassa and his friends will support the Conservative candidates where there are no Nationalist standard-bearers, and there will be no acclamations on the Government side of the fence.

Murphy May Be Opposed.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Louis Cousineau, a Hull barrister, may run in the Nationalist interests in Wright County, in opposition to C. B. Major.

Hon. Charles Murphy may be opposed in the Russell Liberal convention by George McLaurin, an Ottawa barrister, who is a resident of the county. McLaurin was the Liberal nominee at the last general election, but stepped down to give the then new Secretary of State a safe seat.

Hon. Robert Rogers Undecided.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Hon. Robert Rogers of Manitoba arrived in this city last night, after having had a conversation with R. L. Borden in Ottawa. He intimated that he would shortly leave the provincial for the federal arena, and that if the Conservatives won the next elections he would be found on the Treasury benches. He stated that if the redistribution bill had been passed before dissolution he would have accepted a Manitoba nomination for Ottawa, but that at present he did not know exactly what position he would take. This depended largely upon the future conference with Premier Roblin. He will return to Manitoba immediately to take part in the Conservative conventions.

J. Nunan Will Oppose Paterson.

Brantford, Aug. 1.—Brantford Conservatives will nominate a candidate on Aug. 12 for the Dominion election. In all likelihood W. F. Cockshutt will be the choice of the party.

Rumor has it that Lloyd Harris, the sitting member, who strongly opposed the reciprocity pact, will receive the Liberal nomination.

In Brant constituency J. Nunan, a successful farmer, is slated to oppose Hon. William Paterson, and the Conservative are confident of defeating the Minister of Customs.

HAMILTON INSANE ASYLUM VISITED BY EARLY MORNING FIRE AND EIGHT PATIENTS ARE DEAD

Blaze Started on Top Floor at 1.30 O'clock—Some of the Inmates Fought With Their Rescuers—Six Lives Saved by Lone Fireman Who Braved Smoke and Flames.

Hamilton, Aug. 1.—Eight patients are known to have lost their lives, and many other unfortunates are probably fatally injured as a result of a disastrous fire which started at 1.30 o'clock this morning on the top floor of the Hamilton Insane asylum

THE DEAD.

The list of dead is:

Charles Billyard, Dunnville.
Alfred Nay, St. Catharines.
John Hefferman, Arthur.
Thomas Evans, Elora.
Edward Sodke, Welland.
John T. Holdaway, Lindenwood.
George W. Storey, Hockely.
Albert Bowler, Dundalk.

This list, so the officials believe, is complete.

FOUGHT WITH RESCUERS.

Terrible scenes were enacted during the progress of the fire, some of the patients fighting among themselves in their wild fright, and again with the firemen and officers of the asylum, who made heroic attempts to save them against their will. In a desperate attempt to fight the fire with an extinguisher before the fire engines arrived, Charles Piper had a narrow escape from perishing in the flames. Fireman Thomas Fitzgerald saved six of the inmates by dashing through smoke and flames, and finally, almost lost his own in battling with a crazy man, who refused to respond to the many attempts made to save him. Many of the patients jumped or were thrown from the top stories into the fire net far below, while some clung to the eaves crying piteously for assistance. The attendants had a terrible time getting three hundred inmates together on a top floor and then to safety. Many of the poor creatures persisted in rushing back into the flames, and several were severely burned.

A SOUND SLEEPER.

Dan Porter, a negro, was found sleeping soundly in his room, over which five bodies were found. It is not known just how the fire started. Some twenty years ago this same asylum was visited by a destructive blaze on a Sunday afternoon, but on that occasion all the inmates escaped.

Duties Removed From Coal.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—With a view to relieving the situation as it has developed in the Canadian west in consequence of the prolonged cessation of operations at the coal mines in southern British Columbia and Alberta, an order-in-council was passed by the Government yesterday, providing that on and after Aug. 7 next, duties should be removed on all coal imported into Canada at the ports on the southern frontier west of Sault Ste. Marie, for consumption in British Columbia (east of the 122nd meridian of longitude), and in the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Damaged By Log.

Chatham, Aug. 1.—The steamer Assizraze has been taken to drydock in Detroit for the second time this year. Her propeller struck a sunken log in the river. The Ottawa Government has, upon many occasions, promised to dredge the river to a sufficient depth for navigation, but so far nothing has been done, and it is with great difficulty that a passenger boat is maintained on the Chatham-Detroit run.

The navigation company, despairing of anything being done by the Government, are now engaged taking the logs out of the river themselves.

"Wire Pool" Fines.

New York, Aug. 1.—William P. Palmer and ten others indicted for connection with the wire pools, filed pleas of "noto contendere" yesterday. Palmer had seven indictments against him and was fined $1,600. The rest, with one indictment, were fined $1,000 each.

FIRE DESTROYS BUSINESS PART

Farnham Victim of a Disastrous Blaze.

Farnham, Que., Aug. 1.—Fire destroyed the entire business centre of the town Sunday night, causing a total loss of probably a quarter million.

The blaze originated in a warehouse back of the fire station, about 10.30 p.m., and spreading to adjoining sheds and wooden buildings, got beyond control. Assistance was immediately asked from St. Johns, Montreal and Sherbrooke.

The St. Johns' fire brigade was the first on the scene and did good work checking the fire on Main street, near the Montcalm Hotel on one side of the street and D. B. Meigs' private residence on the other side.

The burnt area covers from the postoffice down to the river on both sides of Depot street, and from the Montcalm Hotel on the south side of Main street to St. Vincent street, and from D. B. Meigs' residence on the north side of the street to the bridge.

The Eastern Township Bank building, which was in the burnt district, is the only building standing, and has not been damaged to any great extent. On arrival of the Montreal and Sherbrooke fire engines the progress of the fire was soon stopped and it was under control at 4 a.m.

Catarrhozone

Cures Permanently BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CATARRH

Throw medicine to the dogs. At best they are unpleasant, often useless. You are suffering from some disease of the throat, nose, or lungs. Doctors call it Bronchitis, Asthma, or Catarrh, or it is a slight or severe cold. Germs cause these diseases—they have a common root.

Catarrhozone destroys disease germs, but it does more; it heals disease tissue.

CATARRHOZONE is little drops of healing carried by air to the exact place where Catarrh exists. Observe, Catarrhozone not only destroys the cause, but immediately repairs the result of diseased condition.

Catarrhozone means little drops of healing carried by air and placed over the lungs, throat, and nasal passages. Catarrhozone is endorsed by doctors, druggists, and by thousands of Canadian people who have used it.

Catarrhozone

Yes, Sir, it is taken in air.

"Little drops of healing" carried by air to weak places in the lungs, throat and nasal passages.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK

From every part of the Dominion, the reports as to the outlook for Conservative success at the coming elections are optimistic and hopeful, as never before, in years. After fifteen years in opposition, the Conservative star is in the ascendant, and it is only a question of time before it reaches the meridian of power.

Hon. Richard McBride says that British Columbia can be depended to return a practically solid Conservative representation. There are only two members from the province now, who are not followers of Mr. Borden—Hon Mr. Templeman, and Smith, the Labor member for Nanaimo. On the prairies, Manitoba can be counted on to remain as strongly Conservative as usual. The Manitoba farmers do not throw away their votes according to the plans of Messrs. McKenzie, Henders, etc., of the Grain Growers Association—the farmers know them too well to be misled into such foolishness. In Saskatchewan and Alberta the Conservative promise gains. At present one Conservative is returned from Saskatchewan, and it will indeed be strange if, after Mr. Borden's tour, there is not a loss of some Liberal seats in that province. The Scott government and the Laurier henchmen are strongly entrenched in Saskatchewan, and it is not probable that the Conservatives can make a deep impression there on the solid Grit vote, but Saskatchewan will come in time. In Alberta the prospects are bright indeed. The split in the rank of the Liberals, which has caused Hon. Frank Oliver to hold his meetings with doors tyled to keep out Liberal intruders; the strength of the Conservative vote; the antagonism to reciprocity, especially in the towns, will all count. It is conceded that McCarthy of Calgary and Magrath of Medicine Hat, two big men in the counsels of Leader Borden, will come off triumphantly, and it is conceded that Herron of MacLeod, will also be returned. There are only four members in the Liberal camp from Alberta, and in spite of the great campaign funds it has been shown that the government has been handling in the west, it is quite probable that with the Liberal ranks split in the bitterest sort of a quarrel, the Conservatives will capture more seats. So, west of the great lakes, the Conservatives will probably increase their majority, rather than lose members. It was this prospect that induced Sir Wilfrid Laurier to hustle the election without waiting for redistribution.

In Ontario the Conservatives look for a gain of twelve or fifteen seats at least. Out of eighty six ridings, Mr. Borden should have a following of at least sixty five members, instead of fifty one at present. The old province of Ontario has nothing to gain, but a great deal to lose by reciprocity, and as the workshop of the Dominion, must, to defend itself, resist all efforts to open our doors to American products in competition with our own.

In Quebec, the opposition to Laurier has developed tremendously. One evidence of the fright into which the Liberals have fallen over Quebec, may be seen in the frantic attacks by the Toronto Globe, in double-leaded editorials, on the Nationalists and Bourassa. Every effort is to be made to stem the tide; but will the tide, bold back? Laurier strengthened himself in Quebec by his anti-imperial "wet blanket" policy at the London conference undoubtedly, but has he lulled the suspicions of his French followers that he was breaking away from their time honored antagonism to anything that savored of better relations with the Motherland? Bourassa is a real menace, but while the Conservatives have no connection with him whatever the breaking of Laurier's hold on the habitant is important. It is his last anchor. That loosened, and his bark will be swept away like a ship on the ocean.

In the Maritime provinces, it is likely that New Brunswick will show Liberal losses, having turned Conservative locally, and the prospects for gains in Nova Scotia by the Conservatives are much brighter.

It will need a turn-over of a score of seats to even matters. Out of over 200 ridings, this is not such a herculean task, with such a big issue in popular condemnation. West Peterboro should do its part, and make a turn-over of one seat out of that score. It is now or never with the Conservatives, who if they do not defeat reciprocity and Laurier now, will probably have to wait until the old foe of Sir John Macdonald has passed out of the political arena, and probably in-harness.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Who is the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough? Winner of the guessing contest will be given a free trip to the Newmarket canal.

The Liberal newspapers are talking of clean sweeps. It is rather refreshing to have them talk of something clean after having to defend the rotten record of Pugsleyism.

By the way, the Farmers' Bank cases are to come up before the courts at Toronto in September. That will be one sort of a trial; the other will be on September 21.

After that East Peterborough convention by the Conservatives, what hopes of F. D. Kerr and must have faded to a pale grey. The Hill faction has vowed not to support a butter-in, anyway.

John D. Rockefeller says that great wealth is a burden. But he forgets that a man can carry one brick on his back quite comfortably, while a hodful will almost break it. Most of us would be glad to have an addition of this kind to our burden.

There must have been a precious lot of scandal in that Oliver business to force the government to dissolve parliament in order to stifle it. Even the Liberal members did not know dissolution was coming so soon. Turn the grafters and the spoilers out.

Mr. Borden declares that he urged on the government the necessity of an early census, so that redistribution could have been put through before the appeal to the people on reciprocity. Mr. Borden saw the Laurier game of refusing to give proper representation to the people, and made himself clear on the subject.

Hon. Frank Oliver says he would have liked to have seen the investigation into that $60,000 campaign fund contribution from the United States go ahead. At that rate, if Oliver were mixed up in the Farmers' Bank affair, he would insist on the courts hustling ahead into the case, instead of making affidavits that public opinion was too prejudiced to afford a fair trial, and asking for delay.

Early Closing Figures.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—After a lengthy report was presented to the authorities yesterday when Chief of Police Campeau produced a document and statistics to show that since the laws for earlier closing of saloons went into effect, May 1, drunkenness had been far more prevalent in Montreal than ever before.

For example, figures for June, showed five times the number of cases of drunkenness calling for police intervention this June were double those requiring similar attention in June, 1910.

The blow was somewhat softened, however, by the statement that police cases in general had somewhat increased in number, and that this was doubtless due to the increase in the population of the city.

The excessive heat has caused a marked increase in crime in Paris.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The foreign demand for old crop spring wheat was fair; but, altho prices bid were 1½c in the per quarter higher than Sunday, they were still out of line with values here, and no new business was reported. The demand for oats for export account was good, but owing to the scarcity of ocean room from here for August exporters could not accept any of those. The local market for coarse grains was quiet and steady. A fair local trade is done in spring wheat flour, and the market is moderately active. The demand for bran and shorts is good, of which supplies are light and prices firm.

Exporters.

A limited number of milkers and springers were slow of sale at $40 to $62 each.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was strong, at $4 to $8.75 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Large receipts caused prices to be easier. Lambs sold at $7 to $7.75, and a few at $7.90. Canadian sheep sold at $4 to $4.60 for ewes. American yearling sheep sold at $5 to $5.60. See sales given.

Hogs.

The Swift Canadian Company quoted hogs at $7.75, fed and watered at the market.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 31.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 29 were 2250 cattle, 1880 sheep and lambs, 2400 hogs and 1000 calves, and on the market this morning for sale were 1250 cattle, 850 sheep and lambs, 1950 hogs and 500 calves.

A feature of the trade was the first arrival of Canadian Northwest ranch cattle, there being over 200 head on the market. The quality was better than expected, after the long run. Altho the supply was much larger than it had been for some time past, the tone of the market was fairly steady, and prices show no important change, as compared with a week ago.

The gathering of buyers was large, and the demand was fairly good. A good clearance was made. A few choice steers sold at 6¼c, but the bulk of the trading was done in this class at 6c, while good stock brought 5½c to 5¾c, fairly good 5c to 5¼c, fair 4½c to 4¾c, and common 3c to 4¼c per pound.

The market for hogs on Sunday was strong, and prices scored an advance of 15c per 100 pounds. Sales of selected lots were made at $8 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars, but a weaker feeling developed in the market this morning, and prices declined 25c to 30c per 100 pounds. The demand was somewhat limited, and this helped to depress prices, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

The trade in small meats was fairly active, and, as supplies were not in excess of the requirements, prices ruled steady. Sheep sold at $4.50 to $5; lambs, at $5.75 to $7, and calves at $3 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

CHAPTER XXIII.

AUTUMN, chilly and wet, had brought sojourners in the country early to town, among them Mrs. Harris and her daughters. Mrs. Harris had requisitioned Jimsy Smith's services before she descended from the mountains. There was a lot to do on their arrival. Would he mind attending to this and that for them, and would he meet them? Jimsy duly attended to this and that, met them in his old genial way, saw them installed in their home, dined with them, as per Mrs. Harris' schedule—and, although the winter was well advanced, had never been there since, except to make a brief call at Christmas.

At each of these visits Emma had thrilled at sight of him and at the sound of his voice. It was with timidity that she had extended her hand to him, but neither by pressure of his clasp nor by any sign of manner, expression or intonation had he given indication of remembrance that their secret was known to each other. He was the same quiet, kindly unchangeable Jimsy. By her alone was his prolonged absence understood. Mrs. Harris and Beth finally attributed it to a reluctance to meet continually on an equal footing his employer, Captain Williams, who had taken Jimsy's place as extra member of the family and usurped all his prerogatives.

To Emma the captain was no longer an object of fear and detestation. She knew that his affection was purely paternal, and he knew that she understood him as no one dead or living ever had or did. She manifested her appreciation of his regard by a confidence which was to the old fellow a comfort and huge delight. Not that his delight took a demonstrative form; that was not in his nature, and Emma would have been greatly astonished could she have known what a boon to him her frank friendliness was.

The fact was that his good deed to Emma had been the first striking effect of a softening process that had been going on very, very slowly, so slowly as not to be noticeable to any extent, for several years, which began when he had been admitted to the family circle of his late general manager and with which, all unconsciously, Emma had had a good deal to do. He had anchored himself to the family as his one connection with refinement and home life. But it had been a cautious anchoring, maintained with distrust and carrying with it no reciprocity in the shape of business or any other favors. A fighter who had got nothing out of existence without fighting, ever on the alert to forestall an expected treacherous blow, his hand had flown to his hip pocket, so to speak, at the slightest movement that appeared to him to be suspicious.

As time wore on, however, his distrust had vanished, and Mrs. Harris and her daughters had become a necessity to him. He was being civilized. He preferred Emma to the others, which is saying that she was the person he liked best on earth, but his manner of showing it had been repellent because misunderstood. In the first place she had hated him for his supposed injustice to her husband, whereas, having read Brooks through from the start, he despised him and would not help him even to make her lot easier. When reawakened distrust, battling with unwillingness to believe that his high estimate of her had been unmerited, had caused him to try her out relentlessly on the occasion of her appeal for Brooks, alone with him and at his mercy in his rooms, she had seen that a warm heart, full of pure regard for her, beat beneath his forbidding exterior. From that night she had learned to respect him and judge him at his real value. His actions and idiosyncrasies received at last their true interpretation.

As for Williams, the proof that he had not been deceived in her fortified his faith and made him really happy. He was getting old. He had won his hard fought, lifelong battle with the world and was as rich as he cared to be. The devil was disposed to turn monk. The yearning for affection, not demonstrative, but existent, which came with the approach of life's sunset and which was not to be found elsewhere was gratified there. He put on slippers, smoked his pipe, had his favorite chair, expressed his views in his authoritative way and liked to be consulted.

But he never ceased to be impressed with the ostentatious proclivities and aristocratic airs of Mrs. Harris and Beth, though he laughed indulgently at many of the mother's foibles. To him the two women represented the beau monde and were authorities on all that pertained thereto. He deemed it a privilege to place one of his automobiles at the family's exclusive command, and it was the most luxurious vehicle money could buy. That he did not give it outright was because he knew their circumstances would not enable them to maintain it.

Emma was different from her mother and sister. She never gave herself airs. He felt himself nearer to her, and the more intimate they grew the more she became endeared to him. She had changed much since she had left Brooks. A spirituality that he had not, of course, known in her in the old days had increased the charm of her personality, but her sensible, unaffected manner, her gentleness, were always the same. More than once he had surprised a wistful, faraway look in her eyes, a fleeting expression of melancholy, and his solicitude had been aroused. Something caused him to refrain from questioning her, but he did considerable pondering about it.

"What a shame it is that a girl like Emma isn't married to some nice fellow worthy of her," he remarked one evening, uttering his thoughts aloud. "There are some things that no man can understand, and this is one of 'em—that she should be handcuffed to a dirty scalawag like Brooks."

"Captain," ejaculated Mrs. Harris, raising her hands, "you mustn't! You know it is understood that the person's name is never to be mentioned."

"I know," he said, "but you can't alter facts because, being disagreeable, you don't want to remember 'em. Brooks is a disagreeable fact, a darned disagreeable fact, and he's Emma's husband into the bargain. As such he ain't to be ignored altogether, because he stands between her and the fair pasture lands."

"Why, captain," smiled Emma, "I'm happy enough. What more could I want than the peace I have?"

"Are you sure, girl?" he answered, shaking his head doubtfully. "I don't know—I don't know."

"Certainly she's happy," put in Beth. "And, as for getting married again, I should think she's had enough of that to last her all her life."

"It's your turn now, Beth," observed Emma.

"Me? Oh, I shall never marry!"

"It doesn't follow because I have been unfortunate that you should be," said Emma. "It is easy to conceive of perfect happiness with the right husband."

"Of course I mean I won't marry until the proper man comes along. I should never make the mistake of binding myself to such a man as—as that beast, or even Jimsy, for instance, though I'm not comparing Jimsy with him in any way."

"What's the matter with Smith?" grunted the captain.

"Well, you would never think of him as a lover. He's so old and unromantic. Besides, his education's terribly defective."

"And he isn't rich," added her mother. "When Beth marries I hope it will be to a gentleman in the position to keep her as she ought to be kept."

"I wonder why Jimsy doesn't come around any more," said Beth. "He hasn't been here since Christmas."

"He says he's too busy," observed Mrs. Harris. "Captain, you must be working him to death."

"Smith's a good man, a corking good man," replied the captain thoughtfully. "He's doing more work than any three. There ain't no necessity that I know of for him to work all night, though, if that's what he's doing."

Emma appeared to be absolutely indifferent to the turn the conversation had taken, though in truth she was listening greedily to Williams' encomiums.

"D' you know," went on the captain, "I've often thought that a man like Smith would be just the right kind of a husband for Emma."

"Like Jimsy?" Mrs. Harris laughed. She did not know whether he was joking or not, but thought he was.

This time a sudden flush dyed Emma's cheeks and deepened over her face to the very ears. No one noticed it, however, unless it was the captain, but when he was leaning forward with his hands between his knees, as he was then, his bushy eyebrows bent in thought, it was impossible to tell where he was looking.

A STRIKING HISTORY

Canada Has Moved Steadily Forward in the Progress of Paper Manufacture.

The first paper mill in Canada was started at Jacques Cartier, Quebec, by a Mr. Jackson in August, 1800, and was in successful operation till 1857. The second mill was started at St. Andrew's, Quebec, in 1803, the same year in which the Fourdrinier machine, which was to revolutionise paper-making was introduced into England.

According to the census of 1851, Upper Canada had five mills and Lower Canada had also five. The census of 1871 gave 12 mills to Ontario, 7 to Quebec, 1 to Nova Scotia and 1 to New Brunswick. The census of 1881 recorded 36 paper mills and 5 pulp mills.

The subsequent progress of the pulp and paper industry is recorded as follows:—

PULP MILLS.

1892	37	312
1899	39	1,145
1907	58	2,361

The total capacity of the mills producing chemical pulp by the sulphite and soda processes in 1899 was about 50 tons per day, and in 1907 about 550 tons per day, so that the increase in the last eight years has been almost wholly in mechanical or ground wood pulp.

PAPER MILLS.

Year.	No. of mills.	Total capacity in tons per 24 hours
1888	40	173
1892	38	209
1899	33	328
1907	46	968

The era of manufacturing pulp from wood in Canada began in the decade of 1880-90. The yearly capacity of its pulp mills at the present time is about 700,000 tons of pulp and 290,000 tons of paper. Pulp first figures in the trade and navigation returns of Canada in 1890, when the total export was valued at $168,180, of which $460 went to Great Britain, $147,098 to the United States, and $20,662 to other countries. In 1897 the total export was $741,959, of which $164,138 went to Great Britain and $576,720 to the United States. In the fiscal year ending April 1, 1910, the export of pulp was $5,204,597, of which $931,150 went to Great Britain, $4,175,209 to the United States, and the balance to France, Mexico, Japan, the West Indies and Italy.

PAPER INDUSTRY.

The exports of Canadian made paper in the nine months of 1907 were valued at $1,657,740, besides $20,412 of wall papers. Great Britain was the largest importer of paper, the amount sent to that country in the nine months being $920,272, to Australia $333,326, New Zealand $139,687, and to the United States $109,273. This is a large increase in recent years, the exports for the whole of the year of 1903 amounting to less than $900,000, including wall papers.

This is a good record, both in regard to manufacturing and the export trade, but the possibilities of the pulp and paper business in its various ramifications, under a rational system of forest conservation, are beyond the conception of the ordinary citizen, who has not followed the course of events in this special field. Nature has marked out Canada to be the leading pulp and paper manufacturing country in the world, if we make the right use of the resources a beneficent Providence has given us. To make mechanical pulp economically cheap water powers are needed, and these we have. The quality of our wood and the quality of the labor to handle it are both unsurpassed by any country in the world.

But what will happen if the unrestricted export of wood drains the country of the raw material upon which these industries are founded? We will be like the drunkard who, after spending his time and money in the saloon, finds himself kicked out in the street, unpitied by those who have despoiled him. This analogy goes deeper than may appear at first thought, because if we allow our land to be stripped of its forests we not merely deprive our posterity of the great benefits of these industries but we commit the greater crime of crippling our water-powers and turning our fruitful lands into deserts.

But the export of pulpwood is poor business from every standpoint. When the present accessible areas is stripped bare to supply American mills it will cost the country millions of dollars to build railways to tap more remote regions, and meanwhile all we shall have derived is the paltry price of pulpwood to the land-owner, plus the freight, which is in the lowest scale fixed by the transportation companies.

In comparing the improvident policy of unrestricted exports in pulpwood with a national forestry policy combined with a national pulp and paper policy, we make take the following illustration, which shows the rapid rise in the value of paper materials: The value of a cord of spruce pulpwood shipped from the Eastern Townships to the United States in 1900 was about $3.50 per cord; while a cord shipped in 1907 and subsequently is worth $6 to $7 in the rough, or $8 to $10 when peeled. To the latter value—the highest valuation in the history of the province and being in itself a confirmation of the preceding statement as to developments in the United States—add the average railway freight ($3 a cord), and the money left in the province from the of the cord of wood is, say, $10. Now, if the same cord of wood is made into ground pulp in Canada, the result would be $20 per cord, and if it were manufactured into news print the value would be $45 per cord, or if into paper of the highest qualities, the value would be $50 to $100 per cord.

Bubonic plague, transmitted by ground squirrels, has appeared in California.

MUST HAVE PAPER.

The Insatiable Demand of the United States.

To appreciate what the products of the pulp mills already mean to our industrial life in Canada to what degree their importance will grow in the near future, we have only to review the development of our neighbor nation, the United States. Although experiments had been made in the production of paper from cellulose, or wood pulp, as early as 1844 in Europe, and the process was introduced into the United States in 1854, the improvement by which it became commercially successful was not employed till 1867, and it only became a regular industry about 1870. At this date eight establishments were reported, whose combined annual product was worth $172,350. Ten years later there were fifty establishments reported, with an annual product of $2,256,946.

In 1850, in the days of rag paper, there were in the United States 443 mills, whose capital was $7,260,864, and whose product was valued at $10,187,177. W. H. HILL, Esq.

Dear Sir,—The results, to hand on my policy in your Company, No. 31787 are so eminently satisfactory, that I consider it a duty I owe both to your Company and the public to say so.

The fact that I have received all the money I paid, during the past twenty years into your Company back, except $617.20 and receive in addition a fully paid up policy of $2,000.00 on my life, still drawing profits EVERY YEAR hereafter, besides having had $2,000.00 of protection for the past twenty years, is too good a thing to hide under a bushel. I therefore desire to let my light shine and reflect a ray of satisfaction and pleasure from the great Sun Life Assurance Company.

I desire to thank you most sincerely, and to heartily congratulate your Company on such a splendid result.

I am,
Very respectfully yours,

COWS MUST NOT ROAM AT LARGE

One Owner in Police Court But He Gets Off

A breach of by-law case was aired at police court to-day, when a north-end resident was charged with allowing his cow to wander on to the premises of the Normal school and do damage to a garden plot and destroy a flower garden.

It was shown, however, that some small boys had opened the pasture-field gate where the cow was grazing, thus allowing it to escape.

The case was dismissed with a warning, but it should be a warning to others who are guilty of allowing their cows to wander at will about which numerous complaints have been received.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Government Pressure Said to be Bearing on Mayor Morrow

The Review is credibly informed that considerable pressure, both local and on the part of the government, is being brought forward, for the purpose of securing the consent of W. G. Morrow, mayor of this city, to accept the nomination for the House of Commons, at the convention of West Peterborough Liberals, to be held this coming Saturday at the Grand Opera House.

That the Liberals of West Peterborough riding are in a quandary is indisputable and to secure the consent of Mayor Morrow to uphold the Liberal cause, would be glad tidings to the Liberal party, no doubt.

Mr. Morrow is probably the strongest man in the Liberal ranks.

SPLENDID SHOWING THIS

Peterborough Shows High Average in Entrance Faculty

Peterborough came out with shining colors in the faculty entrance examinations for Toronto and Queen's Universities. In part 1, six out of the seven candidates were successful, and in part, No. 2, every candidate passed, making a percentage of 100.

This showing is much better than the average, and is highly complimentary to the Collegiate staff. One name James Eyres, doesn't appear in the list. That is because his marks have not yet been made up, owing to the fact that in some papers he wrote for honor scholarships as well as faculty entrance.

The results are;

Faculty entrance, Part I — Mabel Brown, E. Corkery, R. Kirn, Elizabeth McNamara, Frances McNamara, Gladys Moore.

Faculty entrance, Part II — Frank Austin, Dorothy Fessenden, Grant Mowat, May Nesbitt, Leonora Park, Elizabeth Reid, Clara Young.

QUEBEC RETURNS TO OLD LOVE

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier will not have a solid Quebec behind him after the coming election," said Clarence J. McMcCuaig, banker and broker of Montreal yesterday.

"Sir Wilfrid has lost strength in Quebec ever since his navy plan was made known," continued Mr. McCuaig. "Bourassa and Lavergne, both young men, are looked upon by the French-Canadians as the natural successors of Sir Wilfrid, whose span is run. The French-Canadians fear what would follow the passing of Sir Wilfrid. They do not fancy Mr. Fielding as the successor of Laurier. They want one of their own, Bourassa or Lavergne. And if it is necessary to defeat Laurier to achieve this end, they will defeat him.

"Quebec is coming back to her first love, the Liberal-Conservatives," concluded Mr. McCuaig.

SUDDEN DEATH AT GARDEN HILL

Mrs. Wm. Dean Passed Away After Taking Meal

Special Correspondence.

Garden Hill, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Wm. Dean, relict of the late Wm. Dean, died at the family residence very suddenly Saturday evening. She ate her dinner, to all appearances in the best of health, and was around all afternoon appearing to be more cheerful than she had been for some time and had gone to her room to get a letter she had received from her son's wife in Minneapolis for the rest of the family to read. Then she fell off the chair and expired immediately. She was a sister of the late Wm. Henry and Ferguson and was an estimable person, loved by both old and young. Those of her family who mourn her loss are William, who was living with her; John, Ephriam and Stewart, of Garden Hill; Mrs. Walter Walker, of Welcome, and Mrs. Robt. Caracadden, of Port Brittain, and Mrs. Wm. Maize, Garden Hill. A very large number attended the funeral to St. Paul's cemetery, Perrytown, on Monday, when the Rev. Mr. Lowes, incumbent, conducted the funeral service. The Walker brothers, of Port Hope, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

It is said that travelling photographers are at work in the city, who are not doing business on right principles, and the public is warned not to be victimized.

The Charity Board were to have met last evening, but there was no quorum, and the meeting was not held.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

DID MUCH BETTER.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In one of your editorials the other day you claimed credit for the Conservative party because at the East Riding convention the total number of delegates voted with the exception of four. But does it not strike you that the Liberals at their convention did much better, inasmuch as seventeen more votes were polled than the total number of delegates?

Yours,
INDEPENDENT.

THE CHIMES.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In the official statement relative to the people's chimes, it is stated by way of apology that "the unusual amount of foliage throughout the city interferes somewhat with the bells being heard in all parts of the city."

Such an excuse seems far fetched in view of the fact that the foliage never interfered with the old bell when it swung in the same tower, nor in its present position. The old bell has more volume of sound and can be hard further than the whole thirteen new ones combined. The Cobourg chimes, which cost only one-quarter as much, can be heard two or three miles.

It is also stated that "Mr. R. Devey has consented to act as chimes master and Mr. John Butcher has been appointed chimer." What does that mean? Does it take two to play the chimes, or what are the duties of the chimes master? Is it a sinecure, or is it an honorary position, or a meritorious one? To the ordinary mind it implies incapability on the part of Mr. Butcher, who, I am informed, can play more instruments than anyone, or is the best all round musician in this city.

Yours, etc.,
ENQUIRER.

STRYCHNINE PURCHASED BY HARRISONS LAST MAY

Wrapper Labelled Poison Found at the Home—Inquest Adjourned Again.

The adjourned inquest to discover how Mrs Thomas Harrison, of Frazerville came to her death on Friday, July 22nd, was resumed on Monday at the Orange Hall, Frazerville, by the coroner, Dr. Greer.

It was again adjourned till Aug. 14th, awaiting the report of the provincial analyst of Toronto, to whom the stomach of the deceased was sent for examination.

There were several witnesses questioned, but nothing was revealed which was of sufficient strength to enable the jury to come to a definite decision as to how the deceased met her death.

BOUGHT STRYCHNINE.

Mr. J. W. McDermid, the druggist, with whom the late Mrs. Harrison dealt, was present and testified to having sold 15 grains of strychnine to the Harrisons on May 27th. The record of the sale was marked down in his sales book. A little girl who was sweeping the Harrison kitchen last Saturday, said she found a paper wrapper labelled poison, and it was produced at the inquest.

Other witnesses were Mr. B. Johnston, Dr. Russell, of Bailieboro, Geo. Moncrief, Joseph Madill, Robie Harrison, Thomas Harrison, husband of the deceased, G. N. Gordon, Mr. Little, of the Bank of Toronto, Mrs. King, and Mr. Bert Howden.

Feeling over the matter is quite strong in the neighborhood of Frazerville, and the finding of the provincial analyst and the verdict of the jury is awaited with interest.

HALE AND HEARTY VISITOR AT THREE SCORE AND TEN

Mr. James Staples Finds Interesting Changes in This City.

In the person of Mr. James Staples of Treherne, Man., who has been visiting Peterboro and vicinity for the past week, there is a splendid example of robust and hearty old age, even though his years have long crept passed the allotted three score and ten Mr. Staples is 88 years old, and his smartness and intelligence at that grand old age is remarkable. He accompanied his son, William Staples, M.P., for the MacDonald constituency Man., as far East as here, the latter having come this way en route for Ottawa. Mr Staples sr., is an uncle of Mr. J. A. Storey, Weller Street and was his guest for a portion of his visit East.

Having gone West about twenty-five years ago, and during that period not having visited Peterboro, he now finds a vast change in the appearance of the city and vicinity. The lift-lock which he visited made a great impression on his mind, and he walked to the top without any assistance, a plain evidence of his vigor.

Mr. Staples was born in Cavan township, where he has a host of friends. A large portion of his visit was spent in visiting these old friends also many in Emily, Ounemee, and Lindsay. He is a half-brother of Joseph Staples of Monaghan and of Robert Staples, Cavan.

He returned to Treherne this morning highly delighted with his jaunt East, and only regretting that it was impossible to remain longer.

BODY IDENTIFIED AS JOHN CARROLL FOUND IN STABLE

Was Badly Decomposed But No Marks of Violence were Visible.

Formerly Lived in Cobourg Where One Brother Patrick Now Resides

BODY IDENTIFIED.

This afternoon Constable Archie Moore informed the Review that the body of the man found in the Madill stable was that of John Carroll, of Cobourg, it having been identified as such. The deceased has one brother, Patrick Carroll, in Cobourg, and Constable Moore is inquiring as to the place of burial.

The dead body of an unknown man was discovered yesterday about five o'clock in an unfrequented stable, on the property of Mr. Joseph Madill, near Fraserville. The shocking discovery was made by one of the farm hands, named Thompson, when he entered the stable to put in a team of horses. He was assailed by a bad odor, and an investigation brought to light the horrible discovery.

The body was lying on its back with hands at the sides and resting on the thighs.

BODY DECOMPOSED.

A felt hat was jammed down on the head and the body was fully clad. The face was black, partly owing to decomposition, which had set in, and the hands were in a similar condition. The body was resting on a quantity of hay, which was piled in the manger. As far as noticed there were no marks of violence on the remains.

Mr. Thomson immediately notified his employer of the discovery, who in turn communicated with Coroner Dr Greer.

Mr. Archie Moore took possession of the body, and at the conclusion of the Harrison inquest, which adjourned at eleven o'clock last night, a new jury was sworn in, composed of the following: Joseph Madill, (foreman), George Bidgood, Albert Reynolds, Geo. Moncrief, William Laing, Sydney Armstrong, John Armstrong, N. Sage, Stanley Armstrong, Stewart Hogg, Robert Lockie, and John Boyd.

The jury viewed the body and adjourned till Wednesday. Dr. Amys, it is stated, is to make a post-mortem examination of the body between 10 and 11 o'clock to-day.

The inquest will be resumed on Wednesday morning at the North Monaghan council hall.

There is a supposition existing in the neighborhood of Fraserville that the body is that of John Barrall, an elderly man who was at one time in the House of Refuge.

Scenes Before and After Visit of Fire—To Start in Business Again.

Mr. Arthur Tompkinson, who with his brother Harry, had their photo gallery and business wiped out in the Porcupine holocaust, is spending a few days in Peterborough visiting friends has in his possession a splendid collection of photographic views taken by himself of Porcupine, before and after the fire.

Mr. Tompkinson is very optimistic in regard to the future of Porcupine, and states that property there has taken a big jump in price. It is the intention of he and his brother to erect a new photo gallery and carry on their business as formerly, only on a more extensive scale. People are flocking into Porcupine in large numbers, he says, all inspired by the prospects which the place is offering. A fine new $35,000 hotel is to be erected called the King George, and the new structures as a whole are better, and more solid and lasting in every way, than formerly.

Mr. Tompkinson was one of those who came through alive by wading out in the lake and remaining there for about an hour or more, until the flames had expended themselves. He was with a number of other young fellows at the time, all of whom regarded the affair with cheerfulness and kept up their spirits by singing and laughing. The next few days, however, were the saddest he said, when they were bringing in the bodies and shipping them away. Some of the views shown to the Review depict the miners constructing rough board boxes and coffins in which to place the bodies for shipment. Another view is that of a man with face and arms swathed in bandages, protecting his burns, being supported by two miners. Several views of the main street in Porcupine before and after the fire are especially descriptive of what a clean sweep the fire effected in the destruction of everything in its path. Only the telegraph poles on both sides of the road which was formerly the main street, show that a main street ever existed in the town.

Mr. Tompkinson will be in the city for a few days before returning to Porcupine.

MORE KICKING AGAINST OIL

A local business man said to a Standard reporter this morning that the merchants were kicking vigorously against the extravagant use of oil on Princess street. He said a Princess street merchant put a set of curtains in his window worth $12, and had to sell them for $5. The livery keepers are complaining about their horses slipping and getting their feet skinned—Kingston Standard.

DUFFERINS OF TORONTO TO MEET LOCALS SATURDAY

Leading City Leaguers Coming With Regular Line-up —Will Make Great Ball Game.

The management of the local ball club have arranged to bring the Dufferins of Toronto here next Saturday, and hopes to have a large crowd on hand at Riverside, as the expense is very heavy.

Dufferins took the leadership of the Toronto City League, on Saturday, when they took the Park Nines into camp with a 6-4 count. The regular team is to be brought here for the game and the locals will have a stiff proposition.

Jimmie Obearn is back in the city and will take the second cush on again, and "Pete" Campbell is to be seen in action again. Quinlan and Gouter are billed to do the battery work.

This game should be largely patronized as it is sure to be a hummer.

The visitors are strong in all departments.

If the attendance is up to what it should be, the local management intend to bring other fast outside teams for engagements here. It must be remembered that the expense in these games is heavy, and if the fans fail to turn out on Saturday, it is not likely that there will be anything else of any account doing for the remainder of the season.

HIGH VALUE OF ALL STAR TEAM

New York, July 31.—A baseball statistician here who thinks he knows the valuation of star baseball players estimates that the team that beat the Clevelands for the Joss benefit on Monday would bring the following prices if placed in the market: Ford, $25,000; Johnson, $20,000; Wood, $8,000; Livingston, $5,000; Street, $6,000; Chase, $30,000; Collins, $35,000. Baker, $20,000; Wallace, $6,000. Crawford, $15,000; Speaker, $15,000; Cobb, $35,000, and Milan, $5,000. He adds generously that this team as a whole would win a world's championship in a walk.

BASEBALL

In all probability the fast team representing the West End Athletic Association, of Peterborough, which played a game in Lindsay last year, will play here again on Saturday next, Aug. 5th. Manager Oldham was in town to-day and made arrangements for the game, stating that the Petes will run an excursion and figure on bringing between two and three hundred people to town. The games between Lindsay and Peterborough will be looked forward to by the Lindsay fans.—Lindsay Warder.

An excursion from Frankford on August 9th, will be accompanied by a ball team, which would like to arrange a game with a local nine. Further information may be obtained from the sporting editor of the Review.

LEAFS LOST TO NEWARK

Long Winning String Broken—Detroit Downed Athletics

Newark, N.J.—Just as the Toronto Maple Leafs were congratulating themselves on the prospect of adding another victory to their string of sixteen straight wins this afternoon, the Newark Indians sprung a surprise in the shape of a ninth-inning rally and won out 3 runs to 2. The Braves collected five singles in this round, together with a sacrifice hit, before the two runs necessary to carry off the honors were sent over the pan. The stand of the Redskins was entirely unexpected, as they had only been able to fathom the slants of Bachman, the Toronto twirler, for four hits during the previous eight innings.

The Indians scored in the fourth, when Nee singled, advancing on Agler's sacrifice, and scored on Kelly's clout after stealing third. The Maple Leafs evened up matters in the fifth, when Kocher crossed the pan, after singling, on raps by Fitzpatrick and Bachman. In the fifth Delehanty singled and romped home when Reams let Nee's return of Jordan's rap get away. Agler, who has been sold to the Chicago Nationals, started the ninth with a rap over Vaughn's head. Kelly laid down a suicide bunt, and Dalton beat out a deep hit to Vaughn. Agler tallied when G. Smith hit one toward left that Vaughn stopped, but could not get the man. Fisher then hit one to Vaughn that went for a hit, and London rapped a hard one to Fitzpatrick that the second sacker knocked down, Dalton scoring the winning tally.

Philadelphia, July 31.—Detroit tied the score in the ninth to-day and by scoring four runs in the tenth won their first game of the present series from Philadelphia.

THE CHOICE OF DEATH.

Condemned Murderers Prefer Shooting to Hanging.

Why do condemned murderers prefer shooting in preference to hanging? Since the State of Utah passed a law giving convicts this choice, Arthur Pratt, warden of the Utah State prison, has not had one who would go to the gallows. On one occasion a murderer refused to make a choice, and the judge sentenced him to be hanged.

"Utah has a law which allows a condemned murderer to choose either hanging or shooting as a mode of dying," said Warden Pratt. "This work is done by the sheriffs of each county, but in the penitentiary yard. So far we have not had a man who has chosen hanging. Once a murderer refused to make a choice, and the judge sentenced him to be hanged. Shooting is the more humane. It is painless and instantaneous. The condemned man is led to the prison yard, seated on a chair, and, if he desires, is blindfolded. Five men armed with rifles are then marched to within ten paces of the man. Four of the rifles contain ball cartridges. The fifth has a blank shell. A target is pinned over the heart of the condemned man, all five guards take careful aim, and at a signal the volley is fired. The ordeal is over in a few moments, whereas in hanging the suspense and suffering last for many minutes."

A woman moved into a strange neighborhood. The following Monday morning she was out in the yard, hanging out her wash. The woman living next door was also hanging out her wash, and said to the stranger, "And so you play the piano too!" And that's the way they became acquainted.

Canada as everybody knows is a very great food exporting country. We sent out in the year 1910 $21,607,692 worth of cheese, practically the whole of which was sent to the United Kingdom. We exported to the same destination $6,836,392 worth of bacon and ham. The wheat export of the Dominion of Canada which at confederation reached only 2,284,702 bushels, amounted in 1910 to no less than 49,741,350 bushels of which over 46,509,000 bushels was sent to Great Britain.

Our Canadian farmer is greatly interested in this export business and particularly in his connection with the British market, but it is not generally realized that this foreign or export market represents only a small part, not more than one fifth of the interest of the Canadian farmer as a producer. The statement has been very frequently made that 80 per cent of every thing that is grown upon our farms is consumed within our own borders. Some people have been inclined to challenge this. They have the general idea that the Canadian farmer is a grain grower and that Canada is a grain exporting country and have failed to appreciate the enormous growth of our own home consumption, and the vast quantity of farm produce that is necessarily consumed in a community of eight million people or by cities like Montreal and Toronto with about half a million of inhabitants each.

On examination there seems ample warrant for the statement that Canada consumes 80 per cent of this agricultural output. We may reach this result from the following calculations:

The Crop Bulletin for 1909 places the value of all the wheat, oats and barley grown in Canada that year at $289,144,000.00. To arrive at the home consumption of the crops we must deduct the net exports, i. e., the exports of such produce proper, less any imports entered for consumption. For the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1910, the exports (Canadian produce only) were:

Barley	$ 1,107,732
Oats	1,566,612
Wheat	52,609,351
Total	$55,283,695

For the same period the imports entered for consumption were:

Barley	$102,908
Oats	27,287
Wheat	55,61
Total	$185,807

Deducting one from the other it leaves the net exports $55,097,888. The balance therefore, $234,046,112, or 81 per cent. of the whole, represents what was consumed by the home market.

It will be noticed that the above example deals only with three commodities, wheat, oats and barley. The computation which follows embraces all field crops.

According to the Bureau of Statistics, the total value of Canadian field crops for 1909 was $532,992,100. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of field produce (Canadian grown only) were:

To the British Empire	$76,427,447
To other countries	14,006,300
Total	$90,433,747

Of this $20,083,950 was exported in a manufactured state, (flour, oatmeal, etc.), leaving the exports of unmanufactured field products $70,349,788. But again, to arrive at the net exports we must deduct imports of unmanufactured field products valued at $12,601,742, bringing the final amount down to $57,748,046. From these statistics the home market appears to have consumed 89—1-5 per cent. of the total production.

Neither of the above illustrations takes cognizance of animal products, and in the absence of an annual inventory showing the value of our live stock, it is difficult to furnish satisfactory figures. The following comparison however, is suggestive. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of unmanufactured field products as shown above were $70,349,788; to this add our exports of animals and unmanufactured animal products, $43,900,000, and it shows our total exports of unmanufactured farm products to be $114,000,000. Lumping the two together they only amounted to 21 per cent. of the value of the field crop alone. As a matter of fact, the grain crop for last year of one province (Ontario) was worth $54,000,000 more than all the farm exports of the whole of Canada.

The Butter Trade of Canada.

In the year ending 1910 Canada shipped only 4,515,380 pounds of butter, worth $1,016,274. Canada's imports of butter on the other hand amounted to 687,454 pounds, dorth $104,301.

These imports into Canada last year are given below, with the rate of duty that had to be paid on coming into the country; and also with the changes in that rate which would be effected under Reciprocity.

SOME REMARKABLE INSURANCE.

Lloyds Underwriters Will Take All Kinds of Risks.

Some remarkable underwriting business in fancy risks have been done by Lloyd's in connection with the coronation. Large insurances have been effected by traders whose interests are bound up with the coronation, and ten per cent has been paid to cover a claim should the ceremony not take place before the end of the year. In one or two cases policies have been taken out on the joint lives of the King and Queen until the end of the year, at the rate of four guineas per cent, whilst a "Royal Family" risk has been accepted, insuring the lives of the King and the Queen and their children for the same period, the premium in this instance being ten guineas per cent. A possible change of route for the coronation procession has also come within the speculative scope, though the premiums are small.

To pay a loss if there is a general election before March 31, 1912, twenty-five guineas per cent is quoted, and five per cent has been accepted to cover the payment of a claim should Mr. Lloyd George become prime minister on or before December 31 next. This risk has been written several times, but the amounts involved are not large.

The next budget has also been the basis of speculative business of this nature at Lloyd's.

The last rate quoted to pay a loss in the event of the duty on sugar being abolished was twenty guineas per cent, whilst several policies to cover a reduction in the tea duty have been taken out at twenty-five guineas per cent, the equivalent premium for coffee and cocoa being thirty-five guineas per cent. The possibility of an increase in the cost of license is apparently considered remote, seeing that a policy for this risk can be got at twenty per cent.

By far the largest amount of speculation has, however, been done in connection with the income tax, and a rate as high as fifty guineas per cent has been charged on a policy to pay a total loss only in the event of no alteration being made in the present charges.

Parisian street cleaners have been provided with tricycles with which to ride about the boulevards, picking up waste paper with spiked sticks without dismounting.

RECORDS OF LOCAL COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

Interesting Figures Showing Differences in Yield of Milk

In the Ennismore association the best cow gave 1,770 lbs. of milk and over 50 lbs. of fat, while the poorest cow gave 745 lbs. milk and about 28 lbs. fat, or less than half that produced by the best cow.

In the Trewern association the best cow produced 1,620 lbs. milk, and over 56 lbs. fat, while the lowest cow produced 570 lbs. milk and 18 lbs. of fat.

At Shearer the best cow gave 1,380 lbs. milk and 45 1-2 lbs. fat, while the lowest cow gave 560 lbs. milk and 19 lbs. fat.

In the Warsaw association the best cow gave 1,140 lbs. milk and 52 lbs. fat, while the lowest cow gave 760 lbs. milk and 25 lbs. fat.

A herd of eight cows in the Norwood association has the high average of 1,387 lbs. milk and 44 lbs. fat. A herd like this should be an inspiration to every farmer.

FLEETWOOD NEWS

Special Correspondence

Fleetwood, Aug. 1—The crops in this section will be light, hay is not half a crop, early oats are taking a second growth, and late sowed oats are coming on fine, fall wheat, what there is of it is a splendid sample, spring wheat a very poor, ragged crop; barley is a good sample, oatstraw in most cases is short, peas are from medium to good. The fruit crop will be small. Potatoes in most cases have been badly destroyed by the beetle, but there are some very fine patches yet. Turnips which came up early, are coming on good, corn is growing very fast and promises to make a good showing, and the little pests of grasshoppers are a full crop.

Messrs. Graham Bros. of Pethany have recently purchased the well known Weller property in Millbrook. This property is noted for its beautiful situation. I think one could not find a better situation in Millbrook, and they are to be congratulated on their fine purchase.

Mr. Archie Staples has recently purchased a new threshing outfit, and he expects it to arrive any day now. Archie ought to make a success of it as he is a great man for machinery.

The new C.P.R. line is coming on fast and we expect it to be all ready for the fall trade.

INDIAN RIVER

Special Correspondence

Indian River, Aug. 1.—Farmers are busy harvesting at present. They are pleased with the cool weather we are having which renders it more pleasant for working.

Quite a number attended the Baptist church service a few weeks ago, among the strangers were Sergeant G. J. Elmhurst, Mr. John Lancaster and Mr. James Clysdale, of Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kidd sang a duet which the congregation greatly appreciated.

It is quite a common event now for the ladies to take tea at Indian River. A number of them thought they would enjoy themselves in this quiet way one fine afternoon, and having spread a very sumptuous repast on the grass and having made a temperate drink of water and lemons, were about to partake of it, when one of the number accidentally upset the lemonade. As a result they were forced to hurry home rather earlier than usual to have their thirst quenched.

The community will no doubt be disappointed to hear that Mr. Stewart Elmhurst will not do any tailoring here as he cannot secure a suitable shop. We hope the improvement society recently organized will look after this matter and see that a number of shops are built along the main street, as there are some vacant lots which no doubt could be purchased from the owners at a reasonable price.

Mr. David Kidd the new mayor of the village, was in Peterborough this week. Mr Kidd's ice-cream must be very palatable as crowds come from all directions for it on Saturday evenings. Mr Kidd will likely have to enlarge his ice-cream parlors.

Miss Mary Elmhurst was a guest of Miss Maggie Shearer on Saturday and Sunday of last week.

Another social will be given here again soon, but the date is not yet decided on. We purpose having Mr. Billie Faux, Villiers, one of our best local singers to entertain us again. As most of his music is classical, Mr. Faux will play his own accompaniment.

Miss Ada Elmhurst spent a few days this week visiting friends near Peterborough.

Mr. Donald Bone has a special aversion for dogs lately.

MURDERER STILL FREE

Frank Griccio Is Wanted For Killing Tarro.

Toronto Police Are Guarding Every Exit From the City and Are Tightening the Coils on Author of Sunday's Crime—Men Had Had Quarrel Either Over Money or a Woman—Griccio Carried Revolver.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Frank Griccio on a charge of murdering Frank Tarro at the corner of Front and Church streets on Sunday afternoon. Griccio for the past two years has lived with a young French woman named Rosa Brunet at 175 Jarvis street, who gave evidence at the inquest last evening to the effect that Griccio and Tarro had quarreled on more than one occasion, and that he carried a revolver of 38 calibre because he feared a man whom he did not like.

Griccio has been in the hands of the police before on a charge of having stolen property.

It is said that the trouble was due to money matters, and that Tarro was deeply in debt to the accused. Yet another story is to the effect that a woman is at the bottom of the case, and that Griccio and Tarro were rivals.

It appears that Tarro and Griccio set out from the restaurant on York street to meet in a duel, but changed their minds and returned to the boarding house good friends. They started out again, and the next heard of them at the York street house was that Tarro had been murdered.

FRANK CRICCIO.

So far there is no trace of Griccio, though fifty telegrams and pamphlets have been sent broadcast by the detective department. Word has been sent to nearly every place where it is thought the criminal might take refuge.

All last night the police and detective force was keeping a strict watch of the exits from the city and a constant watch has been kept on some Italian houses where it was thought the assassin might be concealed.

The disappearance of Griccio, the police believe, is good evidence against him. He has not appeared since the time he and Tarro left the restaurant in the afternoon, and yesterday morning Rosa Brunet set out in search of him. She called at the restaurant in York street, and the only reply given by the numerous men she enquired of was that he had not been seen. She returned to her room on Jarvis street and was not informed of the murder until a detective arrived in the afternoon and had her accompany him to Court street station.

"He (Graccio) always carried a revolver," said Rosa Brunet, at the inquest. He told me that there was one man in Toronto that he was afraid of, and that it was better to shoot him than to be shot. He was afraid that he would be shot in the back some day."

About three weeks ago he had some words with Tarro, but nothing to fight about. After that the two were good friends. Tarro's brother was a particular friend of Griccio.

"I last saw Griccio about 11 o'clock Sunday morning," she stated. "He had been with me all night, and left me to go to an Italian restaurant at 160 York street, where he always ate. I always eat at an American restaurant. He was dressed in a blue suit, wearing a black Christie and tan shoes."

In response to a query from Mr. Monahan she stated that she did not know his present whereabouts. She had enquired at the Italian restaurants he patronized, but they had not seen him since Sunday noon.

Griccio had been a barber by trade, and for some time did odd days' work at 174 York street. On Friday he drew his money from the Imperial Bank, but the witness declared that she knew nothing of this.

Fourteen Killed In Riot.

El Oro, State of Mexico, Aug. 1.—In repelling a mob of striking miners, who yesterday freed the prisoners in the jail, troops fired into the crowd, killing fourteen and wounding others.

More than 4,000 men representing the underground forces of the Mexico and La Esparanza mines, are out. If these men should be joined by those in El Oro, the number of strikers would number 7,000. They demand higher wages.

One hundred soldiers were sent from the state capital to El Oro yesterday afternoon. It is expected that 1,000 soldiers will be here to-day from the capital.

837 Children Died.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—For the month of July the total deaths numbered 1,175, and of these 837 deaths were those of children under five years of age, is the effect of a report presented yesterday at the City Hall. The health officials say that this showing is the worst in the history of the city.

The British admiralty has discovered armor plate steel 20 per cent tougher than the present standard.

HORROR OF PRISON

A Youth Writes of the Weeks that Seem as if they Would Never End

After being arrested for stealing overcoats from boarding-houses in Shepherd's Bush and Hammersmith, Thomas William Graham, aged twenty-one, a neatly-dressed clerk, wrote a statement pleading the misery of his life. In this statement he said:

"I am sick of this hopeless existence, and the hopelessness of this life. During the last five years my life has been misery. I am ruined physically and morally, and the longer I stay in this world the more misery I shall have to endure.

"On my release from prison I came out with the intention of leading a better life, but having nowhere to go and no work led to sleeplessness and starvation, which weakened what little self-control I had left, and I fell.

"The world is a hard place to live in. What chance have we who have lost our characters when the men who have cannot get work? Prison has done me no good. It has hardened me and made me an atheist and a misanthrope.

"Just look at my record. Do you think I will ever get on? No; I do not, and so I intend to put an end to this misery. You little know the misery we undergo in prison, when the days seem weeks, and the weeks infinity. For five years I have been hardly out of prison.

"I have a good pater and mater, but I have disgraced them by my conduct, and for three years I have not seen them. They gave me a good education, and this is the result of it.

"There are two things I think, will pull me up. That is, work and marriage."

Nine previous convictions were proved, and sentence of fifteen months' imprisonment was passed.

MAY WIPE OUT LOW NECKS

Queen Mary Has Started a Crusade Against Them, and "High Necks" Will be Good Etiquette

Queen Mary, whose habits and ideas are very puritanical in every way, has decided upon a crusade against the low-necked evening dress, and in this she has the full support of King George. During the reign of King Edward, and even under Queen Victoria, the court dresses of ladies were cut as low as possible, but Queen Mary has a great dislike for this fashion, and she has made it clear to the ladies of her household that if a dress is cut away at the neck at all it should be as little as possible. At the present time the edicts of the Court make it compulsory for low-necked dress to be worn on all "full-dress" occasions, but this will be greatly modified during the next few years.. She prefers to introduce the innovation gradually, but she has already made it clear that elderly ladies and others, who desire to wear high-necked dresses at next season's courts may do so without infringing any detail of court etiquette.

SENSIBLE HORSES

The Almost Human Intelligence Which is Developed in Them by Van Work

A curious illustration of the sense displayed by horses was given in London during the hearing of a claim by Henry Thorpe, an ex-soldier, and a porter, employed by the Post Office, against James Allen, to recover $250 damages for personal injuries. It appeared that the defendant's van was backed against a platform at Mount Pleasant, and the plaintiff proceeded to unload it. Before he had finished the doors of the van next to him were slammed, causing the defendant's horse to start off, and the plaintiff was flung to the ground, injuring his shoulder. A witness said the horses engaged in this kind of work had so much sense—almost human, in fact—that no warning was necessary to say the van was unloaded, and it could start off. Directly the doors were shut and the bolt put up the horses would start away just as if they had been told to do so, and it was a rare thing for them to make a mistake. It was contended that the defendant was not liable for damage done by a startled horse that bolted. The jury awarded plaintiff $75 damages and costs.

ROMANTIC RUSSIAN TRAGEDY

A young lieutenant of the Yalta garrison (Russia) became engaged some months ago to a very pretty and accomplished girl, the adopted daughter of a Crimean family in affluent circumstances. The marriage was to have taken place in the Yalta military chapel. Almost at the last moment it was discovered that the bride was a foundling when adopted by her foster-parents, and further search showed that she was the half-sister on her mother's side of the bridegroom. The lieutenant shot himself when he learned the news, and the unfortunate girl, who knew nothing of her real parentage, has lost her reason.

A BONELESS CHILD

The St. Asaph Board of Guardians has just discussed the case of a girl who is reported to have no bones. She is 15 years of age, but weighs only 30 lbs. and is only 36 inches in height. In place of bones she has "soft formations." She has never been able to walk, but her framework is such that she has been able to move about on crutches. She is the daughter of a laborer in poor circumstances.

WOLVES IN FRANCE

There are still wolves in France. A bonus of $10 per head is paid by the State for an adult wolf, and $2.50 for cubs weighing less than 19 lbs. When it can be proved that the wolf has attacked human beings the slayer receives a special bonus of $20. Last year the number of wolves killed was ninety-eight.

FARM AND FIELD

EGG CANDLING.

A Good Way of Testing Eggs for Market.

The time of year is at hand when it is a little difficult to always know the condition of the eggs that are gathered, even upon well managed farms. Candling at home puts the producer in position to demand and to secure what his eggs are worth, and in this connection the following description of the contents of eggs, ranging from fresh to absolutely rotten, as they appear under the candle is of interest. It is from a newspaper bulletin put out by the Indiana station:

Rotten.—Muddy or very dark in appearance, yolk and white mixed, air cell large and sometimes moveable.

Cracked.—White lines showing irregularly in shell.

RAISING CHICKENS.

Chickens Can Be Raised Successful in Your Yard.

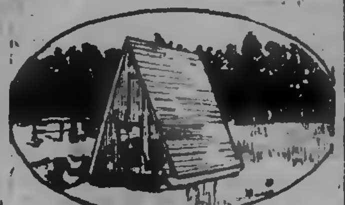
For long it was the generally accepted theory that a hen needed about 160 acres in which to roam and scratch, and that a big barnlike house was needed for just a medium sized flock to roost.



Wrong. One well tested system gets excellent results both in eggs and meat by confining chickens in very close quarters. In little backyards of city lots a flock of hens will grow and lay and fatten for the market or your table just as if they were on the farm.

If the largest plot you can give to chickens is only eight feet by four, that will do for a half dozen hens and a rooster, and with right care you ought to get 50 dozen of eggs a year.

Multiply that by more space and more hens and see how it will cut down your cost of living. Also it will make you free of the cold storage product, and what is almost as good to the city man, the larger the production of eggs and poultry the less the demand for pork, beef and mutton, and corresponding lower prices for all meats.

FARMERS TO MEET BORDEN.

Arrangements are being made by the farmers of the three prairie provinces to meet Mr. R. L. Borden when he comes West next month. It is felt by the farmers that as Mr. Borden is Premier of Canada in prospect, he should be made fully aware of the desires of the Western people.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier toured the West last summer he was met by the organized farmers at every point where he held meetings, and the demands of the farmers were firmly and courteously placed before him.

Mr. Borden will hold thirty meetings in the West, and it is the intention to have a delegation meet him at every point and lay before him the needs of the West. The same matters will be brought before Mr. Borden as were discussed with Sir Wilfrid last summer, though the demands of the farmers are now crystallized into more definite shape.

WATERWORKS FOR FARM.

An increasing number of enquiries are received asking for methods of supplying water to country homes. It has been one of the drawbacks of life on the farm compared with the city that while water might be in abundant supply it has not been convenient for all purposes of the household. In response to the demand for better appliances many improvements have of late years been made in pumping and piping outfits. Water in the house for free use is coming to be recognised as one of the first requirements in sanitary living. Further than this it is a labor saving arrangment that is in keeping with the modern machinery and appliances used elsewhere on the farm.

THE SUFFERING EDITOR.

A farmer wrote to the editor of an agricultural paper as follows:—

"I have a horse that has been afflicted for the past year with periodical fits of dizziness. Please let me know what I should do with him, as he seems to get worse instead of better. I am afraid he will be unfit for work if something is not done soon."

In the next issue this answer appeared:—

"When the nag is looking all right sell him to someone."

The increased production of milk in Ontario is looked upon as an indication that the farmers of the province generally are beginning to see greater possibilities in dairying. The cities are taking a great deal of milk which to a considerable extent changes the cheese factory situation.

The boy scouts movement in Russia is strongly opposed by the war office and land owners.

LOCAL WEATHER CONDITIONS FOR MONTH JUST CLOSED

Some Authentic Statistics on What the Weatherman Handed Out.

The chief feature in the weather in the month just passed was the extreme heat that prevailed on a number of days during the first week, and to a lesser extent during the second week also. The first day of July was quite warm, 91 in the shade being registered. Next day was warmer still, 93 degrees being the figure. The following day, the third, the mercury went up to 97 degrees. The heat was extreme, and we deluded ourselves with the thought that the limit had been reached, and that it could not be worse. The next day (the 4th, we had the comparatively comfortable temperature of 90 degrees. On the 5th, however ,the thermometer did a stunt it had been thought incapable of performing, at least around Peterborough. Shortly after noon on that day it went up to 100 degrees in the shade, and remained there for several hours. Without doubt this was the hottest day ever experienced around these parts.

Three days of cooler conditions followed, then on the 9th we had it 94; 10th 92; and 11th 68 degrees. From that date to the end of the month more moderate temperatures prevailed.

The lowest temperature was on the 27th when the thermometer was down to 41. The two preceding nights and the following night had low temperatures. Light white frost was said to have been seen on several of these mornings.

There was rain on 11 days. The total amount was 4 inches and 62-100 of an inch. There was thunder on 8 days, and hail on one. The storm of the 11th was the most severe for some time. Two inches and 17-100 fell from 12.30 to 3.30 p.m.—W.P.

A number of the Old Country men around here are thinking of returning to their native sod this fall so as to be home in time for Christmas amongst them being Mr. J. Taylor and Mr. Geo. O'Neill.

Some people have a view that the women should not have anything to do with votery. An argument between myself and a couple of well-read men occurred the other day in Peterboro. They say women must not vote. I say they should. Take for instance the married man. Does any man living know the duties of the household department. Of course any man can light the fire, and get the water hot or even fry an egg, but ask him to do other jobs, he can't do them. A woman on the farm to-day is the hardest working person in this world; she milks, bakes, washes, works in the field in the mow and other jobs to numerous to mention. Of course some don't but I know hundreds that do so give some of the value to the women. I am not married for if I was I might alter my opinion, but that remains to be seen.

FEAR OF DEATH

A Well-Known Magistrate Doubts Its Deterrent Effect on the Criminal

The well-known magistrate, Mr. Plowden, contributes an interesting study in criminal psychology to the discussion on the death penalty which has been carried on for the past fortnight in the columns of the "Times." Incidentally Mr. Plowden pleads for a saner judgment of the character and motives of the murderer. He says:—

It is a popular fallacy to regard a murderer as the worst of criminals. The real truth is that in many cases it is hardly fair to describe him as a criminal at all.

No one who has not been through the fire can tell what may be the effect on his self-control of a long course of studied insults and provocation on the part of a worthless wife against her husband persevered in day by day, for months and even years at a stretch.

Sir Henry Smith, in his virtuous indignation with Crippen, makes no allowance for desperate circumstances like these.

He is angry with Crippen on account of his coolness in the witness-box, which he calls an outrage, and he apparently regards it as a distinct aggravation of his conduct that he should have sworn to love and cherish at the altar the wife whom he subsequently put to death.

It is somewhat amazing to me that considerations such as these should weigh for a moment in any just appreciation of Crippen's character. They were to me absolutely irrelevant.

What Crippen actually did, and for which he suffered death, was to kill a wife whom he hated for the sake of a woman whom he loved. Probably of all the murders that are committed under the sun, in one country or another, there is no more common type of murder than this.

It was the irony of Crippen's fate that he did not meet No. 2 until after he had met No. 1. Had such been his good fortune he would probably have lived a life not better nor worse than his neighbors, and have enjoyed with the best of them the reputation of a contented, law-abiding citizen. I am convinced from such experience as I have had of criminal courts, extending over many years, that what a man murderously inclined really dreads is not death, but pain.

The spectre of death, though it can always be conjured up, is too remote and shadowy to have much effect on the nerves of a man in the enjoyment of full and vigorous health. Not so with pain. There is no imagination so dull that it cannot take in the terrors of the "cat"; and I believe if such punishment could be made part of the sentence, even without abolishing capital punishment, the deterrent effect would be unmistakable.

I think even Crippen's courage, wonderful as it was, would have quailed on that dark and wintry morning, had he known that he would have to endure a flogging before he was hung.

And had he been asked which he feared most—the physical pain of the lash or the death to follow—can anyone doubt what his answer would have been?

KAISER AS A DOCTOR

Many of His Subjects Desire to Consult Him

It was recently stated by "The London Globe" that the Kaiser had received the degree of M.D. "honoris causa" from the University of Prague. In Germany, we are told by a Paris paper, people take things in earnest. but the writer, who does not add that his confreres frequently draw upon their imagination, proceeds to relate an amusing incident relative to the Kaiser's honor. The other morning the Kaiser was inspecting one of his many regiments of which he is colonel in-chief. One soldier fell out of the ranks, approached his Majesty, saluted, went back to his place, and put out his tongue. "What has he to say?" demanded the Emperor. "The man is wanting in respect." "No, sire," replied the soldier, "I am unwell, and respectfully ask your Majesty to prescribe for me. The fame of the new doctor of Prague University, who, by the irony of events, had to sign his name in the album immediately after that of the great—in every sense—opponent of Bismarchian policy, Virchow, has spread beyond the army. Outside the Palace at Potsdam, as soon as it was known that the Kaiser had become a doctor, crowds of the maimed, the halt, and the blind lined up, reminding one of the scenes outside a dispensary. Some even offered to pay a fee for the Kaiser's diagnosis. The Emperor was not only embarrassed, but annoyed, so he ordered the following notice to be put up: "The doctorate in medicine conferred upon the Kaiser is simply an honorary distinction, so his Majesty does not undertake the care of the sick either gratuitously or otherwise."

IRISH MIGRATION

A Parliamentary return of the migration of Irish agricultural laborers states that it is estimated that approximately 20,500 laborers went for temporary employment to England and Scotland in 1909. The estimated number in 1908 was 22,500, and that figure showed a decrease compared with the years immediately preceding. Of the total of 20,500, at least 500 or 600 were women.

Portland, Me., Aug. 1.—After three days' almost ceaseless work at the pumps to prevent their vessel from foundering, the crew of the little schooner J. Arthur Lord, brought their battered craft into this port late yesterday.

Conspiracy Charge Dismissed.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—After a lengthy hearing yesterday the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Traders' Bank of $7,600 against W. H. McBeth and F. M. McKeown, was dismissed by the magistrate. The court, however, held the accused for trial on the charge of obtaining the money with intent to defraud.

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF RIGHT REVEREND BISHOP O'CONNOR

Fifty Years Ago To-day Witnessed Ordination Into Priesthood.

Illuminated Address and Purse of Gold From Priests of Diocese.

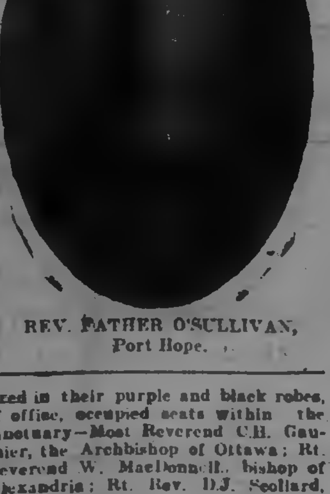
St. Peter's cathedral witnessed a magnificent demonstration of general rejoicing and impressive religious ceremony this morning when the exercises in connection with the celebration of Bishop O'Connor's golden jubilee, opened under the most enthusiastic and auspicious circumstances. In honor of the rare event, a tremendous influx of visiting Roman Catholic clergy from all sections of Canada and some from United States have invaded the city, all uniting to do honor to the generally beloved and widely-known bishop of the Peterborough diocese, the Right Reverend Richard Alphonsus O'Connor. The hand of time has dealt kindly with the distinguished prelate, and numerous and sincere are the congratulations which are being showered upon him on this, the anniversary of his fiftieth year in the Roman Catholic priesthood.

The proceedings in the cathedral this morning were distinctively impressive. Long before the hour of pontifical high mass the interior of the spacious edifice was filled to capacity. On both sides of the church pews were occupied by about three hundred delegates from the parishes in the Peterborough diocese. The Sisters of Mount St. Joseph, about seventy-five in number, occupied the gallery on the right of the sanctuary.

BISHOP SCOLLARD, North Bay.

The celebration exercises opened by the procession of priests, both visiting and local, who entered the church from the rear and marched up the aisles, while the choir sang beautiful and appropriate music. Miss Lavina Hallihan, of Toronto, assisted in the musical part of the celebration.

After the clergy had taken their places in the pews, the visiting Bishops and Archbishops and other church dignitaries escorted His Lordship, the Bishop into the sanctuary where the singing of the pontifical high mass was performed by His Lordship. The following Bishops and Archbishops attired in their purple and black robes of office, occupied seats within the sanctuary—Most Reverend C.H. Gauthier, the Archbishop of Ottawa; Rt. Reverend W. MacDonnell, bishop of Alexandria; Rt. Rev. D.J. Scollard, bishop of Sault Ste. Marie; Rt. Rev. M.F. Fallon, of London. Rt. Rev. Monseigneur McCann, of Toronto; Rt. Rev. Aylward of London; Rt. Rev. Dean Mahony, of Hamilton, representing the Bishop of Hamilton; Very Rev. Dr. Kidd, of Toronto; Rt.



REV. FATHER O'SULLIVAN, Port Hope.

Right Reverend Richard Alphonsus O'Connor, D.D., the spiritual head of the Diocese of Peterborough, was born in Kerry County, Ireland, in the year 1838, and is now seventy-three years of age. His Lordship came to Canada when only two years old, and has spent nearly all his life in Canada. Although born in Ireland and devoted to the Emerald Isle, Bishop O'Connor is devotedly Canadian in patriotism and feeling. His Lordship was ordained in the priesthood in 1861. His education was received in St. Michael's College, Toronto, and later at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. In the diocese of Toronto, he spent the years from 1861 until May, 1889, and served in various places, until consecrated in Peterborough cathedral by Archbishop Cleary, of Kingston, on May 1st, 1889. In Barrie, where he was dean, before coming to Peterborough, he is especially remembered. A portion of his life has been spent in the northern part of his first diocese, before it was broken up, with Sault Ste Marie as the new jurisdiction. During the twenty-two years of his office in Peterborough he has faithfully and lovingly fulfilled the duties of the position and has won the devotion and esteem of his associates and brother clergy.

McGILLICUDDY WILL MAKE REVELATIONS FROM STUMP

Calgary Politician to Tell the Public About That $69,000 Deal—Startling Accusations Against Oliver.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—A development in the campaign of some interest is the hesitancy now shown as to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opening move in the campaign. It was announced that he would commence with a series of meetings in Ontario. To-day there is a note of uncertainty and it is highly possible that he may open his campaign in Quebec.

It seems that advices have reached Ottawa that the Premier's hold on Quebec is by no means satisfactory, a series of untoward incidents having created anxiety. He will speak in Pictou on behalf of E. M. Macdonald. It is not settled yet what other places in the Maritime Provinces he will visit.

No definite plans have been settled yet for Mr. Borden's tour. Since the last election an immense amount of work has been done by the Conservatives.

Dan McGillicuddy intends to go on the stump and tell the tale which he would have told to the Oliver non-investigation committee. It is understood that he will relate in public the startling accusation which he made in his repeated conversations with the Premier.

There was a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday and it will be the end of the week or the beginning of the coming one before the Ministers separate for their work in the field. Mr. Fielding's health is not at all good. When he returned from his European trip a short time ago there was an apparent improvement in his condition. The two final trying weeks of the session undid all the good Mr. Fielding derived while abroad and his part in the campaign may not, therefore, be a very active one.

Political Caucuses.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Both Liberals and Conservatives held caucuses here last night. Hon. W. S. Fielding and Sir Frederick Borden met a delegation from the Maritime Provinces and discussed the campaign with them for several hours. No announcement was made as to what had passed. The deputation consisted of Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, E. M. Macdonald, Hon. A. K. MacLean, Alex. Johnstone, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and M. J. Butler of the Dominion Steel & Coal Co.

R. L. Borden attended a caucus of leading Montreal Conservatives, at the conclusion of which he stated that although his plans had not been definitely drawn up his election program would include meetings at Montreal and Quebec, and at various places in the Eastern Townships, followed by a tour of the Maritime Provinces and Ontario. He returned to Ottawa last night and will spend the balance of the week there.

NIOBE IS SINKING; END OF CANADA'S NAVY NEAR AT HAND

Water is Gaining on the Pumps, and Prospects of Saving the "Warship" Are Slim.

Halifax, Aug. 2.—The condition of the cruiser Niobe at Clarke's Harbor, where she is anchored, is one of grave peril for the warship. A despatch from there last night says that in spite of all that her own pumps can do and although the pumping apparatus on wrecking steamers is kept going day and night, the water is slowly gaining, and the Niobe is settling by the stern.

Last evening not more than ten feet were visible above the surface. The cruiser is anchored in seven fathoms of water, three quarters of a mile off West Head, a point in Clarke's Harbor. A red flag has been set half way between the ship and the shore, marking the most suitable spot to beach the cruiser if it comes to the worst. This would be done in six fathoms of water with a smooth, muddy bottom. The weather continues clear and fine.

One of the holes in the bottom of the Niobe is said to be twenty-five feet long and ten feet wide.

During repairs to H.M.C.S. Niobe the cadets will be furnished with free transportation, a month and a half pay, and three weeks leave of absence. The reason given by Admiral Kingsmill for this is that they were only in the way and that as no training was going on it was better for them to be ashore, thus leaving the petty officers free for duty.

Additional pumps and divers were despatched from Halifax last night, as the hope of keeping the cruiser afloat and of more quickly determining the exact extent of the damage sustained.

Drowned In Canal.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Anthone Goudreau, 19 years of age, a native of St. Pierre Aux Lins, who has been replacing his father as a lock attendant at the Lachine Canal during the latter's illness, was drowned yesterday when he lost his balance and fell into the canal.

The body was recovered and the coroner disposed of the case without an inquest.

FERRY SINKS; SEVEN DROWN

Seventy Passengers Have Narrow Escape

Steamer Struck a Shoal in the St. Lawrence

Massena, N.Y., Aug. 2.—Seven persons were drowned late yesterday afternoon in the St. Lawrence River, when the ferry steamer Sirius struck a shoal, eight miles below this city, capsized and hurled its seventy-five passengers into the river. Four bodies have been recovered.

The steamer Sirus left the dock here yesterday morning for Cornwall on the Canadian side, with seventy-five persons, bound for a day's outing there. Most of those aboard were residents of Ogdensburg and Massena. The picnic crowd boarded the Sirius on the return trip about four o'clock yesterday afternoon and were seated on deck under the canvas awning when the crash came.

The deck was swept bare in a moment and the entire party were struggling for life in the swift waters. Women who could not swim clutched at camp stools and other portable articles hurled into the river by the impact, while others, upheld and aided by male companions, battled their way against the current to the overturned steamer. Picnickers at the International Park, just opposite the scene of the wreck, managed to get off with the skiffs available.

They picked off scores who had clung to the sides of the ferry boat. Others, benumbed and exhausted, were swept down stream to death. Among them were the Misses Parker, who were spending their vacation in Massena. Futile attempts were also made by swimmers to save Miss Dewey and Floyd Hackett from the current.

So quickly did the river claim its victims that those who were drowned had already met their end when boats from the International Park reached the scene, scarcely five minutes after the crash. The work of rescuing under the circumstances was very great.

Those rescued were taken to the International Park and later proceeded to this city.

Three of the bodies recovered are those of women. They are: Miss Hattie Parker of Ogdensburg, N.Y.; Miss Nellie Parker of Ogdensburg, N.Y.; Miss Ada Dewey of Massena, and Floyd Hackett of Massena.

The identity of the three persons, who, according to the captain's tally, are missing, is not known. Scores of persons in motorboats and skiffs are endeavoring to recover the bodies.

The Sirius lies near mid-stream, capsized. The vessel was formerly a private yacht and saw service at the Thousand Islands. She is a trim little boat, owned by Capt. Weston Ucline of Massena, N.Y., and has plied between that port and Cornwall, doing a passenger and excursion business of considerable magnitude, for close on ten years.

TIMELY RESCUE OF YOUNG MINER

Had Been Entombed for Three Days by Cave in

Special to the Review.

Joplin, Mo. Aug. 2nd—Joseph Clary, a young miner who has been entombed three days by a cave in, at Oak mine, was rescued this morning in an exhausted condition. Since early Sunday morning, he has stood in water to the armpits, seventy-eight feet below the surface of the earth.

A Losing Proposition.

London, Aug. 2.—Head counting in the House of Lords on the veto bill has now been transformed to the Liberal side of the chamber. Viscount Morley has written a letter to all the Liberal peers, intimating that the veto bill again will be submitted to the Lords probably on Aug. 9, and after referring to the hostile intentions of the Halsburyites against the measure, asks in view of this emergency whether he may count upon the attendance in the chamber on Aug. 9 of the recipients.

This move of Viscount Morley's is interposed to mean that the Government now is confident of its ability to outvote the Halsburyites without the necessity of creating more peers. It is estimated that from sixty to seventy Liberals will respond to Mr. Morley's invitation and attend the session, while it is tolerably certain that the Earl of Halsbury cannot muster fifty votes. It is considered more likely that he will be able to gather in only 20 or 30.

CAMPAIGN IN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC IS WARMING UP

Armand Lavergne May Not Contest a Federal Seat—Whitney May Tour Ontario for Mr. Borden.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—R. L. Borden arrived in the city yesterday morning and registered at the Windsor. During the day he called on a number of the prominent members of the party and discussed with them plans for the campaign.

Many conventions will be held this week and the leaders are busy arranging dates and places.

A Liberal convention will be held at Ahuntsic this afternoon to select a candidate for the County of Laval.

Arrangements are being made for a convention of Liberals in St. Ann's division this week-end for the choice of a candidate to oppose Mr. Doherty.

The Nationalists do not credit the story that Mr. Armand Lavergne will contest the election of the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in whatever division he may seek election. One of the leading members of the party stated yesterday that Mr. Lavergne was not likely to back out of provincial politics.

Donald Sutherland May Come Back.

Woodstock, Aug. 2.—An interesting turn has been given political affairs in South Oxford by the unofficial statement that Donald Sutherland will oppose M. S. Schell, M.P., in the riding. It is understood that negotiations have for some time been in progress with Mr. Sutherland in Toronto, with a view to having him accept the nomination in the Conservative interests in the place of Dr. J. B. Coteridge, who was offered but declined the nomination.

Mr. Sutherland has been considering the matter for some time and it is understood that he will eventually give up his position as director of colonization for the Ontario Government, and will seek to redeem South Oxford from the Liberal party.

Nominations In St. John.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 2.—The Liberal convention to name candidates for St. John city and county will be held here on the 10th. The convention will choose a running mate for Hon. Wm. Pugsley.

Henry Wilmot, ex-M.P., will, it is understood, be offered the Conservative nomination in Queen's Sunbury, against Col. H. H. McLean.

Whitney Undecided.

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Sir James Whitney has not yet decided what action he will take in the coming election campaign. He laughed at the rumor that he would dissolve the Provincial Legislature and go to the province just before the Dominion elections took place. There will be two provincial bye-elections in the near future. One is to fill the vacancy in West Victoria, caused by the death of S. J. Fox, M.P.P., and the other to fill the vacancy in Addington by the resignation of W. J. Paul, M.P.P.

Gates' Condition Little Changed.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The condition of John W. Gates showed little change last night. He was holding his own and his strength had been fairly well maintained.

GETTING READY FOR THE BIG CAMPAIGN

One Hundred Conventions for Nominations Arranged for

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, August 2nd—Activity in political circles here is wholly confined to making arrangements for the big campaign. Over one hundred nominating conventions in different parts of the country, have been summoned for next week. Members of the House have nearly all left, and the Commons is deserted, except for a few Nationalists, who are preparing for an active fight in Quebec.

Troops Quell Rioting.

El Oro, Mexico, Aug. 2.—Quiet prevailed yesterday morning in this mining town where Monday troops fired into a mob of striking miners, killing nine and wounding thirty-two persons. Four hundred federal soldiers arrived here yesterday to reinforce the 200 troopers from Toluca. All mining operations are at a standstill.

The discovery that bribes had been offered for the killing of the mine superintendent and his two assistants caused the management of the El Oro mine to declare a practical lockout to-day.

It is said that the demand of the strikers for higher wages is only incidental and that their real motive seemingly is antagonism to foreigners. Several dynamite bombs have been found in the mines. In all, 7,500 men are idle.

Gas Distended His Stomach

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveler of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the traveling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. WEDNESDAY, AUG. 2, 1911.

ROWS IN THE CAMP

In the campaign of 1908 Borden had a majority of the people of Canada, outside of Quebec, with him. In 1911 he will win seats that were closed to him three years ago. Quebec will split, instead of being solid. Don't let the Laurier bluff cause any misgiving. The ranks of the cabinet at Ottawa are split by howling quarrels. They almost had a fistic fight at the cabinet meeting on Saturday. The government dissolved parliament in a panic, being frightened by the threatened disclosures in the Oliver investigation. The western witnesses were in the city, and the revelations would have wrecked the government. In dissolving, the government violated pledges given that the house would be in session this week, so that the hearing could be gone on with.

There is no love lost in the Laurier cabinet, nor is there any love lost between several other factions of the government. The proud boast of a section of the government party that it would ram reciprocity down the throat of the opposition, failed miserably, and Laurier goes to the country with loss of both prestige and power. If he had decided in the first place to appeal to the country on so momentous a question he would have gained much support from people who are now thoroughly convinced that reciprocity will be a blow, not FOR Canadian freedom and independence, but a DEATH BLOW TO IT.

The Laurier government is in the tightest hole it has been into since 1896. It snatched at reciprocity, and snatched what the people of Canada consider a lemon. This it tries to pass off as a peach of the Crawford variety. But in addition the Farmers' Bank's affair, the evidence that someone in the United States is contributing large sums for the Liberal campaign fund (in payment for reciprocity) the thousand and one scandals that have kept the ministers hopping to avoid getting winged, pile one after the other into the balance against the most corrupt administration that ever held the reins of power at Ottawa.

By dissolution, the government saved an exposure in the house of the attitude of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the conference—an attitude which drew on him the censure of such influential and stick-fast supporters as the Manitoba Free Press and the Montreal Witness, and which led to the French Liberal journals gloatingly holding up the Premier as the sworn enemy of everything that savored of closer or better relations with the mother country and empire.

Canada is at the parting of the ways. One leads to Washington; one to Britain and the empire, and not least of all, to national independence and salvation. If we are to avoid the perilous step of inviting the free domination of the United States over Canadian affairs, exercised through business pressure, the doom of Laurier and Liberalism must be sealed until they purge themselves of the continentalist program that they has seen fit to adopt.

MAKING US BE GOOD

Now that the United States senate has passed reciprocity, polite intimation are being handed out to Canada that it had better come to time quite quickly or take the consequences. This attitude is most interesting in view of the fact that the Liberals cannot find any semblance of argument in favor of reciprocity on the score that it will help to keep Canada free from entangling alliances. In fact, the Liberal organs are reduced to the necessity of making the cry of "larger markets do duty against the manifest tendency of the United States men to take it for granted that when Uncle Sam calls, Canada must answer.

The Syracuse Herald, for instance, says:

> "If Canada should turn down that reciprocity treaty now, after Congress has boiled and perspired through an extra hot summer to pass it, we have an idea that there would be some pretty stirring speeches made in the next Congress favoring the forcible annexation of our northern neighbor."

Speeches don't hurt, but they inflame. And they create opinion. They indicate that the United States takes it for granted that all Washington has to do is to command, and it is ours to obey—lest we suffer that impending fate, annexation. For instance, the Chicago Tribune has said:

Her (Canada's) safety lies in not provoking the United States by unfair or unfriendly dealing, for when the provocation comes, Uncle Sam will reach out and take her in, in order to ensure quiet, and NEITHER SHE NOR HER VENERABLE OLD MOTHER CAN PREVENT IT.

But the Spokane Spokesman-Review believes that more pacific means will be adopted by the United States to bludgeon us into line. It believes that unless Canada consents to be the dumping ground for American manufactures — unrestricted reciprocity that caused Edward Blake to jump the traces in 1891—that natural products reciprocity won't last long. It is but a lever with which to pry off a few chunks more of Canadian custom. It says:

> "If, within a year or two, the United States finds it impossible to persuade Canada to extend the free trade provisions to cover all products of both countries, The Spokesman-Review believes the people of the United States will insist upon the re-enactment of the tariff on Canadian farm products imported into this country."

WASHINGTON OUR STAR

Hon Clifford Sifton's manifesto against reciprocity is worthy of attention, coming as it does from a man of Mr. Sifton's weight and recognized ability. "Clif. Sif." may not be a saint, but he is undoubtedly in earnest in his opposition to this great move to thwart Canada's destiny as a great and free nation—free to control her affairs as she wishes to. Mr. Sifton says he is more than ever convinced of the ultimate tendency of the pact, if put through. He realises that it means the recognition of Washington as our fixed star, by which we must guide our course over the seas of time. Mr. Sifton says:

"But the most serious feature of the arrangement is the sacrifice of our fiscal independence. The more you look at it the more certain does it become that from the moment the treaty takes effect our policy will be controlled by what is done at Washington. To-day we are the most independent country in the world. We absolutely control every department of our public administration. Once we put ourselves into a state of dependence upon American markets and American tariffs our freedom is gone. With it goes the mainspring of our national life.

"No intelligent man can deny that the policy followed by the United States in excluding us from her markets in the past has been a prime factor in making Canada a self-reliant and independent country. It was at first a hardship and there was every excuse for those who sought reciprocity. Now that we have overcome the difficulties and won our way through to independence and prosperity, there is no excuse for throwing away the advantages of our position. The true path for Canada is the path she has been following—a dignified independence in policy and a vigorous development and careful conservation of her own resources. The treaty is the first step towards the exploitation and the subordination of Canada.

"But I hope and trust that there are a great many thousands of Liberals in Canada who are patriotic enough to put country before party and stand by our true national interests. Particularly I hope that the thousands of young men who have lately been forming themselves into non-political Canadian clubs for purposes of discussion will see that the ideals toward which they have been working are in danger and will, regardless of party affiliations, throw themselves into the fight. It makes little difference to the future what is the name of the party which is in power for the next five years, but it is of incalculable importance that the true lines of our national development should be firmly and jealously maintained."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Rows in the Liberal camp are so frequent these days that one might accuse them of being rowdy.

The Laurier government is favored by one circumstance in going to the country—it is getting rid of Sir Frederick Borden.

A Really Cooling Drink

If you want something that cools the blood—quenches thirst—and refreshes and braces the whole system—just add a pinch of Abbey's Salt to the glass of cold water you are going to drink.

You simply can't imagine how pleasant and cooling this is, until you try it. Good for you, too. 93

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

The Newmarket canal was to have cost $400,000, but its real cost will be a million or so. Even then the water will have to be pumped into it.

Rows in the Liberal camp come thick and fast these days. This is the united party that made so much of the alleged discord in the Conservative ranks a few months ago. The shoe is on the other foot now.

Daniel MacNish, of West Elgin, a parliamentary candidate, tried to get the government to make some promise of recouping the Farmers' Bank shareholders, but met a refusal. Why should the country have to pay for Fielding's "mistake?" Fielding was perfectly right in supposing that an effort to repair the damage he caused by aiding the looters who promoted the Farmers' Bank would only add fuel to the flames of public contempt and indignation.

The Examiner refers to a letter from J. F. Lillicrap, of Lakefield, favoring reciprocity. On the same page it had occasion to refer to Hon. Clifford Sifton, who, by the way, once was quite a prominent Liberal, and he is strongly opposed to reciprocity. There are very few Conservatives indeed, who are not in full accord with Mr. Borden's policy, so few that they are conspicuous by their rarity. But the Liberals who won't stand for a policy of dictation from Washington are a valiant band that have caused Laurier some sleepless nights.

The All-powerful Commons

"It is to be noted," says the Toronto Star, "that the bill which puts an end to the absolute veto of the house of lords reduces the life of a parliament from seven years to five. A house of commons is sometimes elected by a narrow majority, perhaps 55 per cent. of the popular vote. The representatives of such a majority have no right to regard themselves as clothed with despotic power, and any pretension of that kind would be strenuously resisted."

Of course they will have no right to regard themselves as clothed with despotic power; but they will be clothed with despotic power just the same, and it is not at all improbable that some time in the future they will exercise that power despotically.

When the veto bill passes the house of commons will be the only real instrument of political power in Britain. It will be unchecked, because it will be able, whenever it chooses, to remove the checks which at present it allows to remain. It will be able to abolish the house of lords, to overthrow the monarchy, to confiscate property, and to perpetuate its own existence without appealing to the country, as the "Rump" parliament tried to do in the middle of the seventeenth century. The result would probably be the appearance of another Cromwell and the establishment of another dictatorship. Mr. Asquith and his government have made a great mistake in neglecting to provide in their parliament bill that after the house of lords has twice rejected a measure sent to it by the commons, a general election shall intervene between the second rejection by the lords and the enactment of the measure into law without the sanction of the lords. Such a provision would be a safeguard against the exercise of despotic power by a house of commons, which may have forfeited the confidence of the people, to make revolutionary changes which the people do not want or to make unjust and oppressive laws.

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"That's what I said," he emphasized. "Take Smith himself, for the sake of argument. We're talking among ourselves, so it don't matter, as it won't go any further. Suppose Emma 'd married him? Is his heart all right? Is he on the level? I'd bank on him, and that's more'n I'd say of any other man I know. Is he capable? Brainy as they make 'em. Is he good looking? He ain't bad looking, and with that smile of his he has most good lookers I've seen beat a mile. Beth says he ain't poetic and all that sort of thing. Maybe—maybe, but what of that? Also she says he ain't what you'd call educated. That may be, too, but when he wants to he can bring an amount of cold sense to bear that'll upset most men's logic and give a bluff no chance. He'll go far if he keeps on, for all his slow ways, and let me tell you it ain't the man who starts off at top speed that always wins the race."

"What you say may be all true, but these qualities haven't made Jimsy rich so far, and I doubt if they ever will. A man can't have everything, but money, as I've often told my girls, makes up for a lot of shortcomings, and without it—what? Here's Emma, married for seven years, separated from her husband, can't get a divorce unless it's of the Dakota sort, which I'd never consent to, hasn't got a cent in the world and couldn't collect a cent of alimony if she had the right to it because the beast's a pauper."

"No, and if he were as wealthy as the grand Turk I'd starve to death before I'd touch any money or anything else belonging to him," commented Emma.

"Mrs. Harris," answered the captain, with deep feeling, "money, while it's a whole lot, ain't everything, as I've found, though it's taken me sixty-five years to do it. It's no fault of Emma's that she's poor, and I tell you that if she was to marry a man like Smith I'd settle $500,000 worth of Latin-American line stock on her for a wedding present. I would, by Sam, ma'am!"

"You would do that?" asked Mrs. Harris, overwhelmed with astonishment.

"This minute!"

"Well!"

It was all she could find to say about the reiteration.

But if the family were amazed Williams was evidently alarmed at having allowed his feelings to get the better of his discretion in this way, for he lapsed into gloomy silence and very soon departed abruptly.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"MR. BROOKS would like to see you, sir. I told him you were in, but he would not come up and asked me to let you know he was downstairs."

"Tell him it's all right. I'll see him."

"You mean that he's to come up?"

"Yes, if he doesn't mind."

The landlady went out, gathering from the visitor's unusual request and her boarder's reply that there had been trouble between them. Jimsy pushed away the book he had been reading and leaned back in his chair to await his former friend's coming.

Brooks shuffled rather than walked in. He did not offer to shake hands, but, with a subdued "Hello, Jimsy," seated himself on the edge of the armchair that in former days he occupied as his own. Then he seemed to forget where he was, sank back, shrinking into his overcoat, and sat as though stupefied, twisting his hat in his hands slowly and mechanically.

Smith was shocked at the change in his appearance. His face was white and thin, and the eyes, which were almost expressionless, were deep sunk in the sockets. There was stubble on his chin; his formerly neatly plastered hair was disheveled.

"Boy, you're ill," said Jimsy with concern. "Let me get a bracer for you."

He rose and produced a decanter of whisky, but his visitor declined, this time with a wan flickering smile of appreciation.

"No, thanks, Jimsy. I don't feel like it just now. I've been drinking too much of the stuff, and I haven't eaten since last night, I think."

"For heaven's sake!" exclaimed Jimsy.

Brooks would have restrained him, but he was out of the door and bounding downstairs three steps at a time. Brooks sank back into the chair and relapsed into his condition of hebetude.

In a little while Smith returned, a plate heaped high with sandwiches in one hand and a bowl of hot bouillon in the other. Brooks refused the sandwiches, but he took the bowl, and, holding it in both hands—which trembled—sipped its grateful contents.

"Jimsy, you're awfully good," he sighed.

"Oh, no—none of that," protested Smith. "Tell me what brought you here. What can I do for you?"

"I don't know why I came, after—after the way I acted last time. I"—

"Never mind that. Let's forget about it."

"No, I have no right here. Jimsy, I'm done for."

"How done for?"

"I am, and you'll kick me out, as I deserve, when you know. Jimsy, I've done it again. I'm a thief a second time, and again for a woman."

Smith looked grave, but he said nothing.

"What! You don't get up and kick me? Well, well! I suppose it's just like you, but I rather hoped you would. You're the only man who wouldn't. But wait till you hear. I can tell it to you because you can't help me. Nobody can. I'm beyond helping."

"Better try a sandwich first," suggested Smith. "There's no hurry."

"Thanks; I think I will. That beef tea did me good."

He ate three sandwiches ravenously, washing them down with water.

"There isn't a whole lot to relate," he said. "You can fill in the details for yourself. I tried backing the ponies again; then I stole from the bank. There was an examination of the books at the bank four days ago. I didn't turn up there that day, and I haven't been there since; but, of course, the game is up. I wandered about, drinking to try to forget my troubles till all my money was gone. Then I sobered up, and here I am. This time there's no one to save me. The bank couldn't be fixed, even if I had the funds to make my stealings good. They'd get me wherever I hid myself, that's sure. They must be looking for me now. And, O God, I can't face it!"

Tears rained down his face—tears that he made no effort to hide or wipe away.

"I knew I was going headlong down to hell—knew what I was doing—saw the certain punishment—yet couldn't stop myself. And now I have reached the mouth of the pit."

He shuddered and writhed in agony of torment, turning his pitiful, streaming eyes upon Smith.

"Oh, Jimsy, if you would only kill me and end it all," he moaned. "Oh, if I only had the courage to kill myself!"

"I wish I could help you, Joe," he said. "But this time I don't see how you can be helped."

"It isn't possible. There's nothing you could do. I'm done for. It's my own fault," he sobbed. "I brought it all on myself. I have been weak—oh, weak—and a fool. And now it's come to this. No; nobody's to blame but myself—unless it's Emma."

He rose to go.

"Shake hands with me, Jimsy," he begged. "It's the hand of a thief, a criminal's hand, but you were glad to take it in friendship once, when it was honest, and it's the last time I'll ever ask you to do anything for me. You'll never see me again."

Smith grasped the hand held out to him, and his pressure was more eloquent of his feelings than mere words could have been. He could find no phrases adequate to express them, so remained silent, but he slipped into the wretched man's pocket as Brooks passed out of the door a bundle of banknotes that he had taken without counting from a drawer.

Snow had begun to fall. A high wind, blowing apparently from all quarters, hardened the flakes and propelled them with stinging force into the faces of the people in the streets. Brooks had no umbrella, nor had he gloves, and the wind cut to the bone. Yet he paid scant heed to his discomfort and ambled away from Smith's abode. He turned up his coat collar and pulled his hat over his eyes. More than once when he thought he was being followed he went sick with fear. Every minute he expected to feel a hand on his shoulder.

Why should he lack the pluck to kill himself? A fugitive from justice, friendless and penniless, everything that was worth while in life gone forever, what had he to hope from living? The prison door from which he had shrunk with such dread before now was wide open to receive him, would receive him as inevitably as day would follow the night. He remembered having read that a man shot through the brain never felt the messenger which snuffed out his life. In the drawer of his bureau was a loaded revolver that he had long kept there for self protection in case of need. A movement of his finger would end all. A feeling almost of relief came with this thought, and he quickened his steps. There was only one thing to fear now—that he would be caught before he could reach his room. As he trudged along he found himself at the corner of the street in which the Harrises lived.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. S. V. This is about all attention some people attract. When their procession goes by, people inquire "Who's funeral?"

"Of course a woman can dress on $65 a year," a woman said to her husband scornfully; "if a man wants that sort of a wife."

FIRE IN ASYLUM.

Eight Fatalities Are Recorded in the Hamilton Conflagration.

Hamilton, Aug. 2.—Eight burned bodies in which the spirits of eight demented old men fluttered for years behind the bars of the Hamilton Asylum for the insane lie to-day cold and stiff and charred and blackened beyond recognition in the morgue of the asylum where they were laid after being recovered from the ruins of the terrible fire which visited the institution early yesterday morning.

A picture more pathetic than eight sick-minded, feeble and tottering, gray haired old men in locked and barred cells without the possibility of escape, utterly helpless and beyond mortal aid, with tongues of flames licking their infirm bodies and slowly but surely burning out their lives, is seldom presented to the human mind. Such a spectacle was the death of these men. They were confined on the top floor of the building close to where the flames began their ravenous career and the manner of their confinement and the rapidity with which the fire spread rendered their escape impossible.

No one connected with the asylum knows exactly when the fire started and no one can account for its origin, although defective wiring is ascribed as the cause. An attendant is supposed to have passed the spot where the fire was discovered on his regular rounds at one o'clock. No sign of fire was then to be seen, but a few minutes afterwords a refractory patient made another visit to the hall D necessary, and the blaze was then burning energetically. The attendant attempted to subdue the flames, but his efforts were futile and the alarm was then sounded. The asylum fire brigade attacked the threatening conflagration, but it soon became evident that the fight was hopeless, and at 1.45 a.m. the city fire department was notified.

TO EXPLORE NORTH.

Norwegians In Montreal Before Going Into Arctic.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Two travelers arrived in Montreal yesterday prepared to battle against the cold and hardships of the Arctic circle. They are Christian Ledén, noted as an explorer in different parts of Greenland, and Harold Thaulow of the Norwegian Ethnological Arctic Canada Expedition, and their home is in Christiania, Norway.

Although the object of this expedition is merely to prepare the way for a much greater expedition in 1912, Mr. Leden considers the importance of their work should not be minimized, as on this occasion they intend to study some lost tribes of Athabasca Indians and collect zoological and other specimens for the University of Christiania and Ethnological Museum of Berlin.

The later expedition will go further north and will be composed of at least four or five Europeans, who will make a more extensive investigation into the habits, customs, language, religion, signs and history of the Athabasca Indians and Esquimaux.

Messrs. Leden and Thaulow are patronised by the King and Queen of Norway, and assisted financially by the Norwegian and German aristocracy. They have a phonograph to record the speech of the natives, and cameras and cinematograph to depict their habits.

Launch Takes Fire.

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 2.—A terrible accident, whereby one man was drowned and four other badly burned, occurred opposite Gananoque on the river yesterday morning at 3 o'clock.

A small gasoline launch, owned by Alex. Harris, who was running the boat, took fire near Huckleberry Island and was destroyed.

With Harris in the boat were four others: William Depster, William Smith, Thomas Haig and a young man by the name of Jakes.

The four passengers, though badly burned, managed to swim ashore, but Harris is missing and it is certain he has been drowned. No one seems to know just how the accident happened.

Seaching parties have gone out to grapple for the body of Harris. The victim was married and about thirty years of age. He leaves a wife and three small children.

A Young Heroine.

Wingham, Ont., Aug. 2.—A very sad accident occurred here on Monday, which resulted in the death of Edith Jarvis, the 12-year-old daughter of R. W. Jarvis of this town.

The young girl was walking down Diagonal street and had two small children in her charge, one of them in a baby carriage, when a runaway team of horses with a heavy wagon came running up the street and over the pavement.

The girl saw the danger and managed to push the carriage into a safe place but was run down herself, sustaining serious injuries, which resulted in her death a few hours later.

Dont Want our Cheese.

The American market, for home consumption, demands a soft variety of cheese, that is not made in Canada. From 100 pounds of milk the cheese-maker in the States makes about 11 pounds of cheese, whereas in Canada only 9 pounds of cheese are produced from 100 pounds of milk. In other words, the American cheese contains about 42 per cent. of water, while there is only 36 per cent. in the Canadian harder product.

Why Men Leave Home.

My wife and I have birthdays
Upon the selfsame day;
We celebrate together,
It is the nicest way.

We give each other presents—
This year the gifts were swell;
I gave my wife some diamonds,
My wife she gave me —
Goodness!
We almost said it out loud.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Moroccan crisis is believed to be over.

Tenders have been opened for work on the Hudson Bay Railway, and work is expected to begin by Sept. 1 at the Saskatchewan end of the line.

The steamer Royal Edward, which arrived last night from Bristol, had on board the 12 Canadian cadets who have been shooting in England.

Harvesting in Saskatchewan will be general the 20th of August, according to the report of the Saskatchewan agricultural department issued yesterday.

Germala Napier, a young English aviator, met death last evening while flying with a passenger at Brooklands, England. His companion escaped uninjured.

Patrick Donnley, aged about 35, and a stranger was found dead in Miller's boathouse, near the foot of East street, Sault Ste. Marie, late yesterday. He had been dead several days.

Coming home from the old boys demonstration, Mrs. John Kehoe, of Kingston, found her husband, aged 30, dead, sitting in a chair. Heart failure is given as the cause.

Marion Smith, the nineteen-year-old daughter of the secretary of the Post-office Department at Ottawa, was drowned while bathing with two other young women at Britannia yesterday afternoon.

Heat-Crazed In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—The thermometer climbed to 89 yesterday, and much suffering was experienced owing to the humidity, which ranged around 89 per cent. One case of prostration is reported, that of Wm. Roach.

Two men, A. N. Filion and Joseph Allard walked into a police station and surrendered themselves for an imaginary crime. Their minds are believed to have been affected by the heat.

Would Increase Postage Rates.

New York, Aug. 2.—Postmaster-General Hitchcock yesterday told the Federal Commission appointed to enquire into the handling of second-class mail matter why he favored increasing the postage rate on newspapers and periodicals.

He urged that a flat rate of two cents a pound should take the place of the seven rates now in force.

Ore Holdings Worth $200,000,000.

New York, Aug. 2.—That the ore and coal holdings acquired by the U. S. Steel Corporation in the absorption of the Tennessee and Iron and Coal Co. in 1907 have a valuation of $200,000,000 was estimated from figures on the mineral holdings of the Tennessee Company given yesterday to the committee on inquiry into the steel corporation.

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with headaches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. It made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so weak that I was obliged to wear corsets all the time. But now I do not have any of these troubles. I have a fine strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. A. A. GILLIS, Route 44, Dewittville, N.Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

Dear Sir,—The results, to hand on my policy in your Company, No. 31787 are so eminently satisfactory, that I consider it a duty I owe both to your Company and the public to say so.

The fact that I have received all the money I paid, during the past twenty years into your Company back, except $617.20 and receive in addition a fully paid up policy of $2,000.00 on my life, still drawing profits EVERY YEAR hereafter, besides having had $2,000.00 of protection for the past twenty years, is too good a thing to hide under a bushel. I therefore desire to let my light shine and reflect a ray of satisfaction and pleasure from the great Sun Life Assurance Company.

I desire to thank you most sincerely, and to heartily congratulate your Company on such a splendid result.

I am,
Very respectfully yours,

CYLINDER HEAD OF ENGINE BLEW OUT

Passengers Had Long Wait for Another Engine

The passengers on the train to Fenelon Falls yesterday afternoon, were left a couple of hours late for dinner, when the cylinder head of the engine bursted and the train was delayed two miles this side of Cameron station.

The trainmen spent some time in an attempt to repair the injury and then the conductor walked to Cameron station and sent to Linsay for another engine. It did not arrive until the delay had gone over the two hour mark. Before the start was made again hungry children kept up an incessant cry, which made the mishap more unpleasant.

On arriving at Fenelon Falls there was only one bus to convey the travellers to an hotel and several missed the outgoing train, as they did not have time to get their dinner.

JOSEPH PICARD

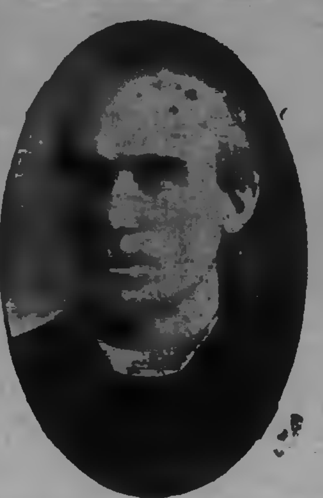
Rev. M.J. Spratt, of Kingston; Very Rev. W. J. Murphy, of Ottawa; and Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, and Dr. O'Brien of the Church of Sacred Heart, Peterboro.

The following distinguished dignitaries assisted in the ceremony of the High Mass—Deacons of Honor, Dean Murray, of Brockville; Dean Moyna, of Barrie, and Fathers Guerin and Powell, deans of office.



REV. FATHER McCOLL,
St. Peter's Cathedral.

Bishop Fallon of London, delivered a masterly and most acceptable sermon, eulogizing the faithful and devoted life of His Lordship, in whose honor the celebration was in progress. His text taken from Leviticus was 'Thou shalt sanctify the fiftieth year, for it is the jubilee.'

"When a priest borne down with the labors of half a century" remarked Bishop Fallon, "has reached his golden jubilee, and finds assembled around him a devoted people, who celebrate with him, it is assuredly a signal honor and an occasion for rejoicing.

"Wherever his name is known, he is honored, by brother clergy colleagues and brother bishops alike. While Holy Scripture forbids the praising of a man before his death, yet it is easily discernible that His Lordship's works were the panegyric of his life. The diocese of Toronto which first saw the fruits of his labors can speak nothing but words of praise for him.

"The souls that your ministry has sanctified, the parishes that you have evangelized, the thousands that you have confirmed, the monasteries you have built, the old and young you have befriended, all form the crown of glory that rests to-day upon your head," concluded the speaker directing his remarks to His Lordship.

Immediately at the conclusion of the sermon the addresses and presentations took place.

REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK,
Ennismore.

ADDRESS FROM PRIESTS.

Venerable Archdeacon Casey read the address with the presentation of the purse of gold of $2,000 was made by Father Murray, of Cobourg.

To His Lordship Right Reverend
Bishop of Peterborough.

May it please Your Lordship:—

We the priests of the diocese assembled around your throne, rejoice and are glad to-day; for this day marks the Golden Jubilee of your Lordship's ordination to the Sacred Priesthood of Jesus Christ.

We are here in joy to unite with you in thanksgiving to the Almighty for the many years of priestly service He has given to you, for the innumerable graces and favors He has granted you during the past half century and for the manifold blessings which through your Lordship He has bestowed on the Church in Canada, more particularly in this diocese.

To look back on fifty years of sacerdotal ministry, zealously and faithfully accomplished is not granted to many. This unusual privilege is Your Lordship's. It is a signal mark of the Divine approbation of your unselfish and untiring labor both as Priest and Bishop, in the upbuilding of the Holy Church and the extending of God's kingdom on earth.

Fifty years ago to-day you received the unction of the Holy Priesthood from the hands of the late illustrious and Most Reverend Dr. Lynch, Archbishop of Toronto. Zeal and the true sense of duty clearly mark the earnestness and energy with which you began the labors of the ministry.

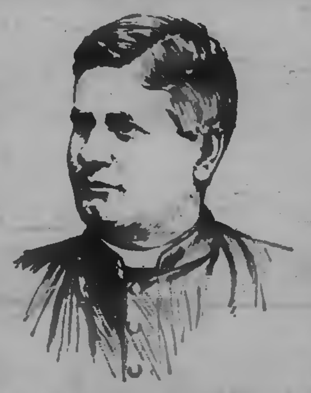
The works you have done in the diocese of Toronto, especially in the parish of Barrie, where you labored for eighteen years, are indeed lasting monuments, imperishable records of a truly devoted and zealous priest of God. The various congregations to whose spiritual wants you ministered have on special occasions given ample testimony of their appreciation of your sterling worth as priest, in your tenderness towards God's poor, and your zeal for God's glory, and as citizen in the charity and harmony which have ever marked your intercourse with those outside the Church.

During these years, your simplicity of heart and untiring labor gained for you not only the lasting love of your own flock, but also the respect and admiration of your fellow priests. The piety, learning and administrative abilities manifested by you as parish priest pointed to you as one worthy of double honor.

When in 1889 the Holy Father Leo XIII, appointed you to the See of Peterborough you had the good will of all the citizens, and there was sincere rejoicing among the faithful of this diocese.

On the occasion of your Episcopal Consecration in this cathedral a little over twenty-two years ago, we, your priests, welcomed you with joyous hearts. Your name was not unknown to us. The fame of your good deeds had spread on all sides. In our hearts we thanked God who had sent us so worthy a Bishop to rule over our beloved diocese. With knowledge of your past career we confidently look forward to many years of faithful labor under your Lordship's prudent, just and wise administration. We soon learned to know you, to love you and to admire you. Our knowledge, love and admiration have continued to grow and strengthen as the years rolled on until to-day we recognize in you the ideal of what a Bishop should be, learned without ostentation, sociable without familiarity, dignified without austerity, humble without lowering your high office, loved and honored by all.

When your Lordship in the fullness of experienced manhood came to us the diocese was young, almost in its infancy. It was extensive, reaching from Lake Ontario, opposite Rochester to the height of land to the north, and on the west bordering on St. Boniface. The resources were as limited as the territory was extensive. Within the seven years of its existence two Bishops had occupied its throne, the Right Reverend John Francis Jamot, of hallowed memory, and the Right Reverend Dr. Dowling, the present Bishop of Hamilton. The short period of each administration gave time merely for laying the foundation of diocesan works. Hence the whole burden of bringing to completion the works already begun, as well as those yet to be undertaken devolved upon your Lordship.



ARCHDEACON CASEY,
of Lindsay.

It was a time of development in Northern Ontario. The whole district from North Bay, westward, which had been occupied solely by wandering tribes of Indians, was about to be opened for settlement. It became at once your Lordship's duty to provide for the spiritual wants of the incoming settlers. They were indeed poor in worldly goods. They came chiefly from the Province of Quebec. No sooner was a settlement begun than your Lordship provided a church and sent a priest to protect the faith of the pioneers and foster their spiritual life. What a change has taken place. There had been no congregation from North Bay to Port Arthur. Now the whole length of the district is marked by cross-crowned churches and well established parishes. If the religion in Northern Ontario to-day is prosperous and the faith flourishing it is mainly due, under God, to your Lordship's enlightened foresight, and personal exertions. The time came when it was desirable that this district should itself form a diocese, that of Sault Ste Marie. The Bishop appointed to perpetuate the work, so firmly established by you, was Rt. Rev. Scollard, the first priest ordained by your Lordship.

REV. DR. O'BRIEN,
Sacred Heart Church.

Not only did the settlers benefit by your Lordship's zeal, but the native tribes profited by your kindly solicitude for their welfare. They soon felt that they were under your special care. Regularly you made long journeys along the rivers and over the lakes to visit them. You sought to protect them from rapacious enemies. You exhorted them to first seek the Kingdom of God, to be obedient to the noble Jesuit missionaries, who gave up all things for their sakes. You obtained efficient mission schools and encouraged them to send their children to be there trained in piety and industry. It was thus your Lordship gained the lasting love of these untutored children of the forest.

When we approach nearer the Episcopal city we behold even greater wonders. When your lordship came to the diocese the cathedral had just been enlarged. The Episcopal residence and Presbytery purchased and St. Joseph's hospital was in course of erection. These undertakings necessitated a large debt which was soon paid off by your Lordship. Since then the cathedral has been remodelled, seated and decorated. The beautiful Church of the Sacred Heart has been built and furnished with all that can give solemnity to the Divine worship. The hospital has been completed, very much enlarged and equipped with every means that can tend to relieve or heal human disease. Moreover, seeing the need for a home for the aged poor and afflicted, your Lordship soon had the House of Providence under way, where the suffering members of Jesus Christ might find a home in their declining days and receive all the consolations of our Holy Religion. You afterwards purchased the Bradburn property for an orphan asylum, where the fatherless and motherless are cared for and prepared for life's battle.

When your Lordship came to us we were looking forward to the time when we should see erected in this diocese those institutions of learning and charity with which the Church ever loves to surround her cathedrals and adorn her Episcopal cities. To-

AN EXPANDING MARKET

Because of the steady increase in the consumptive demands of Canadians, the export trade of the Dominion in eggs has dwindled from nearly twelve million dozen in 1902 to less than a hundred thousand dozen in the fiscal year ending March 1911. There has been with this decrease in exports a corresponding increase in imports, especially from the United States. Our imports for consumption in 1902 were 772,572 dozen, and in 1911 the amount imported was 2,378,640 dozen. In spite of the protective duty of 3 cents per dozen Canada's demand for eggs is so great that she is importing about twenty-five times as many eggs as she is exporting.

IMPORTS

Imported into Canada for home consumption in 1902 with values:

	Quantity		Value
United States .	762,802	dozen	$162,795
Other Countries	9,770	"	662
Total . . .	772,572		$163,457

Since 1902 Canada has taken eggs from Hong Kong and Great Britain, both of which would have equal privileges with the United States under the Reciprocity Agreement.

The imports of eggs in the fiscal year 1911 for home consumption were:

	Quantity		Value
United States	2,212,727	dozen	$417,857
Great Britain	12,040	"	2,128
Hong Kong .	52,012	"	4,200
Other Countries	91,861	"	14,881
Total . . .	2,378,640		$439,066

EXPORTS

The following statement of Canada's exports of eggs shows conclusively that it is the home demand for this commodity that determines its price.

For fiscal year 1902:

	Quantity		Value
Great Britain	11,353,825	dozen	$1,691,024
United States	237,435	"	35,764
Other Countries	43,848	"	6,454
Total . .	11,635,108		$1,733,242

Fiscal year 1911:

	Quantity		Value
Great Britain . .	7,067	dozen	$2,428
United States . .	24,688	"	6,927
Other Countries .	60,409	"	15,321
Total	92,164		$24,676

Whereas in 1902, when millions of dozens were shipped to Britain, and Canada's markets were directly dependent on that export trade, to-day this country imports more eggs from Britain than she exports there, showing that in a decade the positions of the Motherland and the colony have been reversed, so far as eggs are concerned.

FARMERS WHO HAVE PROTECTION

European Countries Believe in Aiding Home Industries—What Has Been Done

While matters other than the tariff have governed the degree of agricultural prosperity in various countries, a study of economic history shows that the farmer owes much to protective tariffs.

Germany

There is little disposition in Germany to abandon agriculture and to open German ports to the free admission of the farm products of other countries. In 1882, the population was 45,500,000. Agriculture gave employment to 8,500,000 laborers, with nearly 11,000,000 families and servants dependent upon them for existence, making 19,500,000 persons in all or 42.5 per cent. of the total population. The policy of maintaining agriculture, as well as manufacturing, as the principal means of subsistence, is making Germany a strong nation and one to be feared in the world's markets.

While Germany has made treaties with certain favored nations, it is noticeable that they have not opened the door to many countries which have any considerable export of cereals to that country. In German politics, there is a strong agrarian party opposed to such treaties, in so far as they apply to agricultural products.

Russia

Russia has long been a type of extreme protection. The old mercantilist point of view was closely allied with protectionism, as shown in the Act of 1823. The liberalizing forces prevailing about 1850 produced almost no impression upon the tariff system of Russia. Some very slight concessions were made in 1851 and 1855 to the needs of foreign trade, but the revival of protectionism in Europe was not needed to restore that policy in Russia. In 1880 1882 and 1885 the duties were successively raised. Before 1885, the range of duties were as high as those of Spain and the United States; and since then its tariff is probably unequalled by any modern state, due largely to the fear of English and German competition.

Fifteen years ago, nearly 90 per cent. of the Russian people were engaged in agricultural and rural pursuits, and about 1,000,000,000 acres of land were more or less under cultivation. Abundance of pasture lands makes stock raising profitable.

France

"Since 1848," said Mulhall in 1888, "no less than 9,000,000 acres of waste land have been reclaimed in France. The protection and encouragement given to the French farmers not only directly benefitted the peasantry but greatly added to the wealth of the nation. Nearly every foot of soil is extremely well cultivated in France. Many people have been kept on the soil, thus preventing the overcrowding of cities and the struggle for places among laborers in industrial centres, which would have occurred had France pursued the English policy of opening her ports to the free admission of farm products of other countries, and ruined and impoverished her agriculturists.

In 1882 general revision of the French tariff went into effect, which, while freeing raw materials, and taxing half-manufactured articles moderately, increased the duties on live stock and fresh meats. Thus manufacturers were not highly protected as yet. The agricultural depression led to the Acts of 1885 and 1887, in which much higher duties were imposed on wheat, flour, rye, barley, oats, cattle, sheep, pigs and fresh meat. In 1892 more protection was added; and France in 1896 (followed by Russia, Spain, Norway, Greece, Brazil and the United States) introduced the system of maximum and minimum tariffs.

Austria-Hungary

Preceding, and following the war of 1866, duties were considerably lowered in Austria-Hungary, and it was not until 1882 that all thoroughly protective duties were restored. The Austrian and Hungarian Governments do all in their power to promote native industry. Agriculture is the chief occupation of the people, the productive land being more than 90 per cent. of the total area. The principal product is grain, including wheat, rye, oats, maize, barley, buckwheat and millet. Flax, hemp, beets, hops, tobacco and vegetables are also raised in large quantities. The increase in production of agricultural products, fostered by protection, has given a great impetus to the making at home of farming implements.

Belgium

In 1844 Belgium adopted protection for the first time, and Holland followed the next year.

In 1895 about one fifth of the population of Belgium were agriculturists. The total value of agricultural products in 1880 was $282,000,000 and of animal produce $48,000,000.

Italy

Upon the union of the Italian states the old customs barriers were removed to the frontier and maintained almost exclusively for revenue purposes. But about 1870, the necessity of protecting agriculture, the importance of establishing industries and adopting an industrial policy in harmony with the other States of Europe, became fully recognized. The revenue policy was abandoned and a system of protection to home industries established.

United States

Under a vigorous policy of protection, one which the United States is willing to abandon in respect to Canada in order to obtain her markets, the value of farm and farm property in the neighborhood increased, as the following table shows:

Year.	Value
1850	$3,967,343,580
1860	7,980,493,060
1870	8,944,857,749
1880	12,180,501,538
1890	16,082,267,689
1900	20,514,001,838

The census which has just been taken in the United States will undoubtedly show still greater values.

The boy scouts movement in Russia is strongly opposed by the war office and land owners.

Expropriate Toll Roads.

Brockville, Aug. 2.—The preliminary steps have been taken by the Townships of Elizabeth and Augusta towards expropriating the toll road between here and Prescott, a distance of 12 miles. The arbitrators, consisting of Judge McDonald of Brockville, William Clarke, J.P., Cardinal, and J. W. White, Lords Mills, met here yesterday, but adjourned until after the general elections for the hearing of evidence.

The stretch of road in question will ultimately be included in the county's system of good roads.

RECIPROCITY AND HOGS.

Canadian Farmer Will Loose Heavily If the Compact is Made.

The average price of hogs in Chicago and Montreal for the five years ending December 31st, 1910, was as follows:

Year	Chicago	Montreal
1906	$6.20	$7.77
1907	6.10	7.43
1908	5.70	7.10
1909	7.36	8.64
1910	8.90	9.60

In October, 1907, live hogs sold in Chicago as low as $3.80 per cwt., against $6.65 per cwt. in the same in Montreal.

During the same period prices of hogs averaged lower in Buffalo than in Toronto. Occasionally the price goes higher in Buffalo, but commonly it is lower.

How can the Eastern Townships farmer compete with the American farmer on the irrigated plains of the great South West which grow yearly three to four crops of alfalfa upon which he raises and fattens as many crops of pigs?

And in this connection the matter of quarantine is worthy of consideration.

It is understood that there will be no change in the present regulations of the two countries.

If our regulations are changed then the stock of the Canadian farmer will be exposed to mange, hog cholera, foot and mouth disease, etc. If they are not changed the regulations are and will be unfair to the Canadian farmer.

Waterways of Canada.

Canada has 6,000 miles of waterways from the St. Lawrence to the Mackenzie, with only 150 miles of a land break. The Mackenzie is with its tributaries, 2,500 miles long, equal to distance from Liverpool to Halifax, draining a region three tomes as large as France. The Saskatchewan is 1,600 miles long; the Columbia 1,400; the Churchill 1,000; the Fraser and the Red River each 650 miles. The Saskatchewan basin is as large as that of the St. Lawrence.

Facts About the Fisheries.

British Columbia comes first in fishing industry, $10,314,775; Nova Scotia second, $8,081,111; New Brunswick, third, $4,676,315; Ontario fourth, $2,177,813; Quebec fifth, $1,808,436; P. E. I. sixth, $1,197,556.

Canada's fishery equipment is worth $17,357,932.

Total value of fisheries in Canada, 1850 to 1909, 732 millions.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

day we congratulate your Lordship on the accomplishment of this great work, which has brought God's blessing on the diocese.

The schools of the city have ever had an excellent reputation. With increase of population greater accommodation was required. To provide sufficient room for all the children of the city your Lordship erected the new St. Peter's school, one of the best school buildings in the province. The Sacred Heart and St. Mary's schools have been remodeled and enlarged. In all this we see your Lordship's love of education and your anxious endeavor to provide efficient religious and secular teaching for the children of your city and your diocese.

These good works for the sick, the aged poor, the orphan and the education of youth would not be complete unless you had willing workers ready to give their time and labor to the cause of Christ. The Sisters of St. Joseph of Toronto diocese had, in this diocese a hospital, a school at Port Arthur and a school at Cobourg and were preparing to take charge of St. Joseph's hospital. In order to secure permanency for the work you were undertaking your Lordship obtained from Toronto community a few professed sisters, formed a separate and independent diocesan community for the diocese of Peterborough. Encouraged by your Lordship, the Sisters purchased Inglewood, one of the finest properties around Peterborough, for a Mother House. They enlarged the buildings and built their beautiful chapel. The blessing of God was on the small community and they quickly increased in numbers, and a large addition was soon required. This the year of your Golden Jubilee, marks its completion. To-day the Sisters of St. Joseph of the diocese of Peterborough have schools in the three dioceses, Peterborough, Sault Ste. Marie and Pembroke, hospitals in Peterborough, Port Arthur and Parry Sound, besides the House of Providence and Orphan Asylum in Peterborough. God makes use of the weak to confound the strong. So from a small beginning and in a short space of time the Sisters of St. Joseph, of this diocese have, under your Lordship's fostering care and prudent guidance, accomplished great things.

The establishment by your lordship of the Sisters of St. Joseph in this diocese will ever remain a living monument of your Lordship's love for the suffering members of Jesus Christ. Your Lordship's watchful care has extended to everything that tends to the welfare of souls and the upbuilding of the diocese.

Besides establishing parishes in the northern district, which forms now the diocese of Sault Ste. Marie, you have within the limits of the present diocese rearranged the parishes and increased their number so as to bring as far as possible, all the faithful within reasonable distance of a church and see the Holy Sacrifice offered in their midst. You have had new churches erected at Peterborough, Douro, Co[illegible], Campbellford, Warkworth, [illegible], Havelock, Kinmount and in the spacious missions of Muskoka and Parry Sound. Many of these are of stone and testify to the permanent nature of the work your Lordship has accomplished in the diocese. The churches of Lindsay, Grafton, Port Hope, Hastings, Ennismore, and Downeyville have been enlarged and artistically decorated. Presbyteries have been built or purchased at Douro, Hastings, Warkworth and [illegible]. The improvements of the Catholic schools throughout the diocese have kept pace with other good works. If we include what your Lordship has done in Northern district during the sixteen years it formed a part of this diocese, there is to your credit with God seventy-five churches, twenty-eight presbyteries five hospitals, House of Providence and an orphanage. These are some of the material works done in the diocese, yet they are but the outward expressions of your Lordship's love for God and zeal for souls.

If there is one thing more than another in which the faithful of the diocese, both the priests and people, have found encouragement, edification and spiritual comfort it is your Lordship's regular visitations to various parts of the diocese and your special visits for the promotion of some particular good. Whether you visited the towns, country places, remote districts or the Indian missions, and your Lordship has left no place unvisited, your words of instruction, of piety and wholesome advice were joyously received and are treasured in the memory of all.

We, your priests can never forget all you have done for us. Your noble example, your cheerful disposition and your kind, fatherly advice have stimulated our lagging energies and encourage us to face manfully and courageously the difficulties which meet the priest of God at every turn in life.

While recounting these good deeds our hearts are filled with thanksgiving to our Lord Jesus Christ, the Good Shepherd, who has given us a Bishop whose whole heart is in the work of saving souls.

You have planted the seeds of faith and virtue in the hearts of the faithful of this diocese and thank God, you have lived to see the fruit thereof brought forth in abundance. Hence on this great day of the Lord, we rejoice and are glad to be here to congratulate your Lordship on the Golden Jubilee of your Ordination to the Priesthood of Jesus Christ.

May he grant you many happy years of health to rule over our diocese.

We wish to express our thanks to their Lordships, the Archbishops and Bishops, who have come to honor your Lordship on this auspicious occasion, to the reverend clergy of the diocese of Toronto, who have seen the fruits of your labor and where your name is hallowed, and to all the clergy who have come to join us in celebrating your Golden Jubilee.

In conclusion, we ask your Lordship to accept this purse as a token of our veneration and affection for you personally and of the unity and harmony that have always marked the relationship between you, as head of the Diocese and your faithful and obedient priests.

Asking a remembrance in your prayers and in the Holy Sacrifice, we beg your Lordship's blessing.

Peterborough, Ont., Can.

HIS LORDSHIP'S REPLY.

My dearly beloved priests, — Your complimentary address, coming from the depth of your affectionate and devoted hearts, expresses the thanks we all give to Almighty God for the many favors and graces He has bestowed upon me His unworthy servant, during the past fifty years of my sacerdotal life. As many of my former co-laborers have been called to receive the reward of faithful servants, and I have been spared to the present time to continue the work of extending God's Kingdom, it is my duty to be especially grateful for so great a favor.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

From the day that I was honored with the sublime dignity of the Holy Priesthood, my whole resolve has been to employ the few talents given me, in the sacred cause of religion and especially for the salvation of souls, for whom Christ suffered and died. If my labors have been blessed with some success by the Giver of all good gifts, it is to Him alone the honor and glory are due. "Non nobis, Domine, non nobis sed nomini tuo da gloriam."

We all know that as priests of Him, at whose birth the angelic hosts proclaimed, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to men of good will," our obligation is to promote peace amongst all classes of citizens, and extend God's Kingdom on earth. When it was God's will, expressed, by the successor of St. Peter, that I should undertake the burden of the Episcopal Office, I bowed in humble submission and resolved to go as directed by the Vicar of Christ. The diocese of Peterborough was then, as you state, very extensive. My predecessors had laid the foundation of diocesan works which remained to be brought to completion.

Trusting in the help of God and depending upon the zealous and devoted co-operation of a faithful body of priests who have ever been loyal and self-sacrificing, I unhesitatingly undertook the duties of a Bishop.

After my first visitation to the parishes and missions of the Diocese of Peterborough, it was apparent that priests and churches must be provided to meet the spiritual requirements of the incoming settlers, especially in New Ontario, and consequently it was my duty to provide those means of grace and salvation, as far as lay in my power.

Experience has taught us that many of the descendants of the early settlers throughout Ontario have been lost to the faith, owing to the scarcity of priests who would seek them in their isolated homes, and to the want of churches, in which they might assist at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and obtain a knowledge of the religion of their fathers.

In order to counteract similar dangers in that new country, and in order that religion might keep pace with the material progress of that extensive district, it was necessary to erect churches and schools, wherever a few Catholics were to be found. In a few years the influx of settlers into New Ontario became so great, and their spiritual needs were so well looked after by the zeal and care of the devoted Jesuit Missionaries and the secular clergy, that we petitioned the Holy See for a division of the Diocese. This was granted and in 1904 the northwestern portion of the Diocese was detached and constituted the Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie, which, under the prudent guidance of its zealous Bishop, is now more numerous in priests, churches, and population than the parent from which it sprang.

You enumerate the works of religion, charity and education carried on in our Episcopal City as well as throughout the Diocese, but you omit to state that, without your zealous and earnest co-operation and that of the laity very little would have been accomplished. You well know that a general without a loyal and brave body of soldiers can do nothing. So a Bishop is powerless unless his priests and people carry out his directions. If success has crowned our labors the honor and credit, under the Powerful aid of the Almighty, is to be attributed to your persevering endeavours. I may say in all humility that since I undertook the administration of the Diocese of Peterborough, my labors have been lightened and my burden has been made easy to bear, by your obedience and affection for myself as well as by your devotedness to the progress of religion and your zeal in the discharge of your duties.

Your reference to our children and the school provides for them touches a sympathetic chord in my heart. I love the little ones and am solicitous for their general welfare. I realise that the future prosperity of the Church as well as of the State, depends upon the proper training of the youth of the country. If heaven is to be peopled with saints and the earth with noble men and women, the religious and moral training of the rising generation is an absolute necessity, and their intellectual development of the greatest utility. In order to bring about this happy condition of affairs, it has been my aim to furnish our children with good teachers and well equipped schools, in which they would breathe a wholesome religious and moral atmosphere. To accomplish this object, the Sisters of St. Joseph, whose lives are consecrated to the education of youth, and the care of the sick, the orphan, the old and infirm, were introduced into the Diocese. The fidelity with which they perform perform their works of charity and religion has won for them the reverence and love of the members of the Church, and the admiration and esteem of those who do not share our faith. Truly they are the spotless virgins, who after relieving and saving the afflicted of God's children, will be amongst those who in Heaven "sing a new canticle before the throne and follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth . . . for they are without spot before the throne of God." (Apoc xiv. 3-5.)

I am most grateful to you, my beloved priests of the Diocese of Peterborough for your very generous purse and you may rest assured that it will be used to aiding the institutions of this Diocese.

I desire to cordially thank my brother prelates, who have honored me by their presence here to-day, also the large body of priests, many of whom are old and highly esteemed friends, and were my fellow-laborers in the Diocese where I spent the early years of my priesthood. To all I offer a hearty "Ceal Mille Adilte," and I earnestly implore you to occasionally remember me in offering up the Holy Mass, that whatever may be the number of days yet allotted to me to spend upon this earth, I may be a devoted and faithful Shepherd of the flock entrusted to my charge in the Diocese of Peterborough.

This address was read by Mr. Daniel O'Connell and the presentation of two purses, amounting to $5,300 made by Senator McHugh, of Lindsay.

ADDRESS FROM THE LAY PEOPLE

To the RT. REV. R. A. O'CONNOR, D. D., Bishop of Peterborough.

May it please your Lordship— We, the laity of your diocese, having learned with pleasure that the fiftieth anniversary of your ordination to the Holy Priesthood falls on this day, beg leave to share in the joys of the occasion and to add our congratulations to those of your clergy. Of those fifty years you have spent twenty two in this diocese as our Bishop and it is as our chief pastor that we approach you to express to your Lordship the lively sentiments of love and devotion that we bear to you personally and the filial obedience and deep reverence we entertain for your exalted office.

While you are in a special manner associated with your clergy, in the exercise of your apostolic ministry, yet our relations with your children of the laity are scarcely less intimate and sacred. In the first place you have taken our sons, educated and trained in Colleges and Seminaries and ordained them priests to stand at the altar of God to offer sacrifice, to administer the sacraments, to break the Bread of Life to the people, to preach the true Gospel of Jesus Christ, to be our models and guides. Nor are we unmindful of the great favor that your Lordship has conferred upon them and upon us, often too at much personal inconvenience, by officiating at this august ceremony in the young levite's native parish thus affording to relatives and friends the joy of being present on those solemn occasions, to the young man himself the consolation of being made a minister of God's altar in the very church where he had been made a child of God in Baptism and had received the first impulse of Grace that directed him to the Sanctuary and to others of our children to whom God may have vouchsafed a priestly vocation the encouragement to follow his example. We congratulate your Lordship upon possessing a body of co-laborers in the vineyard of the Master who are exact in the performance of their priestly duties, zealous for the material and spiritual welfare of their parishes and paternally solicitous in the care of our children diligently preparing them for first communion and confirmation and inspiring them to become noble citizens of church and state.

Not alone have our sons been dedicated to the work of Christ by your Lordship. Our daughters in large numbers are to-day working in the diocese with true Christian charity in schools, hospitals, houses of providence and orphanages. The growth of the community of St. Joseph under your Lordship's watchful care, brings to mind the parable of the mustard seed and its development as recorded in Holy Writ.

While we review with pride the grand work accomplished by clergy and religious under your Lordship's guidance, we recall with special pleasure your many visits to our respective parishes either to confer the sacrament of confirmation, lay plans for erection of new churches or make suggestions for the advancement of religion. As when the father of a family leaves the paternal roof to visit the homes of his children, his coming is hailed with delight. Each strives to have his house neat and cheerful. How the father loves to visit each home. How he delights in the progress each is making. Kindly he suggests to each some important advice. Happy he returns knowing that his children are doing well. So we can say of your Lordship. From time to time you visit each parish. Your coming is hailed with delight. How anxious each is, to make your visit a pleasant one. How readily your suggestions for the good of the parish are received and acted upon. How we cherish the memory of your wise counsels, your noble bearing and kindly countenance that seemed to possess the charm of perennial youth. Glad were we to know that you returned home happy in the knowledge that your children were doing well, laboring harmoniously together for the glory of God and the salvation of their souls.

In conclusion we thank your Lordship for the privilege of participating in this grand demonstration worthy in some measure we hope, of such a rare event in the life of a Prince of holy church; and we ask you to accept this cheque as a mark of our deep gratitude and filial love, beseeching God that he may spare you, our dear Bishop, to continue for many years to come your wise and benignant rule over priests and people.

His Lordship was also the recipient of a purse of $450 in gold from the priests of the Toronto diocese, presented by Mgr McCann, who gave a verbal address with the latter presentation.

REPLY TO LAY PEOPLE.

My Beloved People:

I thank you very much for your kind words of congratulation, and for your expressions of devotion and loyalty. The strong faith, deep piety and generosity of the lay people of the diocese, have always been a source of joy and consolation to me.

During the twenty-two years I have been your Bishop, I have ordained many of your sons to the priesthood, and it was a great pleasure to visit their native parishes for that purpose. I did so because I knew you were all anxious to witness the beautiful ceremony of ordination. I believed, moreover, that such an occasion would be an incentive to other young men to devote their lives to the service of God, glorify our Heavenly Father, and bring countless blessings upon yourselves, but more particularly upon the pious parents who foster in them so holy a vocation.

I have derived equal pleasure from the fact, that during the same period of time more than one hundred of your daughters have joined the Sisters of St. Joseph, our Diocesan Community. They are thus consecrating their lives to Jesus Christ and sacrificing the pleasures of the world for the care of those for whom He has a special regard. To feed the poor, to nurse the sick, to assuage the grief of the afflicted, and to educate and protect from danger, the little ones whom Jesus so dearly loves, are works so exalted, that we Christians only can appreciate them and the good God fully reward them.

That so many self-sacrificing priests and sisters have been reared among you is a most convincing proof of the abiding faith, ardent charity and solid piety which is to be found in the Catholic homes of our diocese.

But we have other proofs of your good qualities, yet unnamed. I cannot speak too highly of your generosity in contributing to our charitable institutions and the liberality you have shown when called upon to build churches, presbyteries and schools. It is true that in these undertakings great progress has been made, but to you, my dear people, a very large portion of the credit is due. When making my pastoral visitations, I have learned from personal observation as well as from the favorable reports of your pastors that you are faithful in the discharge of your religious duties. The large numbers who assist at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, frequent the sacraments, attend missions and other devotions of the church convince me, that you love God sincerely and are anxious to serve Him.

As your Bishop I am not unmindful of your temporal prosperity, but my principal anxiety is for your spiritual welfare. Therefore, it is a source of legitimate pride to know that you are so industrious and progressive and such good citizens of our beloved country. But it is a much greater happiness to observe your deeply religious spirit of fidelity to God's laws.

With a glad heart I once more thank you for your good will and kind regard. I ask you to pray for me that I may obtain from Almighty God the strength and grace to do His Holy Will in the performance of the various and onerous duties He has placed upon me. I also thank you for your generous gift as a further token of regard.

May God's blessing rest upon you, my dearly beloved people. May He bless you and your families, your labors, your good deeds, and, above all, may He grant you that final blessing which surpasseth all understanding, that is, to live with Him forever in His eternal Kingdom.

Between twelve-thirty and one o'clock luncheon was partaken of by the one hundred and fifty visiting clergy at the St. Peter's rectory.

This evening a reception will be held on the lawn of St. Peter's cathedral, which has been prettily decorated for the event. In front of the cathedral is a triple arch of evergreens, and a banner with the inscription, "We Welcome Our Guests."

The 57th Regimental Band will discourse music at this evening's celebration.

Barns of John Murray and Contents Destroyed by Fire.

Special Correspondence.

Omemee, Aug. 2.—The barns of Mr. Herb Blackwell, near Omemee, were burned out Tuesday about noon. The contents were about 40 loads of hay, 300 bushels of oats and a quantity of fall wheat. The cause of the fire is unknown, unless a spark from a passing locomotive ignited the buildings, which are quite close to the railway track.

Mr. John Murray has returned from a holiday at a summer resort on Georgian Bay.

Mrs. J. A. Wylie is visiting with friends at Toronto.

Tuesday was civic holiday here and at Millbrook. The Methodists of these villages organized a grand excursion by rail to Lakefield, by boat to Lindsay and from thence by rail to points of destination. There was a large crowd left here, and judging from the ideal weather, the complete excursion party would tax the capacity of the steamers engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Mitchell, of Toronto, have returned to their home after a visit with his mother. Wes. is an example of another Omemeeite who has made good in the business world. He is in the drug business on King street west.

Mr. Walter Mitchell and party have returned from a trip down the river. A good supply of huckleberries was secured and a pleasant outing enjoyed.

The season for the steam thresher has arrived and they may be seen moving about among the farmers. Mr. Morton's and Mr. Courtney's outfits are on the move.

Miss Evelyn Porter was a visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

Principal Barron, of the high school, has returned from Toronto, where he spent some weeks as a reader of department examination papers.

Mr. Fred Stinson made a business trip to Mount Pleasant last Tuesday.

Mr. Robert Thompson, of Toronto, is spending his holidays here, the guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Thompson, Sturgeon street.

Mr. Bert Shuce, of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto staff, is home again after a recreation trip.

Mr. Arthur Parsons, of Toronto, has joined his wife and children who are the guests of his mother, Mrs. T. J. Parsons, George street.

Miss Gertie McLean, of Toronto, who had been calling on Peterborough friends, was the guest last week of her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Hayes, King street.

On Tuesday evening the Methodists held a garden party on the lawn adjoining the church and parsonage. Tea was served in the basement of the church from six to eight o'clock p.m. The 57th regimental band of Peterborough, rendered a program of music that was much appreciated. The lawn was a perfect fairyland of beauty and animation, its suspended decorations of electric lights and fancy Chinese lanterns, its attractive refreshment booths, superintended by handsomely gowned and pretty girls, its throng of recreation seekers in their many colored and hot weather garbs, combined with the brilliant uniforms of the musicians to make a spectacular exhibition. The weather was ideal and the large attendance fulfilled the financial anticipations of the promoters, who are receiving congratulations on the success of the social evening.

Rev. Dr. Gray, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sabbath evening and delivered an interesting and helpful sermon, at the close of which he explained the object of his work by an appeal for financial assistance to the building fund of the new Knox College, which is to be erected adjacent to the Provincial University.

The many friends of Mr. George Balfour are offering the congratulations on his appointment to the position of jailor of the County of Victoria. Omemee regrets the loss of one of its best citizens and has every confidence that Mr. Balfour will fill the new position with ability and honor.

Miss Annie Shield, of Mount Pleasant, is the guest of some of her Omemee friends.

Mr. Havelock Fee, of Lindsay, was in town the first of last week.

The Rev. W. S. Atkinson will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath.

THE ADDRESS TO BISHOP O'CONNOR

Designed and Executed by Sisters of St. Joseph's

The address presented to His Lordship the Bishop of Peterborough from the priests of this diocese was a very beautiful example of the art of illumination and engrossing. In design and execution it followed the best examples, the text being in a black letter, or Old English. The floral capitals and initial letters were beautifully designed, and the characters interlaced and garnished with appropriate tracery, flowerets and handsome borders. The page borders were in many respects, both as to design and coloring, unique. Scattered over the pages were exquisite illustrations of the cathedral, the House of Providence, St. Joseph's hospital and the other edifices of the diocese. The whole represented a labor of love, carried out with exquisite skill and marvellous patience and care, and the magnificent result is due to the Sisters of St. Joseph, who designed and executed the address. It would be a pleasure to many if the address could be placed for a short time where it might be viewed. It was handsomely and appropriately bound at the Review bindery, in scarlet morocco, deftly tooled and ornamented in gold and appropriate designs, and was the work of Mr. David Moore, superintendent of the bindery.

EDWIN A. ABBEY DEAD.

Great American Painter Passes Away In London.

London, Aug. 1.—Edwin A. Abbey, the American painter, died here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Edwin Austin Abbey, R.A., was born in Philadelphia, U.S.A., in 1852. He was mainly self-taught. In 1878 he went to England, where he quickly gained distinction.

His first academy picture was "A May-Day Morning" (1890). In 1896 he was elected A.R.A., in the year of his fine pictures "Richard III.," and "Lady Annie" (etching by M. L. Flameng), and R.A. in 1898, his diploma picture being "A Lute Player."

The deceased painter is best known for the frescoes which he, together with Puvis de Chavannes and John Sargent, executed in the Boston Public Library, U.S.A. This work, "The Guest of the Holy Grail" (completed in 1901 in 15 panels), marks an important era in the development of American art. His other works are "Hamlet" (1897) and "King Lear's Daughters" (1898).

Simon Must Leave.

Port au Prince, Aug. 2.—The capital has been completely invested by the revolutionists and it is probable that they will refuse a delay of three days asked for by President Simon to effect plans to secure the capitol from pillage and will enter the city immediately.

It is probable also that President Simon, who has consented to leave the country will be obliged to embark today for some foreign port.

Buried In Mine 48 Hours.

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 2.—After trying for forty-eight hours to reach Joseph Clary, imprisoned in a mine near here by a cave-in Sunday, the fourth attempt of rescuers to reach the imprisoned man by means of a drill shaft was successful yesterday afternoon.

From the depths of the drift, 85 feet below the surface, floated a feeble "Hello" in answer to the signals of the rescuers.

IS BEATEN TO DEATH

Thomas Brown Is Murdered by Negro in Chatham.

Charles Hurst, a Hotel Porter, Is Arrested After Emancipation Day Celebration, During Which He Clubs a White Man on Street In So Brutal a Manner That He Dies a Few Minutes Later—Was Drinking.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 2.—As a tragic sequel to the colored emancipation celebration here yesterday, Thomas Brown, white, aged about 50 years, was struck on the head and killed by Charles Hurst, a negro, aged about 26 years.

Brown and Hurst were walking along Colborne street together at six o'clock, when some altercation took place. The negro grabbed a heavy club and beat the white man over the head with it in such a brutal manner that he died ten minutes later. The negro left his hapless victim and fled down William street. A policeman started in hot pursuit, aided by enraged white citizens. Hurst doubled on his pursuers and ran back down town, but was caught and arrested by Officer Thomas Grover, before he could get in hiding. Hurst was locked up charged with murder. The chief of police immediately order the hotel bars in the vicinity of the park where the negroes were celebrating, closed up for the night. About the time the killing took place there were a great many drunken negroes around the streets. It is supposed that Hurst was much the worse of liquor when he struck Brown.

The deceased, Thomas Brown, leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. W. J. Strong, of Toronto, who is now contending in the courts with her husband for the custody of their child.

Hurst was a colored porter in the Garner Hotel here.

Special to the Review.

Chatham, Aug 2.—Charles Hurst, a negro, who yesterday killed Thomas Brown, pleaded not guilty at police court this morning and was remanded till August 8th. The coroner's inquest was adjourned till Friday morning.

Defends Cement Prices.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Senator Edwards, president of the Canada Cement Co., gave a strong denial yesterday to statements from consumers in various parts of the country that they were paying more for cement to-day than before the Canadian concerns merged.

Ottawa dealers say they believe there is good ground for an enquiry under the Combines' Investigation Act, but Senator Edwards scoffed at the idea. As a matter of fact, he said, before the Canada Cement Co. was organized, the individual concerns in Canada were cutting each other's throats to the detriment of all. The price of cement in Canada to-day, he said, is lower than it ever was under normal conditions before the price-cutting war was inaugurated.

HAULTAIN WILL TAKE THE STUMP

Special to the Review.

Regina, Aug. 3.—F. W. G. Haultain will take the stump for the Conservative party, and he is arranging to hold a series of meetings for R. S. Lake, M.P., in Qu'Appelle. Speaking to a large gathering of Conservatives in Moose Jaw, Haultain said that the Conservative party was big enough to permit a difference of opinion on minor matters of its policy, and great enough to unite us all on a general policy." "You must not let a reciprocity red herring be drawn across the trail," he said. "If the Liberal party gave us five hundred reciprocity pacts, containing all the advantages which the Liberals claim the present reciprocity treaty does, even then I would take the view against them, and work against them, for I cannot forget the fifteen years of their malfeasance in office."

LAURIER HEARS MACEDONIAN CRY "COME OVER AND HELP US"

Premier to Visit Nova Scotia for Ten Meetings, and Will Devote a Lot of Time to Quebec—Ontario to be Left to Last.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in the position of the swimmer, who, reaching the river bank, hesitates to jump in. He has postponed the inauguration of his campaign for another week. The official explanation is that things must be looked after in Ottawa before the Prime Minister can get away; in other words that there is nothing like that absolute state of preparedness which was at first represented. Sir Wilfrid will hold one meeting in Ontario and will then go down to fight the Nationalists in Quebec.

There is another development. Liberal confidence in the Maritime Provinces has been rather rudly shaken and a Macedonian cry has been heard from that direction with the result that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who didn't so much as show his white plume in the Maritime Provinces in 1908 is arranging to hold from eight to ten meetings there.

On Thursday, 17th instant, the Premier will speak at Three Rivers in Hon. Jacques Bureau's constituency. On the following day he will speak in the city of Quebec. The following week the Premier will devote to meetings in the Montreal district, comprising some forty constituencies. From August 28 to September 2 he will be in the Maritime Provinces for a series of meetings, speaking at Halifax and St. John, N.B.

On September 4 Sir Wilfrid will again be in Ontario, where he will put in a week addressing meetings at various points to be fixed later. The following week he will devote to the ridings of the Quebec district. He will windup the five weeks' series of meetings with final rallies on September 18, 19, and 20 at points not yet determined.

R. L. Borden returned to Ottawa yesterday from a conference with his lieutenants in Montreal. He goes to Toronto for Saturday's gatherinf of Ontario Conservatives. Hon. Robert Rogers, who is still in Montreal, is also expected to attend the Toronto meeting.

It is announced that Thomas Chase Casgrain, who will arrive from Europe on Friday, will accept the Opposition candidature in Nicolet. Mr. Casgrain was at one time attorney-general and later on Federal member for Montmorency.

Bourassa Disclaims Both.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—In Le Devoir this afternoon Henri Bourassa publishes a long signed article stating the Nationalist position in the coming campaign. In substance he cries down both party leaders, refuses to take sides in the reciprocity question, setting it aside as a minor issue, and calling upon the electors of Quebec to judge Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his Government's general record, and particularly on his imperialistic tendencies, as evidenced in his naval policy.

"Of all the questions," he concludes, "that the Premier and the leader of the Opposition seem desirous of snatching from the judgment of the people, the most important without doubt is that collection of problems grouped together under the name 'imperialist,' and particularly the contribution of Canada to imperial armaments on sea and land; the participation of the Canadian people in men and money to the imperial wars where the fate of Canada is not at stake.

Expects a Walkover.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—The Royal Edward arrived in port last evening carrying among its passengers Premier A. L. Sifton of Alberta, and Premier Walter Scott of Saskatchewan. Both proceeded last evening to Ottawa for a short stop before returned home.

Neither Premier had anything to say on the political situation. Hon. Walter Scott, when asked if he "would take part in the fight, smilingly answered: "What fight?" and expressed te optimistic opinion that in his province it would be a walkover for his party, the visit of the Opposition leader notwithstanding.

MR. PECK WRITES ACCEPTING CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION

Says That Sentiment in British Columbia is Strongly Against the Reciprocity Pact—No Doubt About Position of the Electors

The following letter has been received by Mr. James Edgar, secretary of the Liberal-Conservative Association from Mr. E. A. Peck, dated Nelson, B.C., accepting the nomination by the Conservatives for the Ontario House, and commenting on political opinion in British Columbia;

"I have received an account of the proceedings at the recent meeting of the association. I am sorry I was unable to be present but I had made all my arrangements for this excursion to the west before the meeting was called.

"I appreciate highly the honor of being invited to be candidate at the next provincial election and accept the nomination with pleasure and shall be prepared to enter into the contest when the time arrives.

"I have been surprised and I need not say, pleased, to note the want of sympathy, wherever I have been in British Columbia, with the proposed pact.

"Opposition to the treaty is very strong and there can be no question about the position the electors of the province will take when they have an opportunity at the polls to voice their views.

Yours, sincerely,
E. A. PECK.

JOE MARTIN COMING HOME

Fighting Joe Can't Keep Finger Out of Political Pie.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 3.—Joe Martin, M.P., will take part in the Federal elections. Writing to a friend here he says he will sail early in September, making the trip to Vancouver.

The city's nomination convention date will be decided at a emeting tonight. New Westminster Liberals are to name candidates August 11.

It is likely that John Oliver, former Liberal leader in the House and now president of the Provincial Liberal Association, will get the nomination.

Fisher at Waterloo.

Waterloo, Que., Aug. 3.—The first gun of the Federal election campaign of 1911 boomed forth here Tuesday, and the first advance was made when Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, addressed the farmers of Shefford County at a meeting held in the Town Hall here.

One of the most important features of Mr. Fisher's address was his announcement of the intention of the Government, if returned, to change the rules of procedure in the House so that obstructionist tactics will in future be impossible. The entire address dealt almost altogether with reciprocity. Several times he severely criticised the methods of the Anti-Reciprocity League, showing the fallacies in their contention against the pact.

Willing to Take Partner's Place.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—"I shall be a candidate for the House of Commons," said Mr. Alphonse Provost yesterday. Mr. Provost is a Liberal, and is a partner of A. Allard, who was M.P. here, but who has announced that he has retired.

New Residents Barred.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—A peculiar point in connection with the coming Dominion elections has been brought to light by City Clerk Boult of Hull. Any residents of Hull seeking the franchise cannot vote, unless their names are contained in the list of electors which was published at the last elections.

The city clerk states that according to the laws of the Province of Quebec a resident in the province cannot obtain a vote as is done in Ontario by registering. Only those whose names are contained in the last list of electors are entitled to a vote. This will mean that only about 3,000 will be entitled to vote at the September elections.

McCURDY AND WILLARD FLY FROM HAMILTON TO TORONTO

Canadian Aviator Wins Competition After a Magnificent Flight 3000 Feet in the Air—Willard Stays Low and Has Trouble—First Flight of Kind on Continent.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—This city saw the successful finish of the first city to city aeroplane race that has ever been held on the American continent, last night, when J. A. McCurdy completed a flight of fifty miles, landing at the foot of the Cherry street bridge on Fisherman's Island, 32 minutes after leaving the Hamilton aviation field, four miles west of that city and Charles Willard, Mr. McCurdy's partner in the McCurdy-Willard Aeroplane Co., landed safely in Exhibition Park at 6.45 o'clock, having left the Hamilton field 13 minutes in advance of Mr. McCurdy.

The flight was given by these aviators purely in the interests of the sport and science of aviation, and each flew in a machine of his own construction.

The men had intended landing at Donlands, where the big meet opens this evening, but when they approached Toronto flying over the lake, they saw that it would be impossible to cross the city, as nothing could be seen through the dense clouds of smoke and haze which hung over it like a cloud.

CHARLES F. WILLARD.

The aviators had vastly different experiences on their trip. McCurdy flew at an altitude of 3,000 feet for almost the entire distance and found ideal wind and atmospheric condition. Williard, in his heavier machine, flew much lower and passed through continual gusts of wind and pockets of air. His altitude for the flight was between 500 and 600 feet.

All day long the city buzzed with discussion of the proposed flight and the brisk wind which prevailed throughout the day led many to doubt that it would be made.

Both Mr. McCurdy and Mr. Willard were greatly pleased with the result of their flight, which is the first of its kind on the continent. The men are the more proud as the machines which they fly are of their own personal design and make and are the creatures of their very tender care and intimate regard.

Both regard the flight as a valuable experience and a demonstration of the varying air conditions at different altitudes. McCurdy struck straight up into the blue for 3,000 feet and was altogether untroubled until he approached the heated clouds over the city, which made him come down. Willard flew at the lesser altitude of from 100 to 600 feet and was in continual trouble with puffs, gusts, squalls and air pockets.

While making his initial flight in his Bleriot monoplane on the aviation field at Donlands last night, J. J. Jackson, the plucky Toronto amateur aviator, came to grief. Though his machine was badly smashed — one wing, the propeller and part of the frame being broken—Jackson himself escaped uninjured.

Jackson has been working on his machine for the last two weeks at Donlands, and it was only yesterday that he received his propeller from New York, which was the last thing necessary to make the machine ready for flight. It had been Mr. Jackson's intention to have Richter, the German aviator, who was injured at Hanlan's Point, give him some preliminary coaching, but as Richter's condition prevented him from being present when Mr. Jackson was ready to fly, the aviator pluckily decided to make an ascent himself, although he had never been in the air, and his knowledge of aeroplaning was purely theoretical.

Saskatchewan's Conservative in parliament, who will have Haultain's support on the stump.

J. R. STRATTON AND R. R. HALL SEE HANDWRITING ON WALL

Were in Ottawa Trying to Arrange Some Means of Political Salvation in the Stampede.

Ottawa, Aug 2.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Ontario tour is hanging fire. That he will not visit the premier province next week is certain, and there seems to be some doubt as to whether he will reach any point in Ontario even the week after next. This hesitation and delay is not due to any unwillingness on the part part of the Prime Minister; on the contrary, it is more than hinted that the Ontario Liberals find their chieftain an awkward, if not an unwelcome guest. Leading Liberals from various localities insist with an air of self-denial that the premier is more needed in some other part of Ontario, and thus beg off when a Laurier meeting is proposed for their constituencies. Various reasons, which need not be dilated upon, render the personality of Sir Wilfrid anything but an asset to certain Liberal candidates, indeed he is about the last person they would wish to see appear in their districts. But apart from all this, the Farmers Bank failure and other Governmental scandals, it is feared, will lead to some unpleasant heckling of the Premier should he visit Ontario in this campaign.

Messrs. Fred Pardee, Duncan Ross, Hon J. R. Stratton and Bob Hall, of Peterborough, are among the prominent Liberals who have arrived here ing the last day or two to try and wake up the Government. The opinion is quite general that the Prime Minister underestimates the fight he has on his hands.

The press of business may prevent him attending the monster rally in West Toronto on Saturday next. He is very anxious to attend, and will attend if possible, but the work of organization at the capital is a heavy one, and both Mr. Borden and Mr. George H. Perley, chief whip, have their hands full. The former is specially anxious to clear the answers of his correspondents before taking the stump.

It is understood that Mr. Borden will not only tour Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, but will also address meetings in Montreal, Quebec, and the Eastern townships.

FOUR DROWN IN MONTREAL

Fpidemic of Water Fatalities in Metropolis.

Hamilton Boy Fell Into Bay While Fishing.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Four victims of drowning were taken from the water of the harbor yesterday, and in three of the cases the victims were under 20 years of age.

With his boat overladen with driftwood which he had gathered from the harbor to help in the support of his mother and sisters, John Archibald MacPherson, 19 years of age, lost his life when his boat swamped Tuesday afternoon.

The body was recovered and taken to the morgue, where it was identified by the mother yesterday morning. The coroner's inquest disposed of the case as one of accidental drowning.

Men on board the market boat Princess yesterday morning saw the corpse of a boy floating in the canal at Lachine. The police were notified and the body was recovered between Cote St. Paul and Lachine and identified as that of Zeotique Leduc, 8 years of age, who had been missing from his home at 34 St. Louis street, Lachine, since Monday night.

Victor Ethier, 18 years of age, who resided with his parents at Beaubien street, met his death while in bathing with a couple of other little chaps, all of whom had walked out to the Back River for the purpose of learning to swim. The tragedy occurred at the south end of the bridge, known as Pont Viau, where the current is quite strong. The body has not been recovered.

Still another victim was recovered from the Wellington Basin early yesterday morning, near the Dominion Coal Co.'s sheds. He was a middle-aged man, dressed in blue serge coat, trousers and vest and black boots; $3.41 in money was found in his pockets as well as his watch. He is awaiting identification at the morgue.

Boy Fell Into Canal.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 3.—Twelve-year-old Edgar Cuff, while fishing on the Turbinia Steamship Co.'s pier, was drawned at noon yesterday. The lad left his playmate at one end of the dock to secure a cork from a group of boys at the other end, and, unseen by his chum, fell, or was pushed in the water, which at that point is about twelve feet deep. The group of boys ran as soon as the splash took place, and the drowned lad's companion ran for help to the police. The latter are seeking the other lads.

LOSS IS $12,000 IN ASYLUM FIRE

Toronto, Aug. 3.—That the actual money loss incurred by the fire at Hamilton Asylum will be about $12,000 is the estimate of E. R. Rogers, provincial superintendent of asylums, who has just returned from the scene of the disaster. There was no insurance on the building.

Within a month the roof will be replaced and the damaged section restored to its former condition, Mr. Rogers states.

With regard to the eight parents who lost their lives, the officials say that not one of them was burned to death. They were all suffocated by the smoke, and there was no suffering. In fact the only instance of charred flesh was in the case of one man, whose face was burned to some extent, but that happened after he was dead.

Chairman Englehart Says That Progress is Rapid in Rebuilding.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—After a week's tour of inspection of the burned districts in Northern Ontario, Chairman J. L. Englehart of the T. & N.O. Commission returned to the city yesterday. With regard to the distribution of supplies to the needy, Mr. Englehart said that he found the relief committees to have done their duties to the fullest extent in providing food and shelter for those in want. People who were not yet able to obtain the necessities of life of their own accord, were still being attended to. There are plenty of funds on hand.

Chairman Englehart's trip has been instrumental in clearing up the freight congestion on the branch lines of the T. & N.O., about which there were several complaints recently. Owing to the limited amount of siding room at Porcupine there was considerable trouble in getting the consignments of freight, etc., to their destination, but additional switches were installed as rapidly as could be done, and there is now lots of accommodation.

Mr. Englehart is more optimistic than ever regarding the future of Northern Ontario. "We never had a pleasanter trip to the north country," he said yesterday.

To Get Pointers From Britannia.

New York, Aug. 3.—U. S. Secretary of the Navy Meyer sailed for England yesterday on the Mauretania to look into the administration of navy yards there with special reference to the needs of American yards, now about to undergo changes in business methods.

DARK OUTLOOK FOR LIBERALS

Government Disturbed Over Prospects in Ontario

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, August 3—At the outlook for the party in Ontario, the government is much disturbed and money is being freely offered that the Liberals will not carry twenty-five seats there. Mr. Borden goes to Toronto at the week end and will continue his campaigning until election day, on September 21.

To-day has seen a great influx of Liberal politicians, who came for the sinews of war, or to have various works started.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action, and you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

SOME TRADE FACTS

The campaign arguments in favor of reciprocity are devoted, not so much to a comparison between United States and Canadian prices for the products affected, but to stating that so much duty will be taken off certain articles entering the United States, leaving it largely to the imagination of the farmer to reach the conclusion that to remove the duty against him will give him the run of the whole American market. Never has a greater fallacy been advanced. We hear very little now about that wonderful market of 90,000,000 people which the Canadian farmer was to have. Why? Because it has been shown that this market is largely a myth, a dream. In the first place, while Canadian farmers near the border may compete in certain classes of products with American farmers near the border, freight rates offer too great an increase of cost to allow them to ship their products economically very far south, in the face of the home production that does not have to pay these rates.

The Chicago Tribune says: "The industrial population is essential to the farmer. The nearer it is to him the surer he is of trade." This statement is true. The Canadian farmer need not imagine that because he is put on a free competing level with the American farmer, except through the handicap of heavier freight rates, he can immediately capture the big industrial markets of the United States. The home market of the American farmer might be invaded, but he will always retain it, through the simple fact of being the producer right next door.

But in trying to open that American market to the Canadian farmers the Canadian government has opened the Canadian market, not only to the competition of the American farmer, and his cheapened products, but to the competition of a dozen other countries, some of whom are larger exporters than Canada of classes of goods in which we are supposed to excel. In the month of February alone Canada imported 268,000 pounds of butter from Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the United States, and 734,000 dozen eggs from Hong Kong, the Chinese empire, and the United States. This was in a single month. If New Zealand were to send as much butter the year round as she sent in February alone, she would sell us half a million dollars' worth. This is in only one product. When these goods come in under a duty, what may we expect under free trade? From 1906 to 1910, inclusive, we sold to the United States $301,000 worth of bacon and hams. We imported from the United States in the same time $3,856,000 worth of bacon and hams. Will reciprocity open up to us a valuable market of 90,000,000 here?

The total value of the meat and meat products exported to the United States between 1906 and 1910 was $650,000, while we imported no less than $15,411,000 worth of the same products. In the face of such figures as these, is it not absurd to say that Canadian farmers are going to get a better market for their hogs and hog products, beef cattle and beef, and other meats?

Wood's Phosphodine,

The Great English Remedy. Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new Blood in old Veins. Cures Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain Worry, Despondency, Sexual Weakness, Emissions, Spermatorrhoea, and Effects of Abuse or Excesses. Price $1 per box, six for $5. One will please, six will cure. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain pkg. on receipt of price. New pamphlet mailed free. The Wood Medicine Co. (formerly Windsor) Toronto, Ont.

The total meat and dairy products exported in 1909 from the United States amounted to $166,521,000. This is ten times more than Canada's exports in the same lines. With a home market ten times greater than Canada, has supplied at home, and $166,000,000 worth of meat and dairy products exported as a surplus, does it look probable that reciprocity will give Canadians even a look-in at that American market? Only a few days ago over 1,000 sheep were sold on the Toronto market that were imported from the United States, and in spite of a duty, sold under Canadian prices. The Review will publish photographs of these American sheep to-morrow. Think of it! With a duty against them, 1,000 American sheep are brought into the country, and the price is under the regular Canadian price. With the duty removed how many would be brought in?

As a test of what the home market is worth, consider this for a moment. In 1909 our total exports of hogs and hog products amounted to $6,915,000. In that year alone Ontario slaughtered 1,986,000 swine, valued at $21,400,000, or Ontario in one year killed three times the total export of all Canada.

The United States sells us three dollars' worth of goods for every one that we sell to her. Is it not more probable, more likely, that the wiping away of the customs barrier on natural products at the border will increase her trade proportionately—that for every dollars' worth more we sell her, we shall buy three dollars' worth more? That is poor kind of national progress. Canadian farmers and business men should seek to supply everything possible at home themselves, and sell only their surplus to outsiders, keeping complete control of the home market.

THE LEADERS' VISIT

Sir Wilfrid may come to Peterborough. Well, the people of Peterborough will give him a hearty reception any time he comes, in a campaign or any other time. We may disagree with his views and his policies, and we may heartily despise many of those whom he has been forced to associate with, in the exigencies of politics—which gives a man many strange bedfellows,—but after all, Sir Wilfrid has given his life to the Canadian public service, and that is worth a great deal. Just as warm a reception will be given Mr. Borden, we hope, for while Mr. Borden has not had the picturesque career, and enjoyed the bitters and sweets of office like Sir Wilfrid, he is none the less one of the great and foremost men of Canada—a man much greater than the general public esteems him. As the probable coming premier, Mr. Borden's welcome will be decidedly warm. The double honor to Peterborough will be the occasion of great demonstrations, and we venture to say that there is no one who can point a finger at any personal lapse from rectitude, or to any shadow of dishonor personally, by either of the leaders. Welcome to them both, if they come.

Swapping horses while crossing a stream is proverbially a bad bit of business, but it is proposed to shove Sir Frederick Borden over to London before the campaign opens, and bring in E. M. Macdonald, of Pictou, N.S., to retire Brodeur to the bench and replace him by Beland, and make other changes. The cabinet will be a sort of kaleidoscopic affair, in this campaign.

What's the use of bringing on Sir Wilfrid Laurier to speak before there is somebody in the field to speak for.

The Farmers' Bank cases come up again in September, probably shortly before the elections are due. The West Peterborough Grits to have any chance will have to have a candidate who is not mixed in with this affair, nor any Cordage company deals.

Mr. Peck says that he finds the finds the strongest sort of anti-reciprocity sentiment in British Columbia. In the Pacific province they have had a taste of real Americanization, and they don't want any more of it. In fact, British Columbia, being shut off from the east by the long mountain haul, is the most Americanised of Canadian territory. If they are so strongly and bitterly opposed to swapping arrangements with the Americans, the great benefits of reciprocity do not seem to have created a very cheerful frame of mind. It is only the fact that we in eastern Canada have had little to do, comparatively, with our American cousins that induces us to consider the pact. Far fields look green. Larger markets for the Americans is what the reciprocity deal means.

Biliousness

is certainly one of the most disagreeable ailments which flesh is heir to. Coated tongue—bitter taste in the mouth—nausea—dizziness—these combine to make life a burden. The cause is a disordered liver—the cure Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. They go straight to the root of the trouble, put the liver right, cleanse the stomach and bowels, clear the tongue and take away the bitter taste from the mouth. At the first sign of biliousness take

SUMMING UP SINS

Mr. Bourassa has issued a statement criticising the election manifestoes of both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden, condemning them on the ground that they have only passingly referred to questions of imperialism and autonomy. While the Conservatives certainly do not see eye to eye with Mr. Bourassa, and neither do the Liberals it is interesting to note the Nationalist leader summing up many of the reasons for strong opposition to the administration, apart from the reciprocity question. As a sample view point from a man who is neither a Liberal or a Conservative, but occupies a sort of sacred enclosure for the worship of the god autonomy, what Mr. Bourassa finds to condemn the government for, is most interesting. He says:

"The situation created by the Premier and the leader of the Opposition is singularly false and difficult, and it behooves those who are not the slaves of any party to break down its barriers and to place the fight on larger grounds. Mr. Laurier seeks to make the Canadian people fall into the same trap which he has succeeded in leading Mr. Borden and his personal followers into. He speaks alone, in his manifesto, of the one question of reciprocity, and hopes thus to turn public attention away from the many indications of the pestilent gangrene that is infecting his administration; the scandalous acts of Mr. Pugsley, the peculations of the Minister of Militia in the manufacture of arms; the rottenness of the national printing press; the frittering away of millions and the orgies of the Ministry of Marine; the Lanctot painting and the dirty lines by means of which the Ministerial majority, headed by Mr. Laurier himself endeavored to recover it; the sixty-nine thousand dollars of Oliver and the millions thrown to Mackenzie & Mann; the common tricks and desperate means which the ministers have had recourse in order to stifle the truth; the crooked history of the Farmers Bank, to which Mr. Fielding sold its permits to carry on business after having been officially warned that the organisers of that institution had obtained their capital by fraud; the refusal to make public the names of the generous donors of a present of $120,000 to the Minister of Finance."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Laurier and larger markets for the Americans.

Can it be that the Liberal government ran the Niobe on the rocks to get her out of the way, and cheat Bourassa out of a chance to talk about Canada's navy?

Young Mr. Kerr hasn't, to date, risen in his might to declare that he has at least secured the support of the Association of Spinsters, in his chosen riding.

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Emma! How different she had been from the other! She had not taken; she had given. Love had not been dependent upon the bringing of gifts; it had been lavished upon him. When he had been despondent she had comforted him; when things were going wrong she had encouraged him; when his head ached she had rested it on her bosom. And it had come to this—that he had lost her and, with her, all; that he was an outcast at her door.

An insane desire to see her took possession of him. It grew, became overpowering, swept aside all the objections of reason. He was a dying man, and nothing was denied to the dying. He retraced his steps and rang the bell. The door opened, and he ascended the well remembered stairs. Mrs. Harris' flat was on the first landing. A maid who did not know him answered his ring.

"Is Mrs. Brooks at home?" he asked.

The girl shook her head.

"Mrs. Brooks? No; no one of that name lives here. This is Mrs. Harris' apartments. Mrs. Harris and Miss Beth have gone out. Miss Emma is in."

Miss Emma! She had even discarded his name, then! The blow was hard.

"I would like to see her."

"Your card, sir, please."

"Tell her Mr. Smith is calling."

The name had flashed to him with the conviction that she would not receive him if he gave his own.

He followed on the heels of the maid.

"You needn't bother," he said and brushed past her at the door of the parlor.

Emma was arranging some ornaments on the mantelpiece. For a moment she did not recognize him. Then she recoiled, with a little cry, from the wild eyed, disheveled specter who, hat in hand, stood before her.

"Yes, Emma, it's me, or what is left of me," he said.

"What brings you here? How did you get in?" she demanded, with frightened eyes.

"Don't be afraid. You have nothing to fear from me," he assured her. "I'm going on a long journey—yes, a long, long journey, and I've come to say goodby. You'll never see me again. I shall be no more trouble to anybody."

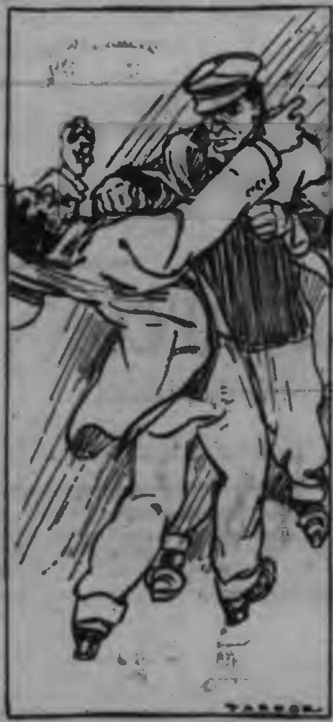
"There is no need to come here. I cannot receive you. You must go."

"Emma, I know how bad I was to you, how"—

"I cannot listen to your excuses. It is useless to recall the past. Please go!"

"I have no wish to recall it. I ask only your forgiveness—ask it as a dying man. You cannot refuse."

"You have been dead long years to me, and I have prayed God that I might never, see you again. I paid you in full for my freedom. Why have you come to trouble me? Go, please, and leave me in peace."



Williams dealt him a smashing blow.

"All right," he said sorrowfully. "I will go. Goodby, Emma."

With bowed head he went toward the door, stopped and turned to her with outstretched arms, pleading in his eyes.

"Emma, one kiss—my pardon and absolution before I die."

"No; oh, no!"

She retreated, shuddering, terrified.

He followed her, desperate, resolved to take by force what she would not give, to feel once more in his arms the little form that once had nestled there fondly.

She read his purpose and shrieked.

Mrs. Harris, Beth and Captain Williams were just entering, and they rushed in with the maid.

Brooks turned to escape as Emma, almost hysterical with horror and fear, uttered scream after scream. He ran right into Williams, who recognized him at once and dealt him a smashing blow that sent him to the floor. Then the captain grasped the half stunned man and, pulling him to his feet, held him while he inquired what had happened.

Emma, calmed by her mother and sister, tremblingly explained. Williams looked at his prisoner, undecided what to do. Brooks did not open his mouth. The captain walked him out on the landing and, threatening to kill him if he ever dared to molest Emma again, threw him down the stairs.

CHAPTER XXV.

BRUISED and dazed, aching all over and very weak, Brooks picked himself up and made his way to the street. He had now reached the extreme of hopelessness and desperation. Everybody, the whole world, was against him, except Jimsy Smith, and he could do nothing for him. The only being who had loved him had shrunk from him with dread, refused him the sacrament of a last kiss, besought in charity.

He hardly knew how he got there, but he reached home without molestation and mounted by the stairway unperceived to his room. Once inside he locked the door and turned on the light. It was at least gratefully warm there, and he was at last safe from the clutches of the law. Escape lay at his hand. In a moment all would be over.

Nothing had been disturbed during his absence. The revolver was still in the drawer where he had left it. He took it and, gazing at himself in the bureau glass, raised the firearm to his right temple. He was appalled as he looked at the ghastly, haggard face before him and the eyes, fear haunted, that stared out of their dark and deeply sunken rims like the optics of an owl. The revolver shook in his numbed hand, and he could scarce bend his finger on the trigger.

What was his hurry? Why not wait until he had warmed his hand and make the deed surer? If the police came for him death was at his beck and would cheat them at an instant's notice. His craven spirit inspired him with the desire to live a little longer.

He laid the revolver on the table and rubbed his hands to set the blood circulating. Then he held them over the heat radiator. He remembered that in the clothes closet was a full bottle of whisky. The stuff would soon warm him. He took off his overcoat, to hang it up in the closet and felt in a pocket for his handkerchief. His hand encountered the roll of bills Smith had slipped in there. For a moment a gleam of hope flashed its cheering ray as he contemplated the money. Here was enough to enable him to get away.

But his despondency refused the comfort. What was the use? To attempt escape now would be to fall into the hands of the police sleuths who must be on the lookout for him. He surmised that the weather had driven the watchers to take shelter and had enabled him to slip into the house unnoticed or unrecognized. No, he had done with life and all its worries and disappointments. Better death than the consequences of living. He would have to die at some time or other anyhow.

He poured out a large glass of whisky and swallowed it. The fiery stuff warmed him all over. He sat down to think, and his thoughts took the shape of a review of his life. He had never been any good to himself or anybody else—never. Brought up by a maiden aunt, who had taken him in when as a young boy he had lost his widowed mother, he had repaid her with waywardness and indifference. In the declining years of her life when she needed aid and he was a young man he had kept his earnings selfishly for himself, doling out to her a few dollars at irregular intervals, and he was glad when she had ceased to be a burden by dying in a hospital. He had played his cards well, ingratiated himself into the favor of Mr. Harris, his employer, and by good acting had won the love of Emma. This had been the great coup of his career, but it had availed him little. Fortune, after smiling at him, had turned her back, and life had been a failure ever since.

As he summed it all up and contemplated himself as a pariah, a hunted man at bay amid the wreck of hope, love, life itself, driven to the alternative of a criminal's cell or self destruction, as he brooded over the way in which he had been spurned and cast out by those who might have loved and honored him, tears rolled from his eyes again.

"Yes," he groaned, repeating Emma's words, "yes, I have been paid in full, and I have paid in full."

Then he grasped the revolver and faced himself at the mirror again. This time his fingers were warm and supple. Once more he raised it to his temple. Once more pale fear obtained the ascendency.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—Owing to the sharp advance in prices for wheat at American and Canadian centres yesterday, there was practically no demand from foreign buyers to-day, and what few bids did come were away out of line. Oats are wanted for August shipment, but, as there is no ocean freight available from here for that shipment, business is impossible. The local demand for American corn is fair. The inquiry from European sources for spring and winter wheat flour is fairly good, but the volume of business passing is small, as the bids in most cases are below millers' views. The local trade is fairly good. Demand for bran and shorts is good, of which the offerings are small, and prices firm.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 850 cattle, 900 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 800 calves. Owing to the continued very warm weather and the increased supplies of cattle coming forward, a weaker feeling developed in the market, and prices declined fully ¼c per pound, and even at this reduction drovers found it impossible to make a clearance, and a number were left over.

The demand was limited and chiefly for small lots to fill actual wants; consequently trade on the whole was slow, and the indications are that if receipts are large for next Monday, values will go still lower. Sales of steers were made at prices ranging from $4.50 to $5.50, cows at from $3 to $4.25, and bulls at from $3 to $3.75 per 100 pounds.

The tone of the market for sheep and lambs was also weaker, and prices since Monday have declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds, on increased supplies and a smaller demand. Sheep sold at 3¼c to 4c, and lambs at 5¾c to 6c per pound.

Calves were about steady, and sales were made at from $2 to $8 each, as to size and quality. The market for hogs was weaker, and prices declined, owing to the larger offerings, and sales of mixed heavyweights were made at $6.75 to $8 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End market the offerings of live stock were 400 cattle, 900 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 450 calves. The market for cattle, sheep and lambs was weaker on account of the fact that supplies were in excess of the requirements, and prices ruled lower, with only a fair trade doing. A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs also, and prices declined 25c per 100 pounds, with sales of selected lots at $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910

ORGANIZATION IS DOING GOOD WORK

St. George's Society Appreciated by Immigrants

The Review has had many queries lately about the St. George's Society, what it is? What it is doing, etc. One typical example of what it is doing was enacted last Sunday morning, when two young Englishmen landed in Peterborough at five o'clock and did not have the necessary money to obtain lodging. They had intended to go on to Burketon where a former chum was working with a farmer for $2.50 per week, and thought they might get work at the same wage. The conductor informed them that they would not be able to get any accommodation over Sunday at Burketon and advised them to stay in Peterborough until the following morning. The newcomers detrained here, but they had no place to go. Wandering into the station waiting-room they saw the card of the St. George's Society and about 8 a.m. called up one of the committee. He told them how to get to his place and after supplying them with a substantial breakfast he found them a boarding house. The next day they obtained work at the Quaker Oats Co. plant and are quite optimistic as to the outlook for their future.

A Review reporter had a talk with one of the Englishmen who came to the city Sunday and when asked what he thought of the St. George's Society the young fellow replied at once, "I have not words at my command which would express my appreciation of the grand work being done by the St. George's Society. If anyone doubts what it is doing towards helping immigrants send them to me."

The above is only an instance of what the Society is doing in Peterborough and what a member is expected to do towards the new arrivals.

RECEPTION OF BISHOP O'CONNOR

Golden Jubilee Celebration Concluded on Cathedral Grounds

The celebration of his golden jubilee was brought to a close last evening on the grounds of St. Peter's cathedral, when his lordship Bishop O'Connor held a reception. Citizens of all classes showed their interest in the occasion by their attendance in large numbers, his lordship receiving on a platform erected in a large marquee which was decorated and illuminated, as was also the grounds. Warm congratulations and best wishes were extended to his lordship.

The band of the 57th regiment, under the direction of Mr. Gliddon, gave a varied program, which was well received, and the following program was given on the people's chimes in honor of the occasion, the chimers being Mr. R. J. Devey and Mr. John Butcher:

Changes on ten bells.
Song—"Believe me if all those endearing young charms."
Hymn—"St. Alban's."
Song—"St. Patrick's Day."
Song—"The harp that once."

Song—"O Canada."
Changes on ten bells.
God Save the King.

The decorations at the bishop's house, rectory, cathedral and grounds, together with the illuminations at the evergreen arches in front of the cathedral and on the grounds were very much admired.

WEDDING BELLS

HICKINGBOTTAM—ELLIOTT.

Lindsay Warder.—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hickingbottam, 20 Bond street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding this afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Maude, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. W. H. Elliott, of Madoc, engineer on the G.T.R.

Rev. S.J. Shorey, pastor of Cambridge st. Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in a gown of apricot silk, and carried a bouquet of white asters. The wedding march was played by Miss Edith Elliott, sister of the groom.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the happy couple sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast, together with the assembled friends. The bride, who is a most popular young lady, was the recipient of many beautiful presents from her many friends.

Among the out of town guests present at the wedding were Mrs. Seta Jewell and daughter Essie, of New Liskeard, Mrs. C. Clarke, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stone, of Port Perry, Misses Edith and Ethel Elliott of Madoc, Mr. W. B. Hoyle, M.P.P., Mrs. Hoyle and daughter, Mabel of Cannington; Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewell, Mrs. F. Jewell and Miss Nevada Johnston, Cannington.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott left on the 6.23 G.T.R. train for Toronto, Hamilton and points West. The bride's going away gown was tan and brown check with Tuscan hat with yellow plume. On their return, they will reside in Lindsay, where their friends will wish them many years of happy wedded life.

Down the River Trip

The West End Athletic Club will run a moonlight excursion on Monday evening, Aug. 7th. Steamer Otonabee will leave Wolfe street wharf at eight o'clock. The trip is in good hands and music will be supplied by the 57th regimental band. Tickets 25c. Returning in time to catch the cars at street railway wharf for those who so desire.

THIRTY BRIDES IN LAST MONTH

Forty Five Births and Thirty Six Deaths

The vital statistics for the past month of July were more encouraging than those of July of 1911. Last month there were forty-five births or an increase of sixteen over July of the previous year, when there were twenty-nine births. The death rate too was lower, the number being thirty-six, as against forty-two for last year. Last month too had thirty marriages, almost one for each day. The number of brides for July, 1910 was twenty-five.

MEETING TO-NIGHT

Ward 1 Conservatives Will Be First To Gather

The political campaign has started locally. To-night a gathering of Ward One Conservatives will be held at the corner of Dalhousie and Rubidge streets, when Mr. J. H. Burnham and others will address the electors. A cordial invitation is extended to the electors both of the ward and outside to be present.

The Liberals are in some doubt as to where they stand, their organization being considerably disjointed. It is expected, however, that Mayor Morrow will be induced to take the field. The prospects that Mr. Stratton will change his mind and run are very slim, as it is said that the members of the government party at Ottawa blame him for having got them into this Farmers' Bank scrape, and they do not want any more such troubles. His candidature would be most unpopular with a large section of the party at this particular time, whereas Mayor Morrow has no past political record to embarrass him when he faces the electors.

DEATH FROM NATURAL CAUSES THE VERDICT

Coroner's Jury so Decided in Fraserville Case

At the inquest held at Fraserville last night for the purpose of inquiring into the death of the unknown man whose body was found in an unused stable of Mr. John Madill Monday afternoon, and later identified as that of John Carroll, the jury decided after hearing the report from the doctors who performed the post-mortem examination, that the deceased had died from natural causes.

Several witnesses were called to testify as to the last time deceased was seen alive.

Mr. Archie Reynolds, who identified the body by the clothes and trinkets on it, said that the deceased was at his store on June 11. He had intimated that he intended going to Mr. Henry's, and later to Mr. Campbell's, but he never reached either place.

Mr. W. Gillett, of Millbrook, took charge of the remains.

TWO LOCAL INSTITUTIONS ARE LARGELY BENEFITTED

Children's Aid Society and Protestant Home Each Get $1000.

By the kind act of the late George Schneider two of our local and deserving institutions are the beneficiaries in the estate.

While not mentioned in the will, he expressed the wish, before he died, that $1,000.00 should be given to the Protestant Home, and $1,000.00 to the Children's Aid. This wish the heirs, the Messrs. Schneider, only too gladly respect, and the payments will be made in a short time.

Both of these institutions are suitable objects for such beneficience, and the news will be gladly welcomed by those interested in the objects for which they were organized. It is hoped that others may emulate the example and local institutions be benefited

NIGHTWATCHMAN TOOK WEAK SPELL

While Making His Rounds and Had Narrow Escape

Mr Stephen Purser, of this city, is recovering from a weak spell which overtook him while at his duties as nightwatchman at the Nicholson File Works on Monday, he having come here to rest up for a while. Mr. Purser states that about ten o'clock on Monday night, he felt himself growing weak and endeavored to reach the telephone to call assistance but fell on his way. He thinks he remained there a couple of hours when he sufficiently recovered to get up. He managed to reach the barn when he was again overcome, and he remembered nothing afterwards until he was picked up in the morning by some of the other employees. Mr. Purser was carrying a burning lantern and he fell on this smashing it to atoms and it was miraculous that his clothing did not ignite or any damage done to the factory.

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY DROWNED

Port Hope Youth Seized With Cramps While Bathing

Port Hope, Aug. 2—Wilfred McMahon, the twelve year old son of Mr. John McMahon, Smith street, went down to a watery grave at noon today in Lake Ontario. The little fellow with a number of other boys, was bathing and it is thought that he was seized with cramps and went down. The alarm was at once given but thirty-five minutes elapsed before the body was recovered. Drs. Whyte, Clemesha and McKinley were soon on the scene but all efforts at resuscitation failed.

Mr. John McMahon was out on the lake fixing his nets at the time and seeing the crowd gathered, at once hastened to shore and reached there just in time to see the body raised from the water.

Deceased was a bright young lad and the sincerest sympathy is extended to the father and family in their sudden and sad bereavement.

$70,000 Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Seventy thousand dollars' worth of damage was done, and ninety people rendered homeless by fires which broke out almost simultaneously yesterday afternoon at Strathmore and Lakeside, two summer resorts a little more than a mile apart, on the shores of Lake St. Louis. Eleven residences were totally destroyed, while others suffered more or less from fire and water. The victims are all English-speaking residents of Montreal, who spend their summers on the lake shore, coming in every day to business.

The fires, breaking out as they did, when fathers and brothers were away in the city, and only women and children left to cope with them, spread with alarming rapidity among the wooden houses and the greater part of the summer residence section of the two little villages had been destroyed before the firemen from Lachine and Montreal arrived on the scene.

No one was killed in the fires and no one seriously hurt, many of the residents being out on the water canoeing or bathing when the fire broke out.

New Fire Apparatus.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—The Board of Control has taken steps to have the city's fire department the most up-to-date in America, the latest being to call for tenders for five automobile fire-fighting machines, and two of the latest steam pumps. They will increase the efficiency of the brigade by one automobile truck to haul the aerial ladder, one automobile truck to haul the 1,200-gallon steam engine, one combination engine with a capacity of 1,000 imperial gallons, one automobile hose wagon to carry 1,000 feet of hose, one 1,000 United States gallon steam pump and one 800 United States steam pump.

The Canadian Northern announces that it will require 20,000 men to construct the Port Arthur to Sudbury branch of the line.

Proud of His Men.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Col. H. H. McLean, ex-M.P., commander of the coronation contingent, who is in the city, speaks in the highest terms of the men who composed the contingent.

"They were the best behaved body I ever saw," said he. "They acted splendidly throughout and made an excellent appearance. I was proud to command such a fine body of men."

ITEMS FROM JUNIPER ISLAND

Rob Roy Has Been Purchased by Mr. R. Hamilton

Special Correspondence.

Juniper Island, Aug 2.—Mr. Robt. Hamilton has purchased from Jack Selkirk the "Rob Roy" which will in future be used to deliver the delicious nectar to the cottagers.

"All that I ask is love," and "I wonder who's kissing her now," are the oft recurring melodies to which the many youths and maidens trip the light fantastic at the island each evening.

Service was held here on Sabbath by the Rev Mr. Ridditord, Peterborough, when a large and appreciative audience was present. In the evening the former minister led the song service at the Y.M.C.A. camp. Those present as well as the camp boys, are indebted to the two gentlemen who sang so sweetly, "Keep on Smiling." It has worked magic if we consider the many merry faces that hum, sing, or whistle the tune.

Hiawatha makes regular trips to McCracken's. What is the attraction?

The week-end hop was well attended, visitors from all the various parts of the lake also faces from the neighboring villages were noticeable.

Mr. Goodlock took a merry party from Halcyon to Gilchrist Bay through an exceedingly rough sea. All enjoyed the spray and many were the complimentary remarks heard of "Sunny Jim," the gallant little yacht.

Few are the fish stories heard these days. The finny tribe has evidently fallen in wisdom's path and no more will be lured by the most tempting bait.

Visitors for the week-end were noticeable at "Inglestane," "Sand Haven" "Halcyon," "Sea Breeze," "Fern Rock," "Eagle Nest," Edwards' "Flower City Camp," and various other places.

"Mae" is often seen drifting on the quiet water, having previously exerted all her energy. But when the situation seems critical some unseen god again replenishes her scanty store with renewed force, and she once more merrily skims the water. But never mind the ammunition gives out in other crafts also, eh Jack!

Indian Irvine made record time paddling from Buckhorn to Juniper in two hours, less five minutes, with an intervening locks. Those who can beat the Indian's time will kindly leave word at the store.

LAKEVIEW ITEMS

Special Correspondence

Lakeview, Aug. 2.—A young couple had arranged to go boating one evening. The young lady went to the landing place where she was directed to go, but unfortunately a high wind prevailed that evening; the lady eagerly looking and patiently waited for the return of the young man and the boat; night was drawing nigh with a heavy rain storm approaching and the young man was forced to return home. The gentleman with the boat on the lake had battled against a heavy sea nearly all night, but we are glad to learn since that nothing serious had happened to the party with the exception of a great disappointment.

The story of the cannon firecracker which exploded at the barn raising the other day was undoubtedly true, but the correspondent did not make mention of a more fatal accident that occurred earlier in the day. Some unemployed person went into the cellar with a large firecracker, and just when the men were busily engaged in lifting some heavy timber the cracker was let off. A number of the men were frightened, and on rushing out he went headlong over a stack of timber and gave himself a number of bruises and a very bad sprain, and we are informed, that he has scarcely done a day's work since.

Boston Took Two Games From the Tigers—Three Games for Bender Without a Walk—Toronto Bumped

Chicago, Aug. 2—The Cubs took the first game of their series with the Brooklyn Dodgers in one of the most desperately fought pitchers' battles in Chicago this season. The Cubs won 1 to 0 in ten innings, Archer driving the ball over the right field fence for the only run of the game. The Cub catcher was the first man up in the Cub's tenth. The count was two and two, and he smashed into the next one.

Boston, Aug. 2—The Detroit Tigers were tamed to-day, Boston winning two games 7-3 and 8-2. With three men on bases and none out in the ninth, Ty Cobb was struck out by Charlie Hall, who had just relieved Pape. Crawford also was struck out and Delehanty pop-flied. Boston played the best ball of the season to the biggest crowd on the local grounds this year.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2—Bender won his third straight game to-day by shutting out St. Louis 3 to 0. It was also the Indian's third consecutive game in which he did not give a base on balls.

DUFFERINS' LINE-UP

Toronto Team Bringing Big String For Game With Locals

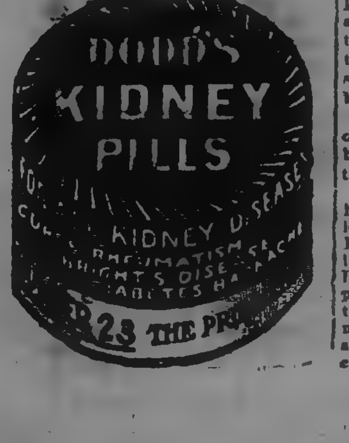
It is up to the fans to turn out on Saturday if they wish to see any more real baseball in the city this season. The game between the Dufferins, City League leaders in Toronto, and the locals will be well worth witnessing. The Dufferins are bringing their strongest line-up and will make the Petes go the limit. "Jimmy" O'Hearn is back and will play his old position while "Pete" Campbell will likely be worked in the outfield. Outfielder Craig will not be back from his holidays and consequently will not play.

If the management receives any sort of support Saturday a game will be arranged with a Canadian League team. Negotiations are now in progress with the fast Eaton nine for Civic Holiday, but the expenses are so heavy that it is necessary that the fans give some assurance of their support.

Several business men have complained that there are never any sports to keep the people at home on the holidays. It is quite noticeable that very few of our business men support athletics or sports of any kind.

There is a grand program mapped out for the next month and there will be some fine games pulled off here if the support of the fans is forthcoming.

Dufferins are running an excursion here, and will bring along the following team: Puddy, ss; Sharpe, cf; McGowan, 1b; Picton, 2b; Travers, lf; Spencer, rf; Acheson, 3b; Ross, c; Dones, p; Woods, p; Kelly, p; Grogan, p. Lefty Woods, who twirled his team to victory against the Park nine last Saturday, will be sent in against the Petes. The game is called for three o'clock sharp.



BITERS BITTEN

A Good Story of a Tenderfoot and a Game of Poker

Down at one of the Rhodesian mining camps there is a bar with a regular poker "push," and the barman stands in with the gang. Any new chum with sporting proclivities has a poor show.

One night the tenderest new-chum imaginable, just up from Beira, after half-a-dozen drinks in the saloon agreed to take a hand in a half-crown game.

Things went along in the usual way for awhile. Then an amazing series of nods and winks began to pass about. The barman had signalled that the tenderfoot had four kings on the draw. There were more nods and winks, and betting began.

In the midst of the betting a boy brought sandwiches and whisky in order to distract the mug, and while the poor dupe was tossing off his drink the sharper next him slipped a sixth card on to his hand, thus, of course, nullifying it.

The unconscious youngster took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful, and began to bet again. Right and left, of course, they raised him. He ate on and bet away calmly. An enormous sum lay on the table.

Then suddenly the barman resumed his nods and winks. He was terribly excited. Something was wrong. The sharpers, a little anxious, called the kid.

The blue-eyed darling finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a long drink of whisky, and then laid his original five cards. Then in silence he gathered in his vast pile of winnings, and with a cool nod took his leave.

After his departure there was a terrible time.

"What the dickens did he do with that sixth card?" the sharpers cried.

"Didn't you see? Didn't you see?" cried the barman, dancing up and down with rage. "He ate it with his sandwich."

A JOURNALIST'S WORK

Busy Life of George Gordon Bennett, New York

The famous proprietor of the "New York Herald," Mr. Gordon Bennett, is reputed to be the hardest-worked journalist alive; and although he finds time to go in for yachting, motoring, and sport of all kinds, it is only because he begins his working day at five o'clock in the morning and gets through as much work in one hour as the average man could get through in six. Mr. Bennett will be seventy in a few months, but seems only to grow more energetic as the years pass by; and he can navigate a yacht, steer a motor, or fire a gun with all the accuracy of a man half his age.

"LUCKY LAMBTON"

The Life and Soul of Ladysmith Garrison

So Sir Hedworth Lambton has often been referred to on account of his many extraordinary escapes from death, and the nickname will be revived now that Lady Meux has bequeathed to him $100,000 and the residue of her estate. One of the conditions of the bequest, however, is that he must assume the name and arms of Meux within a year. Sir Hedworth joined the service as a boy of fourteen, and was present at the bombardment of Alexandria and the Battle of Tel-el-Kebir. It is in connection with the siege of Ladysmith, however, that he is especially noted, Sir George White describing him as the "life and soul of the garrison."

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

Some Stories Told of the Well-Known Lord Fisher

There was no greater admirer of the qualities of Lord Fisher, who, having attained his seventieth birthday, retires from the active list of the Navy, than Queen Victoria. A delightful story is told of how, when a certain French admiral was about to pay a visit to Portsmouth—this was when Sir John was Admiral Superintendent at the dockyard—the Queen requested him to be sure and "be very nice" to the visitor. With a face as impassive as a Chinese mandarin the Admiral replied, "I'll kiss him if you wish it, ma'am!" Devoted to duty, Lord Fisher would brook no shirking from any man under him. A certain captain once sent word that it was impossible to get his ship to such and such a place on a given date. "Umph!" replied "Jacky Fisher," as he is known in the service. "Tell Captain Blank that if he is not ready to leave X—— on the day named I'll have him towed there."

"THE BETTER LAND"

Composed by Dr. Cowen, Who Always Has the Aid of His Planette

Dr. F. H. Cowen, the famous musician, whose latest work, "The Veil," has been heard for the first time in London, was a young man of twenty-five when he wrote the music of "The Better Land." It was written in an hour or two, on the suggestion of the late Mme. Antoinette Sterling. Dr. Cowen was calling one day upon the popular vocalist, when she read Mrs. Hemans's poem to him, saying she thought it would make a beautiful song for her. When the score was sent to her next morning, Mme. Sterling liked it so much that she offered to buy the copyright from the composer—an unusual course for a singer to take; but to this, fortunately for his pocket, Dr. Cowen would not agree. Dr. Cowen has a mascot which he would not part with for untold gold. This is a little planette which he has had since he was a boy of fourteen, and every work he has composed has been written with its aid.

The boy scouts movement in Russia is strongly opposed by the war office and land owners.

BASEBALL

The Lindsay printers are endeavoring to secure the necessary number of signatures to warrant them running an excursion to Peterborough on Saturday to play the return game with the local typos.

Mr. Budley Swanteen, who used to do the heavy work for the old Quaker ball team, and also was prominent in the church ball league, is visiting in the city. "Bud" comes from Milwaukee and like many other old boys, notes with regret the quietness in sporting circles.

Extra Early Wheat.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 3.—Unless there is something freakish about the growth of the new unnamed variety of wheat just cut at the experimental farm, farmers will undoubtedly be much interested in this grain. This new variety of wheat was seen at the experimental farm in April and was cut on July 31, so that there are only ninety-four or ninety-five days between seeding and cutting.

Last year Marquis wheat, which is a very early variety, occupied one hundred and seventeen days between seeding and cutting, and red fife was one hundred and twenty-three days. If the new variety of wheat, which is not yet named, lives up to the record it has this year, farmers may find it much more suitable variety for the country than the other spring wheats.

Divorced In California.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—Mary Legrand Reed, a prominent society lady, singer and European traveler, has been granted a divorce from Legrand Reed, Toronto insurance broker and club man.

The case has been in the courts for several weeks, and for a time it appeared that there would be a prolonged fight, but the parties came to an agreement, and the matter was disposed of in one minute by Judge Willis.

The ground for he legal action was desertion. There was no mud-slinging, no blackening of characters or anything else characteristic of the great majority of such actions.

Niobe Is Higher In Water.

Halifax, Aug. 3.—The position of the Niobe is somewhat improved today. The water in the compartments has been somewhat reduced, and the ship has risen several inches in the trim.

Commander MacDonald is said to be confident of keeping the ship free and putting her in condition to be conveyed to Halifax in the course of a few days.

The rocks where the Niobe grounded lie close to the spot where the steamer Hungarian was lost with all on board Feb. 20, 1860, and where the four-masted ship Drumlis became a total wreck some years ago.

Low Water In the Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—An examination of the lockmasters' book shows the Ottawa River has sunk about 21 feet startling fact that the water in the since last May, when it stood at 28 feet 8 inches in the Ottawa River. Since that time it has been sinking rapidly until now the water stands at 7 feet 11 inches, and bids fair to go much lower if there is no serious rainfall.

In the Ottawa River it has not affected navigation so far. In the Rideau the water is extremely low, and it may get dangerous for the boats of the Rideau Lakes Navigation Co. to make their trips.

Glidden Route Changed.

New York, Aug. 3.—The Glidden automobile tour of 1911, originally planned to be run from Washington to Montreal via New England points last June, will be run to the south instead, according to an announcement made last night.

New England has been the scene of several Glidden tours and this partiality, coupled with the fact that the south has made much progress toward road improvement, has prompted the change of route.

Hudson Bay In Two Years.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, one of the contractors who tendered for the construction of the first two hundred miles of the Hudson Bay Railway, was in town last night. He stated that with work started at once it would be comparatively easy to complete the section within the two years' limit stipulated by the Government.

Found Dead In Well.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Staff-Sergt. Thompson, a well-known militiaman, and for years caretaker of the Government magazine here, was found dead yesterday in an old well near the Rockliffe rifle range.

The magazine was located close by and Thompson was engaged in piping water from the well which is a shallow affair. It is believed he was overcome by the heat and fell in.

Pittsburg, Aug. 3.—Male twins, fully developed and joined together at the shoulders, sides and hips, were born to Mrs. Helen Sikorski, Homestead. Two arms were joined at the shoulders. They have four legs and two heads.

THE VAGRANTS' HOME.

Missions Used by Loafers to Help Them Out.

"Got any home?" said the judge to a man who had been brought in on the charge of vagrancy.

"Sure I have."

"Where is it?"

The man named a street and number.

"Your Honour," volunteered a clerk, "that ain't a house, it's a mission."

"Well, call them up, anyway," said the judge, "and see if they know anything about him."

They did not know anything, but the missionary said he would come right down and see what could be done.

"It is not an unusual case," he said. "Our mission is 'home' to many a man whom we never even heard of until he gets arrested. If a man who has been run in as a hopeless derelict can mention some address which he can call home his sentence is apt to be lighter. Lots of outcasts have been on the tramp so long that it is hard for them to think of any place they are intimate enough with to call it home, but through an occasional peep in here they remember the number and brazenly sing it out. Courtroom attendants communicate with us and ask our advice. Naturally we respond even though the men are perfect strangers. Some of them seem hopeless wrecks, but now and then we discover a man who has good stuff in him still and is capable of developing into a useful citizen."

Ontario Makes Splendid Showing.

It is a maxim of trade that competition stimulates business. Apparently the principle holds true in regard to agricultural colleges, which have increased so greatly in numbers and in student attendance. Until about ten years ago there was no great gain made by the Ontario college at Guelph. Since that time the classes have grown larger every year, so that the present enrolment is nearly 1,000 with an additional 400 at the Macdonald Institute. This is a remarkable showing when it is considered that three other agricultural colleges opened in the meantime have narrowed its constituency somewhat.

Gave Birth to a Girl.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Angelina Napolitana, Italian murderess, whose sentence was recently commuted to life imprisonment by the Cabinet, gave birth to a strong healthy baby girl yesterday morning. Both are doing well. This woman is being attended by Jail Physician Dr. Fleming.

TALK WITH MAKER OF GLASS EYES

Always Keeps a Quantity of Human Eyes on Hand—Black, Hazel, Blue and Grey

"I can make any kind of eye, one that will suit a girl's doll or her mamma, if she should ever be so unfortunate as to be in want of one," said a well-known glass-eye maker in London "I do not do much in the way of birds eyes, they are mostly manufactured in Birmingham, and, like the doll's eyes do not require very special skill. It is where you have to match the natural eye with an artificial one so like it as to be practically indistinguishable that our special art comes in.

"I keep a good many 'human' eyes on hand, though frequently I am asked to make one to order. Here are two boxes, each containing about 200—black, hazel, blue, and grey. You will see the higher colors are of all shades and scarcely one pair is exactly the same as another.

Sparkling Eyes for Ladies

"These are ladies eyes on your right. You will notice that they have more sparkle and brilliance than the gentlemen's. Here is a pair made to order, or rather I should say two, for they are, of course, intended for different ladies. They are both young and nice-looking, and no one will be able to tell that both their eyes are not perfectly natural. When a lady or gentleman comes to me for an eye I study closely the one they have left, the ball, the pupil, the exact shade of color. It is more important to them than sitting for their portrait to a Royal Acadamerian.

"No, you cannot tell it is artificial unless where the wearer cannot afford the price, and is content to buy what we call a misfit. These are, of course, much cheaper, but it is a rare chance if they match the other eye. And then they do not fit the socket exactly, as those do made to order, and they do not move in accordance with the movements of the natural eye. That is how they are so often detected. A perfectly-fitting eye is as responsive to the movements of the muscles as the natural eyeball. Even doctors, when not put on their guard, are frequently deceived, and I have more than one lady customer whose husbands believe their wives to be possessed of the orthodox number. In fact, both husband and wife might each have a glass eye and the other not know, but, I must say, I have never had such an instance in my experience.

Take Out Your Eye at Night

"It is wiser to take out the eye when retiring for the night. Many sleep with them under their pillow, others put them in a tumbler of water, while many don't take the trouble to remove them at all. They are not like false teeth, you know, ready to slip down the throat.

"Some people wear out false eyes faster than others do. I suppose it arises from a more active secretion of fluid in the socket. Yes; I suppose you may call it tears, but it need not be from crying only. The secretion acts on the false eye as acid does on metal, and the surface becomes corroded and roughened. The roughness leads to inflammation, and then the best thing they can do is to come to me for a new eye. Our sale of men's eyes is double that of women's. Men are more exposed to accident. An old maker, whom I knew when learning the trade, once supplied a lady with two eyes. She had lost one, and was so pleased with the artificial one provided that, when an unfortunate accident deprived her of the other, she had a second made to match it.

"False eyes, even the cheapest ones, are a great blessing to many servant girls. Without them they would never get a place. In Paris there is a charitable institution for supplying false eyes to the poor. A good eye can be had for a couple of guineas, but how few poor people can afford that. And the loss of an eye almost certainly involves the loss of a situation, with the greatest difficulty, or perhaps impossibility, of obtaining another."

ELECTION RIOTS IN THE LONG AGO

Famous Scraps in the "Good Old Times" in Edinburgh, Cardiff, Carnarvon, South Devon and Other Places

In the "good old times" if no riot occurred during an election it was generally voted a very dull affair, especially as the rival parties would often hire burly ruffians to keep order at their meetings or defy their opponents during demonstrations.

One of the worst election riots occurred at Sixmilebridge, in County Clare, on July 22nd, 1852, when the military fired on the mob, killing no fewer than five of them.

Mobs in Edinburgh

But England cannot point the finger of scorn at Ireland, because hardly a General Election passes but what some constituency shows that it considers disorder a good argument. Scotland, on the other hand, takes its elections very seriously, trouble only being met with in the rougher districts.

However, these modern disturbances during election times are nothing like the wild riots that occurred during the Reform Act General Election of 1831. Scotland was especially vehement in her demonstrations, windows being broken and voters against Reform being prevented from exercising their constitutional rights.

In Edinburgh a mob seized the Lord Provost on election day and threatened to throw him over North Bridge; while at Lanark the Conservative candidate was seriously injured. At Jedburgh a howling mob hooted Sir Walter Scott. He wrote in his diary, "The mob were exceedingly vociferous and brutal, as they usually are nowadays. The population gathered in formidable numbers a thousand from Hawick, sad blackguards."

Trouble at Cardiff

At Dumbarton the Conservative candidate had to hide all day in a garret, as his life was in danger, while at Ayr voters of the same color took refuge in the town hall. A gallant band of Whigs escorted them out of danger to a steamboat.

It was the riots that occurred in London at this time that caused the Duke of Wellington to have the windows of Apsley House guarded with the famous iron shutters. The people were so overjoyed at the dissolution of Parliament and the coming of a General Election that they smashed the windows of all who had opposed the passing of the Bill.

But there have been some pretty good riots in modern times. Feeling ran very high in 1886 in some places, and serious disturbances took place at Cardiff. Sir Edward Reed, the famous naval constructor, was the Liberal, and the Hon. H. R. Brand, afterwards Viscount Hampden, the Unionist.

The contest was a very stormy one, and the return of Sir Edward caused the greatest exultation. After the declaration of the poll a crowd, estimated at 10,000 strong, armed with brickbats, stones, and sticks, proceeded to the offices of the Conservative newspaper intent on wrecking its offices.

The local police had been reinforced by members of the county constabulary, and they charged the mob with drawn truncheons. A fierce battle ensued, and there was considerable bloodshed, even women and children being injured in the melee. The Home Office sent down Sir John Bridge, the famous Bow Street Magistrate, to inquire into the matter, after peace had been restored.

Lloyd George's Town

Carnarvon is a town in which feeling has run very high during the past few elections, trouble occurring both in 1906 and last January. Miners and quarrymen sometimes allow their feelings to get the better of them, and in the first-named year hundreds of them swarmed into the town, driving all known opponents off the streets, Mr. Lloyd George himself having to rebuke his exuberant supporters.

But matters were worse a year ago. Two thousand quarrymen came into Carnarvon and caused a reign of terror. Windows were broken, and even ladies assaulted. Fifty extra policemen had been imported from Manchester, butt hey were powerless, and as it was thought the crowd was disappointed because the result was not going to be declared that night they were quietly withdrawn; but the mob got to know of it, and seevral of them were roughly handled as they made their way to the station.

It was a crowd largely composed of quarry and pottery workers that caused the riot at Newton Abbott, South Devon, about two years ago, when Captain Morrison Bell was returned at the by-election. Mrs. Pankhurst had a narrow escape, and the premises of the Conservative Club were nearly wrecked.

Last January a riot occurred at High Wycombe after the close of the polling, a "dump" shop being wrecked and its contents burned in the middle of the street. For the declaration of the poll 1,000 police were imported to keep order.

UNITED STATES WANTS FORESTS

Awakened Too Late to Its Own Needs; Hence is After Canadian Timber Now

The United States has awakened to the importance of forest preservation at too late an hour, and now Canada is looked to as a source of ultimate relief, when famine shall have rendered the pulp and paper mills of our neighbors devoid of supplies. Many commissions have been appointed across the line to investigate the forest supplies and prescribe remedies for the rapid depletion, but in many parts it is in a vain attempt that work is being done. For instance, the latest State to move in the matter of taking care of its important timber interests, Alabama (whose annual lumber output is valued at $5,000,000), appropriates $500 for carrying out the provisions of the act, providing a commission with various duties. The great State of Minnesota whose forest products in one year approach in value $45,000,000, devotes less than $12,000 to its forest interests and $20,000 on prairie planting. The State of Maine, which still cuts around one billion feet, and is indebted to the forest for a product of $18,000,000 in value, keeps within the modest sum of $25,000 to pay for the protection against fire and the support of a commissioner. Examples of such picayune and inadequate measures are found in many other States.

The only two States which have not hesitated to spend money for forestry purposes are New York and Pennsylvania. The former, in purchasing forest land for a preserve, which now comprises about one and a half million acres only, has expended millions of dollars, and is annually appropriating money for further purchase, besides liberal provision for its Forest, Fish and Game Commission. But, alas! the policy of forest reservation which had begun on economic grounds has degenerated into providing a pleasure ground—a park—for the wealthy, and there is little consideration to economic forest questions given by the State or the Commission. Pennsylvania is the only State which can be said to have started on a true policy of recuperation, buying up waste lands, protecting them, and in a small way beginning to reforest them, an appropriation of about $500,000 being at the disposal of the Forest Commission.

WHAT THE HOME MARKET CONSUMES

The Lesson of the Figures of Three Big Grain Crops and Also the Root Products

Canada's home market has been termed by some free traders as "a joke." Without the demand from this so-called 'joke," however, the vast proportion of the Canadian crops would be left on the farmers' hands each year.

The official Government returns of the crops of Canada in 1909, the latest year given in the Canada Year Book, were as follows:

	Quantity, bushels	Value
Wheat	166,744,000	$141,320,000
Oats	353,466,000	122,390,000
Barley	55,398,000	25,434,000

These are the three big crops which can be most readily shipped, most cheaply handled by railways, and are most in general demand everywhere. Government returns show that during the year in question Canada exported:

	Quantity, bushels	Value
*Wheat	56,958,620	$80,988,620
Oats	5,258,610	2,175,765
Barley	2,959,335	1,744,687

*(This includes the wheat flour, counted as 4½ bushels of wheat to the barrel)

Thus, of $289,000,000 of Canada's largest and most easily shipped crops, the whole outside world took less than $85,000,000 worth. The home market consumed over two hundred and four million dollars' worth more than we sold to all the rest of the world.

Now let us look at the conditions as to root crops. The official returns for 1909 give the yield of the Canadian farms to have been:

	Quantity, bushels	Value
Potatoes	99,087,200	$36,399,000
Turnips	107,724,600	18,197,500

Of this we sold abroad as follows:

Potatoes	1,560,622	$919,189
Turnips	1,026,776	150,448

The home market consumed $53,500,000 worth, and the rest of the world bought $1,069,637 worth of our principal root crop, such as is used in every home.

Hay is another of our big crops, and one which is always in demand. In 1909, Canada raised 11,877,100 tons, valued at $131,644,000 worth, while the rest of the world bought from us 55,884 tons, or something over $600,000 worth.

What about live stock? The official returns show that Canada had, in 1909, $278,789,000 worth of horses and exported $367,256 worth. Indeed, we imported $941,767 worth. Our horned cattle, other than milch cows, in 1909, were valued at $126,326,000.

Statistics of certain industries of Canada were taken officially in 1906. The figures are instructive. In slaughtering and meat packing, and slaughtering without packing, the production was something over $29,000,000. Our total export of meats of all kinds that year was only a shade over $2,000,000, and this included poultry and game. In 1909, we sold to the whole world outside of Canada only $1,900,000 worth of meats. Thus, it will be seen, something of how important our home meat market is, and how dangerous it would be to allow it to be destroyed.

We wish the people would get together, and agree to like or dislike some one thing.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SUGAR REFINING CO. LIMITED, MONTREAL.

AN UNWILLING WITNESS

A Montreal Journal Investigates Farmers Prices.

A Liberal newspaper of Montreal compiled a table of comparative prices in that city and Boston the week the reciprocity agreement was made.

This statement was prepared with the assistance of prominent produce dealers and food experts.

Here is what it showed.

Cheese, eggs, live poultry, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions, squash, tomatoes, beans and cranberries all commanded higher prices in Montreal than in Boston. Hay and oats were considerably higher in Boston.

The best creamery butter was then a cent and a half per pound higher in Boston than in Montreal, while storage creamery butter was one cent higher in Boston.

Since then butter prices have declined in most of the markets of the United States.

Not long ago a leading produce dealer of Montreal received a telegram from Chicago offering him 300 tubs of September creamery butter, cold stored, at 18 cents, Chicago. At the time this telegram was received the same kind of butter was worth 24 cents to 25 cents in Montreal.

	Toronto	New York.
Best Creamery Butter in prints, wholesale . . .	20	.26½
Prime chickens . .	18 to .20	.15
Prim turkeys . .	20 " .22	.18
Ducks	18 " .20	.15 to 16
Geese	15 " .16	.14
Bacon	16 " .16½	.16½
Hams	13½ .15	.14

BENSFORT HAPPENINGS

Mr. Harry Finny Met With Mishap While Driving

Special Correspondence.

Bensfort, Aug. 2.—Another barn-raising took place last Wednesday at the farm of Mr. J. Buckham. Everything passed off successfully with the exception of an accident, which might have been more serious. While at work a brace fell, hitting Mr. Wm. Whittington, bruising his face rather seriously.

Contractor Smithson has finished Mr. Joseph Wood's barn.

The first threshing of the season took place at Mr. D. H. Morrison's Friday.

Mr. Kenneth Moncrief and Miss Laura Finnie were the guests of Mr. Edmund Dawson on Sunday evening.

Mr. Wm. Dawson and Miss Bertha Armstrong, of Springville, attended the band concert at Peterborough on Friday evening and were highly pleased with the musical treat afforded.

Swimming is the latest recreation of the some of the ladies in the eastern extremity of our community. The river at this point is quite favorable for the pleasure of swimming, and many young ladies are becoming quite capable performers in the water.

Some of our young men have been guilty of a practice, apparently considered by them as being "cute," but not so in the eyes of the public, especially amongst some of our young ladies and gentlemen who go out occasionally for a pleasant evening's drive. The above young men consider it "cute" to follow up a young couple who may be together on a Sunday evening, and where the road will permit insist on driving two or three abreast, which is very distasteful to those who wish to enjoy a quiet evening. If these young men do not know any better than to show their rank ignorance in this manner they had far better stay at home.

The high school entrance examination returns have been awaited with considerable interest on the part of some of our young people, and we are pleased to see the names of Miss Edna Buckham and Miss Edna Huggins amongst those of the successful candidates for this community. Both are clever girls, of whom our expectations are not yet realized

Mr. Wallace Morrison, one of our well known horsemen, has made an exchange lately, securing quite a fine handsome percheron. The exchange was made with Peterborough dealers.

Many Peterborough people spent Sunday in this community. Mr. and Mrs Walter Fisher and Miss Lillian spent the day with Mr. Fisher's brother, Mr. Robert Fisher, who also entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore and daughter spent the day at Mr. Walter Finnie's.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Perrin, of Oakwood, have been visiting friends around here during the past week.

An accident occurred to Mr Harry Finnie a few days ago while out driving which it is hoped may not prove serious. He was driving along the road when his horse took fright at a man wheeling a wheelbarrow, and in making a sudden dash fell, drawing Mr. Finnie headlong over the dashboard of his buggy, breaking it off and injuring his leg. He was fortunate in his somewhat feeble state of health in not letting his fractious animal away, however and it is hoped that no serious complications may occur as a result of his exciting experience.

Mr. Thomas Bradshaw has been investing in lightning rods for his house and barn recently.

Miss Taylor has arrived in this country from her home in England, and is visiting at Mr. James Thompson's, of this vicinity.

DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off. Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes as naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

EVIDENCE IS QUITE STRONG

Fugitive Italian Accused of Toronto Murder.

Coil of Evidence Closes Around the One Man.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—"That a certain person, whom we, the jurors in the case, believe to be Frank Griro, on the 30th day of July, did feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder Frank Tarro."

The coils of circumstantial evidence have been surely tightening around the missing Frank Griro, or Grossio, alias Rossaro, for whom the police are searching for the murder of his compatriot, Frank Tarro, last Sunday, and last night, at the conclusion of the inquest, the chain of evidence was practically completed, and the foregoing verdict returned.

Witness after witness identified the murderer with the picture of Griro, as taken by the police department. Slowly his route of escape is being worked out.

A witness, last evening, Herbert Kastough, a street railway conductor, giving evidence to the fact that he got on his car at Front and John streets in a very nervous condition, getting off again at Bathurst street, and striking down over the tracks. It is believed that he boarded an east-bound freight train. Oran Benson gave evidence that he had passed the man on Yonge street shortly after the murder.

P. C. Craig told the story of the fruitless chase. He was at West Market and Front street when he heard shots fired. Running to the scene, he started in pursuit of the fleeing assassin, but a man shouted to him to come back. Still he ran on, but again the man shouted, telling him, as he thought, that the fugitive was returning. He came back, but found that he meant the man was dead. He thought it a suicide.

He told of finding a revolver and said that another revolver and a stiletto were handed him by the other men.

The strongest evidence against Griro was given by Max Guenberg, who, after identifying him by the photograph, stated that he had known him for some time, having met him in Hamilton. He told of his coming into his store for a knife. When he showed him the knife he declared he wanted a larger one, explaining that it was for a friend. He identified the knife found near the scene of the murder as the knife he sold to Griro on Friday night.

VEDRINE GETTING USED TO CHANNEL

Special to the Review.

Hendon, August 4.—Jules Vedrine made another safe journey across the English Channel this morning, arriving at Dieppe. The daring aviator will continue on a trip to Paris.

Drowned In Artificial Pond.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Hugh Bradley, 22 months old, son of Mr. Clem. Bradley, was drowned in an artificial pond on the Driveway here. His father has been here three weeks from Portage la Prairie, Man., for a holiday. The deceased is a nephew of Hon. Hugh Armstrong.

J. R. STRATTON WILL BE THE NOMINEE OF THE LIBERALS

Will Get a Senatorship in the Event of His Defeat—Nobody Else in Sight, so He Had to Take It—Reason for Trip to Ottawa.

The Examiner yesterday was quite sore over the fact that the Review announced that the Liberals were trying to get the premier here for a rouser at the convention to-morrow. It said quite acidly that if the premier was coming, it would not be left to an opposition newspaper like the Review to announce the fact.

The truth of the matter is, in spite of the Examiner's attempt to slide out of it, that the Liberals here were trying hard to get the premier, and almost had his promise. The Review has this on the authority of a prominent Liberal.

That he couldn't come was due to the Macdonald cry from other places.

But here is a little more Liberal information coming from an opposition newspaper. The Liberal candidate in West Peterborough will be J. R. Stratton, after all. Mayor Morrow declined, though favored by the machine quite strongly, on account of having a record that was not very embarrassing, and others declined. The only man in sight to take the nomination—and he didn't want it this time—was J. R. Stratton. But even the hero of the Gamey episode wouldn't take it unless he had a quid pro quo. This is a senatorship, in the event of defeat. This is probably the reason for the trip to Ottawa—a sort of "heads I win, tails you lose," business. If Mr. Stratton doesn't get the riding, he will be made a senator, and this would be very satisfactory indeed to the financial interests that have been urging him to quit.

It will be realized, of course, that the price for the senatorship is the putting up of a farewell campaign, and not a la Melba, either.

Mr. Stratton is none too strong with his own party, but when you can't get a satisfactory candidate, what can you do, but take what offers?

THE ARBITRATION TREATY IS SIGNED BY THE THREE POWERS

Great Britain, France and United States Have Affixed Seals to Agreement Against War on Anything Arbitrable.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Three of the world's greatest nations joined hands yesterday in opening the way to the coveted goal of statesmen of modern times—universal peace. Before the day is closed, Great Britain and the United States and France will have signed general arbitration treaties for the peaceful settlement of all disputes that may be locked in the mystery of the future, even though they concern the national honor or vital interests of the signatories, subjects invariably excepted in existing arbitration treaties.

The general features of the new treaties are:

All differences internationally justiciable, shall be submitted to The Hague, unless by special agreement some other tribunal is created or selected.

Differences that either country thinks are not justiciable shall be referred to a commission of inquiry, composed of nationals of the two Governments, empowered to make recommendations for their settlement. Should the commission decide that the dispute be arbitrated, such decision will be binding.

Before arbitration is resorted to, even in cases where both countries agree that the difference is susceptible of arbitration, the commission of inquiry shall investigate the dispute with a view of recommending a settlement without arbitration.

The commission, at the request of either Government, will delay its findings one year to give an opportunity for diplomatic settlement.

The Senate will ratify the terms of submission of each dispute to arbitration.

The conventions grew directly out of President Taft's speech in Washington December 18 last, before the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, in which he said:

"If now we can negotiate and put through a positive agreement with some great nation to abide the adjudication of an international arbitral court in every issue which cannot be settled by negotiation, no matter what it involves, whether honor, territory, or money, we shall have made a long step forward by demonstrating that it is possible for two nations at least to establish, as between them, the same system of due process of law that exists between individuals under a Government."

Signed In France.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The Franco-American Arbitration Treaty was signed at 2.08 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This is hailed in this country as meaning the extension of a movement in all countries for the reduction of armaments to have absolute prevention of wars. The general view is that a tremendous impetus has been given to the world-wide peace campaign.

The Figaro in a long study of the situation resulting, declares that if other nations do not join the movement, those who have pledged for arbitration should adopt the principle of boycotting by inserting a clause in the international agreements, providing that they shall suspend all relations of commerce, transportation, and postal intercourse with any country warring upon one of the signers. For example, the paper says that if Great Britain, the United States, and France should boycott Germany by refusing all relations with her, the action would be certain to cause the confusion and ruin of that nation.

"By boycotting," The Figaro adds, "we will obtain obligatory arbitration, and then the limitation of armaments."

LAST DITCH MEN GIVE UP

Halsbury's Peers Are Returning to Balfour

Unionist Leader to Move a Vote of Censure.

London, Aug. 4.—Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, again yesterday displayed the political sagacity which for so many years has given him undisputed leadership of his party, when he announced in the lower chamber that he purposed on Monday next to move a vote of censure on the Government for having secured from King George the promise of sufficient peers to pass the veto bill.

This move will change nothing in the actual situation. It will be defeated in the Lower House and be carried by the House of Lords, where Lord Curzon will move an identical vote. Nevertheless, it is a subtle means for satisfying Mr. Balfour's rebellious followers with a phrase, and is proposed at the psychological moment when doubts had begun to assail many members of the Halsbury revolt as to the wisdom of their procedure.

During the last few days, there has been a distinct rally towards Mr. Balfour among the insurgents, except in the small section which is seeking to wrest the leadership from his hands. Thus the effect of the proposed vote of censure will be seen immediately. It was received with extraordinary enthusiasm by all ranks of the Unionist party and little else than it was talked of in Parliament lobbies and the political clubs last night.

The Halsburyites take the credit to themselves of having driven Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Balfour to this tardy act of leadership. Lord Willoughby de Brooke, in an interview last night, declared the situation was unchanged and that nothing would induce the members of his party to refrain from voting for the retention of Lord Lansdowne's amendments to the veto bill.

Judging by the comments of the morning newspapers, however, Mr. Balfour has completely re-established his lost authority. The Morning Post says: "At last, though late in the day, the Unionist leaders have taken a step which will cause immense satisfaction to all their followers—a step which will save the party from disgrace and the Unionist cause from disaster."

MIGHT HAVE CAUSED BIG FIRE

Parliament Buildings Had Small Blaze From Combustion

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—A serious fire was narrowly averted this morning at an early hour in the new north wing of the parliament buildings. Shavings which had been accumulating in the furnace room, preparatory to cooler weather, became mixed with oil waste, and a spontaneous combustion resulted, causing a blaze. The damage was only trifling.

Mangled Beyond Identification.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 4.—The finding of a man's hat and coat on the cow-catcher of a locomotive cleaned at Moncton told the tale of an awful accident. A search revealed the body of a man lying near the track at Sunnybrae, a suburb, in a mangled condition.

TWO EXPLORERS ON WAY TO FAR NORTH WILL STUDY TRIBES IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

CHRISTIAN LEDEN FRITZ HARALD-THAULOW

Christian Leden and Harold Thaulow, members of the Norwegian Ethnological Arctic-Canadian Expedition, are now bound for the far north and expect to push their way across the frozen polar seas. Both men have had experience in northern wilds and are prepared for a battle with the snow and ice and rigors of the polar climate.

They will get most of their equipment from the stores of the Hudson Bay Company when they strike the "great snow line." Dogs and sleighs will be purchased and the two hardy explorers will make a study of chartography and the tribes encountered beyond the Arctic Circle. All the scientific data they can get will be carefully preserved.

HIDING THE TRUTH ABOUT THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Dissolution Sprung While Report Was in the Hands of the Printers and Copies May not be Secured—Campaign Literature.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Another point in which the sudden dissolution helps the Laurier game is being widely discussed in political circles. On the last day of the session, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought down in the House the reports of the Imperial Conference, including the decision in regard to naval matters, he went through the form of moving that these documents be printed for distribution. The next day he got his dissolution.

The Conservative members have no guarantee that they will get the printed record, if, indeed, the printing is done at all, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier is free to go about in Quebec and Ontario giving his own version of what happened in London.

Tons of Liberal literature are going out of Ottawa, addressed to all parts of Canada. The franking privilege for ordinary members closes on Saturday, and to get over this difficulty the stuff is going out under the evergreen frank of the absent Minister of Railways.

The place selected for Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opening meeting of the campaign on August 15 is the town of Simcoe, Norfolk County.

All the Ontario Ministers will speak at various points throughout the province, and Hon. W. S. Fielding will also address several meetings in Ontario before going to the Maritime Provinces.

Hon. William Paterson will speak at the Liberal convention for Lennox and Addington in Napanee on Tuesday next, at the North Lanark nomination at Almonte on the 11th, and at his own nomination for Brant at Paris on the 15th.

McBride Not Running.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 4.—"I do not intend to enter this election as a candidate, but will do my utmost, consistent with my position, to aid in victory, which I feel sure will crown Federal Conservatives in this campaign."

[illegible] made this statement in an interview prior to his welcome here yesterday by members of the Conservative party, which took the form of a public reception.

In reply to an address which approved his stand against reciprocity, the Premier repeated his view that such a measure would lead to the exploitation of Canada by the United States. Furthermore, Canada would be a broken link in the chain of empire.

Convention In Stayner.

Collingwood, Aug. 4.—Arrangements have now been completed for the holding of the Conservative convention to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons. It will take place at Stayner on Saturday, the 12th inst., commencing at 1 o'clock.

It goes without saying that Major John A. Currie will be the unanimous choice of the convention.

Laurier to Visit Hamilton?

Hamilton, Aug. 4.—Members of the local organization of the Liberal party this morning announced that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would include this city in the intinerary of his campaign. It is not definitely known, however, when the Premier will speak here.

Major Beattie May Retire.

London, Aug. 4.—The Conservatives will meet Saturday to decide on a candidate for the Federal elections. Major Beattie has repeatedly expressed his opinion that he did not care to run again, so his name may not go before the members of the association. Billy Gray is the popular choice, and it would be like Major Beattie to retire at this time and give Billy his long-delayed chance of representing this city.

G. F. McKim for South Lanark.

Perth, Ont., Aug. 4.—Yesterday afternoon the local convention of South Lanark met and C. F. McKim of The Rideau Record of Smith's Falls was chosen Liberal candidate for the coming election.

It is said there are three co-respondents, and Mrs. Colt asks that the proceedings be conducted in secret. Her request will not likely be granted.

BAD WASHOUT BY CLOUDBURST

Brussels, Aug. 4.—As a result of a cloudburst, shortly after six o'clock last night, a bad washout occurred on the Grand Trunk railway, about six miles north of Guelph. THE WHITE PLUME

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has chosen a very unfortunate and sinister battle cry for his campaign, "Follow My White Plume!" It is artfully chosen as it suggests the "white flower of a blameless life," and an appeal to the people of this country not to be too hard on a man who claims that his hair has grown white in their service.

But however blameless Sir Wilfred's personal life has been, his political life has not been blameless; and no such specious appeal must be allowed to interfere with the judgment which the people must pass upon the Premier and his administration. Rather we must see how the words of Shakespeare apply:

All is confounded. All!
Reproach and everlasting shame
Sits mocking in our plumes."

We can well understand the anxiety and the attempt to disguise this, and to make us think that black is white. Reproach and shame sit in the plumes and the government is confounded by the proofs of mismanagement and worse which the people know of.

Reproach marks the Premier on his attitude at the Imperial Conference; little wonder that he prevented a debate upon it; shame mocks at his ministers especially at one who has not cleared himself as to the source and disposition of certain moneys. He, too, is glad to shirk enquiry. The sifting of the Chinese immigration frauds had but just begun—"All is confounded, All." Confusion reigns in the Liberal ranks they are split by dissensions, their ablest general has left them, and thousands of supporters have deserted.

VULGARIZING PRIVILEGES

The Toronto Globe says:—And what are "the true lines of our national development" which Mr. Paton says "it is of incalculable importance should be firmly and jealously maintained"? They are those lines which will safeguard Canada, on the one hand, against the evils of hereditary privilege which have burdened the common people of Britain since feudal times, and, on the other hand, against those more vulgarizing privileges of class-legislation which have goaded the common people of the United States into an "insurgency" which meant rebellion Canada's true national development would avoid both those perils. And of the two the more imminently dangerous to the rights of the common people of Canada is not the English aristocrat, but the Canadian imitation of the American plutocrat.

The "Canadian imitation of the American plutocrat," has a very shining example in Senator W. C. Edwards, president of the cement mergers and one of the close friends of the Laurier administration. So close is Senator Edwards, and so powerful is Senator George Cox, who is also one of the "main push" that the cement trust has been able to get the government to actually increase the duties, which now are about fifty per cent.

The harvesting machinery trust is still another sample. Senator Sir Lyman Melvin Jones is a great friend of the administration. In spite of the insistent clamor of the west, the duty on implements has been reduced only two per cent or so, and is actually as much as it was in the old days, when the increased valuation of the machinery is taken into account. If anyone can take care of the "plutocrats" who are friends of the administration, the Laurier government can and does. The reciprocity treaty does not seriously hurt any one of those that ought to get the axe. The Globe's hypocritical cant about "vulgarizing privileges" ought to lead it into advocacy of a reduction in the duty on cement, implements, and a few other things that earn bread and butter for plutocrat friends of Laurier—but in such a case where oh where is the Globe?

HARD TIMES FOR US?

There is a phase of this reciprocity question that has drawn considerable attention, but it is worth more. It is the comparative industrial prosperity of the United States and Canada. Every step that Canada takes which unites her more closely in bonds of trade and sympathy with the United states is one step away from the British connection. But every step we take that puts us into a common class and on a common level, commercially, is a step towards partnership in the industrial depressions that periodically seize the American national fabric, and cause death and ruin to follow in their wake.

The only big depressions that Canada has suffered have been reflexes of United States panics. We are bound to be affected, but we have fortunately kept at a minimum, the evil, because we were shut off by a customs wall that acted like a breakwater against the storm. But if we have reciprocity, even in natural products—and with Canada it is a movement of tremendous importance—are we not laying ourselves still further open to these periodical panics? Are we not through assimilating our trading conditions, inviting assimilation of industrial conditions?

Even now Canada is moving along with great progress, and safety. Canadians have no reason to complain, because Canada is at present the most prosperous country in the world. But shall we have reciprocity with the United States, which is on the verge of a presidential election, and feeling the pinch of great stagnation in business?

Ald McCarthy of Toronto recently visited Pittsburg, and on his return gave an interview to the Toronto Telegram describing some things he saw. He said:

"Times are very hard in Pittsburg, business is in very bad shape and many people are suffering as a result. The steel plants, which form the principal industry of the city, are working to only about forty per cent of their capacity with the result that many men are idle and their families are in want. The slackness in the steel industry has affected the coal mines, and thousands of men throughout the coal mining district of Pennsylvania are out of work, and there is a great deal of want and suffering as a result.

"I motored one afternoon along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and saw two miles of sidings filled with dead locomotives. Some of those, I was told, have been there for three years. Fifty acres is a large field, but I am making a cool, calculated statement when I say that I saw fully fifty acres of flat cars lying idle in the Pennsylvania yards.

"The business men of Pittsburg tell me that the country has never recovered from the depression of four years ago, and it does not look at present as though there is any immediate prospect of recovery. Thousands of men of all trades are idle."

YANKEE GOLD AND FIELDING

A fund of $120,000 was raised from secret sources and presented to Finance Minister Fielding. The government time and again refused to reveal the names of the donors of this "testimonial," although Sir Wilfrid himself has condemned the acceptance of gifts by ministers in position to confer great favors on subscribers.

It has been shown that in the last campaign Hon. Frank Oliver handled a campaign contribution of $60,000, which came from or through United States sources. The Laurier government is indebted to American campaign money for its existence.

Since the government will not reveal the source of Fielding's purse, and since it is known to be receiving American money, is not it possible that part of Fielding's purse was made up by American gold?

Fielding is the man who was responsible for putting through the reciprocity pact.

A SUGGESTION

The Examiner says that it will not be left to an opposition journal like the Review to give the news if the premier is coming to Peterborough. But it was left to an opposition journal like the Review to give the news to the public that F. D. Kerr had beaten out R. R. Hall for the East Peterborough Liberal nomination—an item of news particularly supposed to be the property of the Grit organ. The truth of the matter is that the Liberals here wanted to get Sir Wilfrid to bolster up a doubtful cause, but the premier had other plans, and for the present will leave the Liberals here to wiggle out of the soup as best they can. We doubt if the coming of Sir Wilfrid would be very effective in turning sentiment. It is not likely that the man who saddled separate schools on Saskatchewan and Alberta would receive a good reception from at least one strong section of the people. Perhaps the Grits could get Fielding, the man who collaborated in the starting of the Farmers' Bank operations, to come here, and address a meeting of Peterborough county farmers.

DOUBLING THE TAXES

In 1896, the government collected from the people in customs and excise $27,759,000. In 1911 is collected $81,836,000. The population in the meantime has increased only from 5,086,000 to 7,901,000. This increase in the probable number of tax payers is 56 per cent. The taxation imposed on them has increased 224 per cent.

In 1896 the sum of $6.45 a head collected from the people paid the provincial subsidies and the cost of administration. In 1911 it required $11.24 per head to meet the same services. The United States federal government taxes in 1910 were $5.60 a head, or $28 a family. In Canada the tax amounted to $56 a family.

It costs more to live in Canada than in the United States now. The taxation screws are largely responsible for the increase in the cost of living. The government is wasting money hand over fist.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Follow my white-wash brush," says Laurier, "and wherever it goes, there will you find no stain."

Judging by the outlook in this campaign, it doesn't matter much whether the nomination comes to Morrow, or the next day.

It will need more than young Mr. Kerr's eloquence to induce the farmers of East Peterborough to vote for the government that aided the Farmers Bank looters.

Did it take two of them at Ottawa to arrange for a barrel for use in the West Peterborough elections, or why were J. R. Stratton, and R. R. Hall so busy at the capital?

The dissolution of parliament won't save Laurier from the exposures of Oliver's $60,000 campaign fund queer work. It will come out, where there will be no chance of a white-wash.

The Manitoba Free Press says that in the west, the Liberal party can expect to increase its majority two and three. If the west—for which reciprocity was secured—will give Laurier only two or three more members Ontario and Quebec can easily kill that, and defeat the administration.

Even F. W. G. Haultain, a Conservative free trader, and leader of the opposition in Saskatchewan, feels compelled to take the stump against the misdeeds of the Laurier government. Every decent, self-respecting citizen can only do his share towards putting an end to what is undoubtedly the rottenest and most brazenly corrupt government Canada ever had.

Reciprocity is a big issue, but it should not be allowed to overshadow the record of the Laurier administration with its steals and its grafts and its blunders. The nest of grafters at Ottawa needs attending to. Reciprocity should not be allowed to carry into power again for five years a government that has been proved to be steeped in political iniquity of the most virulent type.

Does youthful Mr. Kerr expect to get a senatorship for being defeated in East Peterborough? If so, we would remind him that there are dozens of bigger sacrifices than he who are waiting, and still waiting. William Sloan of Comox-Atlin gave up his seat for Hon William Templeman at the last election. He is still waiting. There are so many clamorers for soft things that the ingenuity of Laurier is taxed to keep them pacified. The electors of East Peterborough will see that Mr. Kerr is put on the waiting list for party favors—Bob Hall's friends in the riding will see to that for him.

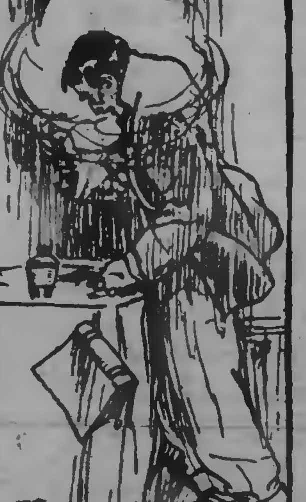
There was plenty of time. Why, since he was to die that night, should he be in such a hurry? Men who were dying or who were about to be speeded into eternity for transgression of the commandment that placed a ban on murder generally prayed, or prayers were said for them. He had not prayed since he could remember. What would happen after his leap into the unfathomable void? He had always derided the idea that anything would happen. Still, he did not know.

He went to the clothes closet, and from among some books, mostly novels, heaped in disorder on a shelf, he brought forth a Bible. It had belonged to his aunt, and he had kept it because it had looked well to have one in evidence in the parlor and because it was nicely bound in soft leather. He opened the book at hazard. Its pages divided at Ecclesiastes, and he began to read. Though the liquor was fast clouding his brain he became fascinated with the great immortal masterpiece of pessimism, the terrible monument of negation in which humanity's everlasting wounds are laid bare and bleeding.



There was the crash of a report.

I have seen all the works that are done under the sun, and, behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

That which is crooked cannot be made straight, and that which is wanting cannot be numbered.

I communed with mine own heart, saying, Lo, I am come to great estate and have gotten more wisdom than all they that have been before me in Jerusalem—yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge.

And I gave my heart to know wisdom and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit.

For in much wisdom is much grief, and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.

"That's right," he assented, "that's dead right. Nothing's worth while; nothing matters."

What hath man of all his labor and of the vexation of his heart wherein he hath labored under the sun?

For all his days are sorrows and his travail grief—yea, his heart taketh not rest in the night. This is also vanity.

The verses succeeded each other with their recapitulation of the futility of earthly things. His head became heavy and the letters indistinct. He began to have difficulty in grasping the meaning of the words.

That which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts, even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath, so that a man hath no pre-eminence above a beast. All is vanity.

All go unto one place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again.

Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth?

A knock at the door roused him from his somnolence, and he looked up with bleared, bloodshot eyes.

He staggered to his feet, smiling vacantly, and his groping hand lurched toward the revolver. There was the crash of a report. The apartment house manager who had seen the light in the window, apprising him of the tenant's presence, and had knocked to inquire about the overdue rent, ran shouting for help.

When they forced the door they found Brooke sprawling across the table beside the overturned liquor bottle.

He was dead, with a bullet in his brain.

THE END.

Canada and Great Britain.

Mr. Richard Grigg, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner to the Dominion of Canada, has some interesting things to say about the development of commercial relations of the Dominion and the Mother Country.

The promotion of closer trade between Canada and Great Britain depends solely on the efforts of the British producer. It is obvious that a certain responsibility rests also upon the merchants and the community at large in the Dominion. If British trade with Canada is to increase until it occupies the position which a true conception of Imperial interests seems to demand, it is necessary that from the Canadian side every opportunity should be afforded which equitable legislation and a sympathetic public opinion can offer. It is therefore incorrect to speak as if the problem before us were one which the unaided efforts of the British trader could solve. It must be remembered, especially in Canada where there is a tendency to complain of the conservative methods of the British producer, that at the present time very strenuous efforts are being made in financial and industrial circles in the United States to control and indeed to dominate, not only the trade, but the whole commercial life of the Dominion. If these efforts are to be combated it cannot be done merely by arousing the British merchant to greater efforts, but it must depend to some extent on the amount of co-operation afforded him by the [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible].

VALUE OF NIAGARA FRUIT TREES

Estimate of the Capital Investment Represented by the Fruit Industry of the Niagara Section.

It has been estimated that the farms of the Niagara district of Western Ontario represent an investment of more than $1,000 per acre. Such a statement seems at first sight rather surprising, but a careful examination of the facts of the case gives ample warrant for its truth. Let us take up a typical unit, a ten acre fruit farm, assuming that there is, besides, half an acre for the house and buildings.

First of all, 1,750 trees will be needed to plant it; these may be averaged at 25c. apiece, and if the average be a few cents too high let it be taken as including currants, berries, etc. This makes $437.50. If the trees were all peach, it would cost less, if cherries more; usually a mixed orchard is required by the soil.

Having got the trees, capital must be expended for several years without return before the trees begin to bear. Peaches bear at the fourth year, sweet cherries not till the eighth. Plums and other fruits in between. In the meantime crops can be grown between the trees. But in the first place, the whole surface cannot thus be used, not over half and generally only one-third, and in the second place, by so doing the trees will be very markedly kept back in their growth. We thus have from three to five acres of interim crops to help pay expenses. Hay and horse feed are dear in this part of the country; spraying and manuring cannot be left out.

We have then per annum:—

Keep of team and shoeing etc.	$250 00
Repairs	25 00
Man	350 00
Taxes and insurances	50 00
Extra Help	50 00
Manure	50 00
Spraying	25 00
Picking, baskets, etc.	50 00
Depreciation of trees and replanting and depreciation of plant	50 00
	$900 00

It is assumed that there is a house for the man and farm buildings. Against this we make the very liberal assumption that the interim crops yield $400 per annum and we arrive at a net capital expenditure of $500 per year, or $1,500 in three years. The interest on this will be $80. For the succeeding three years it may safely be assumed that the farm will run behind and that at least $400 will have to be invested. It is at the same time assumed that the owner, if in residence and working, lives like a white man.

It may then be taken that the minimum expense for buildings wells, and fences will be $2,000. The annual interest on which will be $120.

The farm equipment will be:—

Two horses	$400 00
Spray machine	100 00
Tools, etc.	325 00
Harness	50 00
Buggy or light wagon	75 00
	$950 00

The interest on this will be $57.

Thus we have:—

Trees, etc.	438 00	$ 78 00
Expenses 3 years, net	1,500 00	180 00
Farm plant	$ 950 00	$171 00
Buildings, etc.	2,000 00	360 00
Interest	789 00
	$5,677 00	$789 00
Expenses next 3 years	400 00
	$6,077 00

Or, in fact, $607 per acre capital expended, making, with land at $500 $1,107 per acre capital used in creating a fruit farm.

This estimate, taken in connection with the existing acreage of the fruit farms of the district, indicates a total capitalization of about $110,000,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Predictions that the export surplus in Russia this season would be only 80,000,000 bushels against a recent average of more than 200,000,000 bushels took the wheat market aloft to-day. There were persistent assertions, too, that the presence of black rust in Canadian fields had been confirmed by laboratory tests.

Closing prices were firm at a net advance of 1⅛c to 1⅝c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅜d higher than yesterday on wheat and ⅛d higher on corn. Antwerp closed unchanged on wheat, Berlin ⅜c lower, and Buda Pest ⅛c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—There was an improved demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and oats at an advance in prices for August-September shipment, but at the close bids were 9d per quarter out of line for old wheat and 7c per bushel on the new. THE GREATEST BLOUSE SALE OF THE SEASON SATURDAY

WHITE BLOUSES Worth up to $4.50, ALL AT ONE PRICE 95c each

We are striving to beat all records in our special offerings for August, and we will succeed because the GOODS and PRICES will do it. For the first Saturday sale we have perhaps the strongest leader we will have during the month. In going through our White Blouse stock we have taken nearly 100 Blouses, that for various reasons we have decided to clear—some because they have been an "appro" and were returned somewhat mussed; some are samples (about 30 New York samples, made by one of the most prominent manufacturers',) only one of a kind; others because they have not sold readily at the prices marked, and still others because they have been slightly soiled during the season. The original prices are marked on the tickets, they range in price from $1.50 to $4.50, the large number were marked to sell at $2.50 and $3.00. The quantity is large, but the "clean up" will be quick and sharp. No matter how many blouses you have you can use some of these at this price. There are about 50 or 60 different styles represented, so you have a splendid chance to secure exclusive styles. These Blouses will be displayed in our centre window Thursday afternoon and Friday. Will positively not be sold before Saturday morning. We cannot fill "phone" orders or send on approval, but in case you get any and are not satisfied, your money will be cheerfully refunded. Sale starts sharp at 8:15 Saturday morning and continues until all are sold. Saturday Snap Price........ 95c each

A Fish of Some Merit

There be fishermen and others who make a practice of fishing. The first get next to the latter experience, Mr. Ben Shortly is in the first class, ever and always. By much sojourning at Stony Lake, his cottage is near Boschink, he knows the identical places where the fish lurk and pant. Mr. Shortly goes out and it is a rare time he comes back without fish, that is who acquire fish, but that is another story.

Last Monday Mr. Shortly was fishing and while not very successful on the out bound trip made a record catch coming home. In the Narrows he hooked and landed a 'lunge that tipped the scales at seventeen pounds. Seventeen pounds when compressed into a fish means one forty inches long and of girth in proportion. It required some dexterity and skill to land and not lose the beauty. The head is nailed to the door of the ice house that all may view, the rest was enjoyed. Seventeen pounds is nearly a record, and those who do better are invited to send statement and samples to the editor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

HIGHER CRITICISM.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The writer on one occasion heard the late D. L. Moody—that great and honored preacher of the simple truth—give his hearers a piece of good advice. He said: "Some people belong to a church because their father and grandfather belonged to that church. He had no fault to find with them for that, but he said if you have a preacher in your church who is tearing God's Word to pieces and cutting out this book and that chapter, and telling you they are not inspired, you get up and leave that church at once, no matter whether your father, your grandfather or your great-grandfather belonged to it or not." Dr. Carman, in his pamphlet against higher criticism, says: "When a man is smitten with it it partakes of the rabies."

The great danger is that the hearers will be smitten with this spiritual hydrophobia, for it is most contagious. Moody knew the danger and sounded an alarm.

Yours,
JOHN CARLISLE.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF MONEY

Youth Arrested by Constable Johnston of Norwood

Norwood, Aug. 4.—Constable Johnston, of Norwood, last night arrested a youth by the name of Read, who is charged with breaking into the store of Mr. E. Fennell, of Havelock, and stealing a sum of money and a cheque. The arrest was made near Webster's crossing, west of the village. When Read found himself in the hands of the constable he tried to get rid of the money. About $19 in money was found on him. Read was in the village during the afternoon and purchased a watch and a shirt. Constable Johnston brought him to Norwood and handed him over to Constable Bennett, of Havelock, who took him back to that village, where he will be tried.

Y.M.C.A. BICYCLE CLUB OUTING

Visited Boy Scouts Camp at Bass Rock

The boys' department bicycle club held their first outing yesterday. It was a decided success. Sharp at 1.30 the party left the Y.M.C.A. and headed for Chemong, the trip being made in thirty-five minutes. After resting at Chemong for a short while it was decided to journey on to the boy scouts' camp at Bass Rock. This was where the real fun commenced, nobody knowing exactly the location of the camp. The job of "showing" was entrusted to K. Brown who after running the boys along paths so crooked that you almost met yourself coming back, finally succeeded in running to the end of a road which led to a farmer's house. Here all stood gazing at each other wondering what to do next, but finally the leader, in spite of very distinct objections by a dog, proceeded to the farm house for further instructions. He seemed a tremendous long time, but it was afterwards discovered the cause to be a nice young girl, who finally succeeded in giving him a few complicated instructions by which all landed safely in the camp, but not till several fields had been crossed and several fences. On our arrival all were made welcome by Mr. Miller, who is in charge, and shown around the camp, and after a good rest enjoyed a swim. The scouts have a really fine camp, and many of the boys were sorry to leave. Sharp at five the boys left for home, and this time knowing where to go, had no trouble in landing safely back at 6 p.m., hungry and tired, but well satisfied with the outing.

There will be another outing conducted next week. Watch for further announcements.

FORCASTS OF AUGUST WEATHER

What Ira Hicks Predicts for This Month

A regular storm period, in progress of July, will bring Mercurial cloudiness and storms to eastern parts of the country, during the first two or three days of August. The quadrature of Jupiter, blending with other causes will aggravate all disturbances about this time.

A reactionary storm period has its centre on the 5th and 6th. On and touching these dates, look for marked increase of temperature, falling barometer and moderate to light, misty rains. We do not believe rains will be sufficient for crops that are not matured by early August, except in narrow localities and along the middle eastern sections.

A regular storm period extends from the 6th to the 14th, having full moon on the 9th, and the moon on the equator on the 13th. This period will bring threatening clouds clouds, fall of the barometer and violent, blustering winds. Relief from great warmth will follow disturbances at this time and many sections will get light moderate rains, but not sufficient for general agricultural needs. The 9th is the centre of a marked seismic period, extending about four days before and after that date. On and about the 13th, a crisis of electrical and seismic disturbance. Note this forecast. The quadrature of Saturn falls on the 13th, and the quadrature of Mars on the 8th—facts greatly tending to seismic trouble.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 17th and 18th, calling for renewed summer heat falling barometer and blustering storms. A show of rain, amounting to showers in scattered sections, will result at this and other August storm periods. Make the most of them for you will surely need them.

Some of the most destructive storms on the gulf occur in the month of August. This fact should never be lost sight of by those who are exposed to the possible fury of equatorial and West India storms. When such disturbances appear in the south in August, prematurely cold weather and frosts are apt to occur over much of the interior parts of the country northward. Such things are probable this month, during and following the storm period 20th to 26th.

A reactionary storm period will bring decided storm conditions on the 27th, 28th and 29th. The moon being on the celestial equator on the 26th may bring thunder storms and fill the time between this and the preceding period with threatening, stormy weather. Indications are that the month will go out with change to fair and much cooler weather.

BEST CONTEST OF SEASON; DUFFERINS COMING STRONG

Game at Riverside To-morrow Will Start at Three o'Clock—Fans Should See This One.

Manager Quinlan realizes the enormity of the proposition which his team will be up against to-morrow afternoon, when the locals meet the fast Dufferin team, leaders in the Toronto City League. The home talent are fast rounding into shape, and at a special practice yesterday evening, the last before the game, the team worked fine.

The line-up will be practically the same as that which has been playing all along, with the addition of "Pete" Campbell, who will be in the city until Varsity opens again.

It is up to the fans to turn out and support the local artists, as the expenses incurred by bringing an outside team here is very great.

If there is ample evidence to-morrow that the fans intend following the games the fast Eaton nine from Toronto, and a Canadian League team will likely be seen in action here. If to-morrow's venture is a failure baseball in the city will be a dead issue for the remainder of the season.

The line-ups will be:

DUFFERINS	PETERBOROUGH
Puddy, ss	Murphy, 3b
Sharpe, cf	Shaw, lf
McGowan, 1b	O'Hearn, 2b

The game is called for three o'clock sharp. Admission for gents is 25 cents; ladies, 15 cents; boys, 10 cents, with the grandstand five cents extra, and free to ladies.

At this distance it looks like two big days of merry struggles for the ninety six players and a whole lot of excitement for the spectators and in giving a general invitation, the bowlers expect many ladies to be present, for whom comfortable seats will be provided.

The attractive prizes including the silver trophy are still on exhibition in the window of Soden's bookstore.

BOSTON TOOK ANOTHER FROM DETROIT IN THE TWELFTH

Wild Bill Donovan Heaved for Tigers—Extra Innings at Toronto and a Defeat.

Boston, Aug. 3—Hooper won and saved to-day's 12 innings game with Detroit for Boston, being responsible for all three runs, and making several saving catches. One was against the left field fence. Hooper scored Yerkes before in the second with a home run, and sent him in again with the winning run in the 12th with a hit that would have been good for a home run. Collins and Donovan pitched masterly ball.

WARSAW ITEMS

Special Correspondence

Warsaw, Aug. 4 — Master Arthur Carburry of Toronto who has been visiting Mrs. Brown of Warsaw, has returned to Norwood where he will visit his uncle Mr Claud Bougar.

To the West, to the West,
To the land of the free;
Where the mighty Saskatchewan
Flows down to the sea.

Mr. Alex. Clements has gone to the West in company of his aunt, Mrs. D. D. McIntosh who is going out to visit her son at Zealandia. Who will the dressmakers get for an apprentice now? They might get Percy Bell, but he is going West too.

Miss Sanderson of Smith has been visiting her cousin, Miss Beatrice Selkirk this week.

Mrs. Thos. Clements and Mrs. John Brown spent Wednesday in Norwood.

Miss Nellie Webster of Cottesloe and her sisters, Miss Laura Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. Turnbull purpose to return to the West on the last excursion.

STRANGERS CAMPED NEAR THE CITY

Business Like Looking Gypsies Have Good Horses

There are a couple of gypsy camps on the outskirts of the city. In the vicinity of Jackson's Park there are some campers under two large tents who have some fine horses and buggies and appear to be flourishing. On Morrow's hill is another outfit. Local horse dealers are receiving many offers for deals to-day.

Miles of timber are ablaze in California, threatening to do millions of dollars of damage.

Twenty Thousand Strike.

London, Aug. 4.—As a result of Wednesday night's call for a general strike of all classes of London dock workers and affiliated trades, about 8,000 more walked out yesterday, bringing the total number of strikers to about 20,000. Leaders predict that 40,000 men will be out by to-night.

There is a possibility that a general international strike will be declared, and this would result in a tie-up of all shipping between America and European ports.

Provision dealers are greatly concerned over the situation. Supplies of meats and other perishable goods will be quickly exhausted. There already is a scarcity, and the strike is but two days' old.

Two Are Killed.

North Bay, Aug. 4.—Paul Tessier, from Montreal, a passenger of the Soo westbound C.P.R. express yesterday, on his way to work in the lumber shanties, fell from the train near Warren and was instantly killed.

Joseph Lafratier of Chalk River, a C.P.R. employe on a work train, fell under the wheels of the train on Kippawa branch. One arm was badly crushed and other injuries sustained and he died later at Mattawa Hospital.

Won't Store Any More Grain.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—As a result of the conditions which have existed in the port of Montreal since the present season of navigation opened, it is understood that the harbor commissioners will shortly announce that in future no grain will be received in their elevator which is not destined for immediate transhipment to transatlantic ports. It is also stated that the period of twenty days' free storage at present allowed by the commissioners will be discontinued.

The commissioners state that the congestion is due to shippers sending grain here and keeping it in storage, instead of at once shipping it across the Atlantic.

Refused to Give Evidence.

Winnipeg, Aug. 4.—The efforts of the Provincial Commission to investigate the circumstances surrounding the methods by which the St. Peter's Reserve lands of great value were secured by speculators at the time the Indians surrendered their titles to the Government was suddenly blocked yesterday by the refusal of J. O. Lewis, who represented the Indian Department of the Dominion Government in the deal to testify. He refused on the ground that the commission has no legal authority to grant the investigation. The commission adjourned until the courts can order Lewis to testify.

New Sanitarium.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Dr. J. E. Laberge of the infectious disease department, has presented an application to the City Council for the inauguration of a sanitarium on the mountain, for incipient sufferers from tuberculosis.

His scheme would provide a building wherein the patients would be able to have suitable diet specified by the medical officer of health, and sleep out in the open at night. Special cars would bring them down to work in the city during the day. This idea, he is convinced, would have a great tendency to lessen the spread of the disease, which is alarming the city.

Admiral Togo Arrives at New York.

New York, Aug. 4.—Admiral Count Heihachiro Togo, chief of the naval staff of the Japanese Empire, and hero of the battle of the Sea of Japan, will land in New York from the Lusitania to-day, to be the guest of the United States for the following two weeks. He will leave for Canada by way of Niagara on the 16th or 17th, taking the steamer for Japan at Vancouver.

Building Trades Boom.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—Building operations in Kingston this year will figure close on $300,000. For the seven months ending July, the amount of building was $172,614 against $135,961 last year.

Two buildings yet to report are, in addition to the postoffice and lead smelter, which will add $70,000 to the present amount.

Aeroplane Dropped Into Crowd.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Physicians yesterday reported the injury of five persons, who narrowly escaped death last on Wednesday when an aeroplane dropped 100 feet into a crowd of spectators at West Pullman, Illinois. Frank Bellai the aviator, was uninjured.

Cattleman Lost Money.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Thomas Joyst of Shallow Lake, Ont., arrived in town yesterday with a load of cattle. After he had disposed of them he was assaulted and robbed of $80 on Terauley street.

Later yesterday afternoon Detective Murray arrested James Britton on a charge of assault and robbery. When searched the money was found on him.

Justifiable Homicide.

Montreal, Aug. 3—"Justifiable homicide" was the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of Auguste Leroux, held in connection with the death of J. B. Bison.

The tragedy was the result of a dispute on religious matters, forced upon Leroux, it was stated, by the deceased.

2,000 Harvesters From Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Two thousand able-bodied men, representing Montreal's answer to the call of the Canadian west to send harvesters to gather in the great wheat crop of the prairie provinces left the city yesterday for western points over the local roads.

Lambert's Body Recovered.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 4.—The body of Lorne Lambert, who was drowned in the river a week ago while operating the gasoline launch of the Model Dairy, was recovered yesterday at the New Ontario dock, about half a mile from the scene of the accident.

Bad Outlook For Potatoes.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—If there is no rain within a day or so the potato crop in this district will be a failure. On the market yesterday potatoes sold at $2 per bushel. The ground is burning up with the heat and drought.

TRY A REVIEW WANT AD.

Catholic Foresters Raise Rates.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.—After a long and stubborn fight, the Catholic Order of Foresters in their bi-ennial convention here yesterday, decided to raise the order's insurance rates so as to equal the rates adopted by the National Federal Congress.

The new rates will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1913. The decision to increase the rates was carried by only nine votes. The delegates by a large majority vote decided to continue holding bi-ennial sessions and not change to quadriennial sessions.

Election of officers will be held to-day.

Auto Was Second-Hand.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Montreal's municipal authorities were badly fooled when they bought Fire Chief Tremblay an automobile to enable him to be quickly on the scene when fires are reported.

Chief Tremblay reported to the Board of Control yesterday that the car has been under expert examination, and is now said to have been second-hand when bought.

Aeroplane Postal Service.

London, Aug. 4.—The Postmaster-General is arranging with Graham White, the aviator, for an experimental aeroplane postal service between London and Windsor.

King George is greatly interested in the project and has given permission to use Windsor Park as the terminus of the route. The service will start during the present month.

One Life Lost.

Ogdensburg, Aug. 4.—While entertaining four friends yesterday in a motor boat, near Huckleberry Island, in the St. Lawrence River, Alexander Harris set fire to the craft by striking a match to light his pipe. Flames from the resultant explosion of gasoline burned the boat to the waters' edge and resulted in Harris' death.

The five men clung to the boat's edge as long as they could, dropped off when the fire got too hot and started for shore. Harris, who could not swim, was drowned in eight feet of water. He was 30 years of age, and leaves a widow and three small children. Searching parties are grappling for his body.

The heaviest rain for the season fell at Niagara Falls yesterday and caused considerable damage along the frontier. Tons of rock were washed on to the tracks of the Gorge Railroad.

A party of berrypickers, returning to Mansfield, Mich., in a launch capsized in the Michigan River, near the mouth of Fence River. The launch contained seven persons, five of whom were drowned.

BIG TREES

Species in Australia Said to be Larger than in California

Not only does Australia dispute the claim of California to the possession of the highest trees in the world, but Mr. W. K. Harris writes an article in the "Lone Hand" with the object of showing that Australia has trees over 100 feet higher than the celebrated California "big trees."

Probably the majority of Australians are not aware (says the writer) that they can lay claim to possessing, in their eucalypti forests, not only the tallest trees, but the best hardwoods in the whole world.

These eucalypti trees possess many excellent qualities. Their timber is of great durability, strength and toughness. The eucalyptus is a genus of the trees of the natural order of Myrtaceae, mostly, if not all, indigenous to Australia and Tasmania. Australia has 400 species of the eucalyptus; or, as it is more popularly known, the "gum" tree. Its value has been ascribed to its antiseptic odors, and to its rapid growth (which sometimes exceeds ten feet per annum), and the consequent drainage of the soil through the enormous transpiration from the root surface.

The tallest species is to be found principally in Victoria. This species is a tree with tall white stem, smooth as a marble column, and generally without branches for 90 to 100 feet from the ground. It is singularly beautiful when seen in groves; for these have all the appearance of lofty pillared cathedrals. The average height is a little less than 300 feet. The south-western division of Victoria (Gippsland) has put forth the greatest claims to possessing the tallest giants. In this district a great number of trees measuring 300 feet have been found, while specimens of 400 feet are not uncommon, and individuals of over 400 feet are not rare.

Baron Mueller (formerly Government botanist of Victoria) is stated to have said that the gum trees attain a height of 500 feet; but the tallest tree even the Baron ever measured was a prostrate one on the Blacks' Spur, ten miles from Healsville, totalling 480 feet. This tree was 81 feet in girth near the root. Another, found in the same locality, was 415 feet high, with a circumference of 69 feet at the base of the stem. Mueller refers to this species as "the highest tree in the globe, surpassing the famous Californian Sequoin and Wellington pines." In 1880, Mr. G. W. Robinson, civil engineer, of Berwick (Victoria), in a journey from Gippsland to Mount Baw, measured a tree of 471 feet high. The heights of this specimen had previously been estimated at not less than 500 feet.

In the 'sixties Mueller measured a tree that a Mr. E. B. Heyne had discovered in the Dandenong, and this specimen was found to be 295 feet to first branch, and, to the point where it had broken off, another 70 feet; total, 365 feet. This was a splendid "columner vegetable," the trunk being perfectly straight.

The blue gum species is another of the world's giants, not a few specimens attaining a height of 375 feet. Since 1854 it has been successfully introduced into the south of Europe, Algeria, Egypt, Tahiti, New Caledonia, Natal, and India, and has been extensively planted in California; while along the Central Pacific Railway belts of this and other Australian trees have been formed to protect the line from snow drifts, and for a future supply of timber.

It has long been thought that California owns the world's tallest trees; but, while some are of gigantic dimensions, they do not come up to the Victorian natives. The Californians are noted not so much for their height as for their girth and diameter. The "Big Tree" of California occurs in groves or patches from lat. 36 degrees to 38 degrees, nowhere descending much below 4,000 feet in elevation, or rising above 7,000. There are eight or nine "groves" of these trees; and by far the largest is the one which extends along the tributaries of King's and Kaweah Rivers. The trees, however, are not grouped by themselves, but stand scattered among other species. The "Big Tree" is said to be the oldest of growing things on earth, with an age of 5,000 years. The average height is 275 feet, with a diameter of 28 feet, and a girth of 70 feet at six feet from the ground. The tallest gigantea ever discovered was found by actual measurement to be 340 feet high, or 140 feet shorter than the tallest tree found in Australia.—Weekly Telegraph.

Tests made at the volcano of Kilauea, Honolulu, show the heat of boiling lava to be 1,010 degrees.

A record-breaking excursion of harvesters is en route from St. Paul, Minn., to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"UNDER THE WEATHER"

Why We Don't Work Well When It is Wet and Gloomy

Most of us know, in a general way, what to be "under the weather" means.

Gloomy, rainy weather brings depression, just as spring sunshine means light-heartedness. Scientists have of recent years been turning their attention to this interesting question of the effect of the weather upon our moods and actions, and they can show lots of curious results that most of us would never have guessed at.

The weather, for instance, has a decided effect on the work of bank clerks. Inquiries have been made from banks as to the number of serious slips made in computation—slips, that is, which are not corrected immediately, but only discovered next day. And the results of the inquiry are curious.

Most blunders are made in foggy, muggy, or excessively hot weather. The most accurate work is done in calm, fine weather, provided the barometer is not too high. For when the barometer is very high the work suffers. A very high barometer brings a tense, energetic feeling which, it is suggested, makes the clerk drive confidently on with his counting, instead of taking his usual care.

In the Bank of England the influence of the weather is recognized. Certain important books are never entrusted to the clerks on gloomy, foggy days, or very hot ones.

Practically the same results are shown in the case of typists, though, owing to the more sensitive nervous organization of women, the results are more marked. Typists and bank clerks alike, and, indeed, most workers, benefit by windy weather. The higher the wind is the better, for wind brings into the stuffy air of cities that brain-clearing gas, oxygen.

Few people feel as energetic on damp days as they do on dry. The reason is that the earth is constantly radiating forth electricity into space. The damper the air is the less well it acts as a conductor to this electricity. It is this electricity that gives our physical and mental energy the keen edge we miss on damp days.

A study of over 12,000 assault cases at the police courts shows that there is a steady rise in number from January to August. Temperature and fighting go together. But on the very hottest days assault cases are few. People are too limp.

Suicides increase in number from January to August, too. But for suicides the very hottest days are the worst. The number that take place in April, however, is curiously high each year—almost as high as the August figures, a fact for which all sorts of fanciful explanations have been given. One is that when no practical results come from the new hope that comes to even the most hopeless with the bright days of early spring, despair sets in again more bitterly than ever.

Statistics compiled from schools show that it is on hot, muggy days that boys do the most inaccurate work, and are most restless.

Calm, cold days are the best, from the teacher's point of view. Wind brings an amount of physical energy that makes discipline harder to keep. On dull, cloudy days behavior is good, but less work is done than usual. Girls, however, though afterwards they change decidedly in this respect, do not seem to be affected by the weather at all.

It was only recently that the manager of a great northern firm declared that on a day that was either very wet, or very hot, or very close, the work of the three thousand men under him went down at least five per cent., both in quantity and quality.—Answers.

CARL AHRENS

A Canadian painter of Canadian scenes

A obliging young parson was driving home one evening after making his pastoral calls, when he overtook a young woman of his congregation, the maid-of-all-work at a farm which he would pass, so he offered her a place in his carriage. The offer was gladly accepted and they chatted pleasantly all the way to the farm gate.

"Thank you, sir," she said as she got down.

"Don't mention it, my dear girl. Don't mention it," he told her politely.

"No, indeed, I won't," she assured him.

A "window" was pierced near the Jungfraujoch, to give passengers on the wonderful Jungfrau Railway, while in the tunnel, a superb view of the Guggi Glacier. Unfortunately, the presence of snow obscured the view at the opening ceremony. The Jungfrau railway is being extended from Eismeer, above Grindelwald, its present terminus, to the Jungfraujoch, 1,090 feet above sea level, and thence ultimately to the sumit. The new "window" is on the far slope of the Monk, at an elevation of 10,300 feet.

"FOR THE BLIND"

Several passers-by put money in it, and everything went smooth till, at the expiration of three weeks, a lady contributor who was passing noticed that the box was no longer hanging out, and so she queried—"Well, Mr. Carpenter, I see you have taken your box away."

"Yes," said Mr. Carpenter; "I got enough, thank you."

"Got enough?" asked the lady, in surprise.

"Yes," said Mr. Carpenter; "how do you like it?" as he pulled down the new blind on the workshop window.

THE REWARD OF CONSTANCY

The colonel of a regiment believed in a celibate army so far as possible, and disliked giving permission to marry.

One of his men came up for the desired permission and the colonel refused. Looking at the man's downcast face he so far relented as to say:

"If you are in the same mind this time next year come back, and ask me again."

In a year the soldier reappeared.

"Do you really still wish to marry?" asked the colonel.

"Yes, sir, very much."

"Well, well, take down his name," said the Colonel to the sergeant-major. "I never thought there was so much constancy in man or woman."

"Thank you, sir," replied the man, saluting, "but if you please, sir, it isn't the same woman."

STAMP COLLECTIONS

One of These in Vienna is Valued at a Million Dollars

The Ministry of Commerce has announced that an exhibition of stamps will be held next autumn in Vienna. A novel feature of it will be the famous Jugent or juvenile collection. One collection is valued at over a million dollars, and contains a newspaper stamp of the eighteenth century which originally cost a fifth of one cent, but for which $20,000 was refused recently.

NO EXCUSE FOR IMMODERATE SPEED BY AUTO DRIVERS

Says Magistrate Dumble, as He Imposes a Fine of $10 at Police Court.

J. W. Shelbrooke, general engineer and automobile expert in the local garage of the McLaughlin Co., was fined $10 this morning on a charge of driving an automobile in an unlawful way on a public highway yesterday evening.

He pleaded not guilty. Chief Thompson, when called, swore to the effect that Shelbrooke, with three others, was exceeding the speed limit on Charlotte street betwen Park street and the boundary at about 6.30 o'clock last evening. They were going about eighteen miles an hour. Shelbrooke driving, and when they got to the boundary something went wrong with the machine, and they returned to the garage. The chief stated that Charlotte street west was like a public raceway for automobilists.

P.C. McGinty also saw the automobile on Charlotte street last night, and judged it was travelling at 18 miles per hour.

J. W. Shelbrooke, in the box swore he was not going more than 15 miles per hour. A man outside the city had a breakdown and he was going out to fix it, he said.

His companions were not automobile owners and were not speed experts, so he did not call them in his behalf.

His worship fined him $10, to be paid forthwith, or ten days in jail. In finding him guilty Magistrate Dumble said there was no excuse for running at an immoderate rate. The fine imposed was the minimum for the offence.

SHEFFIELD CHOIR AND IT'S DEFICIT

Receipts of Tour While Large Not Sufficient

Toronto, Aug 3.—That Dr. Charles A. E. Harriss, of Ottawa, who shouldered the burden of an Empire tour for the Sheffield Choir of England, will be $50,000 out of pocket by the project, was the statement of Dr Harriss' business manager, Mr W. J. Robson, who has returned to Toronto a few weeks before the society's tour concludes. The choir is now on its way to South Africa from Australia where immense audiences greeted the concerts and civic receptions were offered on every hand. During some weeks of the Australian and New Zealand trip the receipts went as high as $30,000 a week, and the average through the Canadian west was also very large.

Such receipts, however, large as they were, have proved insufficient to meet the cost of the trip, which included such steep items as renting an ocean steamship and engaging an entire hotel. Dr. Harriss undertook to finance the extensive arrangements for taking 250 people on an Empire girdling journey and thus far has succeeded to the fullest expectations. He expected at the outset to be "out of pocket," and he has certainly not been disappointed. The African engagement may reduce the deficit somewhat.

"It is one of the finest advertisements for Canada that could possibly have been prepared," declared Mr. Robson. "The effect of one of the returning Britishers will mean more than a bushel of pamphlets. Thousands of dollars were invested in the Canadian west by members of the choir, and at some points, town lots were picked up by the half dozen. The number of five hundred dollar investments were very large."

Upon his return Mr. Robson was appointed advertising manager of The Financial Post.

Emil Vasquez Gomez, Mexican Minister of the Interior, has been forced to resign his position by President De

LIVE WIRE DOWN ON GEORGE ST.

A live wire on the street in front of the Y.M.C.A. this afternoon caused a lot of excitement. The trolley line of the Radial Railway broke and the wire was lying on the ground for about fifty yards.

DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off — Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes is naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

HAVELOCK PEOPLE IN RUNAWAY AUTO

What might easily have proved to be a fatal accident, occurred on Friday last, when Mr. S. S. Joyce was motoring to Peterborough, accompanied by Mrs. Joyce, Dr. and Mrs. Kindred and little Madeline, and Miss Woods. Mr. Joyce was ascending a very steep hill about eight miles from the city when his brake failed and the auto started downward. Mrs. Joyce, Mrs. Kindred and Miss Woods jumped to safety, and Miss Madeline Kindred was snatched from danger by the doctor, who was walking up the hill, as the machine shot by him. Mr. Joyce stayed with his car until it was about to go over the embankment, when he too jumped. The car went down a thirty-foot bank and turned upside down against the fence, breaking one of the wheels, the wind shield and several rods, etc. A repair car from Peterborough was 'phoned for and fixed up the damaged car so that it was able to be taken in to the city. Mr. Joyce and party are congratulating themselves on the lucky termination of the accident, which might have proved to be a tragedy.—Standard.

PORTUGUESE ARE RIOTING

Protest Against the Increased Cost of Food

Lisbon, Aug. 5 (via Badajos, Spain, Aug. 4.)—Several clashes between the Government troops and large crowds occurred in the streets of Lisbon on Thursday night and early Friday morning. Cavalry repeatedly charged the mob and many arrests were made.

The cost of food, including olive oil, which is one of the principal necessities of the poorer classes, has risen unaccountably since the revolution. A crowd marched towards the Parliament Buildings, where the National Assembly was in session Thursday, to protest against the high prices.

By the time the Parliament Buildings were reached the mob had swollen to 4,000 persons, who tried to break through the line of infantry which had been hastily summoned to protect the Chamber. The second regiment of infantry, the fourth cavalry and detachments of the municipal guard were called out. Some revolver shots were fired at the soldiers from the crowd, whereupon the troops charged the mob. The manifestants retreated, but later reformed and hooted the Cabinet Ministers. Deputies who sought to calm the people were met with cries of "Down with the Conservatives! They are thieves!"

The manifestations were continued at intervals during the night.

Two More Victims.

Porcupine, Aug. 5.—Rain followed the intense heat of Thursday. It is cooler to-day. The burned mines in the outlying districts are rebuilding very rapidly considering the fact that all transportation must be by teams. Bones of two more bodies were found in Deloro, two miles south of the Tisdale line. No identification was made as only the bare skeletons are left. This brings the death list as the result of the holocaust up to 73, with three unidentified.

The Government boat inspector tied up all motor boats yesterday until the regulations relative to ballast and life preservers were observed. Many complied at once and were permitted to run. The small boats were not released. High winds on the lake made boating in light craft dangerous where ballast was not carried.

Report Cotton Goods Bill.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 5.—The Insurgent-Democratic combination in Senate sprang a surprise yesterday when it directed the finance committee to report the House cotton goods bill, reducing tariff duties nearly fifty per cent., not later than Aug. 10, and predictions of an early adjournment are shattered.

There is no doubt that the cotton bill will be passed and sent to President Taft, along with the wool and farmers' free list bills.

Curiously enough the conferees on the wool bill yesterday named Senator Lafollette, the anti-Taft Republican from Wisconsin, and Representative Underwood, of Alabama, the Democratic leader of the House as a sub-committee to draft the bill that will go to Taft.

It is safe to say that Taft's wishes will not be consulted.

Found Dying on Railway.

St. Thomas, Aug. 5.—Arthur Armstrong, aged 35, married with a family, was found on the Wabash tracks near New Sarum Thursday night with one hand cut off and his skull fractured. He was brought to the hospital here and died yesterday morning. His home is near New Sarum. He was fined in the police court here Thursday morning for being drunk.

Doctor's Narrow Escape.

London, Aug. 5.—Dr. Angus Graham, a leading physician, had a marvelous and narrow escape from death yesterday morning, when his automobile was struck by a freight train at the Maitland street crossing. All Haiti's Candidates.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—Gen. Firmin sailed Thursday night on the French steamer Caravelle for Cape Haitien, Haiti, by way of San Domingo. He has received a cablegram from Gen. Leconte assuring him that he will succeed to the Presidency of Haiti. Thirty Haitien exiles, including Gen. Roche, also a candidate to succeed Simon, boarded the Caravelle at St. Thomas, Danish West Indies. The German steamer Presidente sailed yesterday for Haiti with thirty Haitien exiles from St. Thomas and Porto Rico.

TROUBLE FROM RAILWAY STRIKE

Street Car Men Dissatisfied—Want More Money

Special to the Review.

New York, Aug. 5.—Police reserves were called out to prevent disorder at Brooklyn street car strike that began to-day. One hour after disaffected employees voted to abandon cars. Two lines, employing several hundred men were affected. Mayor Gaynor tried to avert the trouble but the company refused to treat with the men for more pay

THE NATIONAL ISSUE

The Conservatives do not claim to have a monopoly of loyalty to the British connection. There are many good Liberals who are just as strong believers in the old policy of maintaining as sacred our British connection as are the Conservatives to-day. But those Liberals who will permit their feelings of loyalty and patriotism to outweigh their party fealty, will vote with the Conservatives in the coming election.

Aside from the purely domestic questions which face the electors when Laurier asks for a renewal of their confidence, questions involving approval or condemnation of unexampled graft and political chicanery, every voter who does not want Canadian commerce to be assimilated with American business on a common level, must vote for Borden and the death of reciprocity.

It is important to Canada that she shall keep her skirts clear of the barbs that make the American alliance so dangerous. It is not a question of immediate annexation. No sane Canadian thinks that because we have reciprocity, the United States will immediately march a column of the national guard on Ottawa. But the danger is there just the same, except that it is in a more insidious form. We could fight to repel any open invasion; without the help of those who would keep Canada in the empire, for our children, and our children's children, Canada may be lost in the commercial union that is promulgated by Laurier and Taft.

We have to fight the old fight of 1891 over again, for the basic principle is still the same. If Laurier believed it possible to live politically, and have complete free trade with the United States reciprocity in manufactures that would be the death of Canadian industry—he would carry that policy out, for he is a free-trader at heart. Reciprocity in natural products such as is now proposed is only the preliminary to a wider measure of continental free trade, if the Americans can have their way. And Laurier? His utterances betray him. Perhaps some of those who read this will remember this historic utterance made by him:

"I tell you that the Liberal party will never cease from the agitation until they triumph and obtain continental free trade. We are asked sometimes, gentlemen, what is the programme of the Liberal party. This is it: To obtain a continental freedom of trade. Success will certainly crown our efforts at no distant day. Fixing our eyes steadily on the goal we shall go on steadily until we reach it unrestricted continental reciprocity."

President Taft has made clear in numerous speeches the object of the reciprocity pact from the American viewpoint. He argues to the American people that it will open to them the great natural resources of Canada. He says "There are other (besides timber) natural resources which I need not stop to enumerate, which will become available to us as if our own, if we adopt and maintain COMMERCIAL UNION with Canada."

But more noteworthy than even the mercenary view of the benefit to the United States accruing through reciprocity is the statement of President Taft that offers the keynote of the siren song. President Taft says that the agreement means commercial and social union with Canada. He is not particular about political union at present—that can take care of itself if the Americans can once divert Canadian destiny towards Washington capitol. Canada is at the parting of the ways, as he says. Hon. Samuel McCall, the father of the reciprocity bill that passed Congress, says:

"Add to the tremendous influences that are pulling the two countries together, the entangling web that is woven by reciprocal trade and the inevitable day will be more quickly reached, when the two countries shall become politically one."

Do you stand for the Americanization of Canada, slowly but steadily as the earth moves in its orbit, or do you stand for the maintenance without "entangling alliances" of our British connection. Laurier and the United States, or Borden and British connection.

BRITISH TORY EXTREMISTS VERY BITTER ON ASQUITH

Premier is Condemned for Allowing Redmond to Draw the King Into the Lords Fight.

London, Aug. 5.—The progress of the veto bill toward the crisis next week, is now coming into clearer light. Viscount Morley yesterday published a list of 76 Liberal peers who have written promising to support the Government in the passage of the measure.

A meeting of Unionist peers who favor supporting the Government was held yesterday. It was presided over by Viscount St. Vincent, formerly Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. The meeting decided that it would not be advisable to take organized action in the vote on the bill, but to leave each peer to act on his own discretion. This may add ten or more votes to the Government side making the total 86 to 90 in favor of the measure. The only list of names the followers of the Earl of Halsbury has as yet permitted to be published, gives 68. Thus the bill, according to present probabilities, will be adopted by a narrow majority of between ten and twenty.

The insurgents continue to breathe undiminished defiance to the Government: They held two crowded meetings last night in London, one in Holborne, and one in Chelsea, at which the Earl of Halsbury, the Earl of Selborne, Lord Milner, Lord Willoughby de Broke, Austen Chamberlain, F. E. Smith and Sir Charles Wyndham all made strong speeches, their chief theme being denunciation of the Government for what they termed revolutionary proceedings in dragging King George into the mire of politics at the behest of John Redmond, the Irish leader. Resolutions pledging a "no surrender" policy were carried amid scenes of intense enthusiasm.

The Spectator and other moderate Unionist newspapers continue their urgent appeals to the party to allow the bill to pass the House of Lords without the creation of new peers and thus keep the King from a struggle which could only cause him anxiety and embarrassment. They say also that if the bill is defeated by the Lords, it will no longer be a question of the creation of a few peers, but at the very least 400 of them.

Made Four Flights.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Skill overcame bad weather conditions at the meet here yesterday and the crowd of 4,000 people were shown some magnificent flying by Charles F. Willard. There was another accident which put Willard's machine out of commission shortly before eight o'clock, but the damage was slight and the 'plane will be in working order for to-night. Willard make four flights, though the air currents were very treacherous and at all times his machine was wobbling in a most dangerous way.

Ottawa Archaeologist.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—An important appointment has been made to the staff of the Victoria Museum in the person of Harlem I. Smith of the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Mr. Smith becomes the archaeologist of the new museum and has already started work. He is one of the best known archaeologists on the continent, and his work is very well known in Canada, particularly in British Columbia.

PRICE OF MEAT IS DOUBLED

Special to the Review.

London, Aug. 5.—The prices of meat are doubled to-day as a result of the strike. Other provisions will follow suit. Arbitration decision is to be announced to-night and if unfavorable 100,000 men go out on Monday.

BELAND PROMOTED.

He Becomes Postmaster-General in Cabinet.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The Cabinet changes fore-shadowed some time ago in connection with the retirement of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and of Naval Affairs, to take the position on the Supreme Court Bench rendered vacant by the death of Justice Girouard, will take place next week.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur is now winding up pending matters of departmental administration in connection with his portfolio, so as to leave things in good shape for his successor, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the present Postmaster-General. Dr. Henri S. Beland; the young, able and popular member for Beauce will enter the Cabinet as Postmaster-General, and will be sworn in within a few days at Murray Bay, Que., where His Excellency Earl Grey now is.

The new Minister will address meetings both in Ontario and Quebec during the campaign. Hon. Mr. Lemieux will go to Simcoe with Sir Wilfrid for the Prime Minister's opening meeting of the campaign on Aug. 15. The other Ministers to accompany Sir Wilfrid to Simcoe will be Hon. Geo. P. Graham and Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

Verdict Against Hurst.

Chatham, Ont., Aug 5. The coroner's jury appointed to enquire into the death of Thomas Brown have returned the verdict that "according to the evidence, said Thomas Brown came to his death by blows administered by Charles Hurst."

The evidence showed no provocation for the assault although conversations were repeated which indicated that Hurst claimed Brown insulted the woman, Mrs Taylor.

Want Stars and Stripes.

Detroit, Aug. 5. "If the American flag does not go to London, Ont., next week the Detroit-London Old Boys don't go," declared George Moore, president of the London Old Boys' Association of Detroit yesterday afternoon, when asked what action would be taken as a result of the removal of the United States flag from the street decorations in London, in preparation for next week's home-coming.

Toronto Preacher for Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Rev. J. J. Ross of Dovercourt road Baptist Church, Toronto, occupies the pulpit of the First Baptist Church for the next three Sundays. Rev. Dr. A. A. Cameron left yesterday morning for Toronto on a vacation of four weeks.

Kicked to Death by Horse.

Brockville, Aug. 5.—Herbert Swan, a Walford lad of 15 years, was driving a team along the road near his home, when one of the animals kicked him in the breast, causing almost instant death.

JOB-HUNTERS ARE CLAMORING FOR SOFT THINGS AT OTTAWA

Hungry Liberals Using the Opportunity to Pry From the Government Pre-Election Appointments—Political Gossip.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Ottawa is the mecca of the Liberal job-hunters. Trainloads of Laurier workers are coming into Ottawa, each man bent on seeing Laurier himself, and each man insisting that his party services in the past be immediately recognized.

It leaked out last night that there is some ulterior motive on the Government's part in not announcing the successful tenderers for the preliminary construction of the Hudson Bay Railway.

The lowest tenderer is said to be a well-known railway firm, but Hon. Geo. P. Graham is holding back the announcement on account of the wave of popular resentment which would follow the official statement to that effect in the west.

The company in question is said to have tendered under a nom de plume, but the identity is known, and in view of Mr. Borden's policy of government building, ownership, and control by independent commission of the road, the Government is in a quandary as to what to do. Hence the delay in announcing the successful tenderer.

Messrs. Fielding and Pugsley leave for the Maritime Provinces to-day, and the Minister of the Interior is already on his way west. Both Mr. Fielding and Mr. Fisher are to be heard on the stump in Ontario.

Further plans for the Premier's campaign tour have been made. Opening at Simcoe on the 15th he will speak at Three Rivers on the 17th, and at Quebec on the 19th. From Aug. 20 to 28 will be spent in the Montreal district. Then he will go to the Maritime Provinces, remaining there until Sept. 2, speaking in Halifax, St. John, Moncton, Pictou and other centres. Ontario will see him in the first week of September, and then he will go back to Quebec province, where he will speak at various points up to the 16th.

The last few days have not yet been allotted, but he will probably wind up the campaign with a meeting in Ottawa.

R. L. Borden was compelled to abandon his intention of going to Toronto to attend the Conservative rally in the Exhibition grounds there to-day. He finds the pressure of work here too great to allow him to get away just yet.

Wilson For North Wentworth.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—Gordon C. Wilson, M.P.P. for North Wentworth, will oppose W. O. Sealey, M.P., in the Wentworth riding in the Dominion elections. Wilson was waited upon by the Wentworth Conservative executive Thursday night, and gave his consent. He left for Toronto yesterday morning to confer with Premier Whitney. This means that there will be a provincial bye-election in North Wentworth shortly after the Dominion elections.

Possible Candidates.

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 5.—W. R. Givens, editor of The Kingston Standard and president of the Conservative Association and Dr. A. E. Ross are spoken of as possible candidates for the party.

Hon. W. Harty and J. McD. Mowat are mentioned for the Liberals, but it is considered almost certain that Harty will be the man.

Labor Candidate for Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—There are indications to-day of a three-cornered political fight in Ottawa. Last night the Allied Trade and Labor Association met to decide whether or not it will put a candidate in the field.

South Lanark Convention.

Perth, Ont., Aug. 5.—The Conservatives of South Lanark have called a convention for August 17 to elect a candidate for the coming election.

Winnipeg Voters' Lists.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—The report that the Dominion Government will insist on handling the registration of the voters' list in Winnipeg for the approaching election is not credited here. The new Lieutenant-Governor, who was placed in office Monday, signed the proclamation of the printed lists Thursday. It is not at all likely he would have done such a thing if the Dominion contemplated taking over the work.

Help For the Niobe.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 5.—A wireless message from H.M.S. Cornwall to Commander Martin states that she has heard of the Niobe's plight, and is on her way to render assistance.

She will probably take hold of the Niobe to-day, and both may be expected here to-morrow. No change is reported in the Niobe's condition.

Two Killed by Cave-In.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Aug. 5.—In a sewer cave-in at the plant of the Pittsburg Crucible Steel Co. at Midland, Pa., seven miles from here early yesterday, fifty men were buried. Two were taken out dead and four others were probably fatally hurt. Rescuers are still at work and the death list may grow larger.

Cars Thrown Off the Track.

Anson, Texas, Aug. 5.—Three passenger coaches attached to a south-bound train on the Wichita Valley route were thrown from the tracks north of here Thursday night. Practically every passenger, about thirty, received more or less severe bruises. One infant was fatally hurt.

New Zealand Commissioner.

London, Aug. 5.—There is keen competition among New Zealand politicians for the High Commissionership about to be vacated by Sir William Hall-Jones. It is expected Thomas Mackenzie, Minister of Land and Agriculture, will receive the appointment.

FRENCH AIRMAN MAKES NEW RECORD

Reached a Height of 11,152 Feet in 12 Minutes

Special to the Review.

Etampes, France, Aug. 5.—New world's altitude record of 11,152 feet was established here to-day by Capt. Felix. Ascending in wide circles it took him one hour and three minutes to reach a height of two miles. He circled and glided to the ground in twelve minutes.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE BOURASSA QUESTION

The Examiner tries in a silly manner to stir up religious feeling against R. L. Borden, alleging that he is in combination with Bourassa, and is therefore not entitled to Protestant support. This comes with poor grace from The Examiner and champion of Laurier. As a matter of fact there is no alliance or any sympathy between Borden and Bourassa, and because Bourassa is determined to put an end to the Laurier regime for his own personal ends, it is but natural that the Liberals should try to create the impression that there was some collusion. Their objects are the same, but the motives as different as different as day from night.

As to the Nationalists, let us quote Mr. Borden in one of his speeches in the house. "I have had the good or bad fortune according to the point of view that may present itself to anyone, to be denounced beyond measure by the Nationalist speakers on every platform on which they have spoken in Quebec. I do not complain of that; I have taken my stand on that question and as a public man, I am open to criticism and open to denunciation by any man who does not happen to agree with me. I share the honor of being so denounced by about eighty Conservative members of parliament. We are not in alliance with the Nationalists, and we have been more strongly denounced by them than by the hon. gentlemen on the other side of the house.

A SWASH BUCKLER

Would the Monroe Doctrine be invoked in the case of an attempted invasion of Canada by a European power? This interesting question is raised by the Detroit Free Press, which declares in swash buckling tones, that if Germany did try such a game, American men and American ships would take possession of Canada to drive out the Germans. It would be an American protectorate then, like Cuba, or practically annexed.

If this talk is the effect of reciprocity—and reciprocity is making the United States take notice of Canada is responsible—would it not seem desirable that we should avoid all such agreements as would entangle us with the United States?

Could any stronger reason be advanced against the pact, than the creation of such sentiments as these—bound to lead to trouble later on? Is it not insulting to Canadians that responsible Americans should take the annexation of Canada as merely a matter of time and judicious handling of commercial matters.

Read what the Free Press says, and judge of at least some American sentiment for yourself.

"Can Canada take part in a war between Germany and England without laying herself open to attacks by a German fleet or possible invasion by a German army? . . It would not require a very great force of German ships or troops to lay the country under tribute. In such an event what would be the probable action of the United States? The spirit and letter of the Monroe doctrine would obviously require us to protect Canada against attack from any European quarter. But Germany might well reply, 'If you do not wish us to hit your little boy, kindly make your little boy stop kicking our shin.' It would be an insult to Germany to ask her to assume any other position.

Obviously it is up to the Washington government, at the very moment of the beginning of hostilities, or before, to call the attention of both Germany and Great Britain to the embarrassing character of the situation and urge some preliminary agreement which will keep Canada out of the mess altogether. Washington must insist that England must expect no assistance from Canada; and in compensation for Canada's absolute neutrality, Germany must make no attack upon Canada or her ocean trade.

"If Canada took part in the war Germany would attack her, or at least threaten attack. In either case we should have to send our troops into the country and our fleets into the waters of Canada. When would they come back?

THE AMERICAN OBJECT

What could be more offensive than Mr Taft's statements that Canada is at "the parting of the ways," and that the object of American policy is to effect the fiscal separation of the Dominion from the mother country? No one can move amongst Americans without exasperation at their easy confidence that at last they have found the key to fiscal subjugation of Canada, and that the ultimate result can be only the political amalgamation of the two countries. This in itself is no reason for quarrelling with the American people. It is natural that they should desire to manufacture for Canada and to have an equal partnership in our markets and resources. But it is surprising that the object should be so boldly avowed. they thoroughly understand that we cannot compete with the huge American trusts, that access to Canadian raw material will enormously strengthen their industrial supremacy, and that under the trade agreement they will divert a great volume of business from Canadian ports and Canadian carrying companies, and seriously cripple the Dominion as a competitor in foreign markets. But the very reasons which commend the agreement to the United States should ensure its rejection in Canada if we are not a less spirited people, with a less intense national consciousness, and a less zealous regard for our fiscal independence and a less zealous regard for our fiscal independence and our national integrity.

The whole history of the United States proves that in our situation Washington would summarily reject the trade agreement. It has become one of the mighty nations of the earth by protecting American labor, American industries and American agriculture. Who believes that if the United States had only three or four millions of farmers it would open the doors to the competition of thirty millions of farmers in an adjoining country? Who believes that Washington would legislate to check the inflow of foreign capital and foreign capital and foreign industries? Who believes that the United States with unexhausted natural resources would share its patrimony with an aggressive rival? Who believes that the republic would consider a policy that would drive trade from its ocean ports, railways and steamships into foreign channels? Only by the policy that the United States has pursued can we create home markets for Canadian producers, ensure the growth of Canadian towns and cities and the expansion of Canadian industries, avoid a surplus of labor with decreasing wages, and maintain and extend the great transportation enterprises that we have created at enormous cost and upon which largely depend the commercial unity and the political cohesion of Canada. For this country the trade agreement is a form of self-destruction and it is inconceivable that the Canadian people will commit suicide in order to save a group of party politicians who already have had fifteen years of office, patronage and plunder.—Toronto News.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Guelph lad fell into a cistern, but was rescued, and now he feels quite well.

Well, it is all right to look for senatorships, but it is better to make sure that the wrong party doesn't have the appointing.

The Britishers in Canada are uniting to oppose reciprocity and the Laurier government. The people of Britain, at least, can see under the surface of "larger markets."

There will be no naval manoeuvres by the American warships on the great lakes. That might draw the attention of too many Canadians that the Americans are violating the Rush-Bagot convention at a time when the Americans want Canada to take the first step towards Americanisation. Warships on the lakes should be kept under cover just about that time.

The Toronto Globe tries to throw Farmers' Bank went off Fielding and onto Beattie Nesbitt. That won't go. Fielding is the finance minister of Canada, and supposed to protect the people in such matters by the use of ordinary care and vigilance. He didn't, no one knows why. The Globe says that neither Travers or Beattie Nesbitt were political or personal friends of Fielding. All the more reason for the common people to suspect that someone allied with these men, who was high up in the party, did the fine work with Fielding.

The Oliver Plow company, of Hamilton, a branch of an American house, is going ahead with the erection of a large factory. Reciprocity does not affect this, for the good and simple reason that its machinery can be manufactured just as cheaply, if not more cheaply, for export than in the United States. The Canadian market hasn't yet been given entirely to the Americans, and won't be. The Oliver people see the handwriting on the wall.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable suffering:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

Fired at Policeman.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5. The entire police department yesterday were engaged in a man hunt growing out of a desperate fight between a highwayman and Constable Trayner, who had arrested him Thursday night. Nightly, for several days, citizens have been held up and robbed on the streets by two thugs armed with guns.

One was arrested Thursday night on complaint of his landlady, but Constable Trayner did not realize he had arrested a dangerous man until his prisoner jerked away, drew a revolver and fired at him repeatedly. The thug escaped into the railway yards. A search of his rooms showed unmistakable evidence of highwaymen. The two said they came from Toronto and were railway men.

CHAPTER I.

That was a rather peculiar crime, the robbing of my Uncle Abner's safe. It was cleverly planned, opportunely timed and successfully executed. It was a good haul, too. Forty thousand dollars in crisp coin of the realm is pretty high pay for almost any criminal for a few hours' work and risk, and that is what the perpetrator got out of it.

You will notice that I said "criminal." I did that to distinguish it from the operation of a gang of thieves; for as it turned out, it was the work of a single individual and not the combination or effort of a coterie. That made it still more difficult to solve. As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so is the cunning of a combination of men no keener than the wits of its dullest member. That is why conspiracies generally come to grief—somebody turns out to be weak. In the matter of which I am speaking there were as many baffling points as there are to a hedgehog, and for a time it seemed impregnable. As for the sleuth hounds of the police, they came up to it with caution, smelled about it discreetly and then drew away, looking wise, to ponder over it, and, for all I know, are looking wise and pondering yet. But with William LeDuc the case was different.

LeDuc had been something of a friend of mine ever since we were schoolboys together, and he did really brilliant work on the case. Everything conjured up by the human mind is capable of human solution, if we go about it right, and LeDuc found the way. Just because a dog is helpless before a bristling porcupine, it is no sign that all animals are. The wild cat isn't. He is too quick for the bristler. He feints him out of his defensive posture by lightning play, and eventually gets him by the unprotected nose—which is the beginning of the end of the problem. Just what LeDuc did has never been made public up to this time for the reason that none but he or I is competent to give the inner particulars of the running down of the thief, and up to this time neither of us has cared to tell. But I feel that I must do so now.

That I happened to know more than anybody else about certain incidents connected with the affair and was able to supply LeDuc with the proofs of guilt was due to the fact that I lived with Uncle Abner at the time the crime took place. I, also, was the one who found him lying bound and unconscious. Also it was myself who reported matters to the police and introduced LeDuc to my uncle. As for the time when the burglary took place, I happened to be away from home, having stayed at a hotel in the business district quite a few miles from where I lived.

And now, at the outset, I am going to emphasize one fact. While it is an unpleasant thing for me to do so, I am going to tell everything I know regarding this crime. I am going to spare nobody's feelings, faults or reputations. That I have not done so before was because of a reason which will be apparent when all the other facts are known. But now that a certain event has happened I feel free to make everything known.

In writing this account I have thought best to do so chronologically when possible. Therefore, I must go somewhat into matters which preceded and were more or less directly connected with the crime, in order that the motive may be shown and that there may be the proper perspective. To do this I must tell more or less about people not absolutely connected with the burglary, but who are necessary to the narrative by reason of their propinquity. However, they are simply the shadings and side lights that go to make up the picture. And while LeDuc may disappear for considerable periods in the telling, the mistake should not be made of thinking he is nowhere around. That is what he did in the actual ferreting out of the case, and that is what misled the criminal. But when his fine Italian hand did appear at the finish, it wore a glove of mail.

Right at this point I find myself somewhat at a loss to decide just where to begin the recital. This is for the reason that I am not a writer trained in the art of building up a mystery with such skill that it stands intact until the time comes to demolish it; when with one deft blow the keystone is removed and the whole fabric comes down with a crash. Therefore, all I can hope to do is to simply and plainly outline the characters which seem to me to be pertinent to a full understanding of conditions, and then go on and relate events as they happened. Perhaps I had better begin with a brief description of Uncle Abner, his peculiarities and meannesses.

When you look at that last sentence again you will begin to understand that I meant it when I said I was going to spare nobody. Neither do I believe anyone will think as I proceed that I am attempting to spare my own feelings. What an idiot I was! I think when the fates were making the world's supply of fools, after they had constructed me they broke the mold. Having turned out a perfect specimen there was no use of experimenting further.

I have called Uncle Abner mean and peculiar, but that description is insipid. It is about as adequate as describing Satan as not being a pleasant person. Of all the cold-blooded men I ever met, Abner Halliday had the most frog-like temperature. I once had a dream which will illustrate my life-long impression of him. It happened when I was spending a year in a technical school learning practical mechanics prior to entering college, and it was brought about by a particularly heartless and thoroughly uncalled for letter which he had written me. I dreamed that I had seen him dissected at a clinic and that his veins were filled with liquid air instead of warm red corpuscles. And when it came to the region of his heart they found its place occupied by a toadstool. He was long, lean, miserly, and rich. As to the amount of his wealth, I had little knowledge except from a boast he once made to me and which I was inclined to believe at the time.

I happened incidentally to remark that he must be a pretty wealthy man, and he turned to me with that cunning leer of his—a leer that had the cunning of a fox and the relentlessness of a wolf. "I suppose you know how far it is from here to the heart of the city," he grinned. I told him that it was eight miles as the crow flies.

"And about 80 rods. Now you listen to me, young gadabout. If I should turn all my money into American dollars and put them side by side, edges touching, remember, they'd reach from here to the city hall."

"Which is a long ways," I assented meekly. He grinned again.

"And I'll tell you where else they would reach. They'd reach to the chambers of the judges; they'd reach to the private office of the assessor; and they'd reach to the heart of any public official I wanted them to—which is the reason I desire them. Understand, now, young jackanapes?"

"Yes," I returned wearily, disgusted by his contempt for all human honesty. Then I went away and left him, feeling more resentful than ever that I must toil day in and day out as the cashier of a soulless corporation for $2,000 a year, and then out of it pay my uncle pretty near first-class hotel rates for my board and lodgings. At times his browbeating and insults fairly sickened me of life; yet I swallowed them with the resignation of a schoolboy who takes quinine as a condition of his being allowed to go fishing. Oh, dead men's shoes! How we will dance until we fall for the prospect of wearing them!

Now a few words about the house we lived in.

It was a rookery. Large and rambling, it had degenerated from a handsome, well-groomed surburban home to to a hulking, tatterdemalion outcast amidst respectability. It was bruised and battered. The spine of its roof already had a curvature; the paint hung from it in shreds, and ragweeds surrounded it. Internally it was nearly hollow. Year by year Uncle Abner, clutching his dollars, sat by and watched it run down as steadily as a clock that is never rewound; prideless of himself and of all belonging to him save his money. And whenever he did spend a few dollars upon repairs his cheerfulness was as that of one who gives a surgeon his fee for extracting his vermiform appendix. Necessity, so grinding and imperative that further neglect would prove fatal, was the only condition that could loosen the Gordian knot which bound his money bags.

I never opened the heavy door that led from the group of magnificent, century-old oaks, the branch ends of which stroked the gray house like caressing hands, without a feeling of disgust and hot shame. The lower floors were unfurnished save for the kitchen, the dining room and the room for the housekeeper. Barring those portions it was as barren as a ship's empty hold. For years Mrs. Tebbets had been the housekeeper of the place, doing all the household work and never, to our knowledge, receiving company, and almost never leaving the premises. The upstairs portion of the house was also bare of furniture save for my uncle's and my apartments. His quarters consisted of a large, sparsely furnished room running the length of the front of the house, with an alcove in connection; my own sleeping-room and den being adjacent thereto. That Uncle Abner continued to live amidst this shameful waste of handsomely designed rooms and broad natural grounds, was about the only piece of extravagance I ever knew him to indulge himself in. However, I could partially account for it in two ways. In the first place he had come into possession of the premises through some sort of a could quite understand what a man of his instincts saw about a prodigal like Bruce to pat on the back, good-looking and agreeable though he is. And it puzzled me almost as much to notice that Clare, who is high-minded and as sweet and wholesome as fresh milk, would so readily overlook things in my cousin of which I knew she instinctively disapproved. One day I spoke to her about it. I good naturedly charged her with being very fond of him, and she admitted it with audacious sang froid.

"Of course I am. Everybody is—everything is. Children climb all over him and stray dogs follow him home. Why shouldn't they if he pets them?"

I expostulated. "But he is so obvous—I might even say notorious—about his—well, I will call them 'financial peculiarities.' He doesn't care who knows about them." She answered me as pertly as a sparrow.

"That's just what I like about him. Bruce doesn't know there is such a thing as underhandedness."

hocus-pocus swap; had secured them for a song, won the resulting lawsuit, and then left the former owner to whistle for the song; and in the second he had a real and abiding fondness for trees and grass. Trees and grass, however, do not require repairs.

Now, as to his associates. There were only three people in the world whom he did not seem to have a natural aversion for. These were myself, whom he tolerated as a sort of licensed and necessary evil; Bruce Halliday, my second cousin, whose happy-go-lucky exploits he would sometimes chuckle over, and Clare Winton, another distant cousin of mine from a different branch of the family. But it was practically impossible to know Clare and not love her, a little at least; and it was his affection for her, combined with his fondness for nature, that made me realize that he was a human being after all. Bruce used to say to me privately that if Uncle Abner was the crab apple of the family tree, Clare was certainly the peach, but I always prfeerred to regard her as the jewel. I would not liken her to a diamond as I would Mrs. Dace, who scintillates and dazzles, but rather to a perfect pearl, whose beauty is so soft and emanates from deep within.

While it was easy enough to account for his fondness for Clere, I nevel

MARKET FOR MEAT.

Argentina Finds a New Market for Its Meat.

A new market for Argentine meat has been secured in northern Italy. The mayors of Rome and 58 other cities in the northern part of Italy have combined to promote the importation of frozen meat from Argentina. Negotiations in southern Italy have similar arrangements in view for that section. Efforts are being made by the Argentine authorities to have the Swiss regulations modified so as to permit the entry of meat into that country. At present every carcass imported into Switzerland must be accompanied by the tongue, heart, liver, spleen and kidneys. It is thought that a Swiss inspector may be stationed at Buenos Ayres to pass upon carcasses intended for his country and so relieve the trade of this prohibitive order.

ONTARIO FRUIT OUTLOOK.

Ontario's orchards were not in blossom on the 8th May, when correspondents made their return to the Department of Agriculture. The season is said to be later than usual. Fruit buds, however, promise to be plentiful, and after the lean orchard yield of 1910 a liberal yield is expected. War upon scale, codling moth, and other pests is being conducted with more vigor than ever, and several correspondents point to the improved appearance of fruit trees as the result of work done in the last year or two in the way of spraying, pruning, and the better general culture of orchards. A few reports of damage to trees from mice come from some of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa countries.

NEW WAY OF CATCHING RATS.

Catching rats with oyster shells is the unique method employed by some pearlers round about Broome, West Australia. They leave a large oyster on the floor of the cabin at night. It opens for a breath of fresh air, and the smell of fresh meat attracts the rats. When the rodent thinks he'll try a little supper, the oyster suddenly decides that he doesn't like fresh air. Next morning the shell is prized open, and the dead rat thrown overboard.

YOUNG MEN COME TO BLOWS, IT WAS JUST FOR A GIRL

Combatants Were Ducked Owing to Their Strenuous Efforts

A combat that is not on the program of friendly aquatic sports occurred Thursday afternoon on the Otonabee river. According to the statements of eye witnesses, a local young man was canoeing alone passed a camp, in front of which some of the party were in bathing. Two young ladies belonging to the camp were canoeing in the vicinity. The young man, while not acquainted spoke to the ladies, and it seems that one of the bathers took objection to it and told him to go away and stop insulting the ladies. Some forcible language passed between them, and the young fellow in the canoe asked the bather to come in on shore and have a fight. The other refused. A young man from a neighboring camp, who is visiting there, came along in a canoe, and seeing what was the trouble was provoked, it is said, to interfere on behalf of the ladies. He leaned over in his canoe and struck the intruding youngster and a fight then commenced between the two in canoes. It waxed warm and both went overboard and continued the melee in the water. How it would have ended is hard to say, has not another neutral party interfered and brought about peace, the first youngster departing of his own accord.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

The advent of the holidays has had no very appreciable effect on the attendance at the library. The reading rooms are not perhaps quite as well patronised, the people preferring to enjoy the balmy outer air to taking their ease inside the building, but the output of books still keeps up as may be seen by the statement that up to Thursday, August 3rd, no less than 23537 books had been issued to the public. No less than 80 per cent. of this amount may be credited to the penchant for fiction, for the sum total of the output in this department reaches 18884.

That the library is meeting the needs of the people of Peterborough is also shown by the fact that the membership now amounts to 1978. About 500 of this number are juveniles.

The classification and cataloguing of the library which has been in active progress under the guidance of a government employee for the past three weeks is going along satisfactorily, and it is hoped that by the late autumn the branches devoted to the fine arts, useful arts and the reference department will be in such a position as to be of real benefit to the public. At the present time the history section is being catalogued and in possibly a week's time will be finished.

The catalogue will be a desk catalogue, to which ready reference can be had at the librarian's desk. When it is fully recognised that by this catalogue any work can be found in three separate ways, by the name of the author, by the title of the book or by the subject on which it deals, patrons of the library will, we are sure, not be slow to make use of it.

A matter to which the librarian would like to draw the attention of the public and particularly that portion of it interested in reading circles and debates, is that he will be most pleased to make bibliographies on any subject that is to be dealt with by such societies if sufficient notice is given in advance. It takes time to find out authorities dealing with any particular question and too much stress cannot be laid upon the necessity of ample notice being given.

FROM THE WAR CORRESPONDENT AT WE-NEVER-SLEEP CAMP

Bachelors are Out for a Time — They are Having It According to the "Dope"

From the War Correspondent.

Merely to let the public in on the fact that they are having a "scrumptious" time, an enterprising quartet of local young "bloods," who are camped a short distance down the Otonabee river, have supplied this paper with some cheerful "dope" of how they "while away the fleeting hours of golden summer time," to use the language of one romantic member of the bunch, one thing certain is that they are enjoying themselves, as some details of how they pass the time will show. The name of their camp, "We Never Sleep," testifies to their activity, and to cause people to believe that they are confirmed women-haters they have adopted the name of "The Bachelors." A recital of their "doings" is submitted with apologies, and the publication of the following letter, which reached them, will reveal a little of the reputation and popularity which they evidently enjoy:

July, 30th, 1911.

The Bachelor's Camp,
Otonabee river.

Dear Superintendent,—Hearing that a number of young bachelors of Peterborough have organized a camp on the Otonabee, and judging from what we have seen and heard that you are in bad need of chaperons and cooks, we take pleasure in intruding on your good nature by offering our services at a reasonable remuneration in your time of difficulty.

Believe me, we are a company of reliable, trustworthy, hard-working, conscientious, courteous, polite and and lovable old maids. For many years our valuable services have been applied to just such cases as yours, and knowing that you will certainly insist on acquiring high recommends before engaging, we refer you to Wm. Slatts, Jimmy Whistlebreeches, Bill Beasley, Ruben Glue, Seaton Fresh and U. R. Notwise, all esteemed citizens of Peterborough.

Any household utensils that you require, such as pleasant smiles, witty speeches, love, kisses and up-to-date hugs, we of course, will bring with us if you just mention the fact.

Hoping that this brief application will meet with approval, and trusting that you will favorably give this your usual serious consideration, we are,

Your most humble servants at command

"CLEMONS."

P.S.—Kindly mail reply to "You Don't Know,"
Care of "I Do Know,"
Peterborough, Ont.,
Canada.

While the "Bachelors" would dearly like to know the originators of the above charmingly worded and most kind offer, they as one wish to say most sincerely that no hesitancy would occur among them in accepting the services offered, and the use of the utensils, as proffered in the letter.

They anticipate a mighty influx of those of the opposite sex, who are yet enjoying single blessedness, but wish it made known that their welcome will be vastly more flattering if a supply of dainty and mouth-watering grub tit-bits are forthcoming to cater to their epicurean tastes.

With remarkable ingenuity the quarters have invented a clever system of communication with adjacent camps. The words "Sapolio" and "Old Dutch Cleanser" are two of the most magical, and when a charming feminine voice calls out from the camp opposite the "Bachelors," everybody knows what it means, namely, "Supper is ready; come on over," thereupon each youth begins to primp, especially "Punker," and over they go in canoes. To supply a little illumination to those who are not wise to the reason, it might be added that several pretty and charming girls are camped across the river.

"Supt." keeps his bunch well in hand, however, and "Sport," "Monk" and Punker know when to behave.

More news from "We Never Sleep" will be forthcoming later.—Wishing everybody a happy time, they sign themselves,

Yours truly,
"THE BACHELORS."

GOOD SEASON FOR FISHING

Bass Below the Locks are Somewhat Wormy

Fishery and Game Inspector Watt has had numerous cases of illegal fishing and hunting come to his notice this season and as a result has made many fines and confiscations. The offence of using nets does not appear to be so prevalent as in other years and only two have been found.

The fishing this season, says the inspector, is excellent, and only below the locks is there evidences of wormy fish and bass is the only species to be affected. The catches this year are large, early morning knights of the rod being particularly successful.

The Reason Why

"The biggest twenty-five cents' worth in the world." That is how a Yankee theatrical manager expressed himself at the close of the grand stand performance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto last year. "How do you do it?" And then as he watched the thousands pouring out of the stand, "I guess that's the answer. You have people enough in that stand to fill a dozen of the largest theatres on the continent."

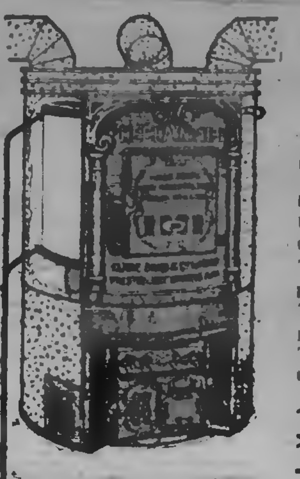
This furnace is built to keep gas, dust and smoke out of the house.

¶ No matter how cosy your home, an odor of gas, however slight, is unpleasant and sometimes dangerous.

The health of your whole house demands a furnace that will give pure warm air without gas or dust.

Gas cannot escape from a "Hecla" Furnace. Every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an opening has been made absolutely tight by our Patent Fused Joint.

The constant expansion and contraction of the steel and iron parts cannot break this joint.



THE FUSED JOINT

In the "Hecla" the steel sides of the radiator are fused by our patented process to the cast iron plates at the top and bottom. This process welds the steel and iron into one piece, making an inseparable joint—one that cannot spread with the heat, and one that has proven perfectly gas and dust proof, even after years of service.

"Hecla" Furnace

¶ The "Hecla" has other safeguards against gas. The cast iron Combustion Chamber will not burn through and allow fumes from the fire to pass into the house.

The air jets in the door assure proper burning of any surplus gas.

The 'Hecla' Saves One Ton of Coal in Seven

How steel ribs added to the "Hecla" Fire Pot make this saving is told in our booklet "Comfort & Health."

O'Keefe's PILSENER LAGER

The Light Beer in the Light Bottle

Canadians laugh at any talk of the superiority of "imported lagers".

They know that O'Keefe's "Pilsener" Lager is a purer, better beer than anything imported into Canada.

They know that O'Keefe's "Pilsener" is brewed only of the choicest hops and malt—which cannot be said of any American lager.

GOTCH TRAINS FOR MATCH

Frank Gotch is going to be at his very best when he enters the ring with Hackenschmidt for the championship of the world. For two weeks now he has been working faithfully and his training quarters are nearly as popular as were those of Jeffries or Johnson before the white man's went glimmering. He is watched in his workouts by a large number of people. He seems to be devoting a great deal of time to conditioning his legs and it is an every day exercise to take a sprint of eight to ten miles.

Gotch is a quiet unassuming man, never given to braggadocio, and yet he is very confident that he will retain the honor of being the champion wrestler of the world. He is a product of Iowa and as a resident of Humbolt he is fairly idolized. He says but little of the approaching contest and he will step out upon the mat with as little concern as if he were going to wrestle "Farmer Burns" or one of the old timers he has met and vanquished.

However, he is not underrating the ability of Hackenschmidt. He realizes full well that he is going up against the best man that can be pitted against him, but he believes that he will outgeneral him in the long run. Gotch looks to see the battle pretty well drawn out and for that reason he is fitting himself for endurance. So far as he is able there will be no defect in his condition when he meets Hackenschmidt. He confidently expects to be in the best condition he has ever been in entering a ring. All the money Humbolt has now or can borrow between this time and the date of the event will be placed on Gotch even if it can so be placed, but at odds if it must be.

SPORT TALK

Says the Lindsay Warder: Oshawa hockeyists, with their usual aggressiveness, are again doing recruiting work in search of last year hockey players. In fact the fans of that busy town have been on the still hunt for players for some time past, and as all players according to the residence rule have to reside in the home town on Aug. 1 and thereafter, there are already a number of new players in Oshawa, including Mr. Walter Callaghan, of Lindsay who last year figured prominently on the Lindsay junior seven. Fred. Wilder, whose home is now in Lindsay, but who was a shining star on the line up of the Oshawa juniors last year, has also returned to that town.

While on the above strain the question might well be asked what will Lindsay do in hockey circles this year. It is understood that Lindsay will be represented in the O.H.A. this year with a fast intermediate, one which will make them all sit up and take notice, but of course it is rather early in the year to dope on hockey matters.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—The market opened barely steady ¼d to ⅜d higher, being influenced by the strong American cables yesterday and the strength in Buenos Ayres. Following the opening heaviness developed with realising and prices declined ⅛d to ¼d with the undertone easy. Profit-taking was induced by the better reports from India that rains are general, except in the Junjaub, with the outlook for the monsoon improved. Receipts for three days aggregated over 1,000,000 bushels. Australian shipments for the week, 1,172,000 bushels, against 680,000 bushels last week, and predictions are for large world's shipments. These influences served to offset bullish American advices.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—New investment buying made a broad market to-day in wheat. Purchasing was based upon a belief that reports of serious damage to the crops in Russia had been confirmed and that there was truth also under the stories of black rust in the Canadian northwest.

Fifty Die In Floods.

New York, Aug. 5.—Fifty persons are dead in Nicaragua as a result of the recent floods on the Gulf Coast and in the interior, according to cable advices from Bluefields. The floods are said to have been the worst which have visited this region in a generation.

Smith Centre, Kansas, Aug. 5.—Northwestern Kansas was flooded by a cloudburst Thursday and all streams are out of their banks. Six inches of rain fell here in two hours. Swollen streams carried out bridges and culverts worth $100,000. The Rock Island Railroad lost thirty bridges and culverts in 45 miles.

Harlan, 14 miles south of here, was struck by a tornado and several houses were blown down. A flouring mill was blown down, and its wreckage was swept away by the Solomon River, which is several miles wide at that place. Much live stock was killed, but no persons were seriously hurt.

Wilbur Mines Closed.

Kingston, Aug. 5.—On account of the break-up in the iron ore market, J. B. Hanna, Cleveland, president of the Ontario Exploration Co., arrived here and closed up the company's mines at Wilbur. There is no chance of shipping any ore this year and the mines will not likely reopen until spring. This is rather hard on the one hundred and forty men engaged at the mine.

Step In Right Direction

London, Aug 5.—Afternoon papers enthusiastically approve the signing on Thursday of the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

The general trend of opinion is that while there is nothing in the agreement to prevent war, it is all to the good that there should be such a court of appeal and revision as the treaty sets up, to step in the breach when disputes arise.

Famous Motorist Coming.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Bob Burman, champion motorist of the world, will be the star at the auto race meet to be held under the auspices of the Automobile and Aero Club of Canada at Delorimier Park on Aug. 19 and 20.

Burnam will drive his 200-horse power Blitzen Benz, the car which drove a mile in 25 2-5 seconds over the sands at Dayton, Fla., last April on his 27th birthday.

Seven Men Engulfed.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Seven men had been working for about fifteen minutes yesterday morning in the drain which is to carry the sewage from Ahuntsic into Back River, when the sides caved in and engulfed them in the dirt. The drain, which is twenty feet deep by three feet wide, was immediately the scene of a vast excitement for all the workmen in the neighborhood.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

CHANGES IN FEAST AND FAST DAYS

As the result of a recent 'motu proprio' issued by Pope Pius X. several changes have been made in the ecclesiastical calendar and a new regulation made about feasts which fall on feast days.

As regards the former change the religious observances of some festivals have been transferred from the actual day to a Sunday, one of these being that of St. John Baptist which will in future be observed by the Catholic church on the Sunday before the feast of St. Peter Paul on June 29.

These changes in the day of observance, however, will make no difference to Canada, there they have been in practice for years past and are intended chiefly for the rendering uniform of the regulations on the subjects in Europe. A change that will have a bearing on this country, however, is that which says that if any one of the six feasts now observed in Canada Christmas, New Year's, the Epiphany Ascension Day, the Immaculate Conception and All Saints, falls on a day of fast or abstinence, it is dispensed from both, thus giving these days the same privileges hitherto enjoyed by Christmas.

AN EXCELLENT CANDIDATE

Orange Sentinel

An excellent candidate has been secured in West Peterboro, Mr. J. H. Burnham, who has been nominated by the Conservatives, is a man of unbounded courage and fine abilities. He is a man who defends his convictions, and will not surrender to base influences to secure personal advantage. That is the kind of man we should have in parliament. There should be so much enthusiasm behind a man of this type that his election would be assured from the day of nomination. The friends of good government, the friends of British connection; the friends of provincial rights, in West Peterborough should rally to his side and make his majority so sweeping that it will be a declaration by the people of that constituency that they stand against graft, against annexation and against the despotic methods of Laurier.

FACTS ABOUT OUR MARKETS

No Need to Turn Elsewhere for Trade in Farm Products—The Home Market Can Absorb it All

The old fable about the dog with the piece of meat in his mouth, jumping into the water after a shadow and in the end losing the good morsel he had at first may be applied very aptly to the country which has splendid markets at home, but becomes discontented, and although not half realizing its natural heritage, looks abroad for trade it knows not of. Such is the position in which some people would place Canada in her present relations with the United States. But the facts do not warrant Canada looking away from her home market.

The home market is taking eighty per cent. of the produce of the Canadian farms at good prices.

The demand of this market is increasing, and it will continue to increase as the country grows.

It has the advantage of nearness, stability, cheapness of transportation and quickness of returns.

The Canadian farmer is familiar with its conditions and requirements.

And yet, withal, the Canadian farmer is inclined to look beyond this market with longing eyes to the market of the United States, forgetting, perhaps, that the United States farmer is looking with just as longing eyes at the Canadian market.

There are at least twelve farmers in the United States looking longingly at the Canadian market to one farmer in Canada looking at the United States market.

Let us remember that there are at least twelve times as many farmers in the United States as there are in Canada, and so, while one Canadian farmer will get entrance into the markets of the United States, twelve American farmers will get entrance into our home markets. They have already succeeded in selling immense quantities of farm products in Canada, in spite of the duty. They have sold twice as much in Canada as Canadian farmers have sold in the United States.

With reciprocity in farm products the twelve American farmers will crowd the one Canadian farmer pretty closely in his own home market.

The surplus production of the United States farmer would be liable at any time to demoralize the home market of the Canadian farmer.

It will cost the American farmer no more to bring his farm products to Canadian towns and cities than it will cost the Canadian farmer to carry his to the United States.

These American products are pretty well kept out now by the tariff wall. With this removed they will enter twelve to one.

We must remember, too, that the Americans have the earlier season, and that their products will therefore be upon our markets before our products are saleable and get the early price.

MUST COME TO MIXED FARMING

The Western Farmer is Slowly Robbing His Land and Enriching Himself

The financial editor of The Globe, Toronto, travelling as a special correspondent in the West, wrote from Winnipeg recently as follows:

"At last the Western farmer is beginning to realize the immense economic loss through the deterioration of his lands by an uninterrupted series of wheat crops, and also by the immense sums paid out to Ontario and the United States annually for dairy products, which he could just as well raise and sell himself. The anomaly presented by shipments of hundreds of thousands of cases of butter and eggs into districts possessing every natural advantage for dairying and poultry raising, and of Chicago beef into centres adjacent to the range country, must continue for some time yet, and will possibly not end until people cease to believe that their easily obtained wealth in grain-growing permits them to disregard the needs of the country by neglecting to develop its other natural industries."

WHEAT PRICES AND THE DUTY

American Paper Does Not Think That the Canadian Farmer Would Get Higher Rates for Wheat

The Pioneer Press, of St. Paul, Minn., does not think that the Canadian farmer would secure any material advance in the price of wheat through a free trade agreement with the United States. It says editorially:

"The removal of the duty on wheat will not affect the price of wheat in this country at all. There is a duty of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, and some people think that therefore wheat is worth 25 cents a bushel more in the United States than in Canada. The fact is that the outside actual difference is about 5 cents, less than the freight charges obtained for bringing Canadian wheat to Minneapolis or other American markets. There is no tariff between Chicago and Minneapolis, and yet wheat persistently rules higher in Minneapolis than in Chicago. The tariff has nothing to do with the higher price paid in Minneapolis."

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Trawler Lost.

Halifax, May 4.—While approaching Canso harbor Wednesday night in a dense fog, the steam trawler Cambodia struck on Flag Island Point, and is hard and fast.

While running out the anchor after the steamer struck, Mate Simon Sorenson and one of the crew named Paul Thompson were drowned by the sinking of their boat. A third man was picked up by a fishing dory and put off on shore. He escaped by jumping clear as the boat went down.

The Cambodia is one of the largest type of steam trawlers belonging to Grimsby, England, and is commanded by Capt. Oleson, an experienced trawler. She has been fishing on this side only a few weeks, with but fair success. It is not known yet what may be the chances of floating the vessel.

The bodies of the two men have not been recovered.

Removing the Maine.

Havana, Aug. 4—The work of removing the wreck of the battleship Maine entered an exceedingly interesting and important phase yesterday afternoon when the process of dissecting the shattered and distorted remains of the vessel by a gas blast apparatus was begun.

The work was begun on the highest part of the wreckage above the central superstructure, which at the present rate of progress will be entirely cut away in a few days, greatly facilitating the exploration of the hull. Afterwards the wreckage of the forward section will be removed. The stern section of the vessel, however, will not be touched by the gas blasters pending the settlement of the question whether there is a possibility of placing a bulkhead in it and floating it out of the cofferdam.

Republicans Alarmed.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 4.—Alarmed over the possibility of an attempt to pass the wool tariff revision bill over the anticipated veto of President Taft, the regular Republican leaders of the Senate yesterday set about to bring all the absent Republican Senators to the city before next week.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday refused to accept the farmers' free list tariff bill as amended by the Senate and instructed Chairman Underwood to move that the House nonconcur and ask a conference with the Senate.

"I have not the slightest doubt we can come to an agreement on the bill in conference," said Mr. Underwood.

TRIED TWO DOCTORS WITH NO BENEFIT

Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Wrought a Lasting Cure

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made so many remarkable cures in serious cases that people are liable to overlook their value as a tonic for the blood and nerves in debility and general run-down conditions. That such conditions are the cause of much misery and unhappiness is fully known to those who suffer from them, and the need of curing them is as vital as is relief from diseases with higher sounding names. We commend the following statement to any one suffering from weak, thin blood, or shattered nerves. Mrs. Mae Macalm, Gleichen, Alta., says: "A few years ago I became run down, not seriously ill, but just tired and weak all the time. I consulted our family doctor, who gave me tonic after tonic with no effect. I gradually got weaker and weaker until I could not do my work. Then I went to another doctor, who pronounced my case one of decline, and recommended a warmer climate with complete rest. This I could not afford and I began to worry and fret, until I became a complete nervous wreck. One day while visiting a neighbor an old gentleman who was taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for partial paralysis recommended them to me. I sent out and got three boxes, but without much faith that they would help me, but before they were gone I noticed an improvement, and I continued taking the Pills, constantly growing stronger, until I had taken seven or eight boxes, when I was completely cured. I could do my work as easily as ever I had done in my life, and the doctor told me that he could scarcely believe the change in me, as he had not had the least hope that I would be strong again. Now I always keep the Pills on hand, and if I feel fatigued or weaker take them for three or four days so as not to get run down."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FARM AND FIELD

THE UPKEEP OF THE SOIL.

Results of Ten Years' Experiments Successful.

Experiments have recently demonstrated the virtues of phosphorus in striking fashion. In Ohio ten-year tests have shown that a phosphorus fertilizer accompanying manures would practically double the yields of corn, wheat or hay as compared with lands where no fertilizer was used. In another instance the average yield of corn was increased nine bushels an acre when raw rock phosphate was used during the previous four or five years.

A rational and practical method of maintaining soil fertility is being rapidly established by the soil chemist and bacteriologist. It involves the use of mineral fertilizers to meet the present deficit, accompanied by proper soil management to encourage the growth of the desirable forms of germ life. Nitrogen may be supplied by growing leguminous crops or by the addition of manures from livestock. A supply of potash, if needed, may be furnished in the form of a mineral fertilizer, kainit, or, on limited areas, in wood ashes, or more concentrated forms, such as potassium chloride. Phosphorus may be supplied at a minimum cost through raw rock phosphate or other commercial forms.

The soil must be kept sweet by liming and through drainage. Proper tillage, frequent but not deep soils—will aid. The countryman may invoke the counsel of the chemist, but should test general principles by local trial before applying them on a commercial scale. Above all, the true countryman will not be niggardly with his soil, but will liberally replenish the stores from which he expects an abundant return.

AUTHORITIES REPORT ON CROP.

Prospects Good in Canada.

The seeding and growing season for the whole of Canada has opened late this year, and the month of April has been marked by hard frosts. But May has been favorable to cultivation of the land, and the rainfall has been sufficient for healthy vegetation.

Fall wheat, which is grown chiefly in Ontario and Alberta, showed an average condition of 82 per cent. at the end of April, being 89 per cent. in Alberta and 81 per cent. in Ontario. In Ontario, however, the April frosts were destructive in some regions; and from 12 to 34 per cent. of the area sown has been reported as winter-killed. The central countries, North of Lake Ontario, suffered worst, the average loss as reported being 34 per cent. In the Western counties 27 per cent. of the area in crop has been destroyed. In the Southern counties, North of lake Erie, the loss is 10 per cent.; in the Northern counties and districts, 12.6 per cent.; and in the Eastern counties, between the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers, 15 per cent. For the whole of Canada, the area winter-killed is reported to be 21 per cent., and the per cent condition of the growing crop is 82.

About 12 1-2 per cent of the clover was heaved out by the spring frosts, and the average condition of hay and clover at the end of April was 83 per cent. Alberta shows better than any other part of Canada, its average being 94 1-2 per cent. Nova Scotia comes next, with 93.75; and in Quebec, British Columbia and Saskatchewan it is 86, and in Manitoba 85 per cent.

CANADA BREAD CO. ORGANIZED; MILLION LOAVES PER WEEK

Arrangements Concluded for Amalgamation of Big Bread Factories—Mark Bredin Will be General Manager—Board of Directors Announced.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Mr. Cawthra Mulock at the close of a meeting held here to-day of the principal interests, announced that all arrangements had been concluded for the organization of the Canada Bread Company, Limited, the new all-Canadian company, which will, at the outset, have large bread manufacturing plants in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, and will forthwith proceed with the erection of plants in the other large cities in Canada.

Mr. Mulock stated that included in the new company were five of the largest bread manufacturing companies of Canada, and that the services of all the most successful bread manufacturers were being assured to the new company. Among the companies taken over were the Bredin Bread Co., of Toronto; Stuarts, Limited, Montreal; George Weston, Limited, Toronto, known as the Model Bakery; W. J. Boyd, Winnipeg; T. C. Tomlin, of Toronto, known as the Toronto Bakery Company. It was the intention of the company, by extending the present plants and erecting new large plants in Montreal and Winnipeg, to increase the output of the company's plants, as quickly as possible, to 1,000,000 loaves of bread per week, giving an annual output of approximately 50,000,000 loaves. Mr. Mark Bredin, head of the Bredin Co., and regarded as perhaps the most successful bread manufacturer that Canada has yet had, will be general manager of the new company. The company is being placed in a strong financial position by having, at the outset, $,1000,000 cash in the treasury, to provide for the erection of the proposed new plants and extensions and supply ample working capital. The board of directors of the new company is as follows:

Cawthra Mulock, Toronto, President, Director of the Imperial Bank of Canada; Director Confederation Life Association, Mark Bredin, Toronto, General Manager, President Bredin Bread Co., Ltd.; George Weston, Toronto, President George Weston, Ltd., Model Bakery; H. C. Tomlin, Toronto, Toronto Bakery Co; W. J. Boyd, Winnipeg, Boyd's Bakery, Alf. Johnston, Toronto, of W. R Johnston & Co, wholesale clothing; A. Laschinger, Toronto, Secretary, formerly assistant Deputy Postmaster of Canada.

When seen by your correspondent to-day Mr. Mark Bredin, the general manager, pointed out that the new bread company with its modern, up-to-date plants, would be in a position to turn out a more uniform and better grade of bread, while the systematizing of the distribution will insure to the company the saving of enormous sums that are now being wasted, owing to the customers of the different bakeries being very largely spread over all section of city,

Several of the numbers made a big hit, and the band kindly replied to calls for encores to a couple of the favorite selections, including "Every Little Movement."

KICKS FOLLOW USE OF OIL

Galt Citizens Object to the Odor From Dust Killer

The Galt Reporter says: With 1,200 of our citizens out of town yesterday the Board of Works got busy with its watering carts and started to disfigure our streets again with that dirty oil. The work was not all completed yesterday afternoon and the cart was busy last night.

Two cars of oil arrived yesterday and this time with such a large quantity on hand it was thought best to put it on so it would run.

The Reformer has heard dozens of complaints this morning about the dirty oil, and we have yet to hear any person praise it. Ask the bicycle riders how they like the oil. Ask the auto owners their opinion, ask liverymen or ask any person who owns a horse, and everyone condemns it. One man wanted to know where the Board of Health was. His contention is that if there was half as bad a smell around his place they would have him up. Can anyone come out and say that it is healthy? We prefer the fresh air and dusty road, in the country to such abominable muck. They say have a little patience until it dries. We think the cure is worse than the disease.

Did you see the wheelmen carrying their wheels across the road? Nice clean sidewalks, nice clean store floors everything nice and clean in Galt!

The oil last night was responsible for an accident in front of the post office. Mr. John Stevens was coming down Water Street in his automobile when the machine skidded and ran into the post office building, smashing a bicycle which was standing against the building. The automobile was not damaged.

LINDSAY'S BRIDGE

Some time ago Clerk Ray under instructions from the town council communicated with Superintendent McClellan, of Peterborough, re having some kind of a railing or gate erected at the east end of the new bascule bridge on Wellington street. Sup. McClellan replied that nothing could be done in the matter as the Government would be establishing a bad precedent. However, a Warder man learned this morning that Inspector J. McKay, of Peterborough, and Mr. John O. Moss, were in town for the purpose of improving and making secure the anchor bolts of the bridge. Furthermore, it was intimated that an automatic railway was to be erected at the east end of the bridge, and that plans were being made for the same.—Lindsay Warder.

TOGO RIDES IN ENGINE.

Famous Japanese Admiral Sees Sights of New York.

New York, Aug. 5.—Admiral Togo left New York late yesterday afternoon for Washington. His departure had a feature quite as unusual as his midnight arrival and welcome in New York bay Thursday night, for he left the city in the cab of a big electric engine drawing a heavy train for the capital city.

Although the luxurious car Olivette, which the Government had provided for the distinguished guest while in this country was attached to the train, the naval hero elected to sit by the engineer's side and watch him operate the 40,000 horsepower motor.

"I am intensely interested in your preeminence in electric engineering and railroading," the admiral said through his interpreter, "and I wish to avail myself of this opportunity to closely observe both. Therefore, I will ride with the engineer."

The admiral rode in the cab to the limit of the electric zone at Harrison, N.J., and there entered his car. He asked many questions of the engineer concerning the electric equipment. In fact, it was remarked that he displayed more interest in this incident of his visit than in anything previously.

During his fourteen hours' stay in the city, Admiral Togo had many conflicting experiences, but there was not the least change in his almost blank countenance. He was not seen to smile, nor to frown, although he had much occasion to do the latter. He was entirely impassive so far as his countenance might reveal his emotion.

Once when an over-zealous photographer for whom he had graciously consented to pose, roughly shoved his head to one side with a "Don't hold your head so stiffly," he evinced no displeasure. Again, when the photographers became involved in a quarrel in his presence as to preference for camera position, he looked on without changing his expression, even while Chandler Hale, third assistant secretary of State, and official representative of the Government, in entertaining the admiral, ejected the photographers.

LIVES IN PERIL.

S. A. Landers Protests Against Danger From Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—S. A. Landers, secretary of the United Garment Workers of America, went before the Board of Control yesterday to protest against the lack of fire protection in factories where garment workers are employed.

Mr. Landers stated that there were many glaring cases of inadequate protection and gave a list of factories where the lives of hundreds of women and children workers are in jeopardy. This list included not only old establishments, but several buildings newly erected, with fine business fronts, which Mr. Landers declares are little more than fire traps.

He mentioned a number of factories where he declares the laws are winked at. One in particular had 500 women and girls working on the sixth floor, with no fire escapes, and only one exit.

Mr. Landers' statements were followed with great interest by the Board of Control and the building inspector and fire chief will be instructed to take immediate action.

No Black Rust In Manitoba.

Montreal, Aug. 5. G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the C.P.R. yesterday wired W. M. Lanigan, assistant freight agent of western lines, Winnipeg, as follows: "Any truth in newspaper reports this morning regarding black rust in Manitoba?"

To which Mr. Lanigan replied: "No truth in newspaper reports of black rust in Manitoba."

Washout Near Guelph.

Guelph, Aug. 5.—A cloud burst, which occurred shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday night, caused a washout on the Grand Trunk six miles north of this city. Water filled the ditches to four feet in depth, and lay right over the rails. The temporary fill-in required three hours' work before traffic could be resumed. Passengers assisted with shovels.

DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off — Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes as naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

COLONIES TO BE CONSULTED

Arbitration Treaty to be Referred to Dominions.

First Complete Text of Compact Published.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Senate on Saturday adopted the rather unusual but not unprecedented course of making public the text of four treaties which have not yet received action at its hands. These were the Anglo-American and the Franco-American general arbitration treaties and the treaties providing for the adjustment of the finances and customs of Honduras and Nicaragua.

Publicity was given to these important conventions at the request of the administration, which desires that the subject matter shall receive the fullest consideration by the press and the people, in order to enlighten the Senate as to the real sentiment of the country as a basis of its own action.

Some justification for this procedure developed Saturday, when in the course of a short executive session two Senators of opposite parties, Borah of Idaho and Bacon of Georgia, voiced their dissent from the conclusion of arbitration treaties in the form submitted. Their criticism was aimed at article 3 (identical in the two treaties), which, in their opinion, provides for compulsory arbitration, and thus tends to deprive the United States Senate of its constitutional prerogatives.

The treaty advocates, however, felt that there had been a misunderstanding of the scope of the treaty by the two Senators named, and that a clause in article 1 of the treaties, which provides that there shall be no arbitration except under the terms of a special agreement, effectively guards the rights of the Senate, as such special agreement must receive the Senate's sanction in order to become operative.

The British and French treaties are substantially the same with the exception of the preambles, some small differences in dates of existing treaties referred to therein, and some of the differences between the treaty-making methods of the two Governments. One important provision in the British treaty requires the British Government to obtain the concurrence of any of its self-governing dominions affected by the proposed arbitration.

In view of their importance it is intimated that a motion may be made to ratify them in open Senate, an almost unprecedented procedure.

The preamble, after reciting the fact that all outstandnig differences between Great Britain and the United States have been settled by arbitration since the treaty of Ghent, goes on to state that it has been found desirable to extend the scope of the arbitration treaty of 1908. The treaty, which is practically the same in both cases, reads:

Article 1.—All differences hereafter arising between the high contracting parties, which it has not been possible to adjust by diplomacy, relating to international matters in which the high contracting parties are concerned by virtue of a claim of right made by one against the other, under treaty or otherwise, and which are justifiable in their nature by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity, shall be submitted to the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague by the convention of Oct. 18, 1907, or to some other tribunal as may be decided in each case by special agreement, which special agreement shall provide for the organization of such tribunal if necessary, define the scope of the powers of the arbitrators, the question or questions at issue, and settle the terms of reference and the procedure thereunder.

The provisions of articles 37 to 90, inclusive of the convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes concluded at the second peace conference at The Hague, on Oct. 18, 1907, so far as applicable, and unless they are inconsistent with or modified by the provisions of the special agreement, to be concluded in each case and excepting articles 53 and 54 of such convention, shall govern the arbitration proceedings to be taken under this treaty.

The special agreement in each case shall be made on the part of the United States by the President of the United States, and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, his Majesty's Government reserving the right before concluding a special agreement in any manner affecting the interests of a self-governing dominion of the British Empire, to obtain the concurrence therein of the Government of that dominion.

BRITISHER ARRESTED

On The Suspicion of Being a Spy

Special to the Review.

Bremen, Germany, Aug. 7 — An Englishman was arrested here to-day on suspicion of being a spy. The authorities decline to divulge any information.

The horses driven by Henry Campbell, a farm hand of Adelaide township, became frightened and Campbell was thrown from the rig and seriously injured.

STRATTON'S FRANTIC FUMES

Well, the mud-slinging has begun earlier in this campaign than usual. The Examiner starts in on the same day that J. R. Stratton calls his jelly-fish followers together, and tells them that he has decided to run again, with or without their leave. The Liberals of the riding sit in supine silence while the boss manipulator turns the crank of the merry-go-round.

Judging by the speed with which the Examiner gets into the effort to try and break the apparent alliance between J. H. Burnham and the Protestants of the riding, it and its boss are mightily afraid of the result of the issue. There can be no other conclusion drawn. At the convention Stratton announced that he could stand defeat once in a while. Was this an admission of what was running in his mind? Unless he foresaw the handwriting on the wall, why did he scurry to Ottawa to plead that his 25 years of mucking on behalf of the Grits entitled him to a senatorship in the event of a defeat?

Why was there no candidate nominated for the Ontario house on Saturday? Did J. R. Stratton want that left open so that in the event of Laurier being defeated, as well as himself, he will still have a chance to "run" for something? It would be indeed a fine irony of fate that would bring him back to the scene of the wreck he made of the Ross government, and that forced him into private life for a season, until the storm blew over, and he could again put his brazen head up among his fellows. Any man of ordinary moral decent calibre would have stayed out of sight. Not so J. R. Stratton.

The Examiner makes a puerile exhibition of itself in its maudlin effort to drag Henri Bourassa into the arena of West Peterborough politics. Mr. Borden is attacked fiercely by Bourassa in his election manifesto, equally with Sir Wilfred Laurier. If there is no connection, no sympathy, nothing but antagonism between Bourassa and Borden, in what way can Burnham and Bourassa be "bracketed?" The intelligent reader will have no difficulty in classifying this rot as coming from the Examiner. This is but a sample of the rubbish stored up there.

They say in Quebec that Bourassa is the paid agent of the church, and that his young lieutenant, Armand Lavergne, is also manipulated by the hierarchy. Why? Because Bourassa and Lavergne are appealing to the Quebec electors on a fiercely Roman Catholic, Frenchified platform. They are opposed to the "Orangistes," to the British, to the aims of Protestant Canada. Because Bourassa sees the evils of Laurierism, and seeks to complete the promised downfall of the idol of Quebec, does not mean that British Canadians must not also vote against Laurierism. The spectre of Bourassaism has frightened the Laurierites into spasms. It need not concern British Canadians at present their duty is plain. Laurierism must end in Canada. A vote for Burnham is a vote for a British premier and a British administration.

The Stratton organ in publishing such a piece of rot is merely placarding on the wall the utter hopelessness in the Liberal camp. As a campaign spectre, Bourassa is a joke to West Peterborough people. This effort to attack the Protestants of the riding by the Stratton organ is in keeping with the policy that has resulted in the present situation. It should not be a red herring across the trail that so many Liberals and Conservatives will follow on September 21, in their pursuit of the scalp of Stratton and Laurier; much as the organ would like to head off the discussion of the Farmers Bank affairs, and the trial of J. R. Stratton that is set for September. Hundreds of good Liberal votes are going to J. H. Burnham this election, and the Examiner's and J. R. Stratton's fright is well founded.

LABOR MINISTER KING USES WEST AGAINST THE EAST CRY

Eastern Canada Will Suffer Unless the West Gets Reciprocity, He Says—Meeting at Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, delivered the opening Ministerial address of the reciprocity campaign before a large audience in King's Hall in this town on Saturday night.

The speaker's arguments on the trade compact, which were followed with close attention, chiefly of the "wide market" variety and he argued that the scheme would help the railways. He expressed full confidence in the result of the election and based his belief in reciprocity largely on the argument that the output of the west would deluge the east, if no outlet were found for it.

The Minister of Labor recalled that he was asking for their suffrage for the third time in three years, and, judging by the manner in which the audience received this declaration, his appeal for a return to Parliament will be responded to by the hearty endorsation of the majority of his constituents.

Some of the Labor Ministers outstanding sentences were:

"You can pass by this opportunity to secure a wider market and it may never come again.

"The United States gives us a market of 90,000,000 people and a protected market. It gives that chance solely to Canada.

"The arrangement will increase transportation business and commerce, and help every man in this community.

"Never before did a Government go out with so great a sense of victory as at the present time.

"If they do not get a chance to export to the United States, the great wheat and cattle-growing areas of the west will have to export somewhere. The first thing we shall know their products will come down to Ontario, congest our markets, and depress trade. We must look to the future and take the chance now when the opportunity comes.

"As one who believes in bringing down the cost of living to the masses, I am prepared to support that agreement.

"I am ready with you to fight anything that comes along."

Mr. Arthur Pequegnat occupied the chair, and prominent among the supporters of Mr. King present were: Mr. E. J. Stuebing, president of the Laurier Club; Mr. H. J. Sims, vice-president of the North Waterloo Reform Association; Mr. C. M. Bezzo, vice-president of the Laurier Club; Mr. John Moffat and Mr. H. J. Bowman.

From the Minneapolis Northwestern Agriculturist.

It is not at all necessary to be a prophet to foretell that if commercial annexation (called reciprocity) becomes a fact, by the passage of the bill now pending, political annexation within the next decade, at least of Western Canada, will be inevitable. We shall then favor annexation, for our farmers would then have nothing more to lose and have something gain, through, bringing Canadians in to bear their fair share of national burdens for the support of our government and the development of American institutions.

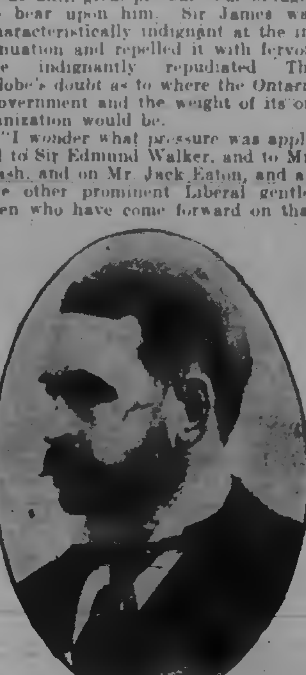
SIR JAMES WHITNEY SAYS HE STRONGLY OPPOSES THE PACT

Mr. Borden Unable to be Present at the Toronto Picnic—Ontario Premier Joins in the Political Fight—Laurierism Must End.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—While an attendance of 3,000 testified to the interest felt in the Osler-Macdonell rally on Saturday in spite of the sultry weather and the absence of R. L. Borden, who had expected to be present, the importance of the demonstration consisted quite as much or more in what was said as in the attendance.

Sir James Whitney placed himself on record in reply to the twin "exponents of high political morality, The Globe and The Star, who had taunted him with being unable to make up his mind to take sides on the reciprocity issue until great pressure was brought to bear upon him. Sir James was characteristically indignant at the insinuation and repelled it with fervor. He indignantly repudiated The Globe's doubt as to where the Ontario Government and the weight of its organization would be.

"I wonder what pressure was applied to Sir Edmund Walker, and to Mr. Lash, and on Mr. Jack Eaton, and all the other prominent Liberal gentlemen who have come forward on that side and repudiated this policy. I presume it was the pressure that every man feels as a patriot when the call comes to take a stand for the sake of the country and the Empire.



SIR JAMES WHITNEY.

"It would be a waste of time," concluded the Premier, "for me to tell you what to do. I know what you are going to do. In reverential dependence on the providence which has guided us so far, we will go on, as far as we may, to lay the foundations of British institutions deep and strong in British America. Why? Because wherever those foundations are laid, humanity has been for ever the gainer. We will cling to our British traditions and to our British connection over the seas. And, please God, 'What we have we'll hold'." (Loud cheers.)

Sir James Whitney's speech was the important utterance of the gathering, but much interest attached also to the addresses of W. F. Maclean, whose reception was particularly hearty and prolonged; George E. Foster, whose voice showed strain, but whose incisive periods won many plaudits, and E. B. Osler, who was equally well received.

Ex-Ald. Whytock took the chair and was admirable in the post, merely calling on the speakers. Besides all the late M.P.'s and the members of the Legislature, there were W. R. Smyth, Algoma; A. C. Boyce, Uriah Wilson, Dr. Godfrey, George Clare, Controller Hocken, ex-Ald. McGhie, Col. Belcher, Southampton; James Arthurs, Parry Sound; Ald. McCausland, John Laxton, George Pattinson, M.P.P., ex-Controller Hubbard, Mayor Geary, Ald. McBrien, and a host of local politicians. Major Currie arrived late and spoke at the close.

Major Currie called for cheers for the chairman, for the Toronto Conservative candidates, for Sir James Whitney, for R. L. Borden, and for the King. The proceedings terminated at 5.30 with the Maple Leaf and the National Anthem from the band.

Gordon Wilson Will Run.

Hamilton, Aug. 7.—Gordon Wilson, M.P.P. for North Wentworth, will contest Wentworth County seat in the Federal Parliament, with W. N. Sealey, the present Liberal member. The Conservative nomination was offered to Mr. Wilson last week, but he was not then in a position either to accept or decline the offer.

On Saturday, however, he had an interview with Sir James Whitney in regard to resigning his seat in the Provincial Assembly, and yesterday stated that he had decided to make the race against Mr. Sealey.

He said the entire responsibility for favoring the sale had been his, although the Attorney-General acquiesced afterward. COLONIES TO BE CONSULTED Arbitration Treaty to be Referred to Dominions.

First Complete Text of Compact Published.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Senate on Saturday adopted the rather unusual but not unprecedented course of making public the text of four treaties which have not yet received action at its hands. These were the Anglo-American and the Franco-American general arbitration treaties and the treaties providing for the adjustment of the finances and customs of Honduras and Nicaragua.

Publicity was given to these important conventions at the request of the administration, which desires that the subject matter shall receive the fullest consideration by the press and the people, in order to enlighten the Senate as to the real sentiment of the country as a basis of its own action.

Some justification for this procedure developed Saturday, when in the course of a short executive session two Senators of opposite parties, Borah of Idaho and Bacon of Georgia, voiced their dissent from the conclusion of arbitration treaties in the form submitted. Their criticism was aimed at article 3 (identical in the two treaties), which, in their opinion, provides for compulsory arbitration, and thus tends to deprive the United States Senate of its constitutional prerogatives.

The treaty advocates, however, felt that there had been a misunderstanding of the scope of the treaty by the two Senators named, and that a clause in article 1 of the treaties, which provides that there shall be no arbitration except under the terms of a special agreement, effectively guards the rights of the Senate, as such special agreement must receive the Senate's sanction in order to become operative.

The British and French treaties are substantially the same with the exception of the preambles, some small differences in dates of existing treaties referred to therein, and some of the differences between the treaty-making methods of the two Governments. One important provision in the British treaty requires the British Government to obtain the concurrence of any of its self-governing dominions affected by the proposed arbitration.

In view of their importance it is intimated that a motion may be made to ratify them in open Senate, an almost unprecedented procedure.

The preamble, after reciting the fact that all outstandnig differences between Great Britain and the United States have been settled by arbitration since the treaty of Ghent, goes on to state that it has been found desirable to extend the scope of the arbitration treaty of 1908. The treaty, which is practically the same in both cases, reads:

Article 1.—All differences hereafter arising between the high contracting parties, which it has not been possible to adjust by diplomacy, relating to international matters in which the high contracting parties are concerned by virtue of a claim of right made by one against the other, under treaty or otherwise, and which are justifiable in their nature by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity, shall be submitted to the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague by the convention of Oct. 18, 1907, or to some other tribunal as may be decided in each case by special agreement, which special agreement shall provide for the organization of such tribunal if necessary, define the scope of the powers of the arbitrators, the question or questions at issue, and settle the terms of reference and the procedure thereunder.

The provisions of articles 37 to 90, inclusive of the convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes concluded at the second peace conference at The Hague, on Oct. 18, 1907, so far as applicable, and unless they are inconsistent with or modified by the provisions of the special agreement, to be concluded in each case and excepting articles 53 and 54 of such convention, shall govern the arbitration proceedings to be taken under this treaty.

The special agreement in each case shall be made on the part of the United States by the President of the United States, and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, his Majesty's Government reserving the right before concluding a special agreement in any manner affecting the interests of a self-governing dominion of the British Empire, to obtain the concurrence therein of the Government of that dominion.

STRATTON'S FRANTIC FUMES

Well, the mud-slinging has begun earlier in this campaign than usual. The Examiner starts in on the same day that J. R. Stratton calls his jelly-fish followers together, and tells them that he has decided to run again, with or without their leave. The Liberals of the riding sit in supine silence while the boss manipulator turns the crank of the merry-go-round.

Judging by the speed with which the Examiner gets into the effort to try and break the apparent alliance between J. H. Burnham and the Protestants of the riding, it and its boss are mightily afraid of the result of the issue. There can be no other conclusion drawn. At the convention Stratton announced that he could stand defeat once in a while. Was this an admission of what was running in his mind? Unless he foresaw the handwriting on the wall, why did he scurry to Ottawa to plead that his 25 years of mucking on behalf of the Grits entitled him to a senatorship in the event of a defeat?

Why was there no candidate nominated for the Ontario house on Saturday? Did J. R. Stratton want that left open so that in the event of Laurier being defeated, as well as himself, he will still have a chance to "run" for something? It would be indeed a fine irony of fate that would bring him back to the scene of the wreck he made of the Ross government, and that forced him into private life for a season, until the storm blew over, and he could again put his brazen head up among his fellows. Any man of ordinary moral decent calibre would have stayed out of sight. Not so J. R. Stratton.

The Examiner makes a puerile exhibition of itself in its maudlin effort to drag Henri Bourassa into the arena of West Peterborough politics. Mr. Borden is attacked fiercely by Bourassa in his election manifesto, equally with Sir Wilfred Laurier. If there is no connection, no sympathy, nothing but antagonism between Bourassa and Borden, in what way can Burnham and Bourassa be "bracketed?" The intelligent reader will have no difficulty in classifying this rot as coming from the Examiner. This is but a sample of the rubbish stored up there.

They say in Quebec that Bourassa is the paid agent of the church, and that his young lieutenant, Armand Lavergne, is also manipulated by the hierarchy. Why? Because Bourassa and Lavergne are appealing to the Quebec electors on a fiercely Roman Catholic, Frenchified platform. They are opposed to the "Orangistes," to the British, to the aims of Protestant Canada. Because Bourassa sees the evils of Laurierism, and seeks to complete the promised downfall of the idol of Quebec, does not mean that British Canadians must not also vote against Laurierism. The spectre of Bourassaism has frightened the Laurierites into spasms. It need not concern British Canadians at present—their duty is plain. Laurierism must end in Canada. A vote for Burnham is a vote for a British premier and a British administration.

The Stratton organ in publishing such a piece of rot is merely placarding on the wall the utter hopelessness in the Liberal camp. As a campaign spectre, Bourassa is a joke to West Peterborough people. This effort to attack the Protestants of the riding by the Stratton organ is in keeping with the policy that has resulted in the present situation. It should not be a red herring across the trail that so many Liberals and Conservatives will follow on September 21, in their pursuit of the scalp of Stratton and Laurier; much as the organ would like to head off the discussion of the Farmers Bank affairs, and the trial of J. R. Stratton that is set for September. Hundreds of good Liberal votes are going to J. H. Burnham this election, and the Examiner's and J. R. Stratton's fright is well founded.

LABOR MINISTER KING USES WEST AGAINST THE EAST CRY

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, delivered the opening Ministerial address of the reciprocity campaign before a large audience in King's Hall in this town on Saturday night.

The speaker's arguments on the trade compact, which were followed with close attention, chiefly of the "wide market" variety and he argued that the scheme would help the railways. He expressed full confidence in the result of the election and based his belief in reciprocity largely on the argument that the output of the west would deluge the east, if no outlet were found for it.

The Minister of Labor recalled that he was asking for their suffrage for the third time in three years, and, judging by the manner in which the audience received this declaration, his appeal for a return to Parliament will be responded to by the hearty endorsation of the majority of his constituents.

Some of the Labor Ministers outstanding sentences were:

"You can pass by this opportunity to secure a wider market and it may never come again.

"The United States gives us a market of 90,000,000 people and a protected market. It gives that chance solely to Canada.

"The arrangement will increase transportation, business and commerce, and help every man in this community.

"Never before did a Government go out with so great a sense of victory as at the present time.

"If they do not get a chance to export to the United States, the great wheat and cattle-growing areas of the west will have to export somewhere. The first thing we shall know their products will come down to Ontario, congest our markets, and depress trade. We must look to the future and take the chance now when the opportunity comes.

"As one who believes in bringing down the cost of living to the masses, I am prepared to support that agreement.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause, Rush of Blood, Fullness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver, and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Daily Review

MONDAY, AUG. 7, 1911.

A THIN DISGUISE

The New York Journal is a Hearst newspaper, and the Hearst papers were specially thanked by President Taft for their great fight for reciprocity. The Journal, of which Arthur Brisbane, its editor, in thinly disguised phrases, foretells the peaceful union of Canada and the United States when reciprocity shall have worked its leaven, and conditions are ripe. The Journal says,

"We have many things that Canadians want, and they have many things that we want. We look forward to the day when this whole North American Continent will be one great nation, as it should be.

"But we do not suggest 'Annexing' Canada—that would be impertinent and impossible, except as the result of conflict abhorrent to every decent man. We have in our hearts no thought of annexing Canada or of committing any national theft—but we should be very glad and very proud, if one day Canada would kindly annex us. In other words, Canada, when she is ready, can step into the great well known firm of U. S. & Co. and take her place as a full partner, and a very welcome partner. It would be like taking an admirable first-class young business man into a big first-class firm—the transaction equally honorable to both partners.

"United or separate we want to be friends with our northern neighbors. We want to tear down tariff and other barriers as rapidly as we can, and to make of this great northern continent at least a united commercial whole, while hoping that it will ultimately become—through good will and confidence on both sides—a political unit of free men."

NOT THE ONLY ONE

It is already evident that the Liberals are going to try to escape from the discussion of record of the Laurier government's carnival of graft and corruption by making reciprocity a red herring across the trail. They claim that as the government dissolved the house on this question, this is the one issue before the people.

It is true that reciprocity is a great issue before the people, and should be given great prominence. But this is a general election just the same, and the Laurier government is on trial before the tribunal of the people just the same. The government must answer to the people for its misdeeds at any election, and this one is no exception; in fact, so great has been the era of boodling at Ottawa that it seems a shame that reciprocity—on which opinion might honestly divide—may prevent a wholesale condemnation of Pugsleyism by the decent electors of the Dominion.

But it is the duty of the opposition to discuss not only the reciprocity part to the fullest, with its peculiar and significant national effects, but every other ground for complaint against the government. Before the campaign is over, the Liberals will have enough reciprocity to make them welcome, even being confronted by the Laurier graft record, which it will be noticed the Liberal newspapers avoid reference to. Reciprocity is the big question, but it is not the only one, and when electing a government for another five years, questions of domestic policy must be considered.

LIBERALS SUPPORT BORDEN

It seems rather strange that Toronto commission men should be foes of reciprocity—some of them men who have never cast a Conservative vote in their life. They are opposed to reciprocity so strongly that they all say that their votes and influence are going for Mr. Borden, though at first sight one would imagine that they, of all men, would be strongly in favor of the pact, since they could import American fruit and farm products at very much lower prices than the same articles cost when bought from Ontario farmers.

But they are strongly opposed, and they say that it will hurt Ontario farm business considerably if the pact is put into effect. Rutherford, Marshall & Co., who handle honey in Toronto, say that they have been offered the finest amber honey from Ogden, Utah at 6 1/2 to 7 cents a pound, cans and crates included, while the Ontario apiarist receives from 10 to 11 cents a pound. Utah honey would put the Ontario bee-man out of business in no time, the commission men say. And this has led the firm of Rutherford, Marshall & Co. to send out postcards to their customers and friends, reading as follows:

"IMPORTANT TO APIARISTS."

"Do you know, this fact, if reciprocity carries, extracted honey will be bought much cheaper! We are offered mild, white honey at seven cents a pound in the United States. Just before the bill passed on the other side we bought, in Ontario, a carload of fancy clover from nine to ten cents a pound. Quite a difference! It not only applies to honey, but to everything in the produce and provision line—prices will be lower. We always voted Reform, but not for Reciprocity on September 21st, 1911.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Laurier and Taft and Take us in.

Laurier and larger markets for the Americans.

The West Peterborough Liberals did not have any delegates, so there was no chance of having seventeen ballots over. Wise precaution.

And the Liberal chairman didn't even call for nominations. The machine must have been recently greased. It is working so smoothly.

It is not much wonder that the Liberals want reciprocity when they have such fine sheep in the party as were exhibited on Saturday afternoon.

J. R. Stratton says that the issue in the present campaign in West Peterborough will not be reciprocity, but the Farmers' Bank. Well, with a chief issue like that there should be no doubt as to the clearness and emphasis of the electors' reply.

Of the Liberal rank and file who thought they were selecting a candidate, instead of being selected, it might appropriately be said

Their's not to reason why
Their's but to say Aye, Aye,
Their's but to cheer or die
Noble two hundred.

The Liberal slogan in the east is "Let the farmer have his turn," which seems to suppose that the workingman and the business man and the manufacturer have had their turn. But the farmer seems to have prospered equally well with the remainder of the people of Canada. In fact, there is a movement in some of the cities in favor of reciprocity because it will give the workingman his turn against the farmer, and the high cost of living. If reciprocity brings lower prices for foodstuffs in Canada, as the opening of our markets to the production of 30,000,000 farmers promises to do, will not the Canadian farmer "have his turn," then!

Census Takers' Pay.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The Department of Agriculture yesterday afternoon issued checks to the census enumerators throughout the country where the original accounts have been corrected. It was decided after completion of the enumeration to withhold ten per cent. on all checks until accounts had been examined and found correct. Many of the enumerators have been awaiting their pay for some weeks. In Ottawa those who covered one section of the city were paid in full, but the money of the others was held up, much dissatisfaction arising as a result.

Dutton Foundry Burned.

St. Thomas, Aug. 6.—The foundry at Dutton belonging to F. Small was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. It was on fire Thursday afternoon but the flames were supposed to have been extinguished.

Hon. Joseph Chamberlain has been elected vice-president of the Royal Colonial Institute.

THE MARKETS

Latest Quotations in Grain Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—A disposition on the part of crop experts to trim down sensational estimates regarding black rust damage had a bearish effect to-day on the market for wheat. Closing prices were ⅛c to ¼c to ½c lower than last night. In corn, the close was ⅛c to ½c decline, and for oats a loss of ⅛c to ¼c. Latest figures on hog products varied from 5c off to 1½c up.

The Liverpool market was closed to-day, bank holiday. The Berlin market closed ½c higher than yesterday on wheat. Buda Pest, 1½c higher.

Trouble For G.T.R.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The machinists in the employ of the Grand Trunk have demanded a new agreement with the road, the old one having expired some time ago. Failing to get a new agreement voluntarily, the men will adopt means to compel the company to grant them one.

They opened negotiations with the road some time ago, but at first got little satisfaction. They then went to the department of labor and made application for a board of arbitration. Later, however, negotiations with the road were renewed, and are now in progress, with fair prospects of terminating successfully. Meanwhile the matter of appointing a board of arbitration will be held in abeyance.

That Flag Episode.

London, Ont., Aug. 7.—James Weldon, secretary of the Old Boys' Reunion, received telegrams Saturday from both the Chicago and Detroit London Old Boys' Associations expressing great indignation at the removal of the stars and stripes from the street decorations.

Since the removal of the flags by the committee it is noticeable that private citizens are taking pains to use the American flag in their decorations.

Pressmen In Calgary.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 6.—The Buckeye Press Association of Ohio, numbering 175, were in Calgary Saturday. They are the guests of the city to a luncheon and are being taken about town by the Calgary Auto Club—It is expected their trip will result in much advertising for Western Canada.

More Trouble Ahead In Hayti.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Efforts of the diplomatic corps at Port au Prince, Haiti, to form a committee of public safety have failed. U. S. Minister Furniss has reported to the State Department that a conflict between the opposing revolutionary factions seems inevitable.

"Of course a woman can dress on $65 a year," a woman said to her husband scornfully; "if a man wants that sort of a wife."

The Danger of Imitations.

An Ohio druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. His experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine. If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for Children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

so that's the way some immaculate women have of sticking up for tarnished men. It seems to be one of the mysteries of the female mental equipment which is incomprehensible to the male mind. But while I always liked Bruce, we are of somewhat different temperaments. I am not a purist in any sense of the word, but I believe in discretion. Personally I prefer a person who does the indiscreet thing discreetly to one who does the discreet thing indiscreetly. And that is one way in which he and I differ. Neither do I admit that it is hypocrisy on my part—merely discretion. It has always seemed to me that when two people's characters are equal, that whatever advantage the one may have over the other rests with the one who has the better reputation.

Also Bruce was usually up to his ears in trouble of one of two kinds—financial or feminine. But no matter which it was, he always managed to slip through it like an eel through oil. He is a broker by trade. Also he speculates on his own account, and part of the time in floating like a bubble on the top wave of prosperity, and the rest of the time swimming for dear life in the succeeding trough. It was a good deal, as he himself once put it, when he had planned to feed a few of us a week in advance:

"You had better put a sandwich in your pocket, boys, for life is uncertain. As you know, it is turkey with me one day and feathers the next, and you have got to take your chance as to which you will get when you dine with me. But come on just the same. If it is turkey it will be the biggest one in the market, and if it's the other it will be feathers in our caps anyhow."

In spite of yourself, you can't cherish anything against a man like that. I never criticized him to any one save Clare, and only to her incidentally and openly the same as we criticised other things that were in common between us. She understood perfectly that there was no animus back of my words, and I would not have cared particularly if she had told him all I said. As a general proposition she would agree with me, but not always. I remember once when she crushed the rose which she had been caressing into a shapeless pulp with one convulsive squeeze at some careless remark of mine concerning his improvidence.

"Did you ever happen to notice where Bruce's clothes show the first signs of wear?" she asked defiantly. I admitted that I had not.

"Then I will tell you. It is at the flap of his right-hand trouser's pocket where he carries the loose money that he loans and gives away." So you see her action signified nothing except another instinctive desire on her part to fly to his defence and cover his sins of extravagance by the mantle of his charities. And, of course, against sentiment like that logic is useless.

Then, too, when it comes to his little love affairs Bruce is certainly a pachyderm. You could shoot him as full of Cupid's arrows as you could thrust a human pin cushion full of needles, and the result would be the same in each case. An unfortunate affair of the heart affects some people not unlike a mosquito. It annoys them for a few moments, and then another mosquito comes and the first one is forgotten. With others it gets under the skin like a "chigger"—festers and torments and will not be scratched out. And there is where Bruce and I differ again. He is of the first class, while I am of the chigger-bitten variety.

Clare nearly always came to see us upon Sunday afternoons. We would usually hear her whistling as she came up the walk when she was still quite a ways distant. Clare can sing like an angel, but she much prefers to whistle like the devil. She squeaks and trebles and flats, with her lips in a pucker and her chin aslant, and the discord she creates is shocking. But she never gets discouraged, and would rather shrill a few false notes through her puckered lips than open her round throat and let notes pour forth that would drive a prima donna to glaring envy. Into the house she would come by means of her private key with a fife of her lips and a rat-a-tat-tat of her feet on the uncarpeted stairs, until a final hollow thump would announce her arrival at the portals of my uncle's inner sanctuary. Thereupon I would arise to a military "attention" and my uncle to a creaking semblance of uprightness as she threw open the door to reveal herself, sinking to the floor with skirts spread in an exaggerated curtsey of the olden days. Up to uncle she would go with a ridiculous kiss upon the bald spot of his head, and then settle light as a puff-ball in the window seat and commence to chatter. Five minutes of that would put her out of breath, after which she would be content to settle down to ordinary conversation as she sewed on the buttons missing from his garments, or trimmed the edges of his ever-frayed collars. For while Mrs. Tebbets was employed to do all this, Clare always reserved those tasks for herself and jealously insisted upon retaining her prerogatives. Perhaps an hour later, if the weather was fitting, I would manage to catch her eye with a significant glance and would then go down to a rustic seat beneath the big oaks. Presently she would join me.

While I was not really in love with her, neither was I with anybody else. I liked her exceedingly, realised that she would make a well nigh ideal wife, and sometimes used to speak to her about love matters. I would be half in fun and half in earnest.

"Clare," I would say, "you don't seem to care for any men but Bruce and myself, and I can't believe that you and he are in earnest in your brazen flirtations. In the first place, he has no more seriousness about him than a jumping-jack, and in the second I cannot conceive of a girl with your ideals loving a man of his peculiar financial practices and alley-cat habits. Outside of his more or less respectable club, he has no more fixed place of abode than has a balloon, and I don't believe he would be any more content to settle down than one."

She would toss her head. "That is because the poor fellow has no home to allure him. Just you wait until he gets married. If he wins the right wife he will settle down so hard that you can hear the echo."

I would wave my hands in protest. "But he speculates upon the board-bets, and all that, and while I do not consider such things as particularly depraved, I know that you are utterly against them. Besides, he is a financial humorist. How could he support a wife in the dreary, moneyless periods?"

"I'm sure I don't know—that would be his end of the bargain. But I do know that if he had a wife who would save what he throws away when he is prosperous they would never come to want. And I am not sure, after all, but that it is better to have a lot of money part of the time and none the rest than to have only a little all the time."

That would quiet me for a time. I had to depend entirely upon my salary, for being under heavy bonds I could not have speculated had I cared to and still retained my position if the fact became known. Still, by certain economies I had managed to hide away a few hundreds for emergencies, and in addition to that I had in the savings bank $5,000 which had come to me from my father's estate. That, however, I regarded a good deal as a trust fund which was to be left unused except in case of last resort. So I would take another tack and try and impress her with the greater virtue of ultimate achievement through industry and economy rather than by mowing your way through the ranks of your fellow men. From her quietness I would think she was becoming converted until of a sudden she would give a fidget.

"There he comes now, down the walk back of us," she would assert, without even a glance around. And sure enough it would be Bruce, a cigar in his mouth and a bundle as big as a pack measure wrapped up in paper under his arm. I always thought my physical senses were particularly alert, but she would invariably announce his coming before I knew he was within gunshot. Hearing, intuition, instinct or sixth sense, I know not what it was, but at times it struck me as almost uncanny. Up to us would come strolling with a smile and audacious "Hello, little sweetheart," and a nod and an offhand "Howdy, old man," to me; and standing before us with his feet wide apart, would grin at her like a good-natured puppy. Then I would see Clare's eyes begin to light up.

"What is it this time, Bruce?" she would gasp excitedly.

With a studied deliberation that would keep her in squirming suspense he would gradually open the bundle and raise it on high. Then suddenly he would pour a pailful of roses, carnations or violets over her head and send them tumbling into her lap and down on the grass in a waterfall of fragrance. And at that she would utter a little cry and go down upon her knees as she gathered them up by the handful, scolding him like a magpie for his extravagance, and stopping after every few words for a rapturous smell of each captured treasure. And that would be my reward for my lecture on the sin of extravagance.

Then, regardless of my presence, he would sit down and begin to make love to her. Nor would he do this in the way that any other civilised man would go about such a thing, but openly and notoriously in the fillibustering fashion in which he did everything. She always seemed helpless before his extravagant compliments, while, as for myself, I would watch him in silence unable to make up my mind whether I was amused or disgusted. After he got tired of that he would insist that she go with him over to the boulevard, where they could sit on a bench and pick out an automobile from those going by, such as he was going to purchase for her especial benefit. At first she would demur, but would finally say, "All right, if Tom will go, too." Whereat he would laugh and say to me with an audacious wink:

"Oh, Tom doesn't care to go. He would rather loaf up in his den and read a book than go over there and sit in the dust, wouldn't you, Tom?" In reply I would bow low and say "Certainly," with a sarcasm that would have shriveled any other living human being, but at which he would only laugh again and straightway march her off. And that, of course, would be the last of them for that day so far as I was concerned.

As I said before, I was not in love with her; I did not think that he was more than half in earnest, and therefore was not jealous. But it always left me feeling sort of disgusted. I don't believe it is in the male nature for any man to witness a woman whom he likes tacitly accepting the advances of a man other than himself without wishing that he had horns. He may not particularly want the woman himself, but the sight of it breeds a sneaking desire in him to go out and hook something.

COST OF TUBERCULOSIS

E. F. McSweeney's Estimate is $100 Per Family a Year

"Preventable disease, the greatest item in which is tuberculosis and the other expenses which grow out of it, costs each family on this continent at the minimum $100 a year." This is a verdict of a most thorough and cautious estimate by expert statisticians, and it errs, if anything, on the conservative side. It is a sentence, the nugget of the discourse, taken from an address on "Tuberculosis as a factor in the increased cost of living," delivered at Denver by Mr. Edward F. McSweeney, chairman of the board of trustees of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital. The guess that preventable disease has been a large share of the growing weight of living expenses is not a new one, but the thoroughness with which the proofs have been searched out by Mr. McSweeney is novel and convincing. The nations have searched and found five major causes of this increase, namely, waste, extravagance, armed peace, inefficiency and the burden of crime, pauperism, accident and disease. By the most cautious estimate the yearly money cost of tuberculosis alone in the United States is $622,513,904, and on the present ratio of deaths annually from this disease, as compared with the deaths from all other causes, 10,000,000 of people now living will eventually die of tuberculosis. The constructive part of Mr. McSweeney's discourse deals with the proof that the treatment of incipient cases is a failure, because returning to bad conditions, they relapse; and that the prevention of contagion from the advanced cases is where the resistance must be focussed. New York is following this lead, and it has now been recognized by Germany. The rigid medical inspection of school-children is one means of prevention and "we will solve the tuberculosis question when we settle the problems of child labor, city congestion, long hours and bad factory and housing conditions." This critic is emphatic that the crusade is not one primarily for physicians and charity workers: "This is essentially a business man's crusade, and should be led by the Chamber of Commerce."

JULIAN FIFE OF OTONABEE FELL DEAD IN JACKSON PARK

Was Seeking Shelter From Storm—Funeral This Afternoon to Fife's Cemetery

The hand of death dropped upon Julian Fife, of Otonabee, with startling suddenness on Saturday afternoon, when he fell dead in Jackson Park while running from shelter from the electric storm which passed over Peterborough between 1 and 2 o'clock.

Eye-witnesses of the tragic affair, stated to a Review man, who was present when the body was being removed to the undertakers, that he with a companion, were running for the caretaker's house to get out of the rain, when he was seen to fall. No marks of lightning were discerned on the remains. His companion went on to the caretaker's house and brought assistance, but life was extinct when others arrived. Comstock's ambulance was summoned and the body taken to their rooms and later forwarded to deceased farmer's place of residence, in Otonabee. An inquest was not held.

The late Mr Fife was about 53 years of age and unmarried. He was a farmer in Otonabee where he had many friends and relatives. To mourn his loss, there are left his mother, one brother Levi, and two sisters, Mrs. Braden, of Otonabee, and Mrs. Jewett, Toronto.

The funeral will leave the residence in Otonabee at two o'clock this afternoon to Fife's cemetery in Otonabee.

A MERRY BURLESQUE WAS THE GATHERING OF THE FAITHFUL

At the Liberal Convention J. R. Stratton's Name Was the Only One Put Up for the Rank and File to Cheer for—Officers of the Association Slated.

It was a merry burlesque that graced the boards at the Grand Opera house on Saturday afternoon and the name of it was Stratton's Nomination. As a convention at which the party was to choose a candidate, it was a howler. It was rather a spectacle of J. R. Stratton choosing a party than the party choosing him.

On the platform were half a dozen prominent stalwarts. G. N. Gordon read a resolution in opening, expressing confidence in Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and following it up with some campaign remarks, in which he said that he expected to see Mr. Stratton, the candidate, roll up a handsome majority. F. D. Kerr, the boy wonder candidate in East Peterborough, made a speech which led some of the audience to take him for Bill Nye, and he incidentally referred to Mr. Stratton as the candidate. There was no "if" in the case.

Then Dan O'Connell got up and in a speech eulogized Mr. Stratton as a great fighter, and he said that in being a candidate again, Mr. Stratton had greatly helped the Liberals' chances, or something of that nature. And then R. R. Hall got up and said that he hoped the Liberals would make the nomination of Mr. Stratton unanimous—and presented Mr. Stratton's name.

There weren't any nominations. When at the conclusion of his speech R. R. Hall moved Mr. Stratton's nomination, and Andrew McFarlane seconded it, President Hartley promptly called for cheers. If there were any ex-Warden Scotts in the gathering, they joined in the hubbub. There were apparently no delegates to consider the question of a candidate. No nominations were called for by the chairman at all. The half dozen stalwarts said their pieces, the first one up intimating quite plainly that there was ONE and ONLY ONE name to be considered. If there was anyone else waiting for the nomination, the proceedings surely gave him cold feet.

Of course conventions are liable to have their incidents also, especially Liberal ones. There was an over-exuberant enthusiast in the audience who interrupted everything and everybody with "Hear! Hear! J. R. Stratton, J. R. Stratton." Finally it became so bad that Dan O'Connell stopped his speech and told the chairman he did not think it was very creditable to the Liberal association to have that man present. Finally, he was put out, still yelling "J. R. Stratton! J. R. Stratton!" Another man who was very enthusiastic from the same cause, sat over in a corner shaking his fists at the other drunk. Finally he was going to get up and put his brother-Liberal out.

The Liberals present didn't even elect the officers of the association. These were read out from a slate in the hands of someone on the platform, and the rank and file had the great pleasure of cheering. As a convention it was a great success. The rank and file had nothing to do but listen to the speeches, which of course made the afternoon pass like a picnic.

LOSERS IN FARMER'S BANK DEAL IN LINDSAY DISCUSS FAILURE

Deputation Will Interview Sir Wilfrid Laurier and R. L. Borden.

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 6—A meeting of the depositors of the defunct Farmers Bank residing at Lindsay and in surrounding country points, like Dunsford, Kirmount, Nestleton, Janetville, Bethany, and Pontypool, was held at the town hall here yesterday.

Mr. J. G. Ashmore, of Emily township, a large depositor, occupied the chair, and addresses were made by him, Messrs. J. E. Weldon, of Lindsay, Robert J. Mitchell, of Verulam, and F. E. Gordon, of Emily.

It was felt by the meeting that the defunct institution should never have been permitted by the department to commence business, and a committee was appointed, consisting of two members from each place where the bank had formerly carried on business, to interview the government and the leader of the opposition in the Dominion Parliament, to see if some measure of relief could not be undertaken by the government whereby the depositors would be protected. Mr. J. E. Weldon was appointed secretary of the committee, and asked to communicate with depositors of the Farmers Bank in other localities throughout the country. A resolution was unanimously passed, asking the government to introduce government inspection of banks, and also asking the government to guarantee all deposits or make the banks deposit with them an amount equal to a certain percentage of their capital to cover losses of all bank depositors, and that this fund should be available to meet the losses sustained by the depositors of the Farmers Bank.

HEAVY LOSS OF W. H. WHITE

Barn Burned by Lightning—Lost All His Crops and Poultry—$800 Insurance

One of the last and most severe lightning bolts of Saturday's storm, struck the large barn of W. H. White, situated a short distance from the city on the Chemong road, and in a short time the structure and contents were destroyed. Mr White had all of the season's cut of hay stored in the barn, and a considerable quantity beside the building. This was also burned. The horses were taken out to safety with some difficulty. All of the fowl and poultry too, were lost.

While Mr. White's loss will be considerable, he carried insurance to the extent of $800, he only having taken out this amount four days ago.

DRUNK CAUSED DISTURBANCE

On Hunter St. Saturday Evening—Was Taking Another Man's Horse

Pandemonium reigned on Hunter street for a while Saturday night, when a drunk started for home with another man's buggy.

The fracas occured before the building recently vacated by Mr. G. Long, the hotel keeper. The drunk in question took a horse from the shed at the rear of the old hotel premises and when he got as far as the sidewalk, a friend of the owner of the outfit caught the horse by the bridle and remonstrated with the driver. The driver, whose brain was befuddled with drink, did not see any reason for his being thus stopped publicly, and he wanted to fight. A crowd soon gathered, as is usual, when there is any row going on, and the horse became frightened. A couple of young ladies, one of whom was evidently a sister of the intoxicated one, came along at this stage and tried to calm her brother, but her overtures were of no avail.

As there was apparently no one taking care of the horse, the sister got into the buggy but she could not manage it, and a stranger from the crowd very kindly got in beside her and succeeded in calming the animal. In the meantime, the scrappers were being dragged into the back yard, to finish finish their physical culture exercise.

A few seconds later volleys of profane expletives issuing from somewhere across the street, drew the attention of the bystanders, and soon the originator made his appearance. He, also, was evidently under the influence of fire water, and a brother of the fighting drunk. He had seen his sister sitting in the buggy with a strange gentleman, and he received such a shock to his sense of right, that he did not wait for an explanation, but proceeded to eject the intruder with all possible dispatch. The modest stranger was not a very hard proposition as he fell out on the other side of the buggy as fast as he could. The outraged brother was to receive a disappointment however, as the sister refused to ride home with him and in a very indignant maner, left him to his glory.

As soon as the drunk could be quieted everything was peaceful once more.

LINDSAY S. O. E. VISITED HERE

Last Friday — Excursion Was Greatly Enjoyed

The excursion to Peterboro' yesterday under the auspices of the Sons of England per steamer Stoney Lake, was a success in every respect. The steamer left Lindsay with almost the limited number of excursionists on board, and reached Peterborough without any delay or mishap a few minutes after seven o'clock, allowing the Lindsay people two hours in the Electric City. After visiting the nickle shows, swarming the ice cream parlors and looking up the place in general, the excursionists had still time to hear two or three selections given by the 57th Regimental Band on the park. Weather conditions were ideal a cloud hovering above during the morning and a combination of sunsine and balmy breezes in the afternoon.—Warder

MR. JOHN E. NELSON PASSES AWAY

He Was Identified With Several Public Institutions in Glasgow—Has Visited City

Mr. Robert Fair received through the Glasgow Herald this morning, the sad news of the death of an old friend and occasional visitor to Peterboro in the person of Mr. John E. Nelson, proprietor of the Willis, Nelson & Co. warehouse, Queen Street, Glasgow, which occurred at his residence, Belmont, Pollokshields, July 28.

The late Mr. Nelson and Mr. Fair were fast friends. When Mr. Fair visited Scotland, he was the guest of Mr. Nelson and he has had dealings with Willis, Nelson & Company for a number of years.

Mr. Nelson, who was 78 years of age had recently been in indifferent health. For many years he took an active part in the public life of the city, and was identified with the work of some of the most important charitable institutions. He served for three years as a member of thee Town Council and in the work of the Trades House he was closely interested. He was a member of the Incorporation of Skinners and the Incorporation of Maltmen and of the former he, three times, occupied the position of Deacon. He was also a member of the merchants' House, and of the grand Antiquity Society.

Among other offices of a public character which he held were those of director of the Blind Asylum; manager of the Royal Infirmary, governor of the Eye Infirmary, and director of the Maternity and Women's Hospital: and Justice of the Peace for Glasgow. He gave valuable assistance in the direction of the affairs of each of the institutions in which he was interested.

The funeral took place at Belmont, Pollokshields, Tuesday, August 1st, to Cathcart cemetery: service in Pollokshields parish church at 2 o'clock.

PETERBOROUGH TROUNCED THE TORONTO TEAM BY 2-0 SCORE

Dufferins Weren't in it With the Midland League Leaders, Qrinlan Striking Out Sixteen of Them—A Very Good Game it Was.

The management of the local ball tossers promised the fans a good exhibition of baseball for Saturday afternoon and the fans and fanettes, who turned out to see the Peterboro Dufferin game, were not disappointed in their expectations, unless agreeably so, as even the most ardent Peterboro followers, throught they would see the local artists take the small end of the score. When several of the optimistic kind, who were not at the game, saw the bulletin as follows Peterboro 2, Dufferin 0, they were heard to say that they wished they had gone over to witness the fray.

The Dufferins, who are now tied with the Wellingtons for first place in the Toronto City League, are undoubtedly a fast fielding, hard hitting team as touted, but Manager Quinlan was out for their scalp, striking out sixteen batsmen on his offering, while his team mates were there to show the home town what they can do in a fast company, and they clearly vindicated their right to the leadership of the Midland League.

The rain coming before the game probably kept some people from visiting the scene of activities, but the gate receipts were nearly enough to cover expenses which are always large when a team from Toronto is brought. The game was not started until 3.40 p.m., so as to give the grass chance to become a little drier. The base lines were rather uncertain, but that did not materially inconvenience the players as their spikes held them up while running.

After the first two men up each got a single. Quinlan steadied down and had the Torontos at his mercy during the rest of the game, only two men reaching the initial sack, after the first innings. His men did not get many chances, but they acquitted themselves nobly with nearly every offering.

The Dufferins used McIntosh, and he was steady all the time, only allowing three scattered singles during the performance. His fielders were fast and handled everything with a dexterity only attained by a careful study of the art of baseball.

FIRST INNINGS.

Spence singled to centre and went to second on Sharpe' adrive to left garden. Picton struck-out. McGowan and Spence were out on a double play when the former, on a biff to Quinlan was down at first and the latter, while trying to steal home from second was thrown out at the plate, M. O'Brien to Gonter. Two hits. No runs.

Murphy, first up for the Petes led off with a fly to Grogan and Shaw fouled to Atchison. M. O'Brien fanned. No hits no runs.

SECOND INNINGS.

Atchison sent a liner to Murphy and was an easy out at first. Grogan swung at three. Sewell reached first on Rahmal's muff but was stranded as Ross fanned. No hits no runs.

Quinlan, Gonter and Campbell each drove one to short and all three were cut to McGowan. No hits. No runs.

THIRD INNINGS.

McIntosh, Spence and Sharp fanned Gonter dropped Spence's third but he was down to M. O'Brien. No hits No runs Rahmal and McFadden each sent a liner to Atchison and were out to McGowan. Cresswell secured the first hit for the locals when he singled to centre. He remained there however as Murphy lifted a fly ball to Sharpe. One hit. No runs.

FOURTH INNINGS.

Picton swung wide again. McGowan singled to centre and went to third on Gonter's wild peg at second cushion. Atchison struck-out and Gonter made a nice pick of a pop from Grogan leaving McGowan on third. One hit. No runs.

On Spence's fumble Shaw got first and promptly stole second. M. O'Brien flew to Sharpe. On Quinlan's single to left field Shaw scored from second, Quinlan going to second on the throw-in, and reaching third on Gonter's out. McIntosh to McGowan. Campbell flew out to McGowan. One hit. One run.

FIFTH INNINGS.

Sewell, Ross and McIntosh struck out. No hits. No runs.

Sharpe took care of Rahmal's biff to centre garden, and McIntosh hit McFadden on the arm and gave him a base. M. O'Brien took McFadden's place, stealing second and third. Spence got Cresswell's drive. Murphy got a timely single and M. O'Brien scored, Murphy going to second on the throw. Shaw struck-out. One hit. One run

SIXTH INNINGS.

Spence was out, Quinlan to M. O'Brien. Sharpe hit at three and Picton flew to Murphy. No hits. No runs.

M. O'Brien dropped one before the plate and was down to McGowan. On Atchisons' slip up and wild peg to first Quinlan annexed two sacks, but was cut stealing third. Ross got Gonter's foul tip. No hits. No runs.

SEVENTH INNINGS.

McGowan got the only two-bagger when he directed the pill to centre field. McFadden caught Atchison out when he attempted to duplicate the McGowan stunt. On a pass ball McGowan went to third but did not get any father as Quinlan caused both Grogan and Sewell to strike-out. One hit. No runs.

Campbell and Rahmal each sent a hot one at Grogan but he handled them nicely. McFadden secured one bag when Picton missed his grounder McIntosh stabbed Cresswell's well-meant drive. No hits. No runs.

EIGHTH INNINGS

Ross fanned McIntosh was but Quinlan to M. O'Brien and Spence was down. Murphy to M. O'Brien. No hits. No runs.

Ross dropped Murphy's third strike but threw him out to McGowan. Shaw was out to Sharpe and M. O'Brien to Atchison. No hits. No runs.

NINTH INNINGS.

Sharpe fanned. Gonter took Picton's foul fly and McGowan was out to M. O'Brien No hits. No runs.

The score is—

NOTES OF THE GAME

Manager Quinlan was evidently trying to beat his fourteen strike-outs no hit stunt of July 23, when he took the Bowmanville rubber men into camp. He went two better with the strikeouts, Saturday, but the heavy hitting Dufferins got to him for three singles and a double.

W. O'Brien's sore knee kept him out of the fray. Cresswell held down right field, while McFadden went back to his old love in centre garden.

The unavoidable absence of "Jimmy" O'Hearne, made it necessary to retain "Pete" Campbell on second cushion. "Pete" would have otherwise have been used in the outfield.

Teddy Picton who held down second base for the visitors, took a prominent part in the boxing tournament which was held here last winter.

McGowan, the elongated first baseman for the Dufferins, bangled everything perfectly and was very much in evidence, when it came to the black bat. He also uses his spikes to advantage.

Cresswell got the first of the locals three hits.

ARE OUR HANDS LESS VALUABLE?

Eminent Surgeon Draws Attention to What Science and Machinery are Doing

Sir Frederick Treves, the eminent surgical authority, in a "Nineteenth Century" paper, declares very emphatically that "it would seem that the highest point of development in the use of the hands has been already reached; has been, indeed, passed, and that we have now entered upon a decline." Let us see to what extent Sir Frederick's contentions can be supported.

Two of the commonest handicrafts are those of writing and sewing, but they are being now rapidly supplanted by the typewriter on the one hand and the sewing machine on the other. The finer use of the fingers is thus becoming lost, so far as these simple crafts are concerned. There was occasion when penmanship was almost a fine art, and the writing master a power in the land. In these present days of hurry there is no time for elegant hand-writing. The script of the ordinary letter-writer is often as hard to interpret as the message on the Rosetta stone, and as there is, coincidentally, no leisure available for the decyphering of illegible writing, the typing machine becomes opportune.

Deliberate Surgeon of To-Day

Surgery during recent years has made amazing advances. Should it be asked if this progress has been associated with, or dependent upon, a corresponding development of the handicraft of surgery, the answer is, it has not. Before the days of anaesthetics the surgeon was operating upon a conscious being. Rapidity of movement was all essential; success was gauged by the stop-watch, every unnecessary second meant unnecessary torture. The surgeon had to be marvellously deft of hand, cool, yet alert as a fencer; quick, yet as sure as a matador. The combination of qualities that made up a good operating surgeon was rare, and so in those days the perfect operator was equally rare.

Now, with the use of anaesthetics, the surgeon can proceed with easy deliberation, every step can be measured and judged; there is no call to be brilliant; there is no element of hurry, for in place of the flashing blade is an action as studied as a movement on the chess-board. The result of it is this: Surgery, as a pure handicraft, has undoubtedly lost ground.

Some of the simpler crafts exhibit in striking fashion the decay of cultivation in the use of the hands. Take the very ancient occupation of spinning and weaving. In India it is still possible to see the whole process of making cloth from cotton carried out by hand. The process involves a fine training for the fingers—a training that has made nimble and sensitive the hands of thousands of men and women in this country. But the handicraft has vanished, the machine has replaced it, and the skill educed by centuries of practice has been lost forever. Not so many years ago it was possible to see in almost every fishing village half a dozen gossips strolling about knitting stockings and jerseys for men. The work was not, perhaps, elaborate, but it was a good training for the hands. The knitters are now hard to find. Hand knitting does not pay except as an amusement.

The ancient art of embroidery—as ancient as Babylon and Tyre—was a craft of wide possibilities. The handicraft is practically lost. It is true that the finer work is still done by the hand, but the major part is turned out of a machine with brutal unconcern. There are advantages resulting from this which are easy to appreciate, but at the same time a thousand hands have lost their cunning and handicraftsmanship has passed to a lower grade.

Lace-making occupies a somewhat similar position. It is probably the most elaborate work which has ever engaged the facile fingers of women. Lace-making has engaged whole colonies of women, and has enabled them to bring the culture of the hand to a marvellous degree of perfection. This has assuredly been an object worthy of attainment. But the days of the craft are nearly over, and the manual skill so laboriously attained is—in spite of all attempts to revive it—in process of being lost.

Probably the oldest domestic instrument is the needle. The needle-maker was a master of craft. The common needle is now made by a series of machines, which turn the implements out in pairs, two being united, head to head. The process involves manual skill, and in the production of special needles something of the cunning of the past but the fact remains that a great means for the culture of the hands has passed away.

The Degenerate Carpenter

The carpenter, with his primitive art, is still with us, but he is not the handicraftsman that he was. There are sawing engines and planing machines for boards of every kind. The "four-cutter machine" works all four faces of the wood simultaneously. Machines have been produced for fashioning all kinds of mouldings, for cutting dovetails, mortises and tenons, while the engine known as the "universal joiner" is a combination machine with superhuman powers. The "copying lathe" produces objects of regular or irregular shape automatically from a pattern, and can turn out with equal ease a gunstock or a broom handle, a boot-last or a toy horse. The sand-papering machine is almost uncanny in its imitation of human movements, while the self-directing lathe represents the callous absorption of whole centuries of manual skill.

Sir Frederick Treves goes through a long list of occupations, arts and accomplishments which formerly called into play great dexterity of the hand and fingers, and which are now done by machinery. Even piano playing is included in the list. The loss is both great and regrettable.—Glasgow Daily Herald.

Asylum Fire Enquiry.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—The enquiry into the death of the eight victims of last Tuesday's fire at the asylum, after sitting till 11 o'clock last night, was adjourned until Aug. 10, when it will again be resumed at the asylum.

Nothing of a particular sensational nature was disclosed in the evidence adduced last night, the low pressure of the asylum water works and the loss of time in notifying the city fire department being the only things brought out which might serve as a basis of criticism against the management of the institution.

Murdered His Father.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Joseph Vacek, jr., 17 years of age, son of Joseph Vacek, a wealthy contractor, Friday night, confessed that he shot and killed his father at their home. The shooting is believed to have followed a demand of the boy for money.

The father's body was found in his room. The murder was committed when Mrs. Vacek and her two daughters were out for a few minutes. The young man, who since his recent graduation from a manual training school has refused to go to work was suspected, and finally, under pressure, confessed.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill, P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

NERVILINE

AN INSTANT RELIEF

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. Large bottles, 50c., trial size 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

BASEBALL ON THE NORTH SHORE

Sudbury Star.—The crack Massey ball team has disbanded, the majority of the players catching places on the two Soo teams. The management of the club, it is said, faced a deficit of $1,400, but in their famous 2—1 game with the American Soo last week they cleaned up a little better than their deficit and broke even on the season. Takes some financing to keep a semi-pro. nine like the Massey team together on the North Shore, but when you can take a day's jaunt and clean up a $1,400 deficit, that's going some. The Massey boys said "thank you" to their less astute magnates of the Soo, and cut out the game for this season at least.

Mrs. Price was discharged from the asylum three months ago. Why the woman took the acid is not known. The body was taken to the morgue.

The Reason Why

"The biggest twenty-five cents' worth in the world." That is how a Yankee theatrical manager expressed himself at the close of the grand stand performance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto last year. "How do you do it?" And then as he watched the thousands pouring out of the stand: "I guess that's the answer. You have people enough in that stand to fill a dozen of the largest theatres on the continent."

UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION

Operation of the Coasting Laws of the United States Injure Lake Shipping of the Dominion.

It is generally supposed that in regard to the coasting trade between the different ports of the Great Lakes the vessels of the United States and of the Dominion of Canada are on an entirely equal footing. The supposition is that international traffic, that is to say, from a port of one nation to a port of another, is entirely open, but that each of the two countries reserve to itself the exclusive right of the costal trade between its own sea-ports. In practice, however, the present operation of the system is unfair to Canada. It must be remembered that in addition to voyages which are entirely coastal and pass simply from port to port in either one country, there are voyages of the mixed character by which goods are carried from port to port in one country and also to a port in the foreign country.

In regard to this part of the trade Canadian shipping does not enjoy the advantages granted to the vessels of the United States. The Canadian Shipping Act provides as follows:—"No goods or passengers shall be carried by water from any port of Canada to another except in British ships." The corresponding law in the United States regarding the transportation of freight is as follows:—"No merchandise shall be transported by water, under penalty of forfeiture thereof, from one port of the United States to another port of the United States, either directly or via a foreign port, or for any part of the voyage, in any other vessel than a vessel of the United States."

The American interpretation of this clause is such as to prevent a Canadian boat from taking grain from Duluth, Milwaukee or Chicago to a Canadian port if the grain is going thence into the United States; for instance, to Springfield or Boston. On the other hand, the Canadian Department of Customs has ruled that grain may be carried under our laws from Fort William or Port Arthur to Port Huron, Mich., in United States vessels even if the ultimate destination is a point in Canada via Sarnia. This discrimination is unfair to Canadian boatmen. Its influence would be much greater in the event of Canadian grain being stored at United States points at the head of the Lakes. Under such circumstance the grain would undoubtedly lose its identity and the United States authorities would insist upon it being transported thence in American vessels if destined to an American port for furtherance to points in the United States.

The United States authorities, recognizing the advantage which the above gives them, have introduced in Congress a bill the effect of which is to amend the law regarding the carriage of passengers in the same way; that is to say, this bill endeavors to apply to passenger trade the same restrictions as are in force regarding freight. It also defines the number of days a passenger can stop over in Canada and be exempt from the law. It provides a penalty on the passenger as well as the boat, and permits the proper officials to refuse clearance until fines are paid.

It will be seen that, recognising the advantage which the American boat owners have in respect to the carriage of freight, they are desirous of applying it also to passenger traffic. The ultimate effect will be disastrous to Canadian shipping. In any event Canadian shipping is now at a disadvantage in respect to carriage of freight, and as the tonnage available for Canadian shipping consists chiefly of grain east-bound, it will be seen that any arrangement which will permit of Canadian grain going into or through the United States without restrictions of any kind will tend materially to decrease the available tonnage. Canadian west-bound tonnage on the Lakes is principally merchandise. A very large percentage of this is controlled by the boat lines operated in connection with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways. These lines do not carry grain to any extent east-bound. Their boats are built for passengers and package freight. Grain, which, as stated, forms the bulk of Canadian tonnage, is carried in tramp boats. These boats carry a certain amount of coal from Lake Erie ports to Fort William and Port Arthur. They also carry miscellaneous cargo from St. Lawrence River ports. In addition to the above, there are three lines with more or less regular sailings between Montreal and the head of the Lakes, namely, Inland Lines, Limited; Merchants' Mutual Steamship Company and the Canadian Lake Line. These lines carry some package freight west-bound, and, as above stated, grain east-bound. The tramp service above referred to operates chiefly between the head of the Lakes, Georgian Bay and Lake Huron ports, Port Colborne and Kingston.

The "Bad News" Bell at Lloyd's.

The bell of the British frigate Latine, which sank off the Dutch coast in 1799, with a cargo of coin and specie valued at $6,000,000, is the "bad news" bell at Lloyd's. Whenever news is received that a ship is overdue, or when definite news comes of the loss of a ship, the bell is rung by the "caller." At its tolling all transactions are suspended until the news it heralds is read.

MONK HOLDS A BIG MEETING

Quebec Farmers Flock to Sunday Political Gathering.

Three Rivers, Que., Aug. 7.—Before an audience of 10,000 people Mr. Monk, M.P. for Jacques Cartier, opened the Federal campaign here yesterday. Mr. Monk had on the platform with him the Nationalist leader, Henri Bourassa, and his lieutenant, Armand Lavergne, both of whom made speeches. It was one of those unique occasions in Quebec when the people go to mass in the forenoon and remain for political discourses in the afternoon, then go home, having done their full duty to their religion and political ideals. It was the opportune time to hold the meeting, as thousands of farmers from the country side are able to be present only on such a day.

Mayor Normand, who will be the candidate for Three Rivers, opened the fire on the Laurier Government. Mr. Blondin, M.P. for Champlain, followed on the naval question, and then came F. D. Monk, M.P., who delivered the main speech of the day. Henri Bourassa was given a good reception. He said among other things that Laurier and Borden seemed to have agreed that reciprocity should be the one theme of the coming election.

Premier Laurier had brought on the reciprocity agreement to cover up the naval bill, but Mr. Bourassa said he would not be cribbed in that way as there were too many important questions before the public.

Cochrane Fire Unavoidable.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—J. Bauldry, agent at Cochrane, in his report to Chairman J. L. Englehart of the T. & N.O. Commission, expresses the opinion that the fire of July 11 could not have been prevented. The extraordinary velocity of the wind, he contends would have spread the fire even if the bush on the railway holdings had been previously cleared. In one part of his report he says: "The velocity of the wind was so great that it carried the fire from away past our boundary and spread it completely over the whole width of the town at the same time."

Jaw Broken in Quarrel.

St. Catharines, Aug. 7.—As a result of a murderous fight on Friday night between Robert Hallett and James Laskey, two neighbors residing on Lake street, the former is now in Hamilton hospital with his jaw broken in four places and the latter is in jail here charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm.

Battle in Colombia.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 7.—According to advices received here on Saturday a battle was fought between Columbian and Peruvian troops in Caqueta, a large unorganized territory in Colombia, and the Colombians were defeated with great loss.

London Faces Famine.

London, Aug. 7.—The strike of the dock laborers is marking time to-day pending the arbitration of the dispute by Sir Albert Kaye Rollit, who is identified with large commercial and steamship interests. The award in the dispute, which is between the organisations of transport laborers and the shipowners, will probably be made to-day. A general strike of the men will be declared if the award does not suit them.

Many steamships sailed from here Saturday with thousands of tons less than the usual amount of freight. Over two hundred trainloads of freight are standing on the wharves ready to be placed on board the vessels. The latest steamships which have arrived here bring the total of undischarged cargoes up to a high point. It is estimated that 500,000 carcasses of mutton, 100,000 quarters of beef and huge quantities of eggs and butter are still on board the vessels.

London is threatened with a scarcity of food stuffs, and beef threatens to become a luxury. Prices have advanced four cents per pound in the retail market.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 7.—Saturday afternoon saw the conclusion of the Western Associated Press convention with the election of the following officers: Hon. President, E. S. Ziengg, Wapedla; president, W. F. Kerr, The Leader, Regina; first vice-president, A. Dunlop, Neepawa, Man.; second vice-president, P. Allen, Port Arthur; third vice-president, S. N. Wagner, The Enterprise, Yorkton; secretary, G. H. Shaulte, Winnipeg; treasurer, John S. Lovell, Winnipeg.

Executive: A. G. Graham, Grandview; M. Tyrell, Medicine Hat; Chas. Hynds, The News-Record, Lumsden; E. K. McMillan, The News, Moose Jaw; D. Smith, Fort William.

The twin cities, Fort William and Port Arthur, were chosen as the next year's meeting place. The seven representatives of the newly-formed daily papers section met and discussed matters of special interest to them.

Divorce Defendant Killed.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—A tragic touch was given to a case which came up before Recorder DesJardins in the Hull courts Friday.

Some time ago Mrs. George Papillion of 69 Catherine street, took action against her husband for a separation and the date was fixed for the hearing of the case.

When the recorder took the bench and the case was called, Charles Papillion, son of the defendant, entered the courtroom and advised the recorder that the case would have to be dropped as his father had been run over and killed. The dramatic end to the case caused somewhat of a sensation in the courtroom.

Fifty persons were drowned in Nicaragua, in the recent disastrous flood on the Gulf coast.

FARM AND FIELD

CARELESSNESS IN MILK MIXING.

Holstein Herds Also Proved to be Low in Butter Fat.

The recent finding of a number of dairymen in New Jersey state has caused some interesting investigations as to the reasons of the milk being below the required standards.

Upon looking in the matter closely, and after sampling and testing a number of milkings from the herds which were found to be below standard and observing the methods used in handling the milk, it has been found that the cause of the low test in 90 per cent of the cases looked into was due undoubtedly to neglect on the part of the dairymen to mix properly the entire milk from the whole herd before delivering to the creamery or bottling for shipment. In every instance where the duplicate sample taken by the State Board of Health was tested it was found to be below standard requirement thus showing that it is not a question of error in testing.

There are a number of causes which are apt to make the per cent of butterfat in normal milk low and especially is this noticeable in Holstein herds where there is not at any time a great margin between the standard requirements and the herd average.

The following are some of the causes which were most frequently met with in studying conditions outlined above:

1. Holstein heifers having just freshened with their first calf. In two instances the normal milk tested only 2.1 per cent of butterfat.

2. Heavy producing Holstein cows from the second to the tenth week of of lactation whose previous average test for the entire lactation period was rather low showed in some instances a normal test of 2.4 per cent low test of butterfat, and a total solid of 11.6.

3. In a number of cases where cows were suckling their calves, it was found that the practice was to draw about half of the milk from all the teats for market purposes previous to letting the calves suck. This would undoubtedly tend to produce a low test of milk sold, as the last milk drawn is always richer than that taken at any other time during the milking.

4. Carlessness in mixing the milk has undoubtedly caused some of the low tests.

CORN TILLAGE GOOD FOR SHEEP.

Experiments Prove That Silage Has Great Advantage Over Roots as Economical Feed.

The Dominion Experimental Farm is showing its worth to farmers by its practical experiments and even more so than its recent trials in stock food.

In a series of experiments conducted for two years under the direction of J. H. Grisdale, director of the Dominion Experimental Farm, it has been found that silage has a great advantage over roots as an economical sheep feed. Duplicating the experiment of the preceding year, twenty-seven lambs of uniform weight were divided into three groups of nine each and fed different rations, from which to form a basis of the experiment. No. 1 group was fed on clover hay, meal and turnips; lot No. 2 on clover hay, meal and silage, the latter replacing the turnips, and No. 3 group was fed on clover hay, meal, turnips and ensilage mixed.

CARE OF PEACH TREES.

Selection Determined by Locality.

The varieties of peach trees selected must be largely determined by the locality in which they are to be grown, as some varieties thrive better in some localities than others. If convenient to market in many cases the earlier varieties are the most profitable, provided, of course, they are of good quality, but with peaches, as with almost every variety of fruit, if an extra fine quality is grown, there is no difficulty in selling at a good price.

When grown more especially for home consumption select varieties that will give a supply through the longest season. Peaches are particularly a fresh fruit, and are best in season, and little or no effort is usually made to keep them any longer.

Peaches need a reasonably loose soil and will not thrive if grown in sod for any considerable length of time. The soil should be prepared in good time by ploughing and harrowing.

Peaches are so often injured by severe cold, freezing weather, that in a majority of cases spring planting is preferable to fall, but it is an item to make all the preparation possible in advance so that at the first favorable opportunity in the spring planting can be done.

PROGRESS OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

Ontario Makes Splendid Showing.

It is a maxim of trade that competition stimulates business. Apparently the principle holds true in regard to agricultural colleges, which have increased so greatly in numbers and in student attendance. Until about ten years ago there was no great gain made by the Ontario college at Guelph. Since that time the classes have grown larger every year, so that the present enrolment is nearly 1,000 with an additional 400 at the Macdonald Institute. This is a remarkable showing when it is considered that three other agricultural colleges opened in the meantime have narrowed its constituency somewhat.

Switzerland has inaugurated a new system for the importation of Canadian cattle for slaughter.

SEVENTEEN YEAR OLD YOUTH DROWNED AT TORONTO ISLAND

Thomas Reeve Met Death While Bathing — Was Good Swimmer, But Heart Was Weak.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—Thomas Reeves, a 17-year-old boy, who lived at 203 Wellesley street, was drowned in the Island lagoon near the Sick Children's hospital, Toronto, about half-past two o'clock Sunday afternoon. He and two other boys from a camp near the lighthouse, were in swimming when Reeve was seen to go down. After several unsuccessful efforts his body was brought up, and three doctors, who happened to be nearby, worked on him for an hour and a half, but failed to restore the slightest heart action. From the fact that he was in the water less than five minutes it is believed that he died of heart failure. He had always been afflicted with a weak heart.

Harold Scott and Ernest Ward were the two boys with him. Both saw him start to swim from the bank to the end of the 30-foot pier, at which the Luella lands with passengers for the Lakeside Home. Harold Scott warned him that it was more than he could do, but Reeve laughed and went ahead. When he had gone about half way he threw up his hands and made a motion as if he was washing the back of his head. He had a smile on his face and the two lads thought nothing was wrong. When his head went under water they became suspicious, and as soon as he came up called to him. He made no answer and repeated the same strange motion. An instant later he spread out his arms and dived for him, but found that he was too heavy for them to lift.

A young man who was near went in with his clothes on and lifted the body up, but was not able to hold it long enough for the nearby launch to take him in. Charles Meyricks then dived down and dragged him to land.

Dr. McKibbin was by this time on the spot and started to work to resuscitate the boy. Word was sent to the hospital and Dr. Menzies with several nurses bringing various articles that would be of use, hurried to the scene. Dr. Jamieson also arrived, and all three doctors did their best to revive the unfortunate lad. Every means that is known was tried, but unavailingly. The body was finally brought to the city in the municipal launch. It was taken to Hopkins' undertaking parlor at the father's direction.

BARN DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

Lightning struck the chimney on the C.P.R. station during Saturday's electric storm, damaging it slightly. The fuse in the telegraph office was also blown out, and the telephone rendered useless for a while.

Farmers west of Jackson Park stated that the lightning in their vicinity played most vividly and dangerously during the storm. They say it was the worst they have had this season. A barn belonging to Mr. John Hodge in Monaghan, Con. 13, was struck, and part of the contents took fire. Neighbors carried water and were able effectually quench the flames, before any material damage was done.

A FIGHT ON ELM STREET

Italians Have Scrap — Razor Thrown at Police Officer —Two Fined

Between two and three hundred spectators watched a fight last evening shortly after six o'clock on Elm street, when Frank Carno, a young Italian, and Peter Grant mixed it up until separated and arrested by a police officer. The casualty list consisted of a broken collar bone, sustained by Carno, and a few bruises and cuts on Peter Grant's anatomy. The participants and a couple of others connected with the fracas, occupied the police court dock this morning when the story of the fight came out. Carno was fined $5, with ten days to find the cash; Peter Grant was assessed the same amount, paid forthwith; a man named Frank Dobson was discharged, and another Italian, charged with obstructing the police officer while making the arrest, was remanded to allow further evidence to be secured. The latter, Tony Rose by name, is alleged to have hurled an open razor at the officer.

FACE COVERED WITH BLOOD.

P.C. Brown was summoned by 'phone at 6.15 last evening to Elm street. When he arrived he saw two Italians in an alleyway off Elm street, one of whom was Carno, who looked pretty dilapidated and done up. His face was covered with blood. He was also under the influence of liquor. Hundreds of on-lookers were crowded around the streets in the neighborhood. The officer arrested Carno and Grant, and Tony Rose interfered by trying to pull the former away. He also, it is said, drew a razor from his pocket and threw it at P.C. Brown.

CALLED HIM NASTY NAME.

Carno, in the box, said that he was at the house of Ernie Lawrence on Elm street, when Peter Grant came in and called him a filthy and insinuating name. When witness arose to resent the insult, Grant ran out and picked up a stone and threw it at him, missing him, however. He caught hold of Grant and the two tussled. Witness fell down and sustained a fracture of his right collar bone. Dobson, according to the statement of the witness, came along and tried to separate them.

Peter Grant pleaded "not guilty," but Dobson's evidence was damaging and sufficed the magistrate to feel justified in fining him $5.

NEW DOMINION $1 BILL HERE

Portraits of Governor-General and His Gracious Lady in Centre

The new Dominion one-dollar bill has reached Peterboro and several citizens have the new pieces of paper money. It has been issued at this particular moment to make sure the Governor-General and his gracious lady, who are completing their term, did not miss the compliment intended for them. Their portraits appear in the centre of the bill, instead of at the sides, as was the case with the last one of 1898, upon the face of which Lord and Lady Aberdeen appeared. The picture of the log jam and the bold peevy men on the river has been superseded by large portraits.

The new dollar bill somewhat resembles the four-dollar bill of 1902, though there is really no danger of mistake. This latter note has a picture of the lock at Sault Ste. Marie in the centre. A curious fact about this issue is that it was a correction of the $4 bill issued in 1900, which carries a picture of the American Sault instead of the Canadian, as intended.

Few people are aware of the exact distinction between Dominion bills and ordinary bank notes. The Dominion Government issues the coin currency and the one, two and four dollar bills. The banks are only permitted to put out fives and multiples of fives. The Dominion notes are legal tender, the bank notes and cheques are not, technically speaking. The Government also issues $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 bills.

PROPERTY BEING DEFACED BY BOYS

Contractor at Central School is Having Trouble

Mr. Wm. Johnston, who is in charge of the repairing of the Central school building, is being put to much inconvenience by unknown persons, presumably boys, who persist in the habit of destroying and defacing some part of the property every time the men are absent from it.

This abominable practice has been going on for some time.

The week the work was started the men went to the school one morning and found one of the teachers' desks broken open, glasses and bottles broken and ink spilled over the floor of the different class-rooms. That same morning two kegs of nails were found to have been mixed.

Doubtless to emphasize the need for a public lavatory in that section of the city the boys used the school as such. They are not satisfied with one section of the building for that purpose, but favored points seem to be the different entrances and the teachers' desks.

The latest prank occurred yesterday when they threw fresh plaster on the stone wall and brick work on the west side of the east building. The men have been particularly careful to keep the plaster away from the walls as it cannot be taken off satisfactorily. One window was also broken by the plaster.

Mr. Robert Fair, chairman of the property committee, of the Board of Education promises to prosecute the offenders if they do not cease their offensive practices.

Mr. Johnston reports that the work is progressing favorably at present.

SIR ALLEN AYLESWORTH QUITS WHEN THE LIBERAL SHIP SINKS

Hugh Guthrie, K.C., Slated to be His Successor as Minister of Justice—Government Printers Dismissed for Not Being "Sympathisers."

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Whatever other Cabinet changes Sir Wilfrid Laurier may decide upon before the elections in addition to the replacing of Hon. L. P. Brodeur by Dr. Beland, the appointment of a Nova Scotia successor or Sir Frederick Borden is not among the immediate probabilities. Both Sir Frederick and E. M. Macdonald, who is to be the new Minister of Militia, are to be candidates, the former in King's and the latter in Pictou, N.S.

Sir Alan Aylesworth is not to run in North York. He has offered his resignation, which has not yet been accepted, but is to be.

The official explanation is that Sir Alan, in addition to his aural trouble, is suffering from neuralgia and wants a rest and treatment. He will probably leave the Government at once, T. C. Robinette to go after the North York seat. Who will succeed the Minister of Justice is not yet clear.

Hugh Guthrie of South Wellington has been training hard for succession, but A. H. Clarke of Windsor is also looming up as a possibility. Mr. Clarke has been threatening to retire and has been restrained so far with difficulty.

It is understood that Lord Strathcona has reserved the submission of his formal resignation as High Commisioner until he comes to Canada, which may be in two or three weeks. At all events it is his intention to be here to participate in the welcome to H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General.

After elections, should Sir Wilfrid Laurier be returned to power, his intention is, as has been known for some time, to appoint Sir Frederick Borden to succeed Lord Strathcona in London. The Duke of Connaught will arrive early in October and is expected to open the next Parliament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned Saturday evening from Montreal, when he spent a busy day conferring with prominent Liberals in regard to the conduct of the Quebec campaign.

C. J. Doherty Nominated.

Montreal, Aug. 88.—C. J. Doherty was unanimously chosen as Conservative candidate for St. Ann's division at the party convention held in Freeman's Hall last night. Mr. Doherty in accepting the nomination made a fighting speech criticizing the Laurier administration and prophesying a Conservative victory.

T. Chase Casgrain was present at the meeting and confirmed the rumor that he would again enter Federal politics, although he did not say in what division he was likely to accept the Conservative nomination.

One Way of "Getting Even."

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, has granted the 700 employes of the printing bureau here an increase of wages averaging $2 per week, and two weeks' holidays with pay per year.

Half a dozen men in minor positions at the bureau have been discharged, it is alleged, for participation in politics in Russell County. It is charged that they were supporting Geo. McLaurin, who is to oppose Mr. Murphy for the Liberal nomination on Aug. 15.

BOURASSA CONDEMNS BORDEN AND HIS IMPERIALIST STAND

Denounced the Conservatives and Mr. Borden for Their Imperialism in Sending Laurier to the Imperial Conference.

Three Rivers, Aug. 7.—The Manitoba school question was resurrected here yesterday at the big Nationalist meeting by Dr. Normand, who, when called upon, as chairman, to make the opening speech of the meeting, said the people of Three Rivers and St. Maurice were dissatisfied with the Hon. Mr. Bureau, the present Liberal member, and his confreres because they had sacrificed the interests of the French-Canadian people on the school, language and nationality questions.

DENOUNCED CONSERVATIVES.

Mr. Bourassa said he did not come to Three Rivers under false colors. He confessed he had been born a Liberal and had struggled for the party. He did not regret it, but it made him sorry to see that his former chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, had broken his word and failed in his honor.

In 1896, and before, Mr. Bourassa said, he had denounced the Conservative party for its abuses, and now he did not regret it. And what had been done in 1896 they now had the right to do to the Liberals—asked the Liberal voter to aid them in the fight against robbery.

THE MENACE OF IMPERIALISM.

"Then," said Mr. Bourassa, "I am not here to plead Mr. Borden's cause. Let that be well understood. For he, like Laurier, favored the menace of Imperialism. He was the first in May last to vote the adjournment of the House to permit Laurier to go to London to discuss Imperialistic questions, so much did Mr. Borden love Imperialism."

Mr. Bourassa then said the time had come to pronounce themselves on the question of the navy and on a scheme which had as its purpose to drag children from their mothers at the suggestion of Laurier and Borden, who had none at all. The best method to protest against this was to send a group to Ottawa around Mr. Monk to safeguard the liberty of the people.

Justifiable Homicide.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—A verdict of "excusable homicide" was returned yesterday morning by the coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Freda Adelman, the wife of a second-hand dealer of 141 West Craig street, who met death Saturday afternoon by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of her husband. The revolver was the property of Jos. Charles, a customer. HAYTI IN HANDS OF REBELS, WHO PILLAGE AND BURN CITIES

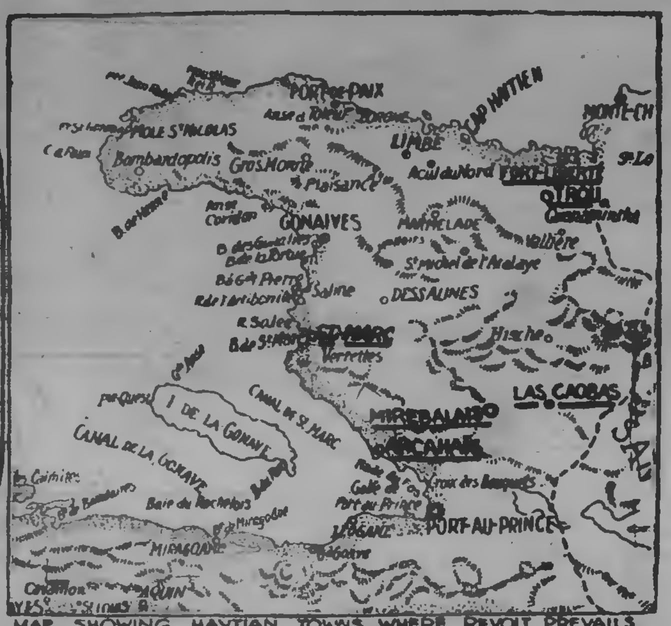
A HAYTIAN GENERAL



MAP SHOWING HAYTIAN TOWNS WHERE REVOLT PREVAILS

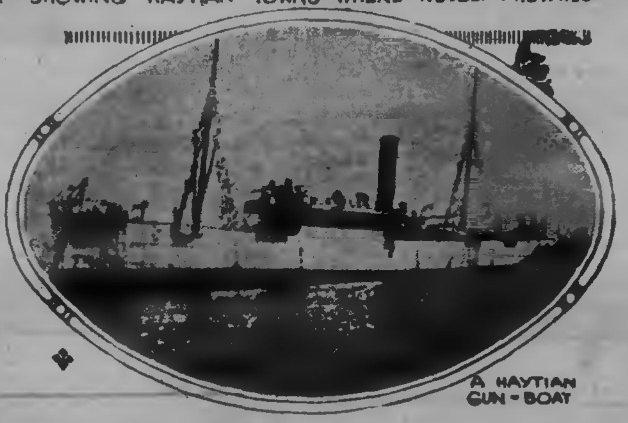
The Haytian rebels apparently have triumphed, according to despatches received from Cape Haytien, which paint the situation in the neighboring republic in the darkest colors.

The insurgents established a new base at Gonaives after sacking and burning that city and St. Marc.

Hundreds of government soldiers have deserted and joined the ranks of the revolutionists, who are now advancing in force on Port au Prince.

The Haytian capital is described as being in a state of panic. All business is suspended, the streets are deserted and the entry of the rebel forces is expected within a few days.

President Simon, who led the government forces which were routed two days ago and forced to retreat to Cape Haytien, escaped from the latter city and is now at Port au Prince.



A HAYTIAN GUN-BOAT

It is reported that the Haytian gunboat l'Eclaireur surrendered to the rebels.

General Prudent, the government delegate at Gonaives, is now leading the rebel forces there.

FIREMEN ARE BUSY MEN

Twelfth Annual Convention Held at Brampton.

Increase in Salary for the Paid Officers.

Brampton, Aug. 8.—The Provincial Volunteer Firemen's Association opened their 12th annual convention in the Town Hall here yesterday afternoon. There was an unusually large number of delegates present from all over the province.

The convention was opened by prayer by Rev. A. Ward, pastor of the Brampton Baptist Church.

He was followed by Mayor Thauburn, who welcomed the guests on behalf of the corporation of Brampton. In his address he referred to the many outstanding features of the town, placing special emphasis upon the sanitary system and Hydro-Electric system, owned and operated by the town. Rev. Mr. Ward also welcomed the delegates on behalf of the local churches.

Chief Harmsworth of the local fire company followed, and in a few well-chosen remarks, welcomed the visiting firemen on behalf of the Excelsior Hose Company, and also the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company of Brampton, under whose auspices the convention is being held.

President Skinner of Niagara Falls presented his report for the year 1910-11. The report recommended that an effort should be made by the association to have an act passed at the next session of the Legislature confirming their incorporation as an association. The president made a strong appeal to the association to raise the salaries of the paid officers, if at all possible, showing that the salaries now paid were quite insufficient, and that some officers not now on the pay-roll should be included in the list of those now receiving remuneration for their services. The address also drew attention to the annual fee paid by life members and suggested that the fee should be lessened by one-half.

MR. BORDEN COMING; HERE ON THE 24TH

It is likely that the meeting will be held in the opera house, as the most suitable place for a big gathering, and excursions will be run from all points in the central Ontario district to enable the electors to hear the great national issues discussed by the Conservative chieftain.

BALFOUR'S VOTE OF CENSURE FAILS TO MOVE ASQUITH MEN

British Opposition Charge Premier With Taking Advantage of the King to Get Promise of Creation of New Peers.

London, Aug. 8.—The last phase of the fight over the veto bill designed to restrict the powers of the House of Lords over legislation originating in the lower chamber, was entered upon in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, when A. J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, moved a vote of censure on the Government.

The bill was rejected by the House of Commons last night by a majority of 119. The motion was introduced by Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, and its defeat is considered to have failed to improve the Unionist cause.

The gravamen of the Opposition's charges against the Government was that Premier Asquith had taken advantage of the King's inexperience to bring about an abuse of the royal prerogative by securing the guarantees before the last general election. Mr. Asquith easily disposed of this charge by showing that the Ministers had pursued an entirely proper constitutional course. The result was that after the Premier's speech the debate on the Unionist side virtually collapsed.

Frederick E. Smith and others of the "diehards" made brave attempts to fan the flames against the Government, but were compelled to fall back on the well-worn argument that the members of the Government were being driven by their taskmaster, John Redmond, and that their whole object was to secure the easy passage of Irish home rule.

Walter Hume Long, ex-chief Secretary for Ireland, challenged Mr. Asquith to reveal his conversations with King George, but Winston Spencer Churchill, the Home Secretary, who wound up the debate, declined to consider for a moment such an unusual request.

The chamber was filled to its capacity. Peers and distinguished strangers were present in large numbers.

The diplomatic and ladies' galleries were filled, the occupants showing by their presence a continued interest in the proceedings which promise to be historic.

Mr. Balfour's motion, of which he gave notice on Aug. 2, was as follows:

"That the advice given His Majesty by His Majesty's Ministers, whereby they obtained from His Majesty a pledge that a sufficient number of peers would be created to pass the Parliament bill in the shape in which it left this House, is a gross violation of constitutional liberty by which among other ill consequences the people will be precluded from again pronouncing upon the policy of home rule."

The rival leaders were loudly cheered as they entered the room and Mr. Balfour received an ovation as he rose to present his motion rebuking the Government. The former Unionist Premier emphasized that he was conscious of the gravity of the situation and the seriousness of the step which he asked the House to take. He thought that it would be admitted that never in all its history had there been a more serious case or one which more urgently deserved or indeed required the consideration of Parliament and the emphatic condemnation of the Ministers.

"The Ministers," said Mr. Balfour, "have grossly abused their rights of advising the crown, and by abusing those rights put themselves above the constitution. They have acted wholly without precedent."

Not as Mr. Balfour conceived, in order to meet any great question of state, but "in order to further a party arrangement between different sections who support them, and in order to prevent the people of the country from pronouncing their opinion on home rule."

The Unionist leader asserted that the Ministry had placed the sovereign, who had just come to the throne, in a cruel position. The King was a fount of honor, but the Government, by their advice, had poisoned and corrupted the stream at its source. He dubbed the proposed new peers, "supers in this sordid drama."

If your lungs are weak, if there is consumption in your family, if Colds, Catarrh, and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but after resorting without benefit to poultices, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold, or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used"

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler, the local symptoms, such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets, which are taken after each meal purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons, and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone

BRODEUR'S RETIREMENT

The Montreal Witness has no doubts but that the retirement of Hon. L. P. Brodeur is a good thing for the administration of affairs at Ottawa. This Liberal organ points out without mincing its words that the department of marine and fisheries is in very bad shape, and that Lemieux must be either be an uncompromising reformer or lose his reputation in taking hold of the Brodeur portfolio.

The Witness is alive to the graft and the iniquity in the department of marine and fisheries, which is one of the worst samples of crooked administration ever given in Canada. Liberal though it is, the Witness has to condemn it in no unmeasured terms and rightly so. The Witness says—

"We are told that Mr. Brodeur who is retiring from the duties of his office of minister of Marine and Fisheries is busy clearing up the unfinished business of his department, so that he can leave it in ship-shape for his successor, Mr. Lemieux. This, he will no doubt, do in a superficial sort of way; but from all that we gather of the internal working of the office, to leave it in good shape would still be a labor of Hercules. Mr. Brodeur on succeeding to Mr. Prefontaine faced the task frankly enough—he made many reforms, notably in our own Harbor Commissions, and subjected the administration to open enquiry. The task of clearing up seems, however, to have been too much for him, as a pending enquiry has revealed the survival of some very slipshod, if not crooked ways. The people of Sorel do not seem to think all has been straight in the yards there, as in connection with nominating a representative for the Commons, they would not listen to Mr. Lanctot, the accused sitting member at all. We should judge that Mr. Lemieux in coming into control of that department has a task before him that will make him or break him. He must either be an uncompromising reformer or sacrifice the brilliant record he has been making for himself.

DIRTY WORK

Dirty campaign tactics may be regarded as smart by some people, but what do they get the tactician? The ordinary fair-minded reader, who likes to see British fair play, cannot help feeling sorry for those who deem it "hot stuff" to write and print such an article as that appearing in the Stratton organ on Saturday.

In a campaign the public record, the public doings of a candidate are a subject for criticism. Any man who has, as Mr. Stratton claims he has, been in the lime light for 25 years, and who has pursued the tortuous path leading through many strange deals, has a record that will stand an immense amount of muck-raking. The Liberal candidate's record is one that would make any man of ordinary susceptibilities want to confine the fight to the public issues, and not start in on a campaign of personal villification and slander.

Mr. Burnham would have been amply justified, after such an indecent attack on him by the Examiner, in chastising the writer of the article, but for the protection of grey hairs—grey hairs which should teach that in a moderate spirit lieth the height of wisdom. But if it comes to a muck-raking contest, the Stratton record is one that affords a bountiful supply of material.

The effect of the Bourassa-Burnham article, absurd and asinine as it was, should be to consolidate the Protestantism of the county in one strong whole. An attack on Protestants, coming from such a source, should be an indication as to how the wind lies. Mr. Burnham has a record that no one can truthfully attack, whatever his views may be on public matters. It is different with the Liberal candidate. The "boss of the riding" will probably find in the campaign that even the "bar'l" won't be successful in stemming the tide that is sweeping in against his bluffs and misrepresentations. The people who have a sense of British fair play—and they are legion—can only feel disgust at such buffoonery.

EVADING OBLIGATIONS

The jocularity that has been provoked by the Canadian navy attending a farmers' picnic and then running on the rocks on the way home has irritated the Liberal press. In fact they are shocked that both the incident and the navy should not be taken more seriously. A contemporary remarks: "The Canadian navy, developed on the lines at present laid down, will in a few years be a source of pride to all Canadians who have any feeling of natural self-reliance." The Canadian navy, "on the lines at present laid down" is, after nearly three years of do-nothingism, still a figment of the imagination, says the Ottawa Citizen. There has not even yet been a commencement made on the construction of the docks in which the Canadian navy, may in the dim, distant future, be built. The "lines at present laid down" have been lying down for three years, but as yet there is not even a dim prospect of a keel being laid down. In the time that has intervened since the Naval bill was passed Australia has had built and launched several first class destroyers and a Dreadnought.

The Liberal condemnation of the "shocking display of callousness" regarding the accident to the Niobe is a piece of hypocritical bathos. The dealings of the Laurier government with Canada's alleged naval program have been a travesty from first to last. And the fact that, after three years of alleged effort to bring forth a navy, the unfortunate second-hand, obsolete vessel which the Laurier government and the Liberal press brazenly try to palm off on the Canadian people as the nucleus of a navy, should have nearly sunk itself while returning from the arduous duty of attending a semi-political picnic, has been sufficient to excite the risibilities of everybody with a sense of humor.

When the Laurier Government was goaded by the resolution of the Conservative opposition into taking up the naval question and redeeming Canadian self respect, it asked the British Admiralty to suggest what Canada should do. The Admiralty suggested that Canada should supply a fleet unit, consisting of one or two Dreadnoughts and their complement of first class cruisers, torpedo destroyers and submarines. The Laurier government at once commenced the process hedging. A fleet unit was entirely too big an order and the Canadian representatives were directed to ask for something cheaper. The Admiralty accordingly furnished estimates for three or four cruisers and several torpedo boats. The Laurier government could not very well ask for anything cheaper than this, so the Naval bill was put through. Australia had accepted its part of the program without question, though it included one Dreadnought, and went briskly to work to carry out its pledge. As already pointed out, most of its naval quota is already launched or completed. The Laurier government has done nothing. It would neither have its quota such as it was, constructed in England, nor has it yet taken any steps to have it constructed at home.

In order to cover up the fact that it was not doing anything towards carrying out even the "tin pot" program, the government purchased two vessels that had been scrapped by the British Admiralty. The Rainbow was so small and old that even the Liberal press did not have the nerve to refer to it as a warship, but this antiquated third class cruiser, the Niobe, was hailed as the Nucleus of the Canadian Navy." This is the same vessel that the officer of a little German gunboat laughed at when told she was a warship, and in his innocence almost produced an international complication, chiefly fomented by Jimmy McShane, a Liberal political warhorse, now harbormaster at Montreal. Of course, there was method in all this nonsense and make-believe, because the old Niobe was intended as a screen for the fact that while Australia was busily making good on her naval undertaking the Laurier government had let three years go by and done absolutely nothing towards producing a real navy. And if Canadians are to wait until docks and shipyards are prepared to construct that navy many more years will elapse.

The Liberal press might be better employed in being shocked at the callousness of a government whose Imperial pledges are so lightly evaded. At the present rate of progress the boys on the Niobe will be drawing old age pensions before the Canadian navy is represented by any more than a "nucleus."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Laurier and Taft and take us in.

Laurier and liars like the Examiner.

The stampede in Quebec has begun. The last anchor of Laurierism is loosed. Sweep away the rottenness and the graft—and perhaps Taft will give Laurier a job over in the States.

When J. R. Stratton publicly admits that he is liable to be defeated this time, he must have that senatorship nailed down tight. But what if Laurier isn't returned to give it to him, as Laurier won't be.

Now that the Examiner has taken to fishing for Orange votes for Laurier, it might be asked what are its views on the Ne Temere decree. It has kept piously silent on the subject to date.

J. Israel Tarte used to say, sententiously, "Elections are not won with prayers." The Stratton organ should remember that elections are not won by political contortion such as it performed on Saturday. It should rely on the "bar'l."

The Niobe went on the rocks through a Liberal demonstration at Yarmouth. Laurier is going on the rocks like his navy, because of his adherence to the anti-British pact, and—well, various other trifles that concern the people of Canada.

RECIPROCITY AND THE FARMER

(From La Patrie, Montreal.)

The Gazette bases its opposition to the reciprocity pact on the difference in the economic situation to-day as compared with what it was in 1878. We then declared closer relations with our neighbors, because the domestic market was very restricted, and because we needed an opening for the surplus of our agricultural produce.

To-day, however, the English market absorbs such a large proportion of our produce that there remains hardly enough for local consumption.

We import more and more agricultural produce from the United States and so we have no need for her markets.

It is the United States which covets the Canadian market, and as they listened only to their own interests and closed their doors to us whenwe wanted to enter them in the past, so we ought not to admit them today when they seek concurrence with our products on our own markets; and not only the United States but the thirteen other nations which would be admitted at the same time to the benefits of this treaty.

An aerial postal delivery between Windsor and London, will be inaugurated within a few days.

CHAPTER II.

In my uncle's large front room there was a safe that he had picked up somewhere in the dark ages of his youth, doubtless upon some foreclosure; and it was one of the simplicities of his complex mind that he should cling to it with the faith which a child reposes in the toy savings bank in which he had deposited his treasure. It was a dogged enough looking contraption, and around it revolve the principal characters and events of this history as a moth circles a flame. Behind the portly doors were kept the integrals of his fortune; the mortgages, leases, deeds and notes that were the material evidences of his possessions. While it was nearly always practically empty of cash, at remote intervals, and for a few days at a time only, it contained considerable sums in specie. This last happened when he would collect the money on a mortgage or other security, and because of not feeling well would receive payment at the house instead of the bank. Once in a long while this would chance to occur after banking hours, or on a Sunday or holiday, and in that event, after the payee had departed, he would give himself over to a revel with the currency with all the delight of a child fondling a new toy. He did not seem to care for gold as the stereotyped miser always has, but would nose around among the bundles of greenbacks with the seeming fascination of a feline for catnip. It was during one of these scenes that our quarrel occurred.

I happened to meet Bruce one day at our noon luncheon. It was Saturday afternoon and my work was finished for the week. He came into the place where I sat and dropped heavily into a seat beside me. His appearance caused me to whirl upon him. His face was drawn tense as the skin of a drum, his eyes were heavy as though with a great weariness, and his hands aspen in their shakiness. He had the haunted look of a man who has been crushed, soul and body, by some appalling disaster. Marvelling at the evil transformation which had come over him, I let my hand fall upon his shaking fingers.

"What is it, Bruce?" I cried, sharply. He blotted the perspiration from his face and answered me, hoarse as a crow.

"It is all up. They have wiped me out clean as a whistle. Had everything I could rake and scrape on 'System' stock, and she has gone straight to the bottomest pit of inferno. And I was forty thousand to the good and was going to quit at fifty thousand and marry Clare." He burst into tears. "And now I can't marry her, for I am ruined, busted, blown up, shot to pieces. If any one should give me an automobile I couldn't raise the wind to fill its tires." His head dropped forward, and wiping his eyes dry, he sat with chest heaving. I stared at him.

"How much did it sink?" I asked slowly after a moment. He waved his hands helplessly.

"It didn't sink; it didn't take time to do that. It just plunged, dived, sounded—dropped like a ton of lead in a vacuum. I was wiped out before I could yell 'keno' and crook a finger. Oh, the miserable shame of it! Ass unspeakable! Fool unmentionable! Idiot unutterable! Ass! Idiot! Fool!"

Shocked but helpless, I surveyed him in silence. Presently his voice arose again, this time angrily.

"But that stock is only temporarily knocked down, and is bound to come up smiling long before the count. It was that damnable published lie that started the panic, and the scare will be over in 3 hours when the truth is known. If I only had $10,000 more I could get back in good shape in no time. But I can't beg, borrow or steal one-tenth of that sum. I'm an alley-infesting, free-lunch, pauper who can't even sell his soul because Old Nick figures he'll get it anyway free gratis. And there is our dear Uncle Abner sitting up there in his den this very minute plowing his fingers and nose through $40,000 that he has just collected in currency. I was up to see him in a dying effort to get him to stake me, but he only grinned at me like a totem pole and kept on counting the bales of yellow backs until I wanted to yell and had to run away to get shut of it." He got upon his feet, and in his anger banged the table with a metal object which he had tightly clenched in his fist.

"But I've simply got to get ten thousand for a month or two, I tell you, and I'm going to do it." Then suddenly subsiding, he turned to me in helpless importunity. "You couldn't spare me anything in the shape of an advance, could you, old man?"

The pathos of the appeal touched me, but I shook my head. "No, Bruce, I can give you nothing to speculate with," I replied quietly. He got up with a despairing shrug of his shoulders, nodded a hurried goodby, and was off on what was doubtless some last despairing quest. I saw no good in attempting to detain him, and therefore made no effort to call him back.

Thoughts of what he had told me filled my mind to the exclusion of all else. It was bad news, very bad news, indeed, and I knew that Clare would feel it keenly. Loving Bruce as I now knew she did, she would take his troubles deep into her own heart. And it was a miserable shame, too. Forty thousand dollars was a magnificent start along the road to fortune for a man only twenty-eight years old, and it would probably be many years before he could climb that high again. The suddenness of the catastrophe was a distinct shock to me. For an hour I pondered over it deeply, then, arising, I took my own departure homeward.

Uncle Abner was still nosing around among his stacks of currency as I entered. He glanced up at me quickly as I opened the door, then, ignoring me picked up a thousand dollar bill and began talking to it.

"Look at me, you beauty. Of course you don't know how I got you, but I'm going to tell you. I schemed for you days and laid awake for you nights. I sweated for you and set traps for you and denied myself for you, and finally I got you. You led me a pretty chase, but in the end I captured you because I had my soul set upon you. And why did I want you? Because you are the concentration of stored energy. All I have to do is to turn you loose in the world and sit back in my chair and watch. In a minute a hundred men will jump forth and hammer and saw and toil from morning until night. And the results of all their labor will be mine, because while they work for you, you belong to me. I could buy men, women or souls with you—but I won't. I am just going to breed you. I am going to breed you until you get me another like yourself, and then I am going to do it all over again. And you will never get away from me on this earth, either." He turned to me with that disgusting leer of his.

"Tom, how many of these beauties have you saved up?"

"Not any. And it doesn't look as though I ever would at the price I pay you for second-class board and lodgings." He leaped to his feet in a quivering rage, for the moment made speechless by my unprecedented insolence in daring to resent his insults. But his voice came to him soon enough. Grimacing like a chimpanzee he fairly squealed in his anger.

"Second-class lodgings! You never had enough money in your life to buy a quarter of it. And you never will have, either, you spendthrift. If I didn't charge you for your living you would have just that much more to go to the dogs with. You ought to thank me for it. Second-class board! You will be glad to get a bone to gnaw yet, you puppy." Suddenly he subsided to a sneer and began smoothing my coat over like a prospective buyer of old clothes.

"This suit, how much did it cost you, huh?"

"Fifty dollars."

"And the rest of that trousseau that you wear around in the mud, including the overcoat?"

"I don't know. I never figured it up. Probably seventy-five more."

He sat down with a thump and sat glaring at me as his voice gradually rose again.

"A hundred and twenty-five dollars' worth of dry goods on your back as you strut around the streets! And on your salary!" He popped up like a jack-in-the-box and stood before me, scarecrow-like, with arms outstretched and his clothes hanging in shapeless pouches from his slat-like frame.

"Look at me! This suit cost me nine dollars and I have worn it for a year. My shirt cost forty cents, my collar six and my necktie eight. Mean to say I am not as well dressed as you?"

"That is a matter of personal opinion. Anyway, it is none of your business so long as I pay you for my living. At any rate I have never had to ask you for money." He reached forward with his long arm and began thumping me on the chest with his bony knuckles.

"Hey! Wouldn't you though if you thought you could get it? Wouldn't you though, Mr. Peacock, with your fine clothes, if you thought you could wheedle a dollar out of me? But you know your Uncle Abner ain't fool enough to let you have it. I'd rather trust it to Bruce, for with all his foolishness he has got twice the sense that you have. He takes chances and some day may win a fortune, while you only spend, spend, spend. Get a cent from me! I'd like to see you." With a quick run he gathered up the money, shoved it into the safe, spun the combination until it rattled like a roulette wheele and faced me again with his nose wrinkled. I faced him in a boiling rage. For while I had always cherished the natural and legitimate hope that I, as his next of kin, might some day profit by reason of his accumulative instincts, he could have left his money strewn broadcast throughout the house from the time I had first come to live with him and I would not have touched a dollar of it, even had I known I never would be even suspected. Furthermore, none had a better reputation for honesty than myself, and his everlasting treatment of me as a potential thief had always nauseated me. Not caring how he might regard the act, I drew the key to the front door from my pocket and flung it on the table before him. It was the only key to the house I had ever possessed, and its surrender left me without means of entrance, but without another word I stalked out into the open, banging the door behind me. Never had I been in a more villainous mood than now as I strode through the trees on my way downtown.

I desired to see Bruce again. I was concerned to know just what turn his despondency might take, and I thought that I might cheer him up a bit. Knowing his usual places of habitat in his hours of recreation it was not long before I had located him. He was humped up buzzard-like in a semi-private room of a cafe, his hands sounding the depths of his pockets and his chin resting upon his breast. A cocktail, apparently untasted, stood on the table before him. I sat down on the other side of the board, noticing that his eyes were closed.

He had the general appearance of a man who had been drinking. Ordinarily immaculate of person, he was now semi-disreputable. He had not shaved that day, his necktie was disarranged and his hair rumpled. However, as I had never known him to be the worse for liquor, I was inclined to give him the benefit of the doubt in this case and ascribe his unkemptness to brooding over his misfortune.

"Bruce," I said after a moment.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Aug. 5 were 2225 cattle, 2400 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 715 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale consisted of 1300 cattle, 1200 sheep and lambs, 750 hogs and 775 calves.

A feature of the trade was the continued weakness in the market for cattle and prices since this day week show a decline of ¼c to ½c per pound, on account of the increased supplies coming forward and the very warm weather prevailing.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but the demand was somewhat limited, as even at the above reduction in values noted, butchers were not disposed to operate freely and carry large stocks of beef with no prospects of cooler weather in the near future, consequently trade was rather slow on the whole. Choice steers sold at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 6c to 6¼c; fairly good, at 4¾c to 5¾c; fair, at 4c to 4½c, and common, at 3½c to 4c per pound.

Altho the supply of hogs was much smaller than a week ago, yet the feeling in the market was weaker and prices ruled 50c per cwt. lower than a week ago. At this reduction the demand from packers was fairly good and trade was more active with sales of selected lots at $7 to $7.25 per cwt., weighed off the cars, but there were a number of lots which were contracted for at the latter end of last week delivered at $7.50.

The market for sheep and lambs was weaker and prices declined, owing to the increased offerings. The demand was good at the reduction and sales of lambs were made at 6c and sheep at 3¾c to 4c per pound. Calves were steady at prices ranging from $2 to $8 each, as to size and quality.

New York Live Stock.

Calves—Receipts 4100 head. Veals firm; grassers and buttermilks steady to strong. Veals, $6.50 to $9.50; grassers and buttermilks, $3 to $4.50; few feeders at $5; westerns, $4.75 to $7.25.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 14,100 head. Sheep steady to strong; lambs, 25c to 40c higher. Sheep, $2 to $4; culls, $1.50 to $1.75; lambs, $4.75; culls, $3.50 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts 9763 head; market strong at $7.40 to $7.75.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER
Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"
SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Jan. 25th, 1910.
"For many years, I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited food constantly and I lost 25 pounds in weight. I was afraid the disease was Cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.
I read about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this wonderful fruit medicine was making, and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has cured me when every other treatment failed and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'." DON'T LOVE THE ANTI-BRITISH PACT

Pickering People Much Opposed to Americans

Pickering, Aug. 6.—Politics is talked "after church" in Pickering Township and village. Reciprocity is the theme. The World man saw hundreds of voters during the past two days and the consensus of opinion points to a strong body of public opinion against the pact.

The United Empire Loyalists were the pioneers in this neighborhood and their descendants still have British connection blood in them. In the War of 1812-1814, the town meetings of Pickering, clerked by Thomas Hubbard, were not called because the men folk were at the front fighting for British connection against the Yanks.

There are few lovers of the Yank, here and the more the reciprocity pact is studied the less British it appears. Closer British connection is a thought that appeals to the yeomen of Pickering.

Labor vandalism is rife in France, owing to the refusal of the railways to take back striking employees.

TWO MORE MEN FOR FIRE HALL

Will be Temporarily Engaged—Chief Howard Wants a Hose Tester

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee held at the fire station last night there were present Mayor Morrow, Ald. Morgan, Metheral, Graham, Kerneghan and fire Chief Howard.

Chief Howard said it was necessary to have more men on the department and he had had a couple of applications in answer to Ald. Morgan's advertisement. He wished to take on two men now as there were about five emn who were to get two weeks furlough each.

The committee decided to leave the engaging of two men to the discretion of Ald Morgan and the Fire Chief, the men taken on the force now only to be engaged temporarily and at the end of the holiday season, on the Chief's recommend one of them might receive a permanent position.

In view of the fact that accidents often happen with the hose bursting with the engine test, Chief Howard recommended the purchasing of a hose tester which would cost about $180 As Mayor Morrow did not wish any of the committees to overreach their due appropriations, he advised the chairman to go over his accounts and see what money he would have left for the hose-tester.

PRIZE BLACK BASS CAUGHT

At Oak Orchard—Splendid Fishing at This Pretty Resort.

Oak Orchard, Perry Alexander's new resort on Gannon's Narrows, is keeping up its reputation as one of the best located places for fishing on the Kawartha Lacks.

A prize small-mouth black bass was landed by Mr. P. Keys, of Toronto, which when weighed touched six lbs. to the dot. The fish measured 21 inches long and 16 3-4 girth. These measurements were sworn to before a notary and the fish will be entered in Field and Stream contest. This is the only one of many large bass taken out of the waters in this vicinity, but none went over the five pound mark until Mr. Keys proved his worth as an angler.

Oak Orchard has been crowded since the middle of June and is all booked up for balance of season by American guests who desire a quiet spot where the fishing still holds good.

SHORT MEETING OF BOARD OF WORKS

Bell Telephone Company Will Erect Six Poles—Other Business.

A meeting of the City Board of Works was held last evening and several small matters were discussed Chairman Alderman Metheral said that the most important item was an urgent request received from the Bell Telephone Company for permission to put up six telephone poles on McDonnel street to establish telephone communication with the Bonner-Worth Company They request the assistance of the city engineer in supervising the wrok.

It was moved and carried that the request be granted.

There were present at the session, Mayor Morrow, Ald. Metheral (chairman), Ald. Butler, Graham, Anderson and City Engineer Hay.

GOOD GRAVEL SCARCE.

The Board have experienced considerable trouble in securing satisfactory gravel for Chambers street. Leary's gravel pit and the Foster pit contained poor stuff, and Sullivan's pit in East City was found to contain the best quality. As the chairman of the Board was authorized to purchase the gravel, he wished to be assured as to how it was to be paid for. It was moved and carried, that the gravel be paid for on the certificate of the city engineer.

WILL OPEN STREET.

Ald Butler inquired when Princess street was to be opened up. There are quite a number of houses on the row and the residents wish to have a clear thoroughfare. The chairman stated he would see into it at once. The extension of Aylmer street, also needed looking after.

Alderman Graham called the attention of the Board to the fact that so many small stones are left lying on the street He had spoken to the employe of the city who gathers up the stray paper on the streets, requesting him to remove them.

Alderman Anderson asked that a temporary sidewalk be built on Knox street in East City for the convenience of residents. This will be attended to immediately.

The Board then adjourned.

SUCCESSFUL MOONLIGHT

Of the West End Athletic Club.

The steamer "Otonabee" carried about two hundred merry-makers down the river last evening on a moonlight excursion, the occasion being the West End Athletic Club's initial outing of that description. Everybody had an ideal time, and, as one young fellow remarked: "It was the classiest moonlight excursion crowd of the season."

Enlivening music was dished out by the 57th regimental band, neatly enhancing the evening's enjoyment The commodious steamer left the Wolfe street wharf about 8 o'clock, calling at the street railway wharf also, and returned about 10.30.

The committee in charge deserve credit for their able management of the event.

EXCESSIVE SPEEDING

Cost Auto-Driver $10 at Police Court To-day

A young man, who drives his father's automobile, was fined $10 at police court this morning for excessive speeding. The infraction of the by-law occurred on Aug. 5th, on George street south, the driver stating that he was on an emergency run, having volunteered to take a Toronto party from the C.P.R. station to the locks in an endeavor to catch a boat

The complaint was laid by F. Bartlett who with two men, was employed in sewer construction work just above McDonald's mill. The complainant said that he judged the speed of the car when it passed him to be fully 25 miles an hour, and his estimate was corroborated by two other witnesses.

The defendant himself thought he might have been travelling at 15 miles an hour, but not fast enough to endanger pedestrians. His worship felt that while the actions of the young man in aiding the Toronto people to catch the boat, were kindly and laudable enough, yet he could not do otherwise than abide by the by-law, and imposed the fine, which the defendant paid.

ONLY A DRUNK

A man named Batten, who has been working in the woods all summer, came to the city and yesterday was conveyed to the police station cells hopelessly intoxicated.

His joyful spree cost him the usual $3 this morning.

SWIMMER SAVED HIMSELF; LEFT COMPANION TO DROWN

Canoe Upset—Non-swimmer Was Also Saved, However

Toronto, Aug. 8th.—Struggling in about ten feet of water in the lake, opposite Lee avenue, after he had been left by a companion who swam ashore Leonard Swan, twenty-two years, giving at 16 Ossington avenue, yesterday, narrowly escaped being drowned.

Swan was rescued by Alexander McNeill, who, fully garbed swam out and grasped the drowning man as he was going down for the last time. Swan was completely exhausted, and it was almost three hours, before a physician succeeded in resuscitating him. He was carried into a house at 112 Beach avenue, where he remained till 10.30 o'clock last night when he was removed in the ambulance to his home. Although the accident happened shortly before noon yesterday, the call for the ambulance was the first intimation the police got of it.

It appears that Swan and a companion, whose identity was not disclosed, went out in a canoe, which capsized when they attempted to pass each other in the craft. Both men were dumped into the water at a point where it was about twenty feet deep. Being unable to swim, Swan clung to the upturned canoe, while his companion, apparently a good swimmer, made no effort to render assistance. Upon reaching the beach the companion ran away, making his exit on Lee avenue. In the meantime Swan weakened and sank, being subsequently recovered by McNeill, who was some distance away from the man struggling in the water.

"That the following gentlemen act as a committee in conjunction with the county solicitor in ascertaining to what extent if possible the provincial government will increase the grant to such roads and to procure information from other counties that have adopted the system, with regard to carrying into effect the system, namely Messrs. Garbutt and Howden." The committee rose to meet at the call of the chairman.

Elm Street Resident Found His Horse at the Police Station

Possibly as a sequel to the telephoning for the police to go to Elm street Sunday night, the horse of Mr. Gerald McFadden, which was left to graze in front of his home, this morning was towed to the police station by a small boy, evidently an Italian. When Gerald heard where his horse had gone he went after it, prepared to pay its fine in order to save it the inconvenience of spending a fe wdays on the "hill," where its usefulness would not be appreciated. All it cost him, however, was a walk from Elm street to Water street.

Cocaine Fiend Gets Maximum.

Montreal, Aug. 88.—Bernard Foley, alias Howard, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having cocaine in his possession and offering it for sale. He was found in his room in St. Antoine street in an unconscious condition, and a box containing more than two hundred packages of the drug was found on a table.

Foley had just finished a six months' term in the Montreal jail for selling cocaine in the streets.

He was later arraigned in the recorder's court before Acting Recorder Leet and pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Leet imposed the maximum penalty, a fine of $200 and three months.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Samuel McElroy

There passed away at 10 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Samuel McElroy, the beloved wife of Samuel McElroy, 128 James street, in her 79th year, after an illness of only three weeks duration. A general breakdown of the constitution was responsible for her death.

The deceased had lived with her husband in Peterboro, since 1888, and was born in the township of Hope.

The late Mrs. McElroy was of a thoroughly charitable and kindly disposition, and throughout her long span of life proved a faithful and loving help-mate to her now grief-stricken husband.

In religion she was a Presbyterian.

The body will be forwarded to Port Hope cemetery on Thursday for interment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

BEYOND THE LIMIT.

Sir,—It must have opened the eyes of many of our Peterborough people, whose eyes are hard to open, when they saw that Lanctot, who was charged with various offences, and received a coat of whitewash, late M. P. for Sorel, was hooted off the hustings by an audience of between 10,000 and 15,000 French Canadians. This is the way they treat people in Quebec who have more cheek than they know what to do with. This man Lanctot was whitewashed by the Parliamentary Committee. If he hadn't been whitewashed it is probable he would have waited until he had been. For this much Lanctot deserves credit. People who are under indictment for fraud must have unlimited gall to set themselves up as the representatives of any decent party. There are very few instances of such cheek, and it says very little for our twentieth century civilization that people would put up with it for one minute. Sorel evidently wouldn't. If a man stands his trial when he has a chance and comes through it all right public opinion will make amends for any injury that he may have suffered, but for a man sent down for trial by a jury of his fellowmen to flaunt himself defiantly in the face of the people is a little too much, and may prove a dangerous experiment. People appreciate modesty and are willing to give a man all that he deserves, but when a man shows a contempt for public opinion the people are hardly likely to put up with it.

Yours truly,

PEANUT.

NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM AT THE LIFT LOCKS

Will be Formally Opened on Thursday With Music and Speeches

The electric lighting system which has been in the course of installation during the past month or six weeks at the Peterborough hydraulic lift lock is now complete, and the formal opening of the lock in the matter of lockages after night will take place on Thursday evening of this week. It is the intention that the inauguration of traffic over the lift lock by electric light will be fittingly celebrated. The public are invited to be present on Thursday to witness the first illumination of the lock. The band of the 57th regiment has been engaged for the occasion, and a program of music is being arranged. The illumination of the lock promises to add very much to the attractiveness of the structure, and the ceremony of the formal opening on Thursday night will no doubt be witnessed by thousands of citizens.

Committed For Trial.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 8.—Charles Hearst was sent up for trial yesterday morning on a charge of wilful murder laid by Chief Holmes. The preliminary hearing was given yesterday in the city police court before Squire Merritt, the city clerk. The crown brought forward sufficient evidence to show that Thomas Brown was killed by Hurst. He will come up for a hearing at the fall assizes. Hurst was not given bail.

Western Hold-Up Men Captured.

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—The city's epidemic of hold-ups is at an end. Yesterday Joseph Copeland and Edwin Black confessed to the series of assaults which have recently been made on midnight pedestrians.

Copeland, in an interview, received his late career, implicating Black. The pair will be sentenced Thursday.

Tied Up in the Fog.

Boston, Aug. 8.—About 3,000 men, women and children were landed from fog-bound crafts yesterday, and anxious friends and relatives, who thronged steamboat piers and yachting club floats, were delighted.

When the fog closed in about the Massachusetts shore late on Sunday pleasure boats, from excursion steamers to power boats, had to anchor.

Montreal Swelters.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—The heat yesterday was very oppressive, the thermometer standing at 90, and two deaths have been reported.

Jos. Latochelle, aged 60, succumbed to the heat in a boarding-house on Sanguinet street, and a man, as yet unidentified, was picked up unconscious on Cadieux street, and shortly after died at the hospital.

DODGING MR. SPEAKER

Rich Instances of Some "Nasty Ones" Handed by M.P.'s

It is very difficult for a member of Parliament to be openly rude to another when under the eagle eye of Mr. Speaker.

When Mr. Tim Healy, many years ago, said to an interrupter. "If you interrupt me again I will break your neck!" he was promptly suspended for a fortnight. All the impolite adjectives such as untrue, dishonest, etc., have long been barred. And the Speaker may at any time add to the list of phrases on the black-list.

But though Mr. Speaker is always on the watch for offensive phrases, there is many a case in which a witty M.P. has managed to make himself extremely nasty without being called to order. Sometimes it is in the withdrawal, however, that he turns the dagger in the wound.

It was an Irish member who some years ago remarked of the Irish Secretary, who had just answered a question, "Even the right honorable gentleman can at times be persuaded to tell the House the truth!" There were loud shouts of "Order! Order!" dnd the Speaker rose. Crushed, the erring member humbly begged unreservedly to withdraw the remark, and to state that there was not the slightest foundation for the statement! The Irish Secretary and Mr. Speaker still looked worried, however, as the business of the day went on.

It was Lord Cranbourne who once compared Mr. Gladstone's conduct on a certain matter to that of a pettifogging attorney. The Speaker, appealed to, declined to treat the phrase as out of order, but appealed to the good taste of the honorable member. The honorable member rose and remarked, "I wish, Mr. Speaker, to withdraw the phrase that the House considers offensive, and to apologize humbly—to the attorneys!"

One of the wittiest evasions of the Speaker's ruling was one by Sheridan, in the old Irish Parliament.

Sheridan was making accusations of corruption. There were shouts of "Name! Name!" The orator was really attacking the Secretary of the Treasury, a Mr. John Robinson, but before he could go on the Speaker ruled the name out of order.

"Mr. Speaker," Sheridan went on slowly, "you have ruled the mention of the name out of order, but I can assure the House that I could as easily give the name as I could say 'Jack Robinson'!" And a delighted House roared.

It was presence of mind that saved a hot-headed Kerry member some years ago from the Speaker's rebuke. He sprang up to answer an opponent. "The honorable member boasts so-and-so, and I will admit to the fool—" ("Order! Order!" "I will admit to the fool—" The speaker paused, and then went on, looking innocently puzzled, with, "I will admit to the full the value of his observations and experience." The angry shouts died away, and delighted chuckles took their place.

It is impossible for an M.P. to call another M.P. an ass with impunity, unless he does it very neatly indeed. Some fifteen years ago a Nationalist member used a phrase that brought from another member a reminder that he was still a subject of the Queen.

The interrupted member happened to be a member of the Queen's household. The interrupted orator stopped.

"In loyalty to the Queen I yield to no one," he went on, without glancing at his critic, "or in respect for her household—her menservants and her maidservants, her ox or"—and here he turned slowly and examined the interrupter through a pair of pince-nez—"or her ass!"

And not even the Speaker could intervene to save that unfortunate interrupter.

A JEWEL OF ILL-OMEN

Peculiar History of the Famous Hope Diamond

What ill-luck will befall the Washington millionaire who recently paid $300,000 for the famous Hope diamond? His wife, who intends to wear it, refuses to believe in the superstition attached to the stone. But the history of this jewel is one of misfortune and death.

The man who brought it from the East in 1668 was Tavernier, the great French traveller. His affairs at once went wrong, and, setting out to retrieve his fortune, he died of fever abroad.

Madame de Maintenon, the famous French beauty, dated her decline from Royal favor from the day she persuaded the King to allow her to wear it. Later, it was worn by Marie Antoinette, who died under the guillotine, and Princess Lamballe, who also wore it, was killed by a mob.

For forty years the stone was lost, but afterwards came into the possession of an Amsterdam diamond-cutter, whose son stole it, ruined his father, and then killed himself.

Since then its history has simply been a repetition. For a time it was in the possession of a Sultan of Turkey, who afterwards lost his throne, while its keepers at Constantinople were killed.

It has been lost several times, always to return with its message of ill-luck. Even the most unsuperstitious are inclined to wonder what will be the next misfortune it will bring.

ATE 144 EGGS FOR BREAKFAST

Sam Miller, a resident of Wilkesbarre, Pennsylvania, has issued a challenge to the world at large to compete with him in an eating contest. He declares that he will eat more in a given time than any other man living. Miller declares that his record as an eater has never been equalled. According to the New York Herald he once ate 144 fried eggs for breakfast. In a pie-eating contest he disposed of forty-eight ten cent pies. His latest feat was that of eating five chickens and fifty waffles, and drinking four quarts of coffee while the cooks prepared more food.

COMPETITION FOR FARMERS

Toronto News.

At present the Canadian farmer has a home market which takes 80 per cent of his produce. Reciprocity would deprive him of his monopoly and let in the farm products of the United States and a dozen other agricultural countries. Below are given the present Canadian duties on agricultural provisions of the trade agreement.

By glancing over these columns the Canadian farmers will see that the government's proposal is to sweep away practically all the protection that he now enjoys. Once the agreement is ratified he will have to divide his market with the farmers of the United States, of a dozen other nations and of 30 or 40 dependencies.

A great many of these products bring higher prices in Canada to-day than they do in the United States. Notwithstanding access to the American markets tens of thousands of United States farms have been abandoned. Some government papers pretend that reciprocity would give Canadian agriculturists two markets instead of one. If they spoke the truth they would admit that it would compel the Canadian farmer to share his home market with the farmers of half the world. Where now he has no competitor he would have twenty.

A BONUSED INDUSTRY

The importance of the farming industry to the people of Canada is abundantly demonstrated by the fact that there is not a province in the Dominion which has not established a department of Government to promote and safeguard the interests of agriculture. From Atlantic to Pacific a veritable army of experts is engaged in assisting the farmers of the country in their efforts to grow bigger and better crops, to produce finer fruit, to raise better live stock and to make more excellent butter and cheese. Experimental farms, where all manner of crops and soils are being tested for the general benefit of the agricultural community, dot the broad expanse of the Dominion. Agricultural colleges of international reputation, built and maintained by Government, are open to receive the sons of the soil, intent on acquiring that knowledge which will make them more expert farmers. Societies and associations, supported generously with provincial funds, exist in every county for the purpose of bringing the farmers together and encouraging them to improve the quality of their products. Problems of cold storage, the destruction of noxious weeds, the extension of markets, the spraying of fruit, drainage, and a hundred and one other questions are handled by experts in the employ of the State and for the direct advantage of the farmers. In brief, between the Dominion and the Provincial Governments, this industry is being bonused annually in these directions to the extent of several million dollars, and there seems to be no limit to the extent to which the State will go to carry out its paternal policy.

Dominion Government Expenditures

In the first place, there is the Dominion Government. During the fiscal year 1909-10, it expended close on to a million dollars through its Department of Agriculture to help the farmers of Canada. Of this sum over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars was paid out to cover the expenses of the thirteen experimental farms maintained by the Government. Nearly two hundred and fifty thousand dollars went towards putting into force policies for protecting the health of live stock. The dairy division spent $13,908.42; the fruit division $33,667.91; the live stock department $49,820.96, and there were expenditures for establishing fumigating stations, distributing bulletins, taking a census of cows, sending a commission to Europe to make investigations into the swine industry, experimenting in cold storage, and numerous other services, all calculated to benefit the farming industry.

Ontario Spends Nearly a Million

The Province of Ontario, which has probably the best machinery of any of the nine provinces for promoting helpful work among the farmers, and which incidentally spends far more than any of them to achieve this purpose, expended, in 1910, the sum of $748,169.33. In this total, the largest item was $336,563.85, the cost of maintaining the Ontario Agricultural College and Macdonald Institute for the year. Agricultural and horticultural societies were assisted to the extent of $122,731.31; the dairy branch took $57,795.58; the fruit branch $41,339.83; the live stock branch $31,770.10. Nearly $15,000 was spent on reports and bulletins and $27,592.19 went to the staff of district representatives and teachers of agriculture. Deducting a departmental revenue of $113,457.09, the net expenditure of the province was $634,712.24. This year the estimates call for an expenditure of $837,907.

Help Given in French Canada

The sister province of Quebec spent, during the fiscal year 1909-10, the sum of $294,850.01 under similar headings. It also provided, through its Department of Agriculture, $60,000 for the improvement of rural roads. It gave $146,700.00 to various agricultural societies, farmers' clubs, associations, etc. It handed $30,000 to butter and cheese syndicates; expended $17,000 for the encouragement of the dairy industry and $5,000 for the benefit of the fruit industry; it paid out $8,000 for a series of lectures on agriculture and provided $30,000 for the maintenance of agricultural schools. For the coming year the Legislature has voted $322,600 for the work of the department, with $250,000 for improving rural roads.

Farming Down by the Sea

Turning now to the Maritime Provinces, where agriculture does not bulk quite so large, Nova Scotia is found to invest approximately $75,000 a year in its agricultural interests. Of this $30,000 goes to the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm at Truro; $15,000 is paid out annually in assistance to agricultural exhibitions, $10,000 to agricultural societies, and the balance is expended on agricultural meetings and the general work of the department.

New Brunswick's expenditure for 1909-1910 was $41,478.20. The largest item, $12,987.13, was made up of grants to various agricultural societies; $4,759.16 went towards introducing improved methods of stock raising; $4,172.65 was spent on extending markets; $659.71 was paid out to sons of farmers to enable them to attend agricultural colleges. Poultry raising, horticulture, cold storage, dairying, grain competitions, etc., all received assistance.

Prince Edward Island's Subsidy

For the year ending September 30th, 1910, the little island province of Prince Edward Island appropriated $8,846.03 for the benefit of agriculture. Of this $1,130.44 was paid to the Farmers' Institutes of the province to aid them in carrying on their educative work; $635 went into scholarships to enable the sons of farmers to take courses at the Agricultural College at Truro. Substantial sums were expended in aiding the Fruit Growers' Association, the Dairy Association and the Poultry Association. With a revenue of $2,533.61, the net expenditure of the Department was $6,312.42, by no means an inconsiderable sum for so small a province.

Prairie Into Wheat Land

Passing to the Prairie Provinces, an investigation of the Public Accounts of the Province of Manitoba for the year 1910 discloses that this province expended $143,215.12 in the interests of agriculture. The largest portion of this amount went to the Agricultural College, which cost the province, in salaries and maintenance, $67,889.84. The sum of $47,871.93 was appropriated to Associations and Farmers' Institutes. There was a revenue from the College of $11,466.25, making the net expenditure of the province on the Department of Agriculture for the year $131,748.89.

Saskatchewan and Alberta Help

Saskatchewan's vote for 1911 in aid of its farming interests, which may be taken as a fair criterion of the annual provincial expenditure in this direction, is $289,870. Of this amount $47,100 is for general farming; $17,250 for the live stock industry, and $177,300 for the dairy and poultry industry.

Alberta has voted $384,340 for twenty-four items falling under the head of agriculture, but as it is expected that there will be a repayment of $224,000 for advances and loans made in previous years to various branches of the work, the net expenditure will only amount to $160,340. In this year's budget the largest item is $200,000, which will be used in making advance payments in aid of creamery work. Twelve thousand dollars goes towards establishing a dry farming experimentation station; $20,000 towards the destruction of noxious weeds; $14,500 to encourage dairy work, etc.

Development on the Pacific Coast

British Columbia, which spent $74,063.29 for agriculture in the fiscal year 1909-10, has voted over two hundred thousand dollars for the year ending March 31st, 1912. Of this agricultural associations get $78,500; $15,000 goes towards demonstrations of spraying and fruit packing in orchards; a similar sum is paid to the Farmers' Institutes; $10,000 is voted to aid fruit exhibitions.

Canadians Give to the Farmer

Summing up and taking the totals for the Dominion and the provinces; it is found that the people of Canada expend approximately the large sum of $3,300,000 per annum to bonus the farming industry, and that this sum is being increased very considerably each year. That the money is well spent, and that it is paid out ungrudgingly goes without saying. The increased productivity of the farms, the growing efficiency of the farmers, the improved quality of farm produce, the achievements of the agricultural colleges and the experimental farms all testify to the value of the work undertaken by the various Governments of the country in the interests of the farming community.

Shall These Millions be Wasted?

The point is, however, that all this vast expenditure of money and brains by the State in aid of Canadian agriculture should be taken into account before any final decision is made on any fiscal question affecting the interests of the whole country. The public are prone to regard the farmer as standing in a position of isolation, unconsidered heretofore when tariffs have been framed. On the contrary, there is no industry in Canada which has received such intensive and extensive financial treatment from the people of Canada as this same farming industry. It has been bonused to an extent unknown before, and no one has objected.

Do Not Court Invasion

Further, what effect will reciprocity in natural products have on this phase of the situation? Can the farmer or the people as a whole afford to have the country spend its millions to improve agricultural conditions, and then find its markets invaded by foreign producers, and all its educative work made of no avail? This is a possibility which should not be overlooked.

FAVORED NATIONS

A Glance at Competition Canada Would Have Under Reciprocity

The proposed Reciprocity Agreement will give a free ticket to Canada's markets to twelve favored nations and all the British possessions as well as to the United States. The following official record of the exports of some of those countries which would compete with Canada under Reciprocity shows that the United States is by no means the only country to be considered in the proposed trade pact:—

British India, in the year ended 1909, exported animals, grain, meat products and vegetables worth $57,260,756.

Japan, in the year ended 1909, exported fruits, grain, meat products and vegetables worth $787,559.

Sweden, in the year ended 1909, exported animals, fruits, grain, hay, meat products and vegetables worth $2,228,222.

There are certain natural products, such as eggs, which carry with them more than a commercial importance in the discussion of the Reciprocity question with the United States.

TRANSPORTATION TIE-UP PROMISED

Coal Porters and Carmen Are to Come Out.

London, Aug. 8.—The arbitrator chosen last week to effect a settlement between the employers and the striking dock laborers has given an award in favor of the men, but the dockers have decided not to resume work until the grievances of the coal porters and lightermen are satisfied. These differences are expected to be compromised within a few days.

Unless a settlement of the strike is speedily effected a serious situation will result. A strike was called Saturday of 30,000 carmen, coal porters and others, and thus the entire stoppage of London's transport trade is threatened. This would indirectly affect thousands of other workers and lead to a general cutting off of food supplies.

Big Tit-Up.

New York, Aug. 8.—Fifty British tramp steamers which are now in port here may be tied up indefinitely by reason of a strike ordered by the Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain. While the sailors on the vessels of the transatlantic companies sign for the round trip, the sailors on most of the tramp vessels sign separately for the journey each way. The union has issued a new wage scale embodying an advance all around and the seamen are instructed to refuse to sign except under the new scale.

Members of the American union are not allowed by their officials to take the places of the strikers.

Five Thousand Paraded.

London, Aug. 8.—Under ideal weather conditions, the biggest feature of the great London Old Boys' celebration, the parade, took place yesterday. Toronto, Hamilton, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, had banner turnouts. The Toronto men, headed by the Foresters' band, made a fine appearance. Detroit also made an especially good showing, that section being headed by a huge Stars and Stripes and Union Jack carried side by side.

The "flag incident" of a few days ago, due to the removal of the American emblem from the street decorations did not cause any unpleasantness. The Stars and Stripes were in evidence on all sides, and at many points on the parade. British colors came in for the loudest applause, but the American flag was given a hearty reception.

Boy Scouts, Highland pipers and fraternal societies in uniform were some of the features of the parade. It is estimated that there are 15,000 visitors in the city, 5,000 of whom took part in the parade.

Fireman Is Rescued.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—Fire broke out in the factory of the Anchor Bed Co., Wellington and Niagara street, at 12.30 this morning, completely destroyed stock and building, and two firemen were injured in the fight to put out the flames.

Owing to the disorganisation by the storm of the fire alarm system, the firemen found the flames far advanced in their destruction of the two-storey frame building.

Fireman Agnew Cluff and another entered the burning structure from the alley with a line of hose and Agnew, who was in front, had got but 15 feet inside when the roof above collapsed, falling through the floor above and pinning Agnew and Cluff, who was close at his heels, tightly to the ground under the still burning timbers. By heroic efforts he was rescued.

Big Total of Exemptions.

New York, Aug. 8.—Property in New York to the value of $1,896,308,879 is exempt from taxation and yields no revenue to the city treasury, according to a report made public yesterday. The exempt property is that owned by the city itself, the U.S. Government, churches, hospitals, charitable institutions and cemeteries.

Approximately one-third of the sum is represented, the report states, by the property of religious societies and institutions.

The largest single exemption is Central Park, valued at $250,000,000.

Terrible Record of Black Hand.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—A summary of the crimes committed by members of the so-called "Black Hand" in this city during the year 1911, made public yesterday gives a total of 18 murders, scores of stabbings and more than 100 bomb explosions, $500,000 collected in blackmail and the terrorising of thousands by threats. A NEWSPAPERMAN'S STORY OF HIS FIRST AERIAL JAUNT

James P. Haverson Says the Joy of Flying Banishes Fear—Took a Trip With Willard.

It is a scary sort of thing to be going to fly, it is a great thing to have flown, but the flying itself is beyond all words glorious. I flew for a few minutes and for a little way with Charles F. Willard at Donlands Aviation Field, Saturday evening. It seems such a hopeless sort of thing to set out to describe how it feels to fly. There is nothing which I have ever known before the terms of which seem in the least degree applicable to this new and glorious experience.

A newspaper man to whom I spoke of going up when I first found that there was a chance for the thing, a week ago Friday, advised me to write the story before I went. He said I would probably write a much better screed before than after.

I took his advice and the last half of the story in the last edition of last Sunday's World was the result. Now that I am trying to write this I believe he was right.

GLAD FORGETFULNESS

But the story itself is all wrong, it is filled with the scare that I expected to get, but when that biplane left the earth it left fear and all those little, ignoble things behind it.

A man would be ashamed of his immortal soul if it let fear take up a fraction of one of those glorious moments in the air. If ever you get a chance to fly with an experienced birdman, take it. Grab it quick as you would the greatest you know of to desire. If you are not abnormal you will know fear before you get into the air, but not after. There are few, if any, purely personal things for which a man could better take the small risk of death entailed.

For a week I was hung at Charles F. Willard's elbow. Ever since when Martin failed to ascend at Hamilton, he had promised me the first passenger ride in Toronto. I had had the worst of the scare before this. That was when I was deciding to take the chance.

From then on, the effort to get the chance, to take the chance, was too continually uppermost in my mind to allow fear to get much more than a peep into a mind taken up with devising ways and means of making the assured a little surer.

I had Willard's promise and when a man like that gives you a promise you know that you have something more than a few uttered words. Then I had Mrs. Willard pulling for me and Thos. P. Jackson, manager of the McCurdy-Willard Aeroplane Co.

Next I got a curious fear, the fear that Willard would be too cautious, that he would think that there was too much wind or that some other thing would intervene, or the machine might be smashed. No man ever prayed to whatever god he could call to his aid as I did through that week.

At last as the afternoon session was drawing to a close at Donlands, Willard sent two of his boys for sticks and ropes to make the improvised passenger seat; I never heard more welcome words than those which gave that order.

At last the seat was in and I was in it. I sat on two sticks from the wreck of McCurdy's machine, which I had seen splintered in his fall two days before. My feet were swung in a rope. I do not know where it came from, but I would not have cared if the last to use it had been the hangman.

There was a broken bolt at the front running wheel. It took five minutes to fix it. It seemed like ten. That was a little trying, but the desire to get into the air still held out every other thought or feeling.

At last Willard mounted to his seat and waved his hand to his "boys." "Blackie" started the machine, which coughed and spluttered for a moment and then settled down to that great hum which means power and lots of it.

A moment later the men behind had let go and we were rolling swiftly up the runway, but we were still on the ground and I was looking down at the wheels. They lifted, and it was only a bump. A moment later it was the real, free and uplifting lift of flying.

There is nothing like it. Your mind and every fibre of your being rises with your body. We were out over the road, across a field and over a fence and then we sailed over the brow of the slight rise which had obscured the gully beyond.

Willard looked back at me and laughed. He lifted both hands from his steering wheel, but that did not matter. By that time I had let go with my left hand myself. I wondered that the whole great adventure could be so simple.

Just over a reaper standing in the middle of the field we turned. The machine "banked" up against the wind and wheeled about on a slant. Then we were on our way back. When we approached the field from which we had risen, Willard turned her sharply towards the ground to which we came with a graceful sweep. Then we ran along on the wheels again. There was just one thing I did not want to do and that was to get out.

I had taken a set of green dice with me as a mascot, and they had worked. I had flown and I had come down safely. But it is the man at the wheel who means everything. Willard gives you the feeling of confidence that one has in the man of infinite courage who is not afraid to take infinite precautions. Any time that Charlie Willard points to the seat of his machine I will be there as quickly as I can get for as long as he will let me stay.

SAVED FROM WATERY GRAVE

Ten Men Rescued in Mid-Ocean on Derelict.

Schooner Sprang a Leak, and Became Water-Logged.

New York, Aug. 8.—Ten men rescued from the mid-ocean shipwreck of the French schooner Charles Henry were brought safely into port yesterday by the Wilson Line steamer Francisco. They were taken off the schooner by the Francisco on July 30 while the steamer was on her way from Hull, England, in latitude 48.10, longitude 24.50.

The Charles Henry, a three-masted topsail schooner, was bound from St. Pierre, Miquelon, for Havre, with a cargo of fish when she ran into a storm on July 26, and sprang a leak. For four days and nights the seven members of the crew and three fishermen aboard as passengers, worked the pumps, but the water gained as their strength lessened, and they were about exhausted when the Francisco sighted them on the evening of the 10th. A heavy northwest gale was blowing, but learning the schooner's plight Captain Clarke lowered the starboard life-boat, in charge of Second Officer Law, and after two perilous trips all those aboard the water-logged schooner were transferred.

Before the last man left the Charles Henry attempts were made to set her on fire so that if she floated she might not be a menace to navigation, but owing to the high seas these efforts were unsuccessful. Captain Pen and his men saved nothing but their clothing.

Drowned In Sight of Wife.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—A regrettable drowning accident occurred on the Jacques Cartier River Sunday at Val Cartier, by which a young man named Richard Aikens, 27 years old, lost his life. He was not long in the water when he sank. The accident was noticed by his wife, who screamed for help, but when it arrived the unfortunate man was lost to view. The body has not been recovered.

DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off— Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes as naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

HON. G. P. GRAHAM TO HAVE HIS HANDS FULL IN BROCKVILLE

Former Opponent Will Again be His Contestant—The Brockville Convention—Liberal Meeting a Fizzle Lemieux is Not There.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 9.—Brockville was in the throes of political excitement yesterday, with two conventions on at the same hour in different portions of the town. The result of the deliberations of these bodies, both numerously attended, was that Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, will again lead the Liberal forces, and John Webster, commission merchant, will oppose him on behalf of the Conservative party.

Mr. Webster led Mr. Graham a merry chase in the elections of 1908, cutting down a high Liberal majority to 144. In the present fight he is expected to do infinitely better, indeed it is predicted that he will force the Minister of Railways to the dust.

To-day Mr. Webster was made the unanimous choice, and on his behalf Andrew Broder, M.P., Morrisburg, A. E. Donovan, M.P.P., and H. A. Stewart, K.C., delivered addresses.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux failed to put in an appearance at the Graham meeting, as advertised. It was said he had important business at home in his own riding, where things are not running too smooth.

Last night the Ministers spoke at Athens, fifteen miles distant, carrying their own audience and band from Brockville by special train.

Donald Sutherland Chosen.

Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 9.—Donald Sutherland, director of colonization for the Ontario Government, will represent the Conservatives of South Oxford in the coming Dominion elections. Mr. Sutherland was the unanimous choice of the convention, which was held at Mount Elgin yesterday.

Carrick For Rainy River.

London, Aug. 9.—J. J. Carrick, the Ontario M.P.P., says he has been considering since Thursday whether to accept the nomination for the Thunder Bay and Rainy River district. Yesterday, after the receipt of cablegrams from R. L. Borden and Hon. Mr. Cochrane, he decided to accept. He sails on the Royal George to-day.

Assumes Reins of Office.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Dr. Beland was sworn in at Murray Bay yesterday as Postmaster-General by Earl Grey, according to a private despatch which was received by a prominent Liberal. No confirmation has been received. Mr. Lemieux, who was in the city yesterday morning for a short time, on Government business, returned to Ottawa yesterday afternoon.

Borden Opens Aug. 15.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—R. L. Borden will open his campaign in London on the 15th, the day selected for the Laurier meeting at Simcoe. The Ontario itinerary arranged for Mr. Borden and sanctioned by him yesterday, is as follows: London, Aug. 15; Chatham, 16th; Simcoe, 17th; Woodstock, 18th; Palmerston, 19th; Berlin, 21st; Owen Sound 22nd; Toronto, 23rd; Peterboro, 24th, Campbellford, 25th, Napanee, 26th, Brockville, 28th.

Challenges Bourassa.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Aug. 9.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will be the chief speaker at the St. Hyacinthe meeting next Sunday, and as H. M. Beauparlant, ex-M.P. for the county, has issued a challenge to Mr. Bourassa, who is the local member for the same constituency, to be present and discuss the political issues of the day, the situation becomes interesting. For weeks past the Nationalist chieftain has openly charged, in The Devoir, that the Postmaster-General has evaded him.

Liberal Convention at Montcalm.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The Liberals of Montcalm will hold their convention at St. Julienne next Thursday, Aug. 15.

CADETS PAID THEIR FARE

Had to Bear Expense of the Trip Home

When Niobe Was Stranded on the Rocks

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Speaking with reference to the story of one of the Toronto cadets on the Niobe, that the boys were sent home at the expense of their own bank accounts, made up of half a dollar a week deducted from their pay, it was stated at the Naval Department yesterday, that the lads sent home from the Niobe were really enjoying their regular leave of absence.

As a matter of fact the Department was figuring out how the lads could be grouped for leave of absence, so as not to have too many at one time, when the accident to the Niobe occurred, making it necessary to send them all ashore. In this was found a solution of the problem, and the whole contingent was given leave of absence.

In the case of leave of absence the cadet pays his own traveling expenses up to a limit of $9, the Government paying the balance, if this figure is exceeded. This was done in the case of the Niobe cadets, it was affirmed by the naval official.

A strong flow of good gas was struck at Rodney in the well which has been drilled on the property of the Heinz Pickle company there.

To Auction a Railroad.

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 9.—Judge Daniel Pabst yesterday entered a decree in the Court of Common Pleas that an order be given the sheriff of Marion County commanding him to have appraised and sell at public auction, the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railroad Co. to satisfy a mortgage of $1,000,000 given the Western Reserve Trust Co. of Cleveland, two mortgages of $300,000 each held by the Standard Trust Co. of New York and a mortgage of $2,500,000 held by the Mercantile Trust Co. of New York, the last named covering the other three and being ordered held a prior.

Commission of $100,000.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Suit has been entered in the Superior Court here by the House of Browne, Limited, real estate agents, against the Lyall Realties, Limited, in which Mr. Peter Lyall is chiefly interested for the recovery of the sum of $100,000.

The plaintiff declares that certain properties in Long Pointe Parish were purchased and were under contract to be divided into lots, etc., and sold. He alleges that a different disposition was made of said lands and claims ten per cent. commission on the sale price of $1,000,000.

Rotterdam, Aug 9.—The German steamer "Guttenburg" sank after her boilers exploded and broke her in two. Six persons were drowned, and ten injured.

BRANDED TEN YEAR OLD GIRL ON ARM WITH RED HOT IRON

Brutal Treatment of Child is Aired in Montreal Court.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Branding with a red-hot iron was the method of punishment Marie Rose Rousseau claims her parents used when she did not do as they desired.

Louis Rousseau and his wife were brought before Judge Leet yesterday morning, in the recorder's court, charged with cruelty to their daughter, Marie Rose. They pleaded not guilty and were remanded until Aug. 10, pending an investigation of the case by H. Skroeder, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children.

Marie Rose, who is only ten years of age, told the court that when she did not sweep the house and wash the dishes as she was told, she was struck and beaten by both her father and mother.

Frequently, said Marie Rose, when her parents did not think kicks and cuffs sufficient chastisement for her offences, they would roll up her sleeve and while the step-father held her, her mother would brand her on the arm several times with a red-hot iron, while she screamed with pain and was helpless to resist.

"All aboard for the "easy money" boys.

From now until Sept. 21st it will pay you to hang around the hotel bar doors, and in the public places where you will be quickly and easily reached.

Keep your pocket flaps open, and your gullet primed. What is an election for, anyway?

Were you in on the game last night? A "good-fellow" made the rounds of some of the hotels. "The boys" lined up two deep. It was a great night for the bar-keeps. To-night there will be relays behind the polished oak and cherry.

"The boss of the ring" must have the vote. That's where the boys get in easy. But just a tip. Order champagne, or something worth while. Hang the expense. There's more to come from the same source.

Drink deep, live long, and laugh merrily—and on Sept 21st turn out the Laurier crowd, and the survivors of the Ross crew. But enjoy the good things that are going while you may, for it passes this way but once; our old friend "Opportunity."

Sees No Reason For Rust.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 9.—In discussing the black rust rumors, Supt. McKillican of the experimental farm, expressed the opinion that the great bulk of the wheat in this territory was too far advanced to be very seriously injured by any rust that may appear now. He said that he thought it would be safe to take a middle course between opinions of those who are attempting to create a black rust scare, and those who claim there is nothing whatever the matter with the crop.

The experimental farm is situated low, and is particularly well suited for producing rust in such a year as this. Considerable wheat was cut there on Monday, and McKillican says there was no appearance of rust on it. There is rust on some of the late varieties, but nothing that is calculated to do much harm.

PEERS PASS VOTE OF CENSURE THE COMMONS TURNED DOWN

Earl of Halsbury Draws Picture of King and Asquith —Cabinet not Unanimous.

London, Aug. 9.—By a vote of 282 to 68 the House of Lords last night carried a motion made by Lord Curzon censuring the Government for having secured from the King a promise of sufficient peers to pass the veto bill should that measure be rejected by the Upper House of Parliament. The motion was similar to that of Arthur Balfour, the Opposition leader, which was lost in the House of Commons Monday by a majority of 119.

With the result a foregone conclusion the debate in the Lords last night created little interest. The speeches of the Conservative peers rang with charges that the Government had prostituted the prerogatives of the crown for the purpose of carrying home rule for Ireland without consulting the people.

The Earl of Crewe in opposing the motion caused something of a sensation by admitting that the members of the Government were not all of one mind with respect to the creation of new peers. He said King George regarded the plan "with legitimate reluctance" and that it depended upon the action of the House of Lords whether the Government would be compelled to create new peers.

The Earl of Halsbury charged Premier Asquith with being guilty of an atrocious breach of his trust. He drew a pathetic picture of the young and inexperienced King at the mercy of an astute lawyer, who told him that the creation of peers was the only way of solving the problem of the veto bill.

Viscount Haldane and Lord Loreburn were among those who spoke on behalf the Government, while Lord Selbourne and Lord Lansdowne supported the censure.

Amendments Clipped Off.

London, Aug. 9.—The veto bill, shorn of the vital amendments of the House of Lords, but with some of the minor concessions added to it, will be presented to the House of Lords today, but there are so many peers who wish to take part in the debate that a vote is not likely until Thursday.

The insurgents have obtained a weighty recruit in Lord Roberts, who has announced his intention to vote with the followers of the Earl of Halsbury against the measure. Lord Roberts contends that in politics, as in war, the path of duty also is the path of safety.

The decision of the Government to take up the House of Lords' amendments to the veto bill seriatim instead of enbloc involved a prolonged sitting, owing to the opposition of the Laborites, who contended it was a needless concession to the Lords and compelled the Ministers to accept a modification of their proposal that the Speaker should consult the chairman of the committee on ways and means and the chairman of the committee on public accounts to determine the character of bills.

After the House had carried minor amendments dealing with the Government concessions and committees had been appointed to draw up the reasons for the Lower House disagreeing with the amendments of the Upper Chamber an adjournment was taken.

GRAIN MEN OPTIMISTIC

Rust Reports Not Causing Any Worry

Many Estimates are Over 200,000,000 Bushels

Toronto, Aug. 9.—Reports from the Canadian West up to last week were of the most encouraging nature, and it is only during the last few days that anything like a crop scare has been in effect. Now there is talk of black rust in the wheat, and particularly so in Southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan Provinces, in the vicinity of the international border line. The Chicago grain exchange has gone through the throes of a scare of this nature, and reports from the so-called crop experts sent out by the grain houses of Wall street, have been the factors on which the damage has been based.

The time has passed when the action of the grain exchanges could be taken as an absolute criterion of crop prospects, however, and local grain men and bankers are not disposed to view the movement of prices as of anything more than passing importance, relying altogether on the statement of their own men in the field, and on the opinion of the farming community at large.

Some rust damage has been conceded in Southern Manitoba, but despite this fact no apprehension is felt by local authorities on the crop situation. It is pointed out that the wheat has advanced to a stage where there is not likely to be any material damage occasioned by the pest, and that, with fair weather from now on to harvest, a new record for production should be established.

The consensus of opinion is that the crop will even surpass the big estimates made by such authorities as Sir William Whyte of the C.P.R., who stated that the yield should approximate nearly 200,000,000 bushels. Estimates far and above this were the rule rather than the exception among the grain men, and an average struck from some round dozen estimates ran into 217,000,000 bushels.

When it is remembered that the wheat in the Canadian West was only 117,000,000 bushels last year, the significance of this will be readily apparent.

British Steamer Collided With French Vessel Cutting it in Twain

Special to the Review.

Gibraltar, Aug. 9—Cut almost in twain by the British steamer "Silverton" in the straits of Gibraltar, the French mail steamer "Emile", sank carrying down to death, 93 passengers and members of the crew. The "Silverton" managed to pick up twenty-three persons who kept afloat.

A heavy fog was the cause of the collision.

Senator Fry Dead.

Lewiston, Maine, Aug. 9.—William Pierce Fry, senior U. S. Senator from Maine, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Helen White. The end came at 3.55 p.m. At his bedside were Mrs. White and his other daughter, Mrs. Alice Briggs, who also resides in Lewiston. Although he had been ill for a long time, death came suddenly.

POPE PIUS IS SUFFERING FROM SEVERE ATTACK OF GOUT

SIR ALAN B. AYLESWORTH

Who is retiring from the Laurier cabinet.

The township of Nelson are constructing six cement bridges, besides macadamizing a long stretch of roadway this year.

Doctors Orders Keep Him Closely Confined—Is 77.

Rome, Aug. 9.—Pope Pius is suffering from a severe and painful attack of the gout, and upon the orders of his physicians is keeping closely to his chamber.

Dr. Petacci, private physician to his holiness, and Dr. Marchiafava, consulting physician at the vatican, who are in attendance, say that if there should be any change to cooler weather, they hope for the speedy recovery of the distinguished patient.

The doctors declared last night that the case would not be considered of the slightest importance were the Pope not an elderly man—he is 77 years old—or if his constitution recently had not been weakened by an attack of laryngitis, which also affected the trachea, and the excessive heat. The attack bears all the classical characteristics of gout.

Yesterday when Drs. Petacci and Marchiafava visited his holiness they found his condition somewhat better and the patient taking nourishment; but with the approach of night the paroxysms of pain became acute. Pope Pius complained that in the right knee he experienced a burning sensation and severe throbbing and pricking pains. The inflammation of the affected part is so intense that Pope Pius dreads to have the leg moved or jarred. Even the weight of the bedclothes on it or the slightest shaking of the bed causes him much pain.

"PILLS LIKE A FYLE"

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia. Mr. Marsh Selwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills. "For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were like lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and diarrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exert on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I know it will be of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache, constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE UNFAILING TAFT

President Taft's latest fulmination makes great reading in Canada. It shows us just exactly what reciprocity will not do for us.

He admits that the American "general lumber supply and the supply of spruce wood for paper-making are being rapidly exhausted."

He admits that "it is of the highest importance" for all concerned "to secure a letting down of the bars in Canada for the exportation of pulpwood." Not, mark you, for the exportation of paper, or even of pulp; but of pulp wood, the rawest of raw materials, says the Montreal Star.

He explains that by letting in free pulp wood grown on private lands in Canada, "it is hoped that the difference of $5.75 between the duty on paper from restricted wood, and no duty on paper made from unrestricted wood, will induce the provinces to lift their restrictions." There is frankness for you! That is the Norris plan of campaign.

He says that Canada is so far north that her agricultural products cannot compete with the Americans. She cannot fatten cattle as they are fattened in the United States, and, therefore, it has become very profitable for American farmers to import young cattle from Canada, even with the duty on them, and to fatten them for the Chicago market. The United States exports to Canada a great many more horses than she imports from Canada. She sends to Canada a much larger amount of potatoes than she receives from her. The United States exports to Canada about fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada exports to the United States."

It is to be hoped that the farmers will carefully read the above paragraph. It is the whole story of "the market of ninety millions."

As for our wheat, it can be taken care of at Minneapolis "because the capacity the capacity of the American mills is thirty-three per cent. greater than is needed to mill the wheat" of the United States. This, moreover, will give the American stock and cattle raisers and dairy farmers the benefit of the by-products of this additional milling.

He argues that reciprocity will not hammer the prices of American farm lands down to that of Canadian prairie lands because the Americans have gone in for the development of secondary or manufactured products, which is far more profitable that the raw material production of the Canadian West. But would not Canadian farmers like to get that higher profit?

He admits that he wants "free trade in everything," and that he instructed his commissioners to get as many of our manufactured articles on the "free list" as we would allow.

This one article from the pen of President Taft should be enough to secure the rejection of reciprocity in Canada. It absolutely smashes the argument from an economic standpoint in favor of reciprocity so far as Canada is concerned.

DECENCY IN POLITICS

In another column will be found an article from a Toronto newspaper referring to the remnant of the old Ross gang, who are supporting Laurier in the present election—a remnant that is bedraggled and bespattered with the dirt of a disgraceful political morality.

If the decent electors of Ontario, many of them good Liberals and strong Liberals, would have none of this gang, in 1905 how can they stomach the same men in 1911? Time improves the quality of whisky, but time brings decay and rottenness to a cancer on the body politic. These men who were so openly defiant in their crookedness and bare-faced jobbery, in 1905, are not saints with seven foot wings in 1911. There is Donald MacNish for one. He is the hero of the West Elgin ballot atrocities, and the burning of the ballots in the parliament buildings that were to have told a tale of stuffing unique in the annals of even Canadian Rossism and Strattonism.

There is J. R. Stratton for another. He was the member of the Ross government, whose dealings with Friend Gamey compose a most disreputable chapter in the history of that lamented organization. Yet though the decent Liberals joined with the Conservatives to administer the most smashing blow ever dealt a government in Canada, these men who were the principals in the sinister dealings that so aroused the electorate, will not stay down. They have attached their tentacles to the Laurier ship of state, and it is unfortunately true that many of the electors seem to have forgotten the lesson of 1905, or let their righteous indignation cool with the passage of time. These men find in the larger sphere of Ottawa politics—and especially when there are others who are equally "classy" in the game, other Pugsley's, to wit—that their past does not rise up at every turn, to point a contemptuous and scornful finger at them. In a common crowd they feel at home with their record.

Whether the people of Canada can be aroused to the grafts and the iniquities at Ottawa, as the people of Ontario were roused in 1905 is hard to say. The signs point this way, but Canada is a large country, and people are to prone to be indifferent to the robbing of the country when it is done a long distance away, and does not affect them directly. What a man would be wildly indignant about in his home civic affairs, does not worry him when perpetrated at Ottawa. The difference is in perspective.

J. R. Stratton boasts that he has not been beaten in 25 years. His methods of conducting a campaign, the free use of "influence" make him a hard man for a self-respecting and decent candidate to beat—a candidate who would not stoop to the Stratton level to achieve victory. Some men care not for the means by which they achieve their purposes, the end justifies it all. Other men have some principle, some scruple about committing sins that would put some occupants of the penitentiary to blush. It is all in the mental view point. When a man wallows in political debauchery for a long time, he cannot rise above that level and he thinks that everyone else sees him from that level, low as it may be.

The electors of West Peterborough should pause to consider what they are endorsing in the coming election. They should reflect whether they will vote for a man of the Stratton type, or for a man with a record such as J. H. Burnham has got. Mr. Burnham has not achieved a cabinet position. He has never been a member of parliament, but he is no less a desirable representative for that. In the choosing of a representative cabinet experience is sometimes the last thing to be sought for. A clean, able candidate should have not trouble, in the personal equation, in getting the suffrage of the decent, honest electors of West Peterborough, who would like to see the riding at least retain a measure of self respect.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Laurier, and let us go to Taft.

Sir Allen Aylesworth is deserting the sinking Laurier ship. He suffers from aural trouble, but he isn't deaf to the sounds of the coming storm.

Mr. Borden is coming to Peterborough on August 24. Keep the date pasted in your hat, and plead with the ice-man for cool weather, so we can enjoy a hot time.

Murphy gave several hundred printers in the government printing bureau an increase in salary, and "fired" fourteen whom he suspected of having political opinions he didn't appreciate. This was "it" for Murphy.

The post-office extension is going along nicely, thank you. Some men are employed on the work, and it is believed that the force will be considerably augmented before Sept. 21. The week previous to September 21 there will be a great demand for labor. Any man will be able to get a job.

As was pertinently pointed out in a letter appearing in the Review yesterday, 10,000 or 15,000 French voters hissed Lanctot, M.P., off a platform because he had been guilty of graft in the Sorel navy yards, though white-washed by a parliamentary committee. What would they have done if Lanctot had appeared before them in complacent respectability, while sent up for trial by a jury of twelve honest men in connection with one of the biggest scandals in the history of the country? We point at these French people with more or less disdain, but does this not look as if they had a higher moral standard than we have? A little bit of house-painting graft is not a heinous sin, as sins go, with the Laurier crowd. It was merely an error of judgment. What sort of treatment would Lanctot get in Peterborough?

He opened his eyes and looked at me vacantly, but made no reply. In a general way I attempted to console him, but he only shook his head in silence, and finding my efforts unrewarded I finally abandoned them. Ordering a mild concoction for myself, I touched his glass and drank to the hope that better times might soon be on the wing. He emptied his glass without reply, and sank back again into his dejected posture. Five minutes later he seemed to be half asleep, and I determined to take him bodily in hand. Not wishing to have him seen in that condition by any friends who might chance to enter, I shook him into a semblance of life. Then making him take my arm, I assisted him into the open air. Darkness had already fallen and the lights of the skyscrapers were beginning to sparkle. He lurched heavily against me, and seeing that his condition was rapidly becoming hopeless, I signalled a cab, opened the door and thrust him inside. He fell upon the seat, muttering some address to which he wished to be taken, and I turned to the Jehu, who was propping him up.

"He will be all right in a couple of hours. At present he is not feeling particularly well and should be taken care of," I said significantly. The other nodded his understanding. Then with brief instructions for him to handle his charge right side up with care, I turned away as he picked up the reins.

I formulated my own plans for the evening. In my then state of mind, I did not care to exert myself, prefering to go where I could sit quietly and be entertained by others. I decided upon the theatre. A block further on I happened across a banking acquaintance, who, upon my invitation, joined me. At the end of the performance we emerged. It was now in the neighborhood of 11 o'clock, and, shaking hands, we parted for the night.

Having thrown down my key to the house, I decided to stay downtown until morning. Crossing the street, I entered the Pacific Hotel. I knew the clerk at the desk, and saluting him by name, I asked him to assign me to a room a few floors up and fronting on the alley, such a location being quieter in the early morning hours than a room facing the street. He gave me the key and a bell boy immediately showed me to my number.

Not being accustomed to retiring before 12, I was not in the least sleepy. Leaving the light burning, I threw myself upon the bed as scene by scene I ran the film of the events of the day before my mental eyes. And so deeply did I become engrossed in this that when I aroused myself and looked at my watch it was after midnight. I arose and stood before the mirror, searching my own face keenly, my mind still reverting to my quarrel with my uncle and its probable future consequences. While I did not imagine that in his present state of mind he would be particularly concerned as to where I was, I resolved to call him up and advise him of my whereabouts. It did not seem that it could do any harm, and undoubtedly it was good policy to try and conciliate him now that we had given full vent to our spleen. Going to the wall telephone, I asked for his number, and a moment later heard his querulous voice over the wire as he demanded to know who it was that called him up at that hour. I answered him with the quietness I always strove to employ except upon rare occasions when I for the moment lost command of myself. I wished him well and told him where I was and that I had decided to remain downtown for the night. His answering sentences exploded in my ear like distant firecrackers.

"That's right. Just like you; spending your money for hotel bills when you have a better bed at home. And I suppose you will pay those pirates a dollar for your berakfast. All right, go ahead, young millionaire. But I will charge you for your breakfast here, anyway. Don't you forget that."

"I will be home at nine o'clock, the usual Sunday breakfast hour," I returned in an unruffled tone. He snorted and rang off without deigning to to reply further, and I hung up the receiver with the feeling that I had done my part towards a reconciliation. For the present, at least, the matter must rest where it was. Then calling up the hotel office and leaving an order for them to awaken me at seven o'clock, I locked the door and turned out the light.

At the ringing of the call-bell the next morning at the hour I had designated, I arose and began my toilet. I had slept but little, and that little was more like the semi-consciousness which comes from exhaustion rather than the slumber of repose. I felt unrefreshed, despondent, self-angry. Nor was my appearance in the glass satisfactory as I ran my eyes over my reflection. I had little desire for breakfast, but inasmuch as I had told Uncle Abner that I would be present at that occasion, I paid my bill and took a car homeward. The morning was a midsummerday dream. The foliage had been bathed by a night shower and the air was perfumed with the incense of growing green things. As I passed up the walk among the oaks I could not but realize how beautiful the grounds were despite their unkemptness, and that it would cost me a pang after all to leave this place permanently should my quarrel with its owner develop to that acute stage. For it was under these trees that I had passed so many pleasant hours with Clare, or wandering through the marble halls of my air castles. Mrs. Tebbetts admitted me upon my summons: but no sooner had I entered the empty halls than my fondness for the place vanished in the old depression which always came upon me as I viewed their loneliness. It was like passing into a vault, cheerless, gloomy, the echoes mocking my footsteps. I went straight to my own room. The door was closed between where I was and my uncle's apartment, and I stood listening. Usually he was up and could be heard puttering around before this, but now all was silence beyond. I opened the door that separated our quarters and stepped forward. But on the threshold I stopped with my eyes sweeping the scene that lay before me.

The room was in a state of disorder. Everywhere was to be seen the hand of violence. Bureau drawers had been ransacked and left yawning; the bed was a twisted tangle of sheets and crumpled pillows; clothing was scattered about the floor. But what was more startling than anything else was the condition of the iron safe. Its combination had bee nshattered by some powerful explosive, and its door, standing wide, gave a full view into its looted interior. With the sweat starting from my forehead I rushed forward.

I inspected it with a glance. No money remained in it, but the papers looked as though they had not been disturbed beyond a general overhauling. I swept my eyes about the room and under the bed. No glimpse of my uncle rewarded me, and I ran from the room with loud calls for Mrs. Tebbets. It was her custom not to disturb us on Sunday mornings until she announced breakfast, and that she knew nothing of the condition of affairs in the upper part of the house had been evidenced by her ordinary demeanor as she admitted me. From room to room of the upper story I went in rapid search for the missing one, and at last, in one of the dark closets I found him and dragged him forth. He was bound hand and foot, and I bent over him and shook him. He seemed to be rather more unconscious than otherwise, but he certainly was alive.

Puffing up the stairs in response to my cries, Mrs. Tebbetts reached me just as I had finished my hasty diagnosis. I immediately removed a handkerchief which had been tied around his mouth, slashed the cords which bound him, and together we carried him to my room and placed him upon the bed. I tore open his night garment and examined him superficially, but could discover no marks of physical violence save about the throat. There it was red and puffy. Mrs. Tebbetts, in a hysteria of excitement, was useless as an assistant, and hastening to the telephone, I called up first Doctor Courtney, our family physician, and then the nearest police station. After that I went back to the victim.

He was breathing more freely, now that the handkerchief had been removed, and presently his eyes opened and he stared at me. When I spoke to him, however, he did not answer. Having done everything for him that I could think of for the moment, I sat down upon the edge of the bed to await the arrival of those whom I had summoned.

CHAPTER III.

Doctor Courtney arrived first. Up the drive he came whirring in his light electric runabout, and darting through the door which the housekeeper held wide for him, was by the patient's side in a few seconds. Together we made a thorough examination of the reviving man. The physician tested his temperature, his heart and reflexes, afterwards addressing me concisely.

"It is nothing serious. There is no permanent injury, and he will be all right as soon as he recovers from the shock. He seems to have been severely choked, but there was no chloroform or other drug administered." He gave the patient a stimulant, and I was much relieved to see my uncle respond to it favorably as the patrol wagon arrived. A moment later a group of officvers, piloted by Mrs. Tebbetts, swarmed into the room. In a few words I explained to them the condition of affairs as I had found them, and in twos and threes they went trooping over the house from top to bottom in a survey of the safe, the doors and shutters and other things of interest to them. Then they came back to us. Uncle Abner by this time was able to speak in a low voice, and the captain, seating himself, demanded that he be told all that the pilfered one knew of the affair. Still speaking with more or less difficulty, Uncle Abner addressed us.

"I was sound asleep. The room was very dark and I knew of nothing unusual until I awoke and found myself pinioned to the bed by a heavy man. He was choking me and pressing my arms to helplessness beneath his knees. I attempted to struggle, but could do little more than squirm beneath his strength. He used a good deal of force, and in a few moments my senses left me. I knew nothing more until I awoke and found myself in some dark hole. I rolled about a little, and from the closeness of the walls to each other knew it was a closet. There was a handkerchief in my mouth and I could not call for help. Anyway, it would have been useless, for there was nobody else on the premises but Mrs. Tebbetts, and I knew if she should awake and attempt to come to my assistance or give the alarm, my assailants would do something to render her helpless if they had not already done so. Therefore I desisted attempting to make a noise.

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."—Mrs. J. G. Johnson, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

INDIAN BURIAL MOUND OPENED IN SMITH TOWNSHIP

The Remains Found Fully Indentify it as the Burial Place of Chiefs of the Tribe.

Yesterday morning Mr. C. W. James, secretary of the Department of Education, and Dr. R. B. Orr, curator of the Provincial Museum, Toronto, came to the city and went out to Lakefield, where they were met by Mr. T. Webster, of Smith, and taken out to his farm above Lakefield. On the farm is a mound, and of this mound Mr. Webster has long had suspicions and impressions. He has paid some attention to such matters and eventually wrote and asked the assistance of Dr. Orr, who, accompanied by Mr. James, to hold a brief investigation.

On the farm, not far from the bank of the river, it is situated, and its dimensions, roughly given, are about [illegible] feet long by [illegible] feet across, and from 18 to 30 inches high. The elements have done a work of demolition in the centuries since it was erected, and the edges are [illegible] out by [illegible] and erosion of rain, snow and frost.

Scattered over the province and in the bordering states of the union are found many similar mounds. Nearly all are identified with the same characteristics. And so well established are the fact that it is now known, almost to a certainty, by those familiar with such matters, exactly where to excavate.

The three gentlemen proceeded to the mound, and Dr. Orr and Mr. James, recognizing the likeness to the mounds opened in Michigan, at once determined where work should begin. Standing on the mound about six feet from the head, when the sun was at meridian, and with his arms extended, the shadow of Mr. James fell on a certain spot. "There is the place to dig" he said. After a few minutes excavation results began to come. Four complete skeletons were uncovered in a short time. They lay, apparently, in a circle, the heads inward, the inner circle being about three feet in diameter. It is the invariable rule to find that bodies so interred are so placed. As time was limited only sufficient was done to identify the character of the remains, and further explanation was left in the hands of Mr. Webster.

It is evident that death had come to one of those interred, by violence. Firmly imbedded in the skull was a small stone axe, driven with such force as to split the skull, transversely, or almost from ear to ear. Though pitted by the action of the earth the contour of the axe was preserved and the place where the handle had been attached was apparent. Dr. Orr said that the finest set of teeth, both upper and lower that he has ever seen are in this skull, as perfect to-day as when the body was interred.

As the skulls were all on view, and detached from the rest of the skeleton they were taken by Mr. Webster and will be held pending further excavation.

Dr. Orr expressed the opinion that the remains were of persons of some note and consequence, possibly chiefs, and followers, slain in battle. The form of burial indicated this. A further evidence would be the finding of the remains of the funeral fire, and inferring where this would be placed some hasty excavation was made and the remains of the fire disclosed. He brought with him a fragment of wood, partly burned and charred, and other pieces are still among the ashes.

This mound has been constructed in conformity with the legends of and well-known methods of the very early Indian tribes. They did not excavate. They did not have tools suitable for such work. Instead, when a burial was about to be made of any importance, the bodies were ranged in a circle and then covered with earth, stones and debris, generally procured from the shores of lakes and banks of streams and rivers, where the material would be soft and easily handled in buckets or other rude utensils. This accounts for the presence of the shells of clams and other shell fish in this as well as in other mounds.

The gentlemen propose to return in a short time and prosecute the search thoroughly, Mr. Webster going on with the work of uncovering other parts of the mound.

There is a high conical mound on the Smith side of the river, approaching Young's Point, that has attracted attention for many years. Attention will be given to this mound and developments may ensue.

KEEPER OF HOUSE OF ILL-FAME GOES TO MERCER REFORMATORY

Mrs. Emma Creighton Given One Year—Police Raided Her Place—Children Are Placed in Children's Shelter.

"Emma Creighton, you are charged with keeping a disorderly house; are you guilty or not guilty," came from the magisterial chair at the police court to-day.

"No sir, I'm not guilty of keeping that kind of a house," was the indignant reply.

HOUSE WAS RAIDED.

A carefully pre-arranged raid last night at 12.10 organized by Detective Newhall, Sergeant Adams and P. C. McHarry, was successfully carried out, and unmistakeable evidences of Emma's guilt discovered. The house was on Hunter street east.

The sentence of the court at the conclusion of her rather lengthy trial this morning was one year in the Mercer Reformatory, and her three children, all under fifteen, to be placed in the Children's Aid Society. The sentenced woman broke down on hearing her fate pronounced and sobbed and pleaded with Magistrate Dumble, to be allowed to go to her home in Bancroft and retain possession of her offspring.

His Worship was immovable, however, holding that she was living too shameful, and unexemplary an existence, to be a fit subject to rear her children on moral principles.

Detective Newhall's evidence against her this morning showed her reputation to be one of the worst. During her twelve months' stay in Peterborough her actions have been under the vigilant eye of the police and she has been forced to shift her place of abode very frequently, owing to complaints of neighbors and police action.

She lived first in Port Hope, according to the first witness, Detective Newhall, but that burg decided that her presence was not further required there and she landed in this city.

One of the woman inmates whom Mrs. Creighton said was her sister, left on the nine o'clock train last night saying she was leaving for the States.

Suspicious actions taking place last night, in the neighborhood of the disorderly house caused the police to take immediate action.

When the officer entered Mrs. Creighton's room, she pretended to be asleep, but later admitted her life by remarking to the officer; "If you will let me go, I'll get right out of town."

Some property that was stolen in Port Hope was found in her house when she lived on Cedar street, having it was proved, been brought there by the man who stole it.

The woman's children never attended school and run almost wild on the street.

Charles Creighton, father of the three children, has been dead six years, according to her statement.

A man who was found in the house last night was discharged with a warning.

E. A. PECK RETURNS FROM SIX WEEKS' VISIT IN THE WEST

Says Feeling in British Columbia is Opposed to Reciprocity—Had a Most Extensive and Pleasant Trip.

E A Peck returns

In an interview to-day Mr E. A. Peck, who returned Monday night from a trip through Western Canada and to the coast, stated to a Review representative that judging from the feeling of the voters in British Columbia, they are much against reciprocity and will undoubtedly return a strong contingent against the pact. In Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan he did not remain long enough to ascertain the feeling, but from the expressions of men he met he thinks the standing of either party will not be much changed at the coming elections.

AWAY SIX WEEKS

Mr. Peck was absent from the city six weeks. He went by the Great Lakes to Port Arthur and visited Winnipeg, Banff, Laggan, Regina, Vancouver and Victoria. At Victoria he took a steamer and went up the coast about 1,000 miles to Skagway, calling at Port Rupert, Juno and other points. On his return he went down the Arrow Lakes to Nelson and came east by way of the Crow's Nest Pass.

DON'T WANT RECIPROCITY.

Mr. Peck in speaking of the effect reciprocity would have on British Columbia products incidentally made the remark that the farmers were utilizing every piece of available ground alongside the rivers and lakes. They did not wish for reciprocity as they wanted the high prices for their own products.

Mr. Peck made the trip by C.P.R. rail and boat. The C.P.R. has every accommodation for the convenience and comfort of its passengers.

The trip was very pleasant as well as profitable and Mr. Peck feels much recuperated.

GIANTS WIN TWO STRAIGHT; ANOTHER WIN FOR LEAFS

Ritchie's Pitching too Much for Giants — Rochester Won Double-Header From Jersey City.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Ritchie's pitching was a bit too much for the Giants to-day and they lost their second straight game in this series with the Cubs. The score was 3 to 1 and it was a pitcher's battle, with Wiltz battling valiantly to hold his own against Ritchie. The Cubs are in the lead with Pittsburg a close second.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—The Leafs made it three games won from Newark in two days when they secured a 5—1 victory at the stadium to-day. The feature play of the game was pulled off in the fourth when, with one man down and the sacks full, the diminutive Eddie Fitzgerald came to bat and hit a low-liner which went to the centre field fence. Fitz. fell turning second, but had time enough to get up and beat the ball to the plate.

Rochester won the double-header from Jersey City and still maintains the leadership in the Eastern League.

NOTHING DOING IN TENNIS CIRCLES

Players are Evidently Holidaying —Draw Will be Finished in The Fall

There is nothing doing in tennis circles now, as most of the players are out of the city. In the city championship events there has not been a game played for three weeks, but the draw will likely be finished in the fall. In the Y.M.C.A. tournament everything is quiet also.

Rowdyism at Sandpoint.

Sandpoint, Ont., Aug. 9.—Harvesters passing through here Friday to the west were guilty of wanton rowdyism. An excursion train was brought to a stop near the place by having the cars disabled, and stores were broken into and robbed. Stones were thrown at sectionmen at work and women in the town were made the targets for insulting language.

For fifteen minutes the town was in the power of the toughs. One woman drove them out of her place with a revolver, but in most cases the citizens were terrorized.

Toronto Men Fined.

London, Ont., Aug. 9.—A man named McFadden, of Toronto, attending the Old Boys' reunion, was fined by Police Magistrate Judd $25 for brutal treatment of a horse he was driving Monday night. His companion, Henderson, also of Toronto, was fined $10 for not attempting to stop McFadden's thrashing of the horse. Incidentally the magistrate gave the pair a terrific verbal scorching.

Row at Olcott Beach.

Rochester, N.Y., Aug. 8.—A special from Lockport, N.Y., says:

A riot broke out among 700 Canadian excursionists on the docks at Olcott Beach Monday night when they learned that it was impossible for the steamer Olcott to convey them back to Toronto in one trip and as a result men, women and children participated in a serious row, in which scores were bruised.

The captain tried to explain matters but the crowd would not listen, and started to pull pickets off fences and threatened to batter one another. It was a pulling, hauling, toe-trampling and rib-racking fight.

Finally the boat captain ordered his crew to turn the hose on the crowd. The turning on of the water was the signal for the hurling of rocks and other missles at the boat. This was kept up until a dozen women fainted and had to be given medical attention.

The steamer finally got under way with her first load, and returned at one o'clock yesterday morning for those who were left behind.

THE CANADIAN EGG MARKET

The American Import Would Overwhelm the Canadian Producer.

The egg market in Canada is a pure national asset. Egg prices here are not dependent on an export demand as they were ten years ago; they are entirely due to the home demand and they were never as high as in the past two years.

Strictly fresh laid eggs range in price from 40c. to 60c. per dozen in Canada during the winter season. In such markets as Toronto, Montreal and Hamilton, the farmer's wife can get, on an average 45 to 50 cents per dozen for fresh laid eggs between the months of November and February. And during the other months she gets on an average of 25 to 30 cents per dozen.

On no other commodity has the rapidly developing home market of Canada had such effect as upon eggs. The high prices that prevail to-day in Canada for eggs is due to the rapid growth of our industrial centres, and to the fact that a protective duty of 3 cents per dozen has prevented an overwhelming influx of United States eggs from flooding and depressing the Canadian market.

Under a system of free trade in natural products with the United States, the homes of the Canadian farmer would be sacrificed through the injury that would surely be done to the egg market. Wives and daughters now reap the profits of the egg sales and the results are seen in the form of many an extra comfort and brightening touch about the country homes. By taking money out of the purses of those women-folk the Reciprocity Agreemnt would be exerting its worst influence—that of working against the best interests of the farm homes of Canada.

One of the most lucrative departments of farming in Canada to-day is the poultry yard. Because of the steady increase in the consumptive demands of Canadians, the export trade of the Dominion in eggs has dwindled from nearly twelve million dozen in 1902 to less than a hundred thousand dozen in the fiscal year ending March, 1911. There has been with this decrease in exports a corresponding increase in imports, especially from the United States. Our imports for consumption in 1902 were 772,572 dozen, and in 1911, the amount imported was 2,378,640 dozen. In spite of the protective duty of 3 cents per dozen, Canada's demand for eggs is so great that she is importing about twenty-five times as many eggs as she is exporting. (Canada exported last year 92,164 dozen). Why not preserve this great national asset for the wives and daughters of our farmers, and thus add to the domestic happiness of the land?

The history and present condition of the egg industry in Canada can best be shown by the following statements of exports and imports in the years 1902 and 1911:

IMPORTS.

(Imported into Canada for home consumption in 1902, with values'.

	Quantity (dozen)	Value
United States	762,802	$168,795
Other countries	9,770	662
Total	772,572	$169,457

Since 1902 Canada has taken eggs from Hong Kong and Great Britain, both of which have equal privileges with the United States under the Reciprocity Agreement.

The imports of eggs in the fiscal year 1911 for home consumption were:

	Quantity (dozen)	Value
United States	2,212,727	$417,857
Great Britain	12,040	2,128
Hong Kong	62,012	4,200
Other countries	91,861	14,881
Total	2,378,640	$439,066

EXPORTS.

The following statement of Canada's exports of eggs shows conclusively that it is the home demand for this commodity that determines its price:

For fiscal year 1902—

	Quantity (dozen)	Value
Great Britain	11,353,825	$1,691,024
United States	237,435	35,764
Other countries	43,848	6,454
Total	11,635,108	$1,733,242

Fiscal year, 1911—

	Quantity (dozen)	Value
Great Britain	7,067	$ 2,428
United States	24,688	6,927
Other countries	60,409	15,321
Total	92,164	$ 24,676

Whereas in 1902, when millions of dozens were shipped to Britain and Canada's markets were directly dependent on that export trade, to-day this country imports more eggs from Britain than she exports there, showing that in a decade the positions of the Motherland and the Colony have been reversed, so far as eggs are concerned.

"Why," you ask, "have Canada's exports in eggs decreased so rapidly?"

Simply because the farms of the country have not supplied eggs in the same proportion as the industrial centres and Western prairie lands have been supplied with people. The demand at home has increased more rapidly than the supply.

Some say the falling off in Canada's egg supply is due to the cold, unfavorable climate. This cannot be so, for in Russia with its frozen regions to the North, we see that in 1909 the exports amounted to 2,845 millions of eggs valued at $31,954,500 as against only 1,696 millions of eggs in 1899 valued at $14,711,932. A hen would surely lay as well in Canada as in Russia.

From the above statement it is an easy matter to see that Canada with regard to eggs, has changed in the last ten years from an exporting to an importing nation. And all because of that home market. The farmers' wives and daughters have a bonanza here at home, in their own country towns, and cities, which, for purposes of common usage are consuming cold storage eggs, but which for fresh table use, must depend upon the neighboring farming community. There is now just protection enough in the duty of 3 cents per dozen to keep back a deluge of American eggs, but under Reciprocity the barriers would be down and this country, which during the past year imported over two million dozen eggs from the United States would be literally buried by the shipments from other countries, principally the Republic South of us. It would mean most assuredly, lower prices for eggs in Canada. Take for instance, the 2,378,640 dozen eggs imported into Canada last year. They bore a duty of 3 cents per dozen, or in all, $71,359.20, which, had there been no tariff, would have been taken out of the Canadian market. In other words, the sellers of eggs, in Canada were at least $71,359.20 richer last year, through the duty of 3 cents per dozen on foreign eggs. In reality, they were much richer than that amount, because the 3 cent duty applied to all the eggs sold in Canada.

The question, then, resolves itself into the following proposition. In spite of the present protective tariff of 3 cents per dozen on eggs, over two million dozen are coming into Canada per year: the only thing that saves prices from tumbling three cents per dozen right now is the protective duty: It is only to be expected then, that under the Reciprocity agreement the imports of eggs into Canada would be very much larger and that prices would be decidedly lower.

Canada laying herself open to a free supply of eggs from the United States alone, would be a most preposterous deal for the farmer of this country to sanction. Eggs are being produced in unceasing volume all the year in the United States which has a wider variety of climate than has Canada. In the cold winter months, when supplies in Canada and the Northern States are scarce, the Southern districts of our neighbors' territory are selling vast quantities of eggs from their warmly situated poultry farms. The immense cold storage plants owned by the powerfully organized distributing agencies of the States are capable of preserving millions of dozens of eggs and shipping them to any market, which offers the greatest advantages. In this way, the markets of Canada, so high and firm in the winter months, would be subjected to the merciless pressure of cheap eggs from such centres as Chicago. Instead of the Canadian farmer being in the position to dictate and control his own prices, he would lose his independence and be ground under the heel of the trusts over the border. His home-made market would be gone and so would his home-made prices.

Under a system of free trade in natural products, there is no doubt that United States would supply Canada with most of the eggs she would use. But Great Britain, Hong Kong and Russia, which now send eggs into Canada over the tariff wall, would also have free admission to our markets under the Reciprocity Agreement. It has been pointed out above what a large producer Russia has become, and it is well known that in the warmer climates of the Orient such as China, the surplus production is sufficient to feed Canada many times over. Chinese eggs have been entering Canada steadily during the past two years, and would be only too ready to join in the concentrate upon Canada in the event of Reciprocity. Here again, would be an agency to work havoc in the home market. The weight of egg imports from the United States would be intensified by the crowding in of supplies from these other favored countries.

Besides losing their substantial, lucrative trade in eggs, the farmers, through the adoption of the Reciprocity pact would lose the benefit to the nation of over $70,000 revenue each year. This $70,000 simply represents the toll placed upon foreign producers, who indirectly are helping to finance the great public works of Canada. In short, the rivals of the Canadian producer, by such payments as this $70,000, are, under the present protective tariff, contributing to the up-keep of this country, which is pre-eminently a farmer's country.

Do the farmers of Canada wish to give away their home market in eggs, and, by so doing, effect the following results,—

(1) The subtraction of at least 3 cents per dozen from the prices which their wives and daughters now receive.

(2) The disappointment among the women in the farm homes and the consequent lack of former comforts and bright adornments.

(3) The loss of that independent position of controlling one's own home market, and the humiliation of having a fine economic position undermined by cheap foreign eggs.

(4) The loss to the national treasury of $70,000 per year, and the resultant reduction of that amount from expenditures on services of use to the farmer and others in the country.

Publish My Letter The World Over

The Words of Harold P. Bushy, Who Was Permanently Cured of Chronic Lumbago by "Nerviline."

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

LETTER • NO. 4311

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back. I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in the Montreal Witness about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

"Please publish my letter the world over. I want all to hear of Nerviline."

NO ILL EFFECTS ON THE HEALTH

Cigarette Smoking by Women Not Harmful They Say

London, Aug. 7.—The effects on the nation of the rapid increase in tobacco smoking in recent years, deplored by Dr. Saundy, the president of the National Temperance League, at Birmingham on Wednesday, were discussed by a number of London physicians.

The general opinion is that, although the habit is increasing (one physician said that two-thirds of his women patients were cigarette smokers) little ill effect has been noted on the national health.

"The old theory that tobacco poisoned everybody," one of the doctors said, "is now quite exploded. We know that in the great majority of persons moderate tobacco smoking has a sedative and quieting effect on the nerves without depressing the heart or other organs.

"The best time to smoke is after meals, particularly after the evening meal, when the day's work is over."

FAMILY TROUBLE REACHES CLIMAX

Tolstoi's Widow Wants His Manuscripts

London, Aug. 6.—The dispute between Tolstoi's widow and daughter over the possession of manuscripts of the dead moralist, which were in the possession of the Moscow Historical Museum, is coming to a climax. The papers were entrusted to Tolstoi's daughter, Alexandra, as his testamentary literary executrix, and neither the museum authorities nor the courts will recall them. His widow, Countess Sofia, now declares that she will personally exercise a widow's privilege of petitioning the Czar to order her husband's papers to be given over to her.

Meanwhile some Government officials have arrived at Yasnaya Polyana. Primarily they will have to employ guardians to prevent the place from deteriorating. It is not certain whether the property will be made into a show place, but public opinion would prefer that the state should step in rather than that the estate should become dilapidated through family differences.

OLD ROSS GANG STILL ALIVE

Mail & Empire

The adhesion to the cause of the Laurier Government of the representatives of these elements which brought discredit and ignominious defeat to the Ross Government is a striking feature of the present election campaign in Ontario. To the band of survivors of that fall, now in the House of Commons, a new candidate seeks admission. This is none other than Donald McNish, the Liberal candidate in West Elgin. Mr. McNish has a history. He, it was, who contested West Elgin as a Liberal candidate for the Legislature in 1898, and subsequently, when proceedings to unseat him were commenced, signed a statement admitting that many strangers had been imported into the riding, had been guilty of improper and illegal practices, and had, in some cases, acted under assumed names as deputy returning officers. He, it was who was saved from the continuance of the trial and from the possibility of further revelations by the burning of the ballots at the Ontario Parliament Buildings. He seeks to join in Parliament, Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, who witnessed his confession, and who figured so prominently in the charges made by Mr. R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., after the provincial election of 1902. It seems hardly probable, however, that these two old comrades, Mr. MacNish and Mr. Aylesworth will be re-united in Parliament. Even if the Minister of Justice is re-elected, Mr. MacNish is face to face with Mr. Thos. Crothers, M.P., who played a prominent part in the trial of 1899, who was selected by Mr. R. L. Borden to accompany him on his recent Western tour, and who is practically certain of victory.

MR. STRATTON A SURPRISE

To the surprise of many people Hon. J. R. Stratton, against whom, as a member of the Ross Cabinet, Mr. Gamey's charges were directed, is again a candidate for election in West Peterboro. Mr. Stratton was openly stated to be an opponent of the Government's reciprocity policy although he refrained from making any statement of his position.

Hon. George Graham, who for a short time filled a chair in the Executive Council chamber in Ontario, is again running in Brockville. Regarding the Minister of Railways and Canals a curious fact was brought out during the recent debate on the Newmarket Canal fiasco—"the antiquated dust heap" which Mr. Aylesworth declared had been approved "at two elections." During that debate Capt. Tom Wallace read a report by Mr. E. J. Walsh, former chief engineer on the Trent Canal, that in reference to any appointments on the canal he had been instructed to apply to Mr. Graham. Mr. Graham, who was then a member of the Ontario Legislature in turn referred him to Mr. Byron E. Lott, who was later charged with complicity in the bogus ballot box outrage in West Hastings, and fled the country.

Mr. James Conmee, M.P., one of the staunchest adherents of the former Liberal Government in the Ontario Legislature, will again be a Government candidate in Rainy River and Thunder Bay, and Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Parliament, after whose election in North Grey some years ago the now famous "little crosses" were found on Conservative ballots, is now touring the province, speaking on behalf of his friends at Ottawa.

IS IT FAIR TO THE FARMER?

Under Reciprocity He Must Face the Competition of Countries Which Shut Him Out of Their Market

New Zealand and Argentina levy duties on natural products imported from abroad. On Canadian butter, for instance, New Zealand has a tariff of twenty per cent. and Argentina of 4 2-5c. per pound. Under Reciprocity the natural products of these countries come into our market free.

Is this right? Is it a fair deal to our Canadian farmer?

Those two countries are very formidable competitors.

New Zealand exported in 1909 thirteen and a half million dollars' worth of butter and cheese and eighteen and a half million dollars' worth of frozen lamb and mutton.

New Zealand butter can be landed in Vancouver at two cents per pound freight. There is a good deal of it landed there now, upon which a duty of four cents per pound is paid. Under Reciprocity there will be no duty but there will be a lot more New Zealand butter.

The effect of this New Zealand importation upon the Eastern Townships farmer is well exemplified by the following circumstances.

During January of 1909 Montreal produce merchants imported 5,000 packages of New Zealand butter.

At that time the price of Eastern Townships creamery butter was 27 1-2c. per pound.

When this New Zealand butter came in competition with the Eastern Townships butter the price of the home made article fell before the end of February to 19c. per pound.

Now take the Argentine Republic.

The government may make light of these countries and their trade. Yet the fact remains that this country alone has an international trade larger than that of Canada.

Ninety per cent. of the exports are live stock and agricultural products.

The country exports chilled meats in enormous quantities.

Its population is largely composed of Italians, Spaniards Germans, who are contented with a lower scale of living than our Canadian farmers.

Their products will, under Reciprocity, come into free competition with the products of the Canadian farmer.

LONGING EYES

The American Farmer Looking to the Canadian Market

The home market is taking eighty per cent of the produce of the Canadian farms at good prices.

The demand of this market is increasing and it will continue to increase as the country grows.

It has the advantage of nearness, stability, cheapness of transportation and quickness of returns.

The Canadian farmer is familiar with its conditions and requirements.

And yet, withal, the Canadian farmer is inclined to look beyond this market with longing eyes to the market of the United States, forgetting, perhaps, that the United States farmer is looking with just as longing eyes at the Canadian market.

There are at least twelve farmers in the United States looking longingly at the Canadian market to one farmer in Canada looking at the United States market.

Let us remember that there are at least twelve times as many farmers in the United States as there are in Canada, and so, while one Canadian farmer will get entrance into the markets of the United States, twelve American farmers will get entrance into our home markets. They have already succeeded in selling immense quantities of farm products in Canada, in spite of the duty. They have sold twice as much in Canada as Canadian farmers have sold in the United States.

With reciprocity in farm products the twelve American farmers will crowd the one Canadian farmer pretty closely in his own home market.

The surplus production of the United States farmer would be liable at any time to demoralize the home market of the Canadian farmer.

It will cost the American farmer no more to bring his farm products to Canadian towns and cities than it will cost the Canadian farmer to carry his to the United States.

These American products are pretty well kept out now by the tariff wall. With this removed they will enter twelve to one.

We must remember, too, that the Americans have the earlier season and that their products will therefore be upon our markets before our products are salable and get the early price.

Unappreciated Sympathy.

The Soda-fountain clerk was engaged in vigorously shaking up a chocolate and egg, says a writer in the Bellman, when suddenly the glass broke in his hands, and the ensuing deluge made him look like a human eclair. The horrified customer leaned over the counter and tried to be sympathetic. Not knowing exactly what to say, he finally burted out, consolingly:

"Oh-er-too bad! Did the glass break?"

Dripping from head to foot, the clerk looked at him witheringly.

"Did the glass break?" he repeated. "Did the glass break?" And then with freezing sarcasm, "Oh, no, not at all! You just happened to stop in while I was taking my morning shower."

One Way.

"How did you get your husband out to that musicale last night?"

"Told him there was going to be a lunch afterward."

In a peculiarly marked bug which George Lewis, of Strathroy, found feeding on a potato bug, he believes he has found the latter's long sought enemy.

LORENZ NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Lorenz, Aug. 8.—The farmers round here are not thinking of buying any auto cars this year owing to the poor state of the crops.

The Tories around here are now busy digging the grave and enlarging the grave for the Grits on the funeral day, 21st Sept. Time we had some honest men holding the reins. Long live the King and British empire.

Some of the farmers around here should be careful what they are talking about, more so, to speak the truth. It appears that some three or four men are accused of buying whiskey and taking it to a poor, hard-working man's house, and then making for home, the worse for liquor, and then walking the fields at four o'clock in the morning. Well, the man who is putting this round the community ought to be a wee little more careful in future, or else a young man of Ould Ireland will let the community see that even a farmer doesn't always speak the truth.

Mr. Norman Jewison was paying a week-end visit last week round Bethany.

Mr. C. Wicks' No. 1 company of choristers took the train from Fraserville last Thursday to sing at Peterborough and further east, the bandmaster returning home the same day after a farewell selection.

Mr. Matt Stewart went to Cobourg on a visit for two days last week. Lucky fellow this time of the year.

Mr. Len O'Hara and his famous dog were visiting the good people of Bensfort the other night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wicks and Mrs. Hawthorne were to Garden Hill, visiting some friends last Sunday.

Through the breaking of the trip rope to which he was holding, John F. Thompson, a Green Point farmer, fell from a loaded wagon and was fatally injured.

JOHN W. GATES DIED TO-DAY

The Famous American Financier Answered the Final Call at 5.10 This Morning

Paris, Aug. 9.—John W. Gates, the American financier, died at 5.10 this morning in the arms of his wife and his son.

The death of John Warne Gates in Paris to-day removes in his prime one of the boldest and most successful American financiers and a picturesque figure in the field of sports. Since 1880 when he organized the Southern Wire company, Mr. Gates had been a man with whom it was necessary to reckon in the particular industrial affairs to which he had given his attention. In recent years he found relaxation from business cares in becoming a prominent patron of the American turf.

TWO WIVES ASK FOR DAMAGES

Legality of Divorce Crux of Interesting Suit

Sioux Falls, S.D., Aug. 7 — Upon the legality of a divorce granted by a South Dakota court, in the palmy days of the divorce industry hangs the issues in two damage suits, filed respectively by wife No. 1 and wife No. 2.

R. L. Meldrin, formerly a resident of New York State was granted a South Dakota divorce in 1905. On his return east he married again. Meldrin was a railroad engineer and about a year ago was killed while on duty. Recently his first wife instituted an action against the railroad company, by which he was employed to recover damages of $5,000 for his death. She contends that the South Dakota divorce obtained by Meldrin was invalid and that she legally is his widow.

To complicate matters, wife No 2 also has instituted a damage suit against the railroad company placing her damages at a much higher figure than wife No. 1. Wife No. 2 is now in Sioux Falls, seeking to establish the legality of Meldrin's divorce.

Strikers Number 70,000.

London, Aug. 9.—The carmen joined the other strikers on the London docks yesterday and union officials claim that 70,000 men are now affected. Work on the south side of the Thames River is at a standstill. Ships have arrived in large numbers during the last few days, with full cargoes largely consignments of food for London houses, but there is no one to unload the vessels.

The cargoes of meat in refrigerating chambers are still unspoiled, but the supplies of coal to operate the freezing plants are rapidly disappearing and the strikers will not permit the replenishing of the fuel supply.

The strikers are peaceful, but ugly threats regarding the fate of non-unionists, who attempt to work are made. Both sides are hopeful that the Board of Trade will compose the differences between the employers and employes.

Big Industrial Plant Closes.

Halifax, Aug. 9.—Instructions have been received from Montreal to close down the mines of the Canada Iron Corporation at Torbrook. As the pumps are being taken up, it is probable that work will not be resumed again this season.

The reason given for closing the mine is that the industrial depression in the United States, where half the blast furnaces are idle, is reacting upon the country.

Settling Carpenters' Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The harbor commissioners have signed the agreement with the carpenters' union calling for a 35 cent per hour wage all through the winter months, and yesterday 150 men returned to work at the new elevator now in course of construction at the harbor.

Miss Mary Rowan Suicides.

New York, Aug 9.—In the bathroom of a handsomely-appointed house in a select neighborhood of Riverside drive, the police cut down yesterday afternoon, the body of Miss Mary E. Rowan, sister of Mrs. Samuel Booth, the wealthy widow of the former president of the Ward Line of steamship. Miss Rowan had been dead a week.

No explanation for the suicide is given other than a note which read as follows:—"Only family troubles made me do this. I am not crazy; only heart-broken. Please ask my cousin, Mrs. J. B. Fartonte, to take charge of my remains."

Coal Merchants Want Rebate.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—Local coal dealers left last night for Ottawa to ask that the removal of the duty on coal from the south be made retroactive. Numerous dealers brought in many thousands of tons just previous to the removal of the duty and they are now seeking to have this money refunded.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. A two weeks' treatment will bring beauty to your eyes that you have never before possessed. By mail, prepaid, in opal boxes, on receipt of price, fifty cents. B. V. DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off — Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes is naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

That Interview With Fisher.

London, Aug. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—W. T. Stead, referring to the Fisher interview, says he sent a proof of the interview to Fisher with a letter. Fisher, however, had apparently left London, and when two or three days later no reply was received, Stead assumed that silence gave consent to publish it. "It was because Fisher had been saying exactly this kind of thing ever since he came to England that I went to see him," added Stead.

BADLY HURT; DIDN'T KNOW

Toronto Youth's Strange Tale to the Police.

Half Murdered, But Can't Remember It.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Lying in bed with head and hands swathed in bandages, Charles Thom, 19 years, a clerk who sleeps over Sanderson's drug store at 297 Roncesvalles avenue, told a curious story of how he came by the terrible beating and the shot wound in his hand, which are confining him to bed. The condition of the room over the drug store where Thom was attacked is that of a shambles. There is blood everywhere and on everything. Parts of the strange story told by Thom are confirmed by those who live in the neighborhood of the drug store.

He says that he was awakened from sleep at 1.20 yesterday morning to find himself lying upon the floor beside his bed with a chair on top of him. He neither saw nor heard anyone in the room and believed that he must have had a nightmare and fallen out of bed. His face and head were wet but he thought he had been perspiring.

He got into bed again where he lay for a few moments, when he again noticed the moisture of head and hands. When he put his finger in his mouth, he tasted blood and arose quickly, wondering how it had come there, as he could think of no way in which he could have received his injuries. He lighted a light and was alarmed to see that the room showed every sign of a terrific struggle though he had neither seen nor heard anyone enter or leave it and remembered nothing of an attack or struggle.

He went downstairs to see if burglars had entered the store below. He found no trace of any. The cash register was as he had left it. Over $100 in bills which had been concealed beneath his mattress, was untouched. He says that he took his revolver and fired two shots out of his window to frighten away any burglars who might be about.

This is the curious story which Tom told the police.

The bullet holes were found in the screen in the window in the morning, but Tom's left hand is pierced as though by a bullet. Also a bullet was found imbeddel in his dressing table, while he says that he fired but the two shots. A window at the rear of the store was found open, and there were footprints outside.

B. W. Kitely, who lives next door, was awakened by groans in Thom's apartment. Then he heard shots. After this Kitely says a man left the store by the rear window, and while in a lane near Geoffrey street, he heard a woman call out, "There they go." This followed by a shot which struck the pavement and glanced on through the arm of a chair on the verandah of 120 Geoffrey street, and broke a large window. The woman who lives in this house says she heard six or seven shots and saw a man running along Geoffrey street toward Sorauren avenue.

The young man's condition is serious, more from shock than from his wounds. The police are following the slight evidence in their hands.

VETO BILL MAY BE REJECTED

And Asquith Forced to Create the New Peers.

Counting of Noses Shows Vote Will be Close.

London, Aug. 10.—A counting of heads of the different factions in the Lords, the "Die Hards," the "Surrenderers," and the Ministerialists, has shown the possibility of a vote so surprisingly close that the prophets hesitate to say whether the Government will be defeated.

Should the bill be thrown out its next coming to the Upper Chamber will be in the company of a battalion of new barons strong enough to swamp any combination of Unionists.

The House was crowded.

It was the biggest muster of peers since the rejection of the Home Rule bill in 1893, and Lord Morley was supported by the largest force of radical peers gathered in the memory of the oldest members. A throng of eager members of the House of Commons crowded the steps around the throne. Peeresses in lightest summer costumes vigorously fanned themselves in a vain attempt to dissipate the overpowering heat.

Moving the consideration of the amendments of the House of Commons and the reasons for disagreeing with the Lords' amendments, Morley said that the Lansdowne amendment providing for the submission to a referendum of any grave issue before it received royal assent, had raised an inseparable barricade to an agreement between the Government and the Unionist majority in the Upper House.

Lord Salisbury asked Viscount Morley if the King gave assurances to the Government that he would create as many peers as they desired, without reference to the number required to pass the veto bill. Lord Morley declined to answer "such a very rash juvenile question." Lord Salisbury then said that the creating of new peers was a game both sides could play, and declared he was prepared to vote against the bill, whatever the consequences.

Viscount St. Aldwyn said he and his followers had been asked by the Earl of Halsbury to give such a vote as practically would compel the sovereign to create any number of peers. He declared he would never give a vote which would place the King in such a cruel position. He also denied he had tried to form a faction of Unionist peers to vote for the bill.

Lord Willoughby de Broke, the Duke of Bedford and the Duke of Marlborough supported the "no surrender policy." Lord de Broke declared that his friends never would throw up the sponge, no matter how many times the bill was sent to the country.

The debate was then adjourned until to-day.

In the lobbies of Parliament last night, the utmost uncertainty prevailed as to the result of the division in the House of Lords to-day on the veto bill. Mr. Balfour will start for Bad Gastein to take the waters, and this is held as a favorable sign that the bill will be passed, but there are so many peers who have not yet declared how they will vote that it is impossible to form an opinion as to the outcome, except that the division will be very close.

MEDALS WERE GIVEN UNFAIRLY

B.C. Man is Hot-Foot After the Governor General,

Montreal, Aug. 10.—A man, who has crossed the continent and is now in hot pursuit of the Governor-General, arrived in Montreal yesterday, in the person of J. N. Muir of Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Muir claims to represent the school children of the Pacific province, and is determined to do all in his power to have an alleged grievance rectified.

Mr. Muis occupied the position of principal of Victoria High School for some years, but has now retired.

His contention is that in the years 1906 and 1907, medals that were to go to the best students at the high school entrance examinations of British Columbia, were not given to the best students, but were wrongly distributed, and deserving boys and girls were deprived of their rights.

The Governors-General of the Dominion have, since Lord Dufferin's time, granted each year bronze medals to the Province of British Columbia to be awarded to the children of the public schools on the results of the high school entrance examinations. Mr. Muir claims that during the past six years, thirty-seven have been given unfairly. He will have Earl Grey see to this at once.

CAPT. TOM WALLACE CALLED BY CENTRE YORK UNANIMOUSLY

A. K. McLean, Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, Will be R. L. Borden's Opponent—Mackenzie Says Reciprocity is Doubtful Issue.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—There was only one man in it at the Centre York Conservative convention yesterday, and that man Captain "Tom" Wallace. The gathering was held at the Labor Temple, and was largely attended.

Returning thanks for his renomination, the candidate said he had always tried to keep his pledge as an independent. Once or twice he had differed from Mr. Borden, but as a rule he had found it very easy to vote on his side. He believed in protection, not only for the manufacturers, but also for the farmers and the workers of the country. Under reciprocity the Canadian farmers, instead of getting another large market, would be handing over their own market to the United States.

Hon. A. B. Morine appealed for continued support of the National Policy which, he said, had built up Canada's home markets. Reciprocity would destroy them. Capt. Wallace had made a splendid representative of the farmers' interests.

"All the signs show that the country is ready for a change. I firmly believe that the vote for Sir James Whitney is to be the vote for the Conservative party in Ontario, and we shall be able to boast that Ontario turned the Laurier Government out of power. Let this be the cry of the election; the Whitney vote for Borden."

Hon. I. B. Lucas read several extracts from a speech made by Hon. G. W. Ross six years ago, in which the present reciprocity pact was prophesied and the country warned against it.

Will Oppose Borden.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 10.—The Liberal convention for Halifax City and County last night nominated Hon. A. K. McLean, Attorney-General for Nova Scotia, and D. D. Blackadar, editorial writer of The Acadian Recorder, as candidates for the House of Commons to oppose R. L. Borden and A. B. Crosby, who will be nominated by the Conservatives to-night.

Mr. McLean stated in accepting that he had contemplated in retiring from politics some time in the future, but that this intention was now abandoned. He said the statement that he had been offered the solicitorship of the Canadian Northern Railway was erroneous, for no such offer had been made. Mr. McLean will in a few days resign the Attorney-Generalship and his position in the Provincial Government.

The Conservatives of Pictou, in a convention held at Westville yesterday, nominated A. C. Bell of New Glasgow, who will have as his opponent the present member for Pictou, E. M. Macdonald.

Canadian Reciprocity.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railroad, in an interview here yesterday stated that he thought Canadian reciprocity was a doubtful issue.

"Reciprocity is being fought to a finish in Canada," he said. "The outcome is problematical. The idea of annexation has become so strongly attached to the treaty proposal that its defeat is highly probable."

Sir William was in Chicago with a party which will tour the west. In the party were Sir Edward Ward, London; Baron Bryon von Pessant, Berlin, and Sir Donald Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway.

Ottawa Liberal Convention.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The Liberal convention last night selected H. B. McGiverin, the old member, and Ald. J. A. Pinard as their standard-bearers at the general elections. Mr. McGiverin was selected by acclamation and Ald. Pinard on the first vote.

New Brunswick Nominations.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 10.—The Kings-Albert Liberal convention yesterday at Sussex nominated Dr. D. H. McAllister as their standard-bearer in the coming elections.

The Westmoreland Conservatives' convention nominated M. Z. Siddall of Port Elgin as their candidate in the federal contest.

Wilson For Laval.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Charles Wilson, late M.P. for Laval, again received the Liberal nomination at the convention of the Liberal electors of that division last night.

McCarthy For North Simcoe.

Stayner, Aug. 10.—The Town Hall was filled when Dr. McFaul, president of the North Simcoe Liberal Association called the nominating convention to order yesterday afternoon, Leighton McCarthy was nominated by Dr. D. Siddrie, Creemore, seconded by Geo. Campbell, Oro; John Bernie, Collingwood by W. H. B. Patton and E. C. Drury, and E. C. Drury by J. W. Brown, Dalston.

Mr. Drury later withdrew in favor of Mr. McCarthy.

Unanimous For Ames.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—H. B. Ames, who has represented Saint Antoine division in the Federal House for the past seven years, was once again the unanimous choice of a Conservative convention when the party forces met to choose their candidate last night.

Manitoba Voters' List.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—The provincial registration for Brandon and Winnipeg, proclaimed before the dissolution of Parliament, was yesterday declared off. Attorney-General Campbell in making the announcement that the Dominion registration would be accepted said the Federal Government had usurped provincial rights and had given so short notice that thousands will be disfranchised for which Ottawa must take the responsibility.

POLICE CLASH WITH THE MOBS

King George Was Delayed by Jam of Deserted Vehicles While Motoring

Special to the Review.

London, August 10.—Twenty-five thousand carters, teamsters, etc., joined the strikers, and the mobs engaged in continuous clashes with the police throughout the day.

King George in an auto was delayed by one big jam of deserted vehicles. Hearses and closed carriages passed the strikers and carried provisions to one big hotel.

TROOPS MAY QUELL RIOT

Striking Freight Handlers Fought the Police—Militia Called Out

Special to the Review.

Liverpool, Aug. 10.—The striking freight handlers to-day fought the police with clubs, stones, and after severe street fighting the police were forced to retire.

The mayor proclaimed that he was ready to read the Riot Act, and turn the situation over to the troops. Four hundred soldiers arrived from Lichfield, and more are on the way.

LONDON DOCKMEN PROPOSE TO CALL OUT EVERY WORKER

Great Strike is Spreading and Widespread Loss is Being Caused.

London, Aug. 10.—At a meeting of strikers at Tower Hill yesterday afternoon, Benjamin Tillett, secretary of the Dock, Wharf, Riverside, and General Workers' Union of Great Britain, announced that orders had been issued for calling out every man of the port of London.

Referring to Home Secretary Churchill's statement in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the calling out of troops to suppress rioting, Tillett declared that if the Government used soldiers the dockmen would kill the Government as effectually as they intended to paralyze the trade of the port of London. The new order will increase the total strikers to 100,000.

Tons of California pears, Tasmanian apples, and French fruits are rotting in their crates, and Covent Garden is almost without friut. Practically no business was done on the corn exchange, as the sellers were unable to guarantee delivery.

The fish porters have joined the strike movement, and there was no one to unload the fish trawlers that arrived in the Thames yesterday morning. The wholesale prices of chilled beef have advanced by seven to ten cents a pound since last Friday. The manager of one of the largest houses importing beef says that unless the strike is settled by to-night there will be the greatest beef famine that this country has ever known.

Bread Famine Feared.

London, Aug. 10.—Last night the combined Millers' Association of London telegraphed the Home Secretary asking for military protection against the striking dock hands.

A bread famine within the next three days is certain if present conditions prevail. [illegible]

Explosion Kills Two.

Rotterdam, Aug. 10.—A boiler on the Rhine steamer Guttenberg exploded yesterday with fatal results. Two sailors were killed, the captain and several passengers were seriously injured and three other persons are missing, and it is supposed that they were blown overboard. The funnel and portions of the boiler were hurled through the walls of a building on shore.

Engineer Had Close Call.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Hugh Alexander had a narrow escape from death and a 13-ton road roller lies in eight feet of water in Rickey's Creek, a tributary of the Rideau, on the Nepean side, near Manotick, as the result of the collapse of a bridge.

JUMPED JUST IN TIME FROM AUTO

Brantford Youth Saves His Life by Quick Work.

Brantford, Aug. 10.—Roy McKellar, a friend of Pop Williams, owner of the Berlin ball club, while driving the latter's auto out of the ball grounds here yesterday afternoon, had a miraculous escape on the Gilkinson street crossing of the Grand Trunk.

Some freight cars were being shunted along the street and struck the auto, McKellar barely jumping in time to escape. The automobile was a total wreck and had there been a number of occupants in it, a bad fatality would have occurred.

The sum of $10,000 was received by President Wedlake of the Y.M.C.A. here yesterday from Lord Strathcona for Brantford's new building. The donation was conditional, Brantford having to raise ninety thousand, and the condition was more than fulfilled.

POPE'S CONDITION STILL SERIOUS

Rome, Aug. 10.—The Pope's temperature was somewhat lower to-day, and his condition reported better, but his illness is admitted to be serious.

U.S. CROP SUFFERS FROM THE INTENSE HEAT AND DROUGHT

Washington Bulletin Has Pessimistic Tone Over Conditions on the Farms.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 10.—A tremendous decline in the condition of crops, general throughout the country and traceable to drought and intense heat, occurred during the last month, as indicated by official figures and estimates made yesterday in the monthly crop report of the Department of Agriculture. The report yesterday was worse, as to general crop conditions, that the Department has issued for any single month since 1901.

The area most seriously affected extends from New York and Pennsylvania westward to the Rocky Mountains, embracing all of the great corn, wheat and hay producing states in the country. In the southern States, with the exception of Virginia and North Carolina, ample rains served to maintain generally favorable conditions throughout the past month. These conditions thus far continue to be favorable.

Conditions in the Pacific northwestern states are regarded as excellent, although during July that territory suffered from a brief, but excessively hot period.

Western Crops' Reports.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Lack of warmth and real steady sunshine is responsible for many late reports to the effect that it will be another two weeks before harvesting is general throughout the west. Cutting has commenced with a vengeance in many districts, but speculation still varies as to the probable average yield, even where cutting is under way.

In several districts, it is claimed by crop specialists, that cutting will not commence for three weeks or possibly a month, but the concensus of opinion is to the effect that the harvest will be in full swing within a fortnight. Rumors and denials of damage to crops continue to flood the city, but all are equally lacking in authenticity. Another big instalment of eastern harvesters is expected within the next two days.

Weather Very Unfavorable.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—The weather map attracted a good deal of attention on the floor yesterday. The general opinion was that it was about as bad as it could be. Rain has been general over the entire west and the temperatures were still low. About 66 was the average high point of the day, and the mean in several cases in Saskatchewan and Manitoba and on the Calgary-Edmonton line was no more than 36 or 37.

At these temperatures an attack of frost is imminent, and during the day, the weather favors the rust. Yesterday, however, the prophet says temperatures will be higher.

THREW MAN OVERBOARD

British Captain Witnessed Terrible Deed on Foreign Vessel

Special to the Review.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 10.—The authorities were notified from Tacoma that Captain McMullen, of the British tug Bermuda, on Tuesday night saw sailors on a foreign vessel, outbound from Victoria or Vancouver, throw a man overboard with a rope around his neck, and then cut the body adrift, [illegible]

FOR FAMILY USE

An Ideal Remedy for Coughs, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Weak Chest.

After having made a special study of the treatment of the throat and lungs for twenty years, Prof. D. Jackson states that in his opinion no preparation for general family use is so efficient, so healing, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone.

As his reasons for making this claim for Catarrhozone, Dr. Jackson says:

"Catarrhozone is free from opium.

"It is a remedy that treats and cures causes—prevents disease spreading.

"Alleviates chest soreness.

"Stops coughing instantly.

"Prevents bronchial irritations.

"Relieves clogged nostrils.

"Cures sniffles and nasal catarrh.

"Prevents La Grippe.

"Has proven itself a cure for weak lungs, loss of voice, speakers' sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, coughs, colds, and winter ills."

Catarrhozone is unquestionably the world's greatest breathable cold, cough, and catarrh medicine, and being free from all drowsy drugs, entirely safe for children and old folks; it makes an ideal family remedy. Recommended by the medical profession, and sold by all reliable dealers. Beware of imitations, get "Catarrhozone" only; large size lasts two months, and is guaranteed, price $1; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. By mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, AUG. 10, 1911.

A BLUE OUTLOOK

Coming events cast their shadows before. The spectacle of Brodeur getting out. Borden (Sir Frederick) preparing to go to London, Aylesworth quitting, Sifton, assisting the opponents of the government, is not at all reassuring from the governmental standpoint. Why did not Sir Wilfrid make necessary changes before, when he knew a campaign was likely? Swapping horses crossing the stream is not good tactics. The cabinet forces are in confusion, with Oliver disgruntled and opposed by the provincial Liberals of Alberta, Lemieux hard put to it in Quebec, Graham having the fight of his life in Brockville, and old Sir Wilfrid having to devote most of the campaign to stemming the tide in Quebec, the province that he has held in the hollow of his hand for years. Nowhere do the government organs display the certainty, the optimism that is their wont. They see the trend of events only too well. The pendulum sometimes is a long time swinging, but it is sure and certain. The aroused patriotism of Canada can find expression on the first day of fall by making it truly a "fall" day—for Laurier.

BRODEUR'S APPOINTMENT

It was a maxim with Sir John Macdonald that his judicial appointments should be made without regard to political services whatever, and only and always on the score of qualifications and ability. He was known to have made many powerful enemies because he would not make the bench, where justice to the people was administered, a haven and a refuge for discredited politicians. Whatever the sins of the old chieftain may have been, he always strove for the biggest and best in selecting men for the bench, because he knew that to make it a house of refuge would be a crime against the people and state.

The Laurier ideal doesn't seem to be so particular, however. As the elections came on it was desirable to get rid of Hon. Mr. Brodeur, and it happened that a seat on the supreme court was vacant. Mr. Brodeur is a lawyer, it is true, having passed his examination, but he is and has been a politician by profession. To put him on the bench of the highest court of the Dominion, to aid in deciding delicate questions of law on which may depend millions of dollars is to degrade the bench to the level of a common roost. What respect can people have for judges whom they know are discredited politicians? That is no ideal for Canadian justice. To degrade the bench by putting a politician like Brodeur on it, a man without the legal ability of many a young barrister who has just hung out his shingle, is a serious thing. On Laurier must rest the responsibility for this prostitution of Canadian justice to serve political ends.

FIXING RESPONSIBILITY

The Liberal party cannot get away from the Farmers' Bank issue, one of the biggest thorns in their flesh of the campaign. The Globe tries to squirm out of it by putting the blame on Dr. Beattie Nesbitt (he was a Conservative) and saying that Nesbitt was trusted by Conservatives at the time he was doing the nefarious work as president of the defunct bank.

That excuse won't go, as the Globe knows very well. Beattie Nesbitt occupied no official position as the representative of the people. He was not entrusted with the task of safeguarding the people, from an all-important position on the treasury bench. Nesbitt was guilty in his own way, but the law can deal with him if it finds him. But what about those who could have stopped the plunder but didn't, through either neglect or unwillingness? Finance Minister Fielding had every chance to save the people from the consequences of the acts of these men. He was the man appointed and paid by the people of Canada to do it. What influence was at work that he did not take advantage of the many warnings he received?

There is no use for the depositors of the Farmers' Bank looking to the government to recoup them for their losses. The government has no power to devote money for any such purpose. It cannot set a precedent of making good losses sustained through a commercial venture, for there are half a dozen other banks the creditors of which would be equally entitled to aid. Because the Finance Minister was willingly or unknowingly an accessory does not mean that the unfortunate depositors can proceed to collect from the people, whose paid agent he was. No such luck is in sight for them.

Haughton Lennox, M.P., has succinctly put the case against Fielding and his department, when he says:

"Mr. Fielding was warned by his own opinion about the matter; he was warned when these men came back a second time for the renewal of their charter, because, as Mr. Fielding tells us himself, he realized that, having hawked their stock about for two years unsuccessfully, they were not the best class of men to go into the banking business. That should have made him more caution about investigating before granting the certificate. He was warned by previous cases as to which he writes to Mr. Travers; he was warned by Travers' letter of the 29th October, (which from his own knowledge of the circumstances was false; he was warned many times by the honorable member for Halton. He was warned by Mr. Osler, M.P. He was warned by Mr. McCarthy's letter of the 8th and 19th October, and he refused the offers that Mr. McCarthy made to have a personal interview. He was warned by the legal documents—explicit, full and direct as to general misconduct, evasion of the Bank Act, and dishonesty, forwarded by Mr. McCarthy. He was warned by the newspapers which contained a full account of the fraud by which these Halton farmers had been robbed, and he was warned by the qualified and cautious withdrawal of Mr. McCarthy, which was as much as to say: You do as you like, but I want to have it understood that I only withdraw so far as my clients are concerned. And the Minister of Finance was warned, in a way that no one can understand his ignoring, by the conclusive falsehoods stamped upon the face of the declaration and application which Mr. Travers filed in his department."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Let Borden have his turn.

Laurier and Loot by "in-sight" contractors.

Borden and British connection Canada for the Canadians.

Laurier and Taft and Take us in. Please do!

Twenty thousand sheep and lambs have been sold on the Toronto market within the last few months. When reciprocity comes, the Canadian sheepraiser may as well go into the business of raising beans, which the Globe assures us the Americans will buy from Canada.

President Taft in a written magazine article, which presupposes deliberate, calculated statements, says that "If Canada continues to grow, what may we expect to sell her if we reduce the tariff wall, introduce as near free trade as we can and she increases her population from 8,000,000 to 20,000,000? Shall we not be flying in the face of Providence to maintain a wall between us and such a profitable market as she will furnish us?"

That it is a delusion that the Canadian farmer stands to greatly benefit by increased prices by getting access to the American market ought to be some comfort to the city dweller, to the workingman who wants to cheapen the cost of living. For if the Canadian farmer could by reciprocity, get higher prices by shipping his products, would not the local price be advanced to that figure? Reciprocity would advance the cost of the workingman's living if the contentions of the reciprocity advocates are true; and the cost of living is high enough. But higher prices in the American markets are a myth. Canadians would do better to keep their markets and manufacturing away from foreign competition.

Big Strike Impending.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—During the past few weeks through the efforts of International Organizer S. L. Landers of Hamilton, Ont., the men and women employed in the ready-made clothing industry have joined the union of the United Garment Workers of America, with headquarters in New York City. Two small independent unions, one coat pressers, one pant makers, have also affiliated with the parent body. The main object of the new organization is to "level up" conditions in the clothing industry in this province by agreement and conciliation if possible and by strike if necessary, says the organizer.

Mr. Landers says there are ten thousand men and women employed in the industry in Montreal whose working condition are very much inferior to their fellow workers in the same trade in other provinces. Forty nine hours per week is the prevailing time limit in Toronto, while in Montreal it is from 54 to 60 and over. Piece work, sub-contract and other conditions prevail here which do not prevail in the west.

A general organizer will arrive from New York the early part of next week to confer with Mr. Landers on the advisability of a general strike in Montreal in the tailoring industry.

The Lash of Circumstance

Harry Irving Greene

Author of "Yesonde of the Wilderness"

After awhile I must have lost my senses again, for all is blank to me from then up to the time I awoke here a few moments ago. I do not believe that more than one man had hold of me, as I heard nothing to indicate that he had companions. He may have had, however, for I could see nothing in the darkness. I do not believe that I am hurt very much, but I am considerably exhausted and feel pretty well battered up. He used me pretty rough, and I thought he was going to kill me. I am rather old and not very strong, you know, and cannot stand as much as I could once upon a time. I could not identify the man if I saw him by daylight, but I heard him cough in a peculiar way as he was choking me."

He stopped speaking, and the ghost of his old foxlike smile came creeping out of the corners of his mouth. "But I will bet he did not get much, the infernal villain. Everything of value was locked up in the old strong box. You may be sure I took good care to see to that."

We at the bedside shot significant glances from one to another in the silence. I disliked to break the news of his loss to him, not knowing what kind of a scene he would make, but decided I might as well do so now as at any other time. "They got whatever money was left in the safe, uncle," I said. "They blew the combination into old junk and cleaned out the currency to the last cent." He uttered a gasp and tried to sit up, but the physician pushed him back upon the pillow.

"Burglarized the safe! Got all the money!" he yelled, hoarsely, his eyes rolling upward so that the whites were to be seen. The expression upon his face was a ghastly reflection of the shock to his soul, and despite his miserliness I felt sorry for him as I grasped one twitching hand. His cheeks turned to the yellowish white of a fish's belly as he straightened out to his full length with a groan that was horrifying in its death mimicry.

"My God! My God! Forty thousand dollars of money that I toiled and schemed and saved for, gone into the pockets of loafing thieves. And I was going to put it in the bank the first thing Monday morning. Oh! it's terrible—terrible." He fell to rolling his head and cracking the joints of his fingers in his mental agony as the officers looked down upon him in mingled pity and contempt. Presently he recovered himself with a start and demanded to know about his papers; and this time I was glad to be able to tell him that so far as I had observed in my hasty scrutiny, nothing had been taken but the money. He seemed a trifle relieved for the moment at this information, but soon fell back into his lamentings. It was one of the most lamentable sights that I ever looked upon, exhibiting as it did all that was deplorable in his nature. The captain cleared his throat and began his examination.

"We have made a thorough inspection of the premises and cannot find that anything outside of the front rooms has been tampered with. All the windows of the unused lower portion are nailed down and the shutters fastened from the inside. The burglar alarm is in perfect order and would have notified the station had anything been forced open. The locks on the doors have not been broken, and they are of an intricate Yale pattern that could not have been picked. Everything goes to show that whoever entered did so by means of a key to the front door, since the rear door was bolted from the inside. If he did not unlock the front door it must have been left open, or else he was secreted in the house beforehand." He turned to Mrs. Tebbetts. "Are you sure that everything was locked up last night when you retired and that no outsider was secreted anywhere?" She burst forth eagerly.

"And indeed I am, sir. I was downstairs all the evening, and if the front door had been open by so much as a crack I would have known it. I always notice such things. And there was not anybody in the house besides Mr. Halliday and myself, either. I swept the whole place yesterday afternoon, closets and all. If anybody had been under the beds my broom would have found him quick enough, the rogue." Noting these facts in his memorandum book the officer continued dogmatically:

"Then it comes down to this. Whoever did this must have done so by means of a key to the front door. The back door is still securely bolted from the inside, and your housekeeper says she has not had occasion to use it this morning. Therefore, it still remains as it was during the night. The lower windows are securely fastened; the upper ones could not have been raised sufficiently to admit a person without setting off the burglar alarm, and there are no other means of entrance. It could not have been done otherwise." There really seemed no fault with his reasoning thus far, and we all acquiesced by silent nods. He turned to us sharply.

"As I have said before, the door locks are of such a character that they could not have been picked or opened with a skeleton key. Now, who have keys to this place?"

My uncle gulped and placed his hand upon his swollen throat, and I put myself in the breach. "If there is no objection, I will answer for him. It will save his strength, and he and Mrs. Tebbetts can listen and correct me or add anything whenever they choose."

Gruffly the policeman signified that it made no difference who spoke so long as all the facts were made known. One by one I answered his questions, watching him as he committed them to black and white with the painful effort of a schoolboy struggling with a composition. All three of us corresponded perfectly in our statements, Mrs. Tebbetts merely adding that she had been awakened by a loud sound in the night, but thinking it was thunder, had gone to sleep again. That the noise was the explosion there seemed no room for doubt, and the policeman congratulated her that she had remained in bed, as the burglar undoubtedly was watching her room at the time. At the end of half an hour he thrust the memorandum book into his pocket and pursed up his lips. Then he arose with a vibration of his ponderous frame that sent the ashes which had accumulated in his lap in his combined effort to keep pen and cigar going at the same time, flying as water flies from the shakings of a wet mastiff.

"I will make another careful inspection of the premises inside and out and then put my men to work. I have a theory and you will hear from me later. I think the criminal will be in the clutches of the law very shortly. If you learn anything of importance, communicate it to me—Captain Donnell, of the Twelfth Precinct." Down the stairs they went, and from the window I watched them as they clumped around on the grass beneath in search of tell-tale clews. Perfunctorily they passed around the house and then clambered into the wagon.

"If this matter is ever solved, I don't believe it will be by them," I mused as I recalled the stereotyped and formidable formula-like questions of their leader. "There is too much intelligence back of it for them. They will shell the woods aimlessly in the faint hope of driving out somebody; cast the drag-net and bring in a score of habitual criminals whom they will question and then turn loose, after which they will resume the even tenor of their ways along the trail of some other rogue. Of course they may stumble upon something that will give them a straight tip, but I don't believe it." I turned again to the bed were Uncle Abner was threshing about like a fish out of water as he berated the thief without stint, and myself as liberally because I had not been at home to act as a buffer between the intruder and his wealth. It was exceedingly trying to me, and the housekeeper having straightened out his own bed, I was delighted to give him what assistance he needed to get into it. That done, I left him there in Mrs. Tebbetts' care. Doctor Courtney still lingered, and I returned to my own apartments to discuss the peculiarities of the affair with him.

Perhaps half an hour had passed in this manner when the front door bell rang sharply, and as Mrs. Tebbetts was in the midst of her own trouble with my uncle, I went below to answer it. Swinging the door open I saw on the step before me my old friend, William LeDuc, who I had not seen in ages. Heartily I grasped him by the hand, and dragged him within.

CHAPTER IV.

It is now necessary that I take one step backward in my relation of this mysterious occurrence. I must go back to some time before the commission of the burglary and the entry of LeDuc upon the scene, in order that you may have all the facts presented to you as they were to that detective when he took hold of the case. Having made this new start I think I can proceed chronologically to the end of the case, detailing events in the order in which they happened. I am now beginning a few months before the robbery:

It was at this period of my life that I was cast under a spell. Hopelessly, helplessly and blindly I fell in love with a woman whose beauty was so aggressive that no mortal man could ignore it, while to attempt to describe it would be almost to insult it. I was about twenty-five then and she possibly four years older. My acquaintance with her began through the irrepressible Bruce.

I had dropped into the blue room of the Imperial for a bottle of ale and a cigar after the theatre, when I ran into my cousin's arms. He beamed upon me.

"Delighted, old fellow. Just in time. Come—I want to introduce you." He grasped my hand with the grip of a wrestler. Now, you have to exercise a little discretion before agreeing to meet Bruce's friends, and I glanced around furtively. You can never tell whether the next minute you will be shaking hands with the Chinese ambassador or the latest popular pugilist, so as the latter gentleman would express it, I sparred a moment for wind.

"To whom?" I inquired. He nodded toward a near-by table at which sat two women and a man.

"To Dick Edwards—but I guess you know him already—and the two ladies. But especially to Mrs. Dace. If you want good company, you need not go any further, for you won't find any better anywhere." I asked him whom the especial Mrs. Dace might be, and he laughed with what I thought was a faint undercurrent of significance beneath it.

"Oh, I haven't time to tell. Widow of somebody who died somehow, which is enough to know all at once. Main thing is she is as beautiful as a houri and gracious as an empress, but wise, my boy, wise, wise. Also apparently is a person of some means, amount of means represented by an X, meaning unknown quantity; source of means problem in higher mathematics very difficult of solution. But remember this: If you begin to feel sentimental when you look at her, remember that life is only a joke, and laugh at yourself; but when it comes to wine, remember that life is a mighty serious proposition, and stay sober. Come on, now." In another moment he was introducing me.

SAVED ONLY BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

CLANBRASSIL, ONT.

"Two years ago, the doctor made forty-four calls on me, and then said he had done all he could for me. I was suffering with intense Kidney Trouble and Inflammation had set in. Two other doctors were consulted and agreed that nothing could be done to help me.

On the recommendation of a neighbor, I took "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. To-day, I take "Fruit-a-tives" as my only medicine. I am in excellent health, and "Fruit-a-tives" is the medicine that cured me after I had been at Death's Door for months.

I am glad to be able to give you this testimonial. It may benefit some other woman suffering as I suffered, as I believe that I would not be alive to-day had I not used "Fruit-a-tives".

Caught Runaway Pair.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Detective McLaughlin arrested a man and woman on Windsor street Tuesday night on suspicion of being a runaway pair, and his suppositions proved correct, as the man, when arraigned yesterday, admitted he was Edouard Fanning of Albany, N.Y., and pleaded guilty to entering Canada and bringing another man's wife with him.

The woman is the wife of James Maloney, a well-to-do merchant of Albany, and the daughter of a hotel-keeper of the same city. Fanning is a waiter at her father's hotel, and while Maloney, the husband, was out of town, the couple eloped.

Pope's Condition Unsatisfactory.

Rome, Aug. 10.—The afternoon report of the Pope's condition was less reassuring than those of the early morning. His temperature, while not increased, remains about 100, and the heat of the day, which reached 95 degrees, exhausts the patient's strength. The most disquieting symptom is the progress of the gout attack, the pains from which have extended from the knee midway to the thigh.

150 Witnesses Called.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 10.—The prosecution in the trial of the McNamaras, the alleged dynamiters, will summon, it is said, about 150 witnesses, and the defence fully as many. Detectives are to be sent to all parts of the country to summon persons wanted as witnesses.

Won't Sanction Penny Postage.

MR. J. McCAMUS REMEMBERED

By His Keene Friends by a Farewell Address

A few of Mr. McCamus' friends met at his home in Keene on July 25th and read to them the following address.

Dear Mr. McCamus— Your many friends in Keene wish at this particular time to express our great appreciation of your service to the village.

The citizens of Keene owe you much for the deep interest you have taken in the village, through your assistance the village Improvement Society was greatly assisted in its praiseworthy efforts; this assistance being given at considerable sacrifice and hard work on your part, yet always cheerfully.

As a slight tangible expression of our good will for your many efforts in our behalf we ask you to accept this gold watch and fob, and trust that it may ever remind you of your many friends in Keene, who hold you in the highest regard as a friend and citizen

Signed on behalf of his friend.

About nine o'clock Mr. Porter arrived with the unfortunate man and Mr. Thornbury had him placed in the county jail for the present.

DESERTING THE SINKING SHIP

Liberals Leaving the Government Like Proverbial Rats.

Ottawa, Ont., August 9.—Sir Allen Aylesworth's retirement is regarded here as another of the proverbial straws indicating the direction of the political wind. That the Minister of Justice has long desired to get out is not questioned, and that his unfortunate deafness makes this necessary is all too apparent. At the same time, however, it had been undoubtedly his intention to go through a campaign this autumn and retire soon afterwards. Mr. Guthrie, of Wellington, promises to be Minister of Justice for a few weeks at least, although A. H. Clarke, of South Essex, is known to be viewed favorably.

SIR FREDERICK MUST WAIT.

The retirement of Mr. Brodeur to be replaced by Dr. Beland, will occur during the week. Sir Frederick Borden, too, is anxious to go to London, but has been prevailed upon to hang on a little longer. It is not desired to go to the country with a government composed largely of new men. Observers of the political situation are remarking the great change in the personnel of the government. It is a far call from the present Ministry to the days of Mowat, Blair, Tarte and Sifton. Mr. Brodeur's announced elevation to the bench is already calling forth criticism. He has been a professional politician by training, and though nominally a lawyer, has rarely practiced the profession for twenty years. At the same time he must be provided for before September 21st, and the Supreme Court vacancy is the best thing in sight.

MONTREAL BAR PROTEST.

The Montreal bar is already protesting, as they state there are many Liberal lawyers there who are better qualified than Mr. Brodeur for the Supreme court bench.

TAKING TO COVER.

The marked disposition to take to cover as evidenced among the big politicians as well as the small fry has a plain meaning. It is that the regime of Laurier is doomed and that the prize is not landed at once never will be.

ELOPED WITH HER DAD'S CHAUFFEUR

Newport Society Stunned by Vanderbilt Escapade

Newport, R.I., Aug. 9.—Society circles were stunned to-day as the result of the elopement of Miss Julia Estelle French, favorite niece of Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, who divorced Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, with "Jack" Gerahty, her father's chauffeur. The couple were married in Central Village, Conn., at 2 o'clock this morning, after having been chased across the state by the father of the bride.

When the couple, after a record-breaking trip through the night, reached Central Village, they hurriedly secured a license, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Perry, of Hudson, N.H., who was a guest at the Central Village hotel.

After the marriage the couple continued their flight toward New York. It was some hours later that Amos Tuck French, father of the bride, arrived. He said that he would never become reconciled to the wedding, and would consult his lawyers to see if he could not have the marriage annulled.

Gerahty is a Newport product, who has been a chauffeur for the "smart set" for some time. He is known to the society women as "Handsome Jack."

BUSINESS MEN HAD A HOLIDAY

Some Side Splitting Stunts Pulled off in a Base-ball Game

Forsaking business cares yesterday afternoon, one hundred of the city's business men took passage on the steamer "Stony Lake" and were conveyed down the river to Rice Lake, disembarking at Gore's Landing.

They were a jolly bunch, wit and humor was the order of the day. Perhaps the funniest and most side-splitting stunt of the day was pulled off when two hastily chosen teams tried to play baseball. One side was so weak that they adopted the name "Invalids" while their opponents called themselves "The Married Men." The game became so interesting that the score became a thing of minor importance.

"Bugs" Fahey, of Toronto, was the star first baseman for the Invalids, but he failed to make a hit. "Andy" Laidlaw extinguished himself at second and put up stellar work for the Invalids. It was a regrettable occurrence that he did not receive some support. He had nine put-outs to his credit. His hitting was good and his base-stealing better. Mr. Pardoe, of Toronto, and Chris Graham were the battery for the married men, but having left their paraphernalia at home, they failed to make as good a showing as they would have otherwise. Both are carrying "bung" hands to-day.

Tax-collector John Green was the official and much abused umpire. The players showered epithets upon him, for making them pay such exorbitant taxes. The umpire it is said, did the same trick as another well meaning official did when refereeing at a game. Seeing the bases full and a man up to bat and the latter on receiving four balls being ordered to take his base, the perplexed official seeing the dilemma he was in ordered him to go back, worriedly remarking that he had no place to put him.

Sam Baker, the Water street barber, gave a lecture on the poor crop of whiskers this season.

Nevertheless its all in the day's program of fun and everybody was happy. They returned home about 10 o'clock.

SET BED AFIRE TO ROUSE WIFE

Quebec Farmer Claimed She Was Shamming

Ottawa, Aug. 9—Charles Dubois, a farmer from St. Pierre de Wakefield was brought to the Hull jail by Bailiff de Coeli, of Hull, on a warrant charging him with assault on his wife and members of his family. He will come up before Magistrate Desjardins in the Hull Police Court to-morrow. He is alleged to have set fire to the bed on which his wife lay sick, just to ascertain if she was really ill or not. When the unfortunate woman jumped from the bed to escape being burned, it is claimed, he swore she was shamming sickness and made her work around the house.

On another occasion, it is alleged, he chased the whole family into the woods with two sticks of dynamite.

Four years ago he stabbed a neighbor in the course of a quarrel and bit off the top of the man's thumb.

A WOMAN WORKS IN CHAIN GANG

Iola City Officials up in Arms Over Treatment

Iola, Kans. Aug. 9—Iola city officials, with the exception of Municipal Judge Smeltzer, are up in arms because a woman has been sentenced to don a pair of bloomers and join the street gang from the city jail. Judge Smeltzer yesterday sentenced Mrs. Ella Reese to the street gang and ordered that city officials provide her with the bloomers.

Street Commissioner Glynn refused to have a woman in the chain gang.

Mrs. Reese did not go to work breaking rock or sweeping the streets to-day because the bloomers had not been provided, and the officials say they will not allow the woman to carry out the sentence imposed upon her.

A MAN

A bundle of contradictions,
  A package of grunts and groans,
With nothing to throw at his betters
  But suds and skillets and stones;
Amiable only when getting
  His own way all the while,
Till you wonder if he has feeling
  And you wonder if he can smile.

Sinister, saucy and stubborn,
  Childish as child again
At a twinge of the rheumatism,
  Or any old kind of pain.
Thinking that people haven't
  A thing to do in this grim
And the toiling land of the living
  But hurry and wait on him.

Touchy and vain and bilious.
  Grouchy and like a bear,
And wonders why people don't love him,
  And wonders why people don't care.
This is his picture, ladies,
The others are like him, you'll see;
Selfish and weak and foolish—
  And they are all like him but me!

FRANKFORD OUTFIT WERE WALLOPED BY LEAFS 5 TO 2

Cresswell Struck Out Eleven Batters—A Pitcher's Battle Between Two South Paws—Visitors Tallied Twice in the Ninth on Local's Errors.

The game at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon between a local aggregation calling themselves the Leafs and a Frankford nine, who blew in with the excursionists and were spoiling for a meeting with a Peterborough outfit, the age limit to be twenty years, proved to be a pitcher's battle between two south paws, Creswell for the locals and Clarke for the visitors. When the contest was finished the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the home team. Creswell secured eleven strike-outs while Clarke was credited with eight. The umpire, who was a Frankford man, had evidently partook too [illegible] it was a most necessary for a man to swing at a ball before he called it a strike. There were a couple of disputed decisions, but the locals did not kick very hard as the visitors were not very dangerous, even when the bases were full. The Cresswellites put over all the old stunts such as biting the ball and the Franks fell for it. "Doc" McFadden put one over on the [illegible] made a couple of would-be scorers look as though they had just come off the plough.

With one man down and a man on second and third, Simmons came to bat and drove one at Derocher, who threw him out to Phelan. Phelan threw to McFadden to stop LaPoint at third and "Doc" went through the motion of throwing to Sheehy and immediately began studying the landscape as though all was over with the Leafs, but the cheering. Sheehy fell in with the joke and started to the outfield as if in search of the ball. The runner had visions of saving the pieces, if not the game and ran for the home plate amid the enthusiastic cheering of the now thoroughly excited populace who thought the predicted blowup of the locals had at last come to give them a victory. When McFadden persisted in blocking the way he waxed indignant and was going to protest. "You're out," from his umps brought him back to the cold fact that his glorious sprint had retired the side.

A regrettable thing occurred during the progress of the eighth innings. A couple of drunks started a row and everybody joined in to separate them or fan the flame as was their nature. The ladies retired as did also many of the men and the players were left to finish the grind without the encouragement of the fairer sex.

The locals played fairly good ball, but Clarke came near to being the whole thing in the Frankford team. He handled all sorts of chances without respect of the local batters when they faced him a couple of times, only giving two singles during the performance. Creswell was cool and though he allowed four bingles they were not bunched. The two runs which the visitors got were on errors and were secured in the ninth innings when Turley went to first on Phelan's fumble. Rose was passed and Turley went to second and to third when Creswell hit Hubbell, scoring when Clarke bifted to Callaghan, McCauley striking out. Herman sent one at Derocher who attempted to throw Rose out at the plate, but was wild. LaPointe struck out and Law flew out to Phelan.

HOCKEY

Montreal, Aug. 9—Ernie Johnson, for many years one of the standbys of the Wanderer hockey team, has signed a contract to play hockey in Calgary next winter, the man successful in getting the big defence man being Frank Patrick, who has been in the east trying to corral a bunch of huskies for a team in Calgary. He succeeded in getting Ernie to trek westward for an increase of $1400 over present stipend. As a puck chaser with the maroon and white team Johnson earned $1200. With the Calgary Eye Opener he will receive $2[illegible]. Whether the contract will prove a cast-iron one or not remains to be seen. But it is likely that the Wanderers will not let the big fellow go without strenuous efforts to retain him. [illegible]

PIRATES TAKE LEADERSHIP

First Time This Season for 1909 Champions to Touch Top Rung Climax of String of Victories

Pittsburg, Aug. 9—The leadership of the National League fell into the hands of the Pittsburg Pirates today. This is the first time this season that the world's champions of 1909 have touched the top rung of the 1911 standing. The dislodgment of the Chicago Cubs from first place comes as the climax of a remarkable string of victories for Pittsburg, including a ten-innings battle from Philadelphia to-day, aided by the defeat of the Cubs by the New York Giants by 10 to 5. The combination gives Pittsburg first place by one point.

Toronto, Aug. 9—The Leafs broke even with Newark here to-day, each taking a game. Baltimore's win from Montreal shoved the Leafs down to third place again. Rochester was beaten by the Skeeters in a close finish, but the champions still have a substantial lead.

PORT HOPE BEAT RUBBER MEN 20-5

Murphy of the Petes Secured two Singles and a Three-bagger—Beith Was Chased

Murphy, of the local Midland Leaguers, returned this morning from Port Hope, where he held down the third sack yesterday in a game against Bowmanville. When the Port Hope imports were through with Beith and Co. the score stood 20—5, the rubber men taking the five. Beith got his when he went up against the Peterborough-Toronto-Orono-Cobourg organization known yesterday as the Port Hopers. He kicked on some of the decisions and left the box with the score 2—0 against him. His successor was pounded all over the lot. "Fat" Turpin, of Cobourg fame, and Murphy, of the Petes, each securing three hits. When the bases were full in the fifth Murphy drove out a three-bagger, and later scored from there. There were five imports on the homesters' line. Gage, of rugby fame, caught, while an Orono man did the twirling.

The burlesque was pulled off on the exhibition grounds amongst the weeds and tall grass. The absence of proper seating accommodation made it impossible to keep the huge crowd away from the base line.

W. O'Brien and Gonter had an invitation to join the fray, but could not make connections.

SPORT TALK

Baltimore, Toronto and Rochester are in the Eastern League race up to their eyes. It will be a bitter struggle from now until the 24th of September.

Kelly's pitchers are not in the best of condition for the road trip. Some of them complain of sore arms.

"Bill" Milburn, secretary of the Midland Football League, leaves Saturday morning for western points. "Bill" will no doubt be greatly missed by the football element of the city, as he was a strong supporter of soccerism and manager of the C.G.E. champions, who play the Baraccas, of Toronto, Saturday in the Ontario finals.

Tom Longboat is his own manager now, having purchased his release from Manager Sol Mintz yesterday for $500. Longboat originally signed with Tom Flanagan, but Flanagan, after six months' experience, sold the contract to P. T. Powers for $1,500, and Pat Powers, after four months, sold it to Mints for a thousand. Longboat has been training faithfully for over a month now and declares that his first race must be a winning one. He and Shrubb have met five times, and the Englishman has won five times, every time at ten or twelve miles.

The Pittsburg Pirates made their record 18 won out of 19 played when they defeated the Phillies in a ten-innings game yesterday.

CROP IN THE WEST IS GOOD

Winnipeg Commercial Says it Will be 180,000,000 Bushels.

Winnipeg, Aug 9— The Winnipeg Commercial has the following on the crop situation: "After studying the different conditions in the numerous localities we have come to the conclusion that the total wheat output of the West this season will be about 183,000,000 bushels. This result is arrived at by reckoning on a general average of 18 1-2 bushels per acre over the three Provinces. This average is considerably better than it has been for several years, and when the extensiveness of the territory concerned is considered, it is a magnificent average. We have figured that the acreage under wheat is 17 1-2 per cent. higher than last year, and from the circumstances attending the preparation of the soil for this season's crop there are likely very few who will disagree with the estimate.

CROP AREA EXPANDED

In a previous issue The Commercial referred to the fact that there has been but little criticism of the estimate of 200,000,000 bushels that has been spoken of all season, seemingly to the satisfaction of nearly all parties interested. If the crops were nearly all uniform throughout the country the amount of 200,000,000 bushels would without a doubt be realized. The territory under cultivation has extended so enormously, however, that every year most likely some part or other will experience backwardness in comparison with the more fortunate localities. There are some districts that will not fare as well as others this year, and the inclusion of those in making up the general average is what leads us to predict a total of few millions less than the round number 200,000,000.

GREATEST CROP EVER

We are not pessimistic by any means. It must be considered that while this is the best year in the memory of even those who are pioneers in the West, the amount of The Commercial's estimate is about 60,000,000 bushels greater than the best previous production. That being the case, the aggregate yield this year is astonishing, without reaching the two hundred million mark.

In our review we calculate the wheat crop to be worth about $165,000,000. This is figured on the basis of ninety cents per bushel a price considerably lower than that which has ruled in the market for a long time. We make use of the ninety cent quotation so as to be reasonably safe in our estimate. Any price mentioned before marketing can only be arbitrary. In the same manner in which we have reckoned the wheat crop we have also figured on the other grains, and we find the indications to point to a total grain yield of 388,947,000 bushels in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. We also estimate all this prospective production to have a value of $254,632,000. When we think of this amount as most likely to be about the value of this season's grain, to say nothing about other farm produce, its contemplation is enough to stagger one.

Without making further reference to the figures we have arrived at, we place before our readers the detailed report made up of statements contributed by representative business men of every part of this great country.

A RAVENOUS INDUSTRY

How the Paper Makers Are Destroying the Forests of the United States.

The forests of the United States now cover 550,000,000 acres, or about one-fourth of the area of the country. Forests publicly owned contain one-fifth of all timber standing. The timber privately owned is not only four times that publicly owned but it is generally more valuable.

Forestry is not practised on 70 per cent. of the forests publicly owned and on less than 1 per cent. of the forests privately owned, or on only 18 per cent. of the total area of the forests.

The original forests of the United States contained timber in quantity and variety far beyond that upon any other area of similar size in the world. They covered 850,000,000 acres with a stand of not less than 5,200,000,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber, according to present standards of use. There were five great forest regions—the northern, the southern, the central, the Rocky Mountain and the Pacific.

The present rate of cutting is three times the annual growth of the forests of the United States. The great pineries of the Lake States are nearing exhaustion and great inroads have been made upon the supply of valuable timber throughout all parts of the country.

The heavy demands for timber have been rapidly pushing the great centres of lumber industry towards the South and West. In consequence, the State of Washington has led for several years in lumber production, followed in order by Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Arkansas. In 1908 the production of yellow pine lumber amounted to eleven and one-quarter billion feet; the Douglas fir of the Northwest held second place, with three and two-thirds billion feet; while white pine came third, with three and one-third billion feet.

The annual cut from the forests, including waste in logging and in manufacture, is 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood.

There is used in a normal year 90,000,000 cords of fire wood, 40,000,000,000 board feet of lumber, 118,000,000 hewn ties, 1,500,000,000 staves, over 133,000,000 sets of heading, nearly 500,000,000 barrel hoops, 3,000,000 cords of native pulp wood, 165,000,000 cubic feet of round mine timbers and 1,250,000 cords of wood for distillation.

In 1909 4,002,000 cords of wood were used in the manufacture of paper, of which 794,000 cords were imported from Canada. The demand for pulp wood is making a severe drain on the spruce forests, which furnish the principle supply. The Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture is conducting investigations to determine what other woods, such as scrub pine, white fir, tupelo and the like, can be successfully used.

A larger drain upon forest resources is made by the demand for railroad ties, of which 123,754,000, equivalent to three and three-quarters billion board feet, were used in 1908. White oak, hitherto the chief source of supply, is not plentiful enough to meet this demand indefinitely, and in many parts of the country the supply of chestnut, cedar and cypress is dwindling; however, seasoning and treating methods are being found, largely through the work of the Forest Service, by which cheaper and more plentiful woods, such as lodgepole pine in the Northwest and loblolly pine in the South, are made fit for use as ties. Timber to the amount of two and one-half billions feet was used in 1907 for mine timbers. A great saving has been effected in the naval stores industry, also largely through the work of the Forest Service, by the introduction of the so-called "cup" system of turpentining in place of the old destructive system of "boxing." The new systems insure a larger product of better quality and prolong the life of the longleaf pine forests upon which the industry depends.

BALANCE THE WRONG WAY

United States Exports of Manufactures.

An examination of the trade statistics of the United States throws an interesting side light upon the country's present overtures for Reciprocity with us. For the nine months ending September, 1910, their exports of domestic merchandise of very kind were $1,192,221,512, of which $210,490,966 were manufactures for further use in manufacturing, and $401,684,694 were manufactures ready for consumption. The sum of these two, $612,625,660, accounts for 51 per cent. of all of their exports put together. But this is not crediting the exports of manufactures with a class known as "foodstuffs, partly manufactured," which are valued at $180,159,193. If we regard this also as legitimately forming a part of the exports of manufactured goods, it means that of every thing the United States exported for the nine months ending September last, manufactured goods amounted to over 66 per cent.

Applying the average for the first nine months to the last three, the figures which were not available when this statement was prepared, it indicates that the exports for the year of manufactures ready for consumption and manufactures for further use in manufacturing will pass the $800,000,000 mark. This is an enormous amount for which to have to find an outlet, and there can be little doubt that underlying the present agitation in the United States for Reciprocity with Canada is an earnest desire to open wider the markets of this country for exploitation by their manufacturers.

At the same time it enables us to catch a glimpse of what the future may hold in store for us if we continue to work out our own industrial destiny along independent lines.

FINISHING HIS WORK

Halifax Herald.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has managed not only to bring Canada to "the parting of the ways," as President Taft has said, but also to bring the British Empire to the "verge of disintegration," as is shown by the "Separatist" stand Sir Wilfrid took at the Imperial Conference, and the "separatist" results of that disloyal conduct.

In the judgment of the world, as shown by expressions of public opinion in Germany and other foreign nations, the doctrine and attitude of Sir Wilfrid, if generally adopted by the British Dominions, must inevitably lead to the destruction of the British Empire; it would cease to be, it would fall to pieces from its own lack of cohesion, even without any blow being struck from without.

CANADIAN NAVY NEUTRAL, AND NO UNION JACK.

The British Motherland is now, unfortunately, in the hands of a government that has not the spirit or courage to resist Sir Wilfrid's "Separatist" doctrine and propaganda, and the result is that that Radical government has actually assented to Sir Wilfrid's utterly vicious "Neutrality" doctrine as to colonial warships and naval defence.

It is surely a thing that the loyal British people of Canada will find difficult to believe, but it is nevertheless true that the Asquith government has brought down a naval return, which defines the status of the Canadian navy (when Canada has one) to be such that the Canadian ships may remain NEUTRAL when the Empire is ATTACKED and will NOT even be required to fly the UNION JACK!

That is one of the empire-destroying results of Sir Wilfrid's Separatist work at the Imperial Conference.

LAURIER'S VICIOUS TEACHINGS SPREADING TO OTHER DOMINIONS.

But that is not all.

He has set the Boer press of South Africa preaching his doctrine of "Neutrality" on the part of the "Dominions" when the Motherland is attacked and is at war.

Another result has been that the Socialist Premier of Australia according to an interview published in Mr. Stead's "Review of Reviews," has declared that already "there is no British Empire." Mr. Stead may have overstated Mr. Fisher's anti-imperial position, he is quite capable of such vicious work, but Fisher must surely have given Stead some "separatist" material to work on, and that "separatist" material Fisher got from Laurier.

It is true that dispatches from Australia show that Fisher, in his published interview, as completely misrepresented the loyal British people of Canada; but that in no way excuses or minimises Sir Wilfrid's vicious work at the Conference.

The British Motherland is being menaced to-day as never before since the time of the first Napoleon.

LAURIER'S NOTICE TO THE WORLD OF DESERTION OF MOTHERLAND

Germany, with the greatest army in the world has been for years striving to provide herself with a correspondingly great navy, which may wrest from Britain the command of the sea, and place the whole British Empire within the power of the conqueror.

It is at such a juncture as this, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Prime minister of the chief of the British Overseas Dominion starts his "Neutrality" doctrine, which publicly announces to all the enemies of Britain would stand alone, severed from the rest of the Empire, with Overseas Dominions standing "neutral" and not even flying the British flag upon their ships.

SPORTS ON LABOR DAY

The Trades and Labor Council held their regular meeting last evening and the principal business transacted was the program of sports to be carried out on Labor Day at Riverside Park. It has oft times been stated that no sports or games of any kind were held in our city on a public holiday to keep the people in the city. Labor Day this year will give every person who is fond of a good day's enjoyment a chance to have it without leaving the city. Besides the splendid program of sports there will be a prize given that everybody who buys a ticket of admission will have a chance on. The management and employees of the Brinton Carpet Works have kindly donated a beautiful $25 rug, to be drawn for. There will be something for everybody at Riverside Park on Labor Day. The 57th band will be in attendance and a refreshment booth will also be on the grounds. The Trades Council intend making this an annual affair. A big crowd should turn out to the games and help to make this day one to be remembered.

A baseball match between the fast Belleville team and the Peterborough team will be one of the main features of the afternoon.

Mr. Thompson, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., will have full charge of the different events and everything will be run off in a satisfactory manner.

The Senate at Washington has passed the new Mexico-Arizona Statehood Bill.

TRENT BRIDGE HAPPENINGS

Summer Season at This Resort at Its Height New Cottages—Trent Bridge Regatta on August 16th

Special Correspondence

Trent Bridge, Aug. 8.—The summer season at Trent Bridge is at its height now, and the number of tourists and campers at this point is extremely large and measures well up with the visitors in years gone by.

Some new cottages have been erected this year, and plans are under way for the erection of several more which, however, will probably not be erected until the spring of next year. Part of the Drown farm, about one hundred yards east of the bridge, will be laid out in lots for camping purposes, and already sales of several lots have been made.

The new swing bridge has been completed and Trent Bridge is now the proud possessor of one of the largest swing bridges in the province.

Work on the canal at this point has been suspended for a time, but later the main channel for the passage of boats will be made along the right bank of the river.

Just at the moment the fishing is not as good as it might be, but the good catches made up to the present this season warrants the fishermen in expecting to land some good specimens of the finny tribe before the summer months have gone.

The dancing pavilion on Wight's Island is a busy spot every evening, especially on Wednesdays and Fridays, when Havelock and Campbellford, on account of their half holiday, send along a goodly number. When each Saturday the week-enders from the city swell the number to a goodly size.

BIG REGATTA.

On Wednesday, Aug. 16th, Trent Bridge will hold its second annual regatta, and, from the present outlook it will eclipse last year's affair, and that is saying a good deal. It was advertised for the 11th inst., but was found later that it would be much better to hold it on the 16th instead. Last year seen the first regatta held at this point, and it was such a brilliant success that it was decided to make it an annual affair.

This is Havelock's half holiday and a big crowd is expected from the railroad town, while Norwood, Hastings and Campbellford will likewise send along a goodly portion of their population. Canoe and boat races of all kinds, tub races and swimming races will be some features of the day's fun. The Campbellford band will be in attendance. The newly erected dancing pavilion is promised a busy day, as excellent music will be provided.

WHAT IS GOING ON

Mr. Fred Winton, of Campbellford, has purchased the summer cottage of Wm. Cornell.

Johnston Brown and family, of Havelock, are on a two weeks sojourn on Cedar Isle.

Misses N. McCuaig and M. Little, of Blairton, are the guests of Mrs. Joe Knox at "Bon Alexander."

Mr. Garnet Barlow, of Havelock, spent the week-end at Trent Bridge.

Mr John Richards, of Havelock, has erected a cottage at Cedar Point.

Mrs. French and family, of Campbellford, are camping at the bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ormiston, Havelock, are spending a couple of weeks at the bridge.

Special Correspondence

Bensfort, Aug. 9—The harvest will soon be over for another year. The late grains are ripening very rapidly.

We are pleased to see that our learned friend from Lorenz has dealt very ably with the women's suffarge question. We also believe that women should have the right to vote, sharing as they do in the toils of life. We have not been favored with hearing learned men discuss this question as our worthy friend has, but believe in equal rights between man and woman. We expect to see Douglasville voice their sentiments in this all important question, though they may not as the main portion of their village mightn't care for voting.

A number of boys and young men are in the habit of gathering at certain places along the river bank on Sunday to bathe, and some very bad language is used. If there is not soon a stop put to it, some of them may be made an example of.

We thought we were pretty well acquainted in this district in the way of knowing the inhabitants, but a name appeared in the Lorenz items of last week with which we are not familiar when it was said that certain residents were the guests of Mrs. C. DON'T WEAR OLD APPEARING GLASSES

Why have glasses that are awkward to wear and that give an unnecessarily "old" appearance? Why duck and peer over your reading glasses to see objects at a distance? Why wear two pair of glasses, one for distance, the other for reading? Why wear conspicuous pasted wafers cemented to your distance lenses. When it is not necessary.

Wear Our Toric Kryptoks

Toric Kryptoks have the appearance of single lenses, but give perfect distance and close work service. There is no marked "old appearing" dividing line to distract the vision and collect dirt, there is no paster to blur or fall off — Instead you have solid lenses which you can wear at ALL times for all purposes as naturally as you would as your eyes without glasses.

NO, DAKOTA FOR HIM

The following letter has been received by the Canadian National League from a farmer in Saskatchewan, dated from Wauchope, Aug. 3, 1911.

"Some one has been kind enough to send me literature opposing the reciprocity pact, for which I wish to thank the sender. I beg to say that I have supported the Liberal party since my first vote in 1872. I am opposed to this pact and will support the candidate who will oppose it. I am a farmer and all I have is in farm lands in Saskatchewan. I have lived in Dakota and I believe it this agreement goes into effect it will reduce our Northwest to the same conditions as prevail in the United States.

LORDS DRINK THE HEMLOCK; NO CREATION OF PEERS NOW

Peers Pass by 17 Majority the Veto Bill That Clips Their Power—Morley's Announcement Decided the Issue.

London, Aug. 11.—Premier Asquith's Government, which claims to represent the democracy of Great Britain, last night enforced its will upon the peerage by the narrow vote of 131 to 114. By this vote the House of Lords decided to accept what the Liberals contend is the will of the people, and adopted Viscount Morley's motion not to insist upon the Lords' amendments to the Parliamentary bill, which practically limits the power of the House of Lords to a two years' suspensory veto and vastly increases the prerogatives of the House of Commons.

The great constitutional struggle, which began when the House of Lords nearly two years ago rejected the budget of David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is ended for a time at least, with the greatest change to Great Britain's working constitution since the passing of the reform bill.

The process of voting consumed nearly an hour and the result trembled in the balance until the last moment. The "die hards" mustered greater strength than the prophets had anticipated, and the Government owes its victory to the votes of between twenty and thirty Conservatives who threw in their lot with the Liberals to save their own caste from loss of prestige by a great increase in its numbers and the King from the necessity of the exercise of the royal prerogative, from which everyone believes he was most anxious to be saved.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York and nine bishops lined up with the Government, although the ecclesiastical lords generally keep aloof from party questions. The Bishops of Bangor and Worcester went with the Halsburyites, "the last ditchers."

It was noticeable that the highest ranks of the nobility furnished the fewest supporters of the Government. The Dukes of Norfolk, Leeds, Marlborough, Newcastle, Northumberland, Somerset and Westminster voted with the Oppostion, while the remainder abstained from voting.

"Drinking the hemlock" had become an historic phrase in past months, and the gathering in the ancient chamber last night to witness this memorable humiliation was worthy of the occasion. Peeresses, ambassadors and commoners packed the galleries, and a group of private counsellors, exercising the prerogatives of their position, sat upon the steps of the throne. The benches, aisles and floor were crowded

Lt.-Col Arthur Lee, in speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, said this would be a black day in England's history if the House of Lords accepted the veto bill and the House of Commons cut adrift from the traditions of centuries to bestow salaries upon its members. Apparently the sentiment of the peers was in full accord with this description of the occasion. Lords frequently forgot the oppressive dignity which customarily marks the proceedings in the Upper Chamber, and fought for a hearing with the strenuousness of an American Congressman who has cherished a public building bill and sees the last hours of the session slipping past.

The Earl of Halsbury once went so far as to make a formal motion that one of his supporter be heard in preference to one peer who favored the Government.

When the voting began, Lord Lansdowne withdrew to a position behind the throne, but his followers watched the issue eagerly. The bishops on both sides walked through the tellers first. A thrill of excitement marked the appearance of each notable, but none was greater than when Lord Rosebery appeared as a supporter of the Government.

As soon as the result was known, several members of the House of Commons rushed from the galleries and into their own chamber and whispered the news to the members. A great cheer followed the announcement of the Government's victory.

The question of the hour is what effect last night's decision will have upon the future fortunes of the Conservative party. Viscount Morley's definite announcement that enough peers would be created permanently to swamp the Upper House if the Government did not prevail, apparently swayed a few waverers and decided the issue.

POPE'S SPIRITS ARE BRIGHTER

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Corinne Legault, a domestic who was badly burned in the explosion of a methylated spirit lamp at Riviere Des Prairies Wednesday night, when C. E. Beaudry, aged 9, was burned to death, succumbed to her injuries yesterday. The girl suffered excruciating agony before the end came.

John W. Gates' Will.

New York, Aug. 11.—The will of John W. Gates, who died Wednesday in Paris, will be probated in Port Arthur, Texas, where the financier made his residence. This much was ascertained yesterday at the offices of Byrne and Cutcheon, lawyers, which firm has custody of the last will and testament made by Mr. Gates. It is understood that the bulk of the property will go to "Charley" Gates, his son. The fortune is estimated at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Want Reduced Fire Rates.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Members of the Board of Control intend to request the underwriters to reduce the fire insurance rates in the city. This action will be based upon the fact that since the controllers took hold of the city's management two and a half millions have been expended in laying water conduits, purchasing fire apparatus and increasing the efficiency of the fire department.

The imperial consul-general of Japan will come down from Ottawa to meet the admiral and will attend the luncheon. The consul, Hon. Nakamura, will speak at the luncheon. Count Togo, however, will not make a speech, as his knowledge of English, though fair, makes him hesitate to speak in public.

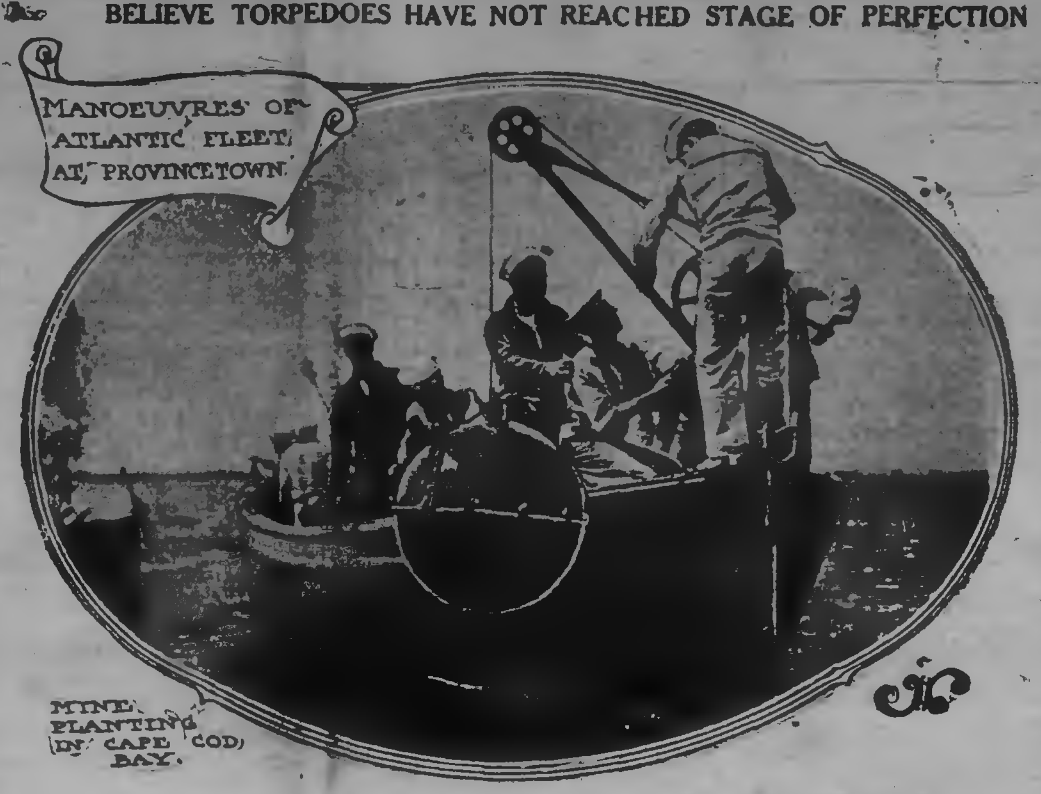
MANOEUVRES OF THE NORTH ATLANTIC FLEET TEACH A LESSON—BELIEVE TORPEDOES HAVE NOT REACHED STAGE OF PERFECTION



MANOEUVRES OF ATLANTIC FLEET AT PROVINCETOWN.
MINE PLANTING IN CAPE COD BAY.

The North Atlantic fleet is now engaged in summer manoeuvres at Provincetown, Mass. Thus far everything has been running along splendid, except that a majority of the officers engaged in the manoeuvres are of the opinion that torpedoes have not yet reached the desired stage of perfection. Types in use at present are reported to be too unreliable as a class. Even skilled operators, it is pointed out, can never tell how they are going to behave.

Practice on these and other ranges has convinced many of the officers that torpedoes are too uncertain to be handled with any degree of satisfaction or safety if loaded for real business.

ITALIAN CHARGED WITH THE TARRO MURDER COMES BACK

Promises Revelations of Black Hand Plots in Canada—Admits the Murder—Gives up According to Promise.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Because he would rather die than live, hounded as he was by daily terror was Frank Griro's reason for shooting Frank Tarro, at the corner of Church and Front streets, on Sunday, July 30 last. Then, haunted by the dread of vengeance at the hands of the brother of the man, whom he killed, Gax Griro kept his promise to the police and gave himself up at the Agnes street station last night at 9.55. He had posted this letter from Detroit, on August 5.

"Dear Chief I will come soon to have mine sentence. I am Frank Griro."

This note was received at the Agnes street station on the 6th and Griro made good last night. He declared that no trouble regarding Rosa Brunet had anything to do with the shooting of Tarra.

Being kept informed of the movements of the Italians in Toronto, he had heard that the dead man's brother had left in pursuit of him under a vow to seek him to the end of the earth and cut him to pieces. Hearing this, even after he had written the letter, he fled wildly and aimlessly from Detroit to Chicago, to St. Louis, from which place he returned equally desperate to seek shelter in the hands of the police.

"I'm Frank," he said, on entering the station. "I'm the man who shot Tarro. I told you I was coming and here I am; come for sentence."

He was a member of the Black Hand Society and that organization tormented him day and night demanding $5 and $10 at a time to keep quiet.

Griro said he had over a hundred dollars at the time he left Toronto and last night had only $21.10 left. The rest was used to keep the society quiet and in railway fares.

"I've got a lot to tell about the Black Hand," he went on. "There's a lot of them who should be arrested."

After being searched, he was taken to Inspector Duncan's office, where he was cross-examined for three hours. He is stated to have made revelations regarding Black Hand bands in Toronto and elsewhere, which will doubtless prove of great worth to the police.

Just when Griro intended to return was unknown to the police. In his letter he merely stated that he would return and give himself up at the place he did. He arrived at the Union Station and went to Agnes street in a hack, for which he paid before entering the station.

Sergt. Snyder of Agnes street station said last evening that the prisoner walked quietly into the station. He told who he was and put up his hands as if to swear to his identity and also that the officers might search him.

Griro did not live at the York street restaurant, but at 175 Jarvis street, where Rosa Brunet was taken into custody as a material witness.

Interesting to Motorists.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—E. H. Dale, of Brampton, Ont., whose automobile struck and seriously injured Mrs. Jos. McCracken on a street crossing here, was before the magistrate in the Police Court yesterday morning. The case was adjourned pending the outcome of Mrs. McCracken's injuries, which are reported serious.

The prosecution is based on section seven of the Ontario regulations respecting motor traffic. This section makes it an offence to recklessly or negligently drive a motor car at a speed dangerous to the public, having regard to all circumstances and the condition and use of the highway. The accident occurred as the woman was alighting from a street car.

MURDERED BY CHUM AT DANCE

Religious Differences Said to Have Been at Bottom.

Murderer Not Caught Yet, But Has Been Seen.

Special to the Review.

Orillia, Aug. 11.—Arthur Sheridan still manages to elude search parties who are seeking to arrest him for the murder of Ross Ford. He was seen yesterday near Washago, and it is believed will soon be captured. It is reported that the two men quarreled on July 12th over a religious topic as Ford was an Orangeman and the fugitive a Catholic.

Orillia, Aug. 11.—A quarrel between chums is thought to have been the cause of one man murdering the other in South Orillia, three miles from here, on Wednesday night, when Arthur Sheridan, a young man, stabbed Ross Ford in the throat. Sheridan was at a party at the house of George Duff. Ford arrived at 11.30 p.m., and Sheridan went out and met him. They walked down the road together for quite a distance and Sheridan returned alone, saying that he was afraid he had "done for" Ford, and asked them to call a doctor.

The deed was apparently committed in cold blood. There did not seem to be any quarrel at the time of the stabbing and Sheridan did not seem to be very perturbed when he returned to the house.

Several members of the house party hurried with Sheridan down the road. They found Ford lying face downward in the ditch beside the road. There was a large wound close to the juncture of the neck and the body. Life was soon found to be extinct.

Sheridan remained at the scene for a few moments, talking with the others. Then he went off alone and has not yet been heard from. Searching parties are now out combing the district in an effort to locate him. It is felt that he cannot possibly escape owing to the well settled nature of that part of the country.

It is said that the two men had a disagreement at another party several nights before. It is thought that it was over two sisters with whom the two boy companions had been familiar.

BRITISH MEMBERS WILL GET ANNUAL INDEMNITY OF $2,000

Unionist Opposition Condemns it as Lowering the Tone of Public Service.

London, Aug. 11.—A resolution to pay members of the House of Commons $2,000 annually for their services was carried by a vote of 156 to 150.

The resolution was moved by Chancellor David Lloyd-George, in the House of Commons yesterday. The Chancellor said that Great Britain was the only country in the world that did not pay members for their work in Parliament, which nowadays was so strenuous that the members had little time to attend to anything else.

The Unionists opposed the payment plan on the ground that it would be a violation of the principle of gratuitous public service as well as improper for members to vote themselves salaries. Arthur Hamilton Lee, Unionist member for the Fareham division of Hants, who moved the official Unionist amendment against salaries, argued that the effect of the Chancellor's bill would be to keep out the best types and fill Parliament with professional politicians.

James Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, denied that the measure would cause corruption, and said that it would "tend to help the tide of purity which is flowing over American politics."

Henry C. Frick Retires.

THINK IT OVER

A writer in the Boston Transcript, E. W. Thompson, of Ottawa, who is a newspaper man, and a former editorial writer on the Toronto Globe, makes some amazing statements in an article recently published in the Boston paper. Mr. Thompson has frequently been shown to be in close touch with the Laurier Government, and what he says may well be looked at twice to ascertain if there is not an inspired appearance about it. Mr. Thompson takes the strenuous ground that for the Canadian electorate to refuse to ratify the reciprocity pact would be such a slap in the face for the well intentioned United States that the results would be dangerous. He says that the defeat of reciprocity now that the United States wants it is attended by great risks. But let him plead his own case, and then think it over, reader. Think it over. Perhaps you may decide to vote for reciprocity after all.

"Consider, also," he says, "the wide international effect of an anti-reciprocity victory in Canada. It would signify that our electors had ordered our Tories to slap Uncle Sam's face for a generous offer. The reciprocity measure is generous to Canada, as Canadians in general well know. Did they respond by the slap which our Tories pretend to seek to deliver, not merely your magnanimous President, his Cabinet, his party, but both the great parties of the Republic would feel the sting of the blow. Both parties furthered the neighborly offer. It is national in an unusual degree. It was granted, very much of good-will, to fifty years of Canadian demand for the very thing now conceded. Can any reasonable man believe that, if our Tories won the coming election they would venture on that blow? No. They are not precisely fools enough to risk the turmoil which a justly embittered United States press would speedily create. They would approach Washington quickly. Nay, it is as certain as to-morrow that the Old Country government would be eager for the same outcome, because exceedingly disturbed by the attitude of the powerful and face-slapped United States press.

"These things are not said in Canada by the Ministerialists, because they dislike to set our jingoes howling on pretence that these things amount to an attempt to bulldoze. They are true all the same. Our Tories know the risks. They would not profess a will to encounter them if they had the least belief that they can win the elections. Such a win would compel them to hasten to conciliate the United States press, by going hat in hand to try to get from Washington pusillanimously what Washington has offered graciously and what can now be taken honorably."

PROTECT THE FARMERS

Eighty per cent of the products of Canadian farmers are sold in the Canadian market. It is their own market, their most convenient market, their most profitable market. They will lose inevitably by any change in fiscal policy which checks the growth of cities, towns and villages, reduces the amount of labor employed, and lowers the purchasing power of their best customers says the Toronto News. They will lose as certainly by the aggressive competition of thirty million American farmers.

The Canadian farmer will give his market to his foreign competitor just when the country has entered upon its period of greatest expansion and when his home customers take almost all that he can produce, save the few products that go to the British markets where he has to meet the world on equal terms.

It has been largely through the increase of population in Canada that the prices of farm products have improved and that the farmer's dependence upon foreign markets has been conspicuously lessened. By the trade agreement he will surrender his advantage and face an inflow of products from outside during every period of depression in the United States. In the great period of American expansion, Washington resolutely refused to permit outside competition with American farmers. The policy was reversed only when the United States came to need foreign markets and foreign raw material. The only object of American policy is to share in the expansion of Canada and to possess the Canadian market for American producers and American manufacturers.

The United States would not share its Nineteenth Century with us; why should we share our Twentieth Century with the United States?

If Washington wants our farm products and our raw material it needs only to reduce its duties. The competition of thirty millions of American farmers with four millions of Canadian farmers can only be destructive to the weaker element. To-day the Canadian farmers have their own market and the British market on equal terms with the United States, and they can only lose by outside competition. Moreover if the trade agreement is ratified it becomes impossible to secure preferential treatment in the British market.

Thus the Canadian farmer will lose his advantage in the home market and the certain prospect of a future advantage in the market of Great Britain.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vote for Borden and a thoroughly British administration.

Wanted—a few more blue books containing reciprocity statistics I can reel off to the farmers. Highest price paid for suitable material. Apply F. D. Kerr.

If George street were illuminated as the lift lock was last night, what a lively go-ahead appearance it would give the principal street. The "white way" is justly popular in most cities that make pretensions to having cheap electrical power.

Do you want, Mr. Workingman, a tariff deal that will do to other manufacturers in time what it did to the Cordage works? If you want to preserve your industrial prosperity, vote against Reciprocity.

Reciprocity means a loss of from $25 to $50 on every good farm horse in Ontario. When reciprocity touches a man's pocket, it is time for him to take notice. Canada for the Canadians every time.

The home market, protected against the competition of THIRTY MILLION American farmers, is better, surer, and more patriotic. Canadians shouldn't throw away the solid substance to grasp at the shadow. What we have we'll hold.

It is a far call between the Liberal cabinet of to-day and the Liberal cabinet of 1896. Where have the good men gone? Can it be that they have been sickened by the party sharks that follow greedily in the wake of the ship of state, watching for the morsels of graft thrown overboard?

It is evident that a dead set is to be made on the Halifax seat now occupied by Mr. Borden. The Liberals have induced Hon. A. K. Maclean, the attorney-general of the Nova Scotia cabinet, to resign and contest the seat. Mr Maclean is one of the strongest candidates the Liberals can produce, and hopes to take advantage of the absence of Mr Borden in touring the country. A leader has great disadvantages in running in his own constituency, for absence dims the interest and the keenness of support. Old Sir John Macdonald in 1891 was around the country so much that he found it necessary to make a house to house canvass in Kingston in order to ensure his own election.

From every quarter around the city can be heard men saying, "Well, I have always voted for Stratton before, but he doesn't get my vote this time." And the reason may be one of half a dozen. Four merchants recently have said quietly that their vote switches this time; several aged men, who have always voted Liberal, say that Mr. Burnham is going to get their support this time, and many other individual cases are reported from day to day. These are but the straws which point the way of the wind. The mass of voters say nothing, but their ballots are deadly. It looks as if the "boss of the riding" had lost his grip at last. Every man comes back once too often. Jim Jeffries did it. Roosevelt did it. It is a law of nature that brings defeat to the man that doesn't know when to quit.

The Lash of Circumstance

— BY —
Harry Irving Greene
Author of "Vagonds of the Wilderness"

Supplied Exclusively in Canada by The British & Colonial Press Service, Limited.

Mrs. Dace and Miss Lyddon—Mr Halliday. Cousin of mine through no fault of his, but nevertheless highly recommended by me. I believe you have met him, Dick, and will confirm me. Sorry I have to go, but he will fill my place and round out your party. Good-night, all," and he was gone.

I took my chair with a quick mental inventory of my new acquaintances. Miss Lyddon was tall, waspy and good looking in an indolent blonde way; Edwards was a propserous looking man of about thirty-five; Mrs. Dace positively startling. From a purely physical standpoint her beauty was gorgeous. But so wonderfully complex was it that it could no more be analyzed by one glance than can a painted masterpiece. While its general effect was to cause a gasp of delight at first sight, when you looked again you saw that its perfection was the result of exquisite blending of many tints into an incomparable whole. Never had I seen a mouth so bewitching, lips so rich or smile so dazzling. Her hair was changeful as an opal, her brows wonderfully arched, her eyes great blue and bordered by long lashes that screened them as ferns shade deep forest pools. She was wonderful. Fascinated by her beauty for a moment, I sat silently as she calmly surveyed me, one perfect hand idly toying with a small gold purse that lay upon the table. Then far down in the sea depths of her blue eyes I saw faint amusement gathering, and I drew myself together with a start. Edwards was explaining:

"You see, we had arranged for a theatre party, and there were to be four of us. Then at the last hour Mrs. Dace's escort became slightly indisposed, and she came down alone and met Miss Lyddon and myself. We are now about to have something to eat, and possibly a wee bit to drink. I happened to see your cousin Bruce, and hailed him to join us, but it seems he has an excuse. Then he providentially happened to spy you and impressed you into his place to complete the party. So everybody is happy once more."

While I am no such a gabbler as Bruce, I think I can hold my own in any fairly well regulated conversation. I rose to the occasion. The wine oiled my tongue, and Mrs. Dace's little applauding laughs and nods of approval spurred my wit. Edwards seemed content to remain comparatively quiet; Mrs. Dace was a sympathetic listener, and without effort I held the floor. I had read considerably, and the pigeon holes of my memory were well stocked with the aphorisms of the sages . Through the simple effort of recollection I became philosopher, theologian, poet. To the soft patter of their applause I even soared to original heights. In the parlance of the stage, I made a hit. In fact, when one o'clock came and with it the intimation from Mrs. Dace that she must depart, it was only after a little sigh that reached my ears alone, and a flash from her wonderful eyes that quickly hid themselves behind the screening lashes as I looked deep into them. Of the perpendicular bill I paid my half without a pang, secretly philosophized by the knowledge that the gods won't allow us to be in their debt, and when man wines and dines with woman he must pay for it with the glistening jewels of his brow. We prepared to depart.

Edwards paved the way for me. "Mrs. Dace lives at the Arcadia, which is not more than a mile from your house. You can take her there, step back in your carriage and be home ten minutes later. Miss Lyddon and I go in another direction, and leave you to your pleasant homeward ride. Of course we must all meet again. It will require another evening to talk this one over."

We bade them good-night, and hailing a carriage, I assisted my companion into it. The rather long ride homeward still lingers in my mind as a pleasant dream. The gentle swaying of the carriage as the rubber tires rolled noiselessly over the boulevard lulled us into half confidences. She told me quite a few things about herself. Her husband, an Englishman, had been in some diplomatic service in the Orient, had a died a year before, and she had now come back to her birthplace on matters of business. Unreservedly, she seemed to accept me as a thorough man of the world, and even did me the flattery to repeat some of the witticisms of the evening and laugh over them for a moment the second time. When I say that I was charmed I think I have expressed it.

In front of the formidable entrance to the building where she resided I assisted her to alight, and she thrust out her fingers, which I took eagerly. The physical contact thrilled me from head to toe, and the enchantment of her smile enthralled me. "You have entertained me delightfully. I feel flattered to have met you," she murmured. "And since you are a busy man by day, I hope you will call and see me some evening when you can think of nothing else to do. You can reach me over the phone at almost any time. I hope you will not forget me."

That anyone once seeing her could ever forget her! Nothing could be more ridiculous than the thought. I lightly laughed the idea to scorn as I bent over her hand. "Mrs. Dace, the old Roman general reported to his emperor, 'I came, I saw, I conquered.' To you I must report somewhat differently. 'I came, I saw, I am conquered.' I will pay you my tributes very soon. Until then life will be a necessity instead of a pleasure."

She tripped to the entrance steps, and from their top sent me a flutter of her handkerchief and a flashing smile that made my blood leap as she vanished behind the heavy door. Back into the carriage I climbed, and went home in an exhilaration of spirits that the wine did not account for. The seine had been cast and was being held wide to receive. Unsuspiciously the fish wiggled on.

The next day I happened to see Bruce. In the course of our conversation I casually asked him what he knew of my companion of the night before, and he began digging his fingers into his head as though trying to scratch out an answer. Presently it came:

"Let's see. I don't know that I can tell you very much—you know. I never paid any particular attention to her," he began in a quizzical glance at me. "Still, if you will agree to keep it a family secret, I might remember a few things. Promise, honest Injun?"

"Honest Injun."

"Well, then, here goes. Matie Madden was born in this town about thirty years ago of poor but dishonest parents. But she was a beauty, even as a girl, and people forgave her parentage on that account. She eloped out of school with a more or less account Englishman named Dace, who afterwards got into the service of his Government over in India or some other outlandish place on the back of the map. He died with his boots on."

"How; was he killed?" I inquired. Bruce grew a trifle more serious.

"Well, now, that is something I am no authority upon. I can only repeat to you in confidence what I have heard and read. But the report has it that it happened in a disagreement with a Russian nobleman over her—one of those cheerful little affairs that sometimes occur out that way, you know; referee and seconds to the front; wine and jealousy in the background; moon in the distance—you understand. Anyway it made a ripping good story for the journals. Next thing I heard of her she was back here. I hope you are not going to make a fool of yourself over her."

His general tone had slightly irritated me, but the last remark positively nettled. "No; I think one in the family is enough," I retorted. But he slipped the thrust aside in his usual smooth way, laughing.

"I guess that's right. Come to think of it, I never did know you to make a fool of yourself over anything. That does seem to be my specialty, doesn't it? But while I give you credit for having a better balanced head than I have, I'll tell you what I do in certain cases. When I get up against a proposition like cocaine in wine, or a woman like Mrs. Dace, I run for the fence. They are too blamed seductive to fool with, and I don't take any chances with them. She has got the beauty and graces of all the mythological goddesses combined, but that does not count for everything. If I remember rightly, those mythological goddesses were a pretty bad lot."

With the instinctive desire that Clare had possessed to fly to his defense, I now felt myself surging to Mrs. Dace's. But I held myself in leash. "Even assuming for the sake of argument that I should desire to make a fool of myself over her, what possible object could she have in encouraging me to such idiocy?" I asked. He puckered up his mouth and thrust his hands deep in his pockets.

"Well, now, that is one of the funny things about women. Of course, we don't know much about them; but we do know this: We know that the only reason they care for us is because they can't get anything better. If the gods came to earth, the only thing left for man to do would be to cast himself like swine into the sea. And therein is where we differ from womankind. Man doesn't want angels; plain, mortal woman provided she is not too plain, of course is good enough for him. But inasmuch as she can't achieve the gods, on this earth at least, she turns to man as the next best substitute. Now, you are a strapping young fellow, good looking and all that, and such men have always interested women from the beginning. But, remember, there are women and women. Take Clare, for instance. She is beautiful, too, and keeps herself looking as attractive as possible in order to make people like her. Yet she is as harmless as a butterfly. Some others aren't. You ought to know something of the species before you pick up a thing just because it is gaudy. You might get stung."

Absolutely without information concerning her beyond what Bruce himself had confided in me, half angry at myself that I should take the trouble to answer him, I nevertheless yielded to my impulse to defend her. With considerable emphasis I told him that I should refuse to believe any insinuations against her until I had positive knowledge of their truth. He listened silently, growing suddenly sober at my warmth, and when I had finished, addressed me with a mollifying pat upon the back.

"Whew! I didn't think you were going to get so warmed up over a little thing like that. But you may be sure I have no desire to disparage your lady. I told you to start with that I knew almost nothing about her except by hearsay, and you know as well as I do what that sort of evidence is worth. They won't listen to it in law. She may be pure gold for all I know; but I was just warning you [illegible] until you have feinted her out. But now I'll tell you [illegible] to be a fact. If you expect to hold a princess, you have got to be a prince of good fellows yourself and go out and buy her a castle every few days. Furthermore, in this case, you are going to run up against a real dragon." I smiled.

THE GREATEST MONEY-MAKERS

The Romance of the Great Coin Factory of England

Gold and silver and bronze.

Ever since the far-away days, when the Romans lorded it over Britain, Niagaras of coins have been pouring from one small corner of London, where the grim, grey walls of the Tower rise. Coins in thousands of millions; coins oval and square and round.

Just a hundred years ago a handsome stone building arose on the site of a fourteenth century monastery, on Little Tower Hill—a building covering an area as large as that of the Tower itself—and to this spacious and splendid new home the Royal Mint was transferred.

Here there was room to move and breathe, and to introduce gradually those marvels of mechanism which make the British Mint one of the wonder-shows of the world. Gone are the "circus" horses, the "cow" which was used to raise protecting edges on the coins, the kitchen crucibles, and big-muscled laborers.

And their place has been taken by the most wonderful machinery the brain of man has evolved—machinery almost human in its intelligence, more than human in its meticulous accuracy.

A visit to the Royal Mint is more than education. It is a startling revelation—the sensation of a lifetime. The whirling belts, the clank and thunder of machinery bewilder and deafen one; the miracles of some of the machines amaze one.

Briefly outlined, for the making of sovereigns the ingots of gold are melted and alloyed, and cast into small bars. The bars are flattened under rollers, from which they emerge in long yellow strips about an eighth of an inch thick.

Circular discs, or blanks, are then punched out of each strip, like so many dull yellow lozenges—sovereigns in embryo. Round each golden blank other machines raise a protecting rim; and the faces are blanched and annealed before being taken to the coining-room, where they are fed into presses which, with one twenty-ton stroke, stamp both sides of each coin and mill the edge.

From each press the glittering stream of finished sovereigns pours at the rate of two a second—7,200 coins an hour!

Then comes the last stage of all—passing the crucial test of the weighing machines, of which there are fifty in the weighing-room. Each machine is fed with a constant succession of sovereigns from a tube.

Each coin, in its turn, drops on the balance, poises an instant, and, if it is a microscopic decimal of a grain too heavy or too light, is automatically dropped into a "heavy" or "light" drawer. Its fate is sealed; it must go back to the melting crucible, and go through all the processes once more.

All very simple in such brief telling, but so wonderful in the actual doing that many columns could not do justice to it. Such is some of the romance of the Royal Mint, which, during the last ten years, has worked its magic on 110 million pounds' worth of gold bullion, and which this year celebrates the centenary of its temple on Little Tower Hill.—Tit-Bits.
